Happy New Year

If only the windows of Town Hall could be opened in winter, the inhabitants could hear the rush of the water down the falls just outside. Oh, well, at least they can look occasionally at one of Winchester's pretty scenes. (Star Photo by Don Young)

Looking back to see ahead:

Metco was the year's big story in '75; school issue was close

The MRTCO program was unquestionably the most controversial issue of the year. What started out as a relatively simple proposal fired a debate in the town that lasted year-long and provoked a suit against the school committee that wound up in the State Supreme Court earlier this month.

Last January School Superintendent William C. MacDonald presented a plan to the school committee to bus in about 45 students from Boston to four Winchester schools under the Metropolitan Council on Educational Opportunities program.

The sides began to line up. First the finance committee voted 4-9 against the proposal. There was general agreement in the committee that the issue was largely emotional rather than financial.

After seven hours of debate town meeting voted to endorse Metco, 114-73, on January 27. The school committee followed with a unanimous vote to go ahead with the program in early February. The committee was subsequently restrained from discussing the issue in executive session, which they had done January 13 in violation of the State Open Meeting Law.

The finance committee again voted not to support the town meeting's endorsement of Metco.

Over 50 percent of the town's voters showed up at the polls on March 3 to reject the proposal by 3,482-2,260. The turnout was the heaviest in a town election here in modern times.

Still determined to hold their ground, the school board reaffirmed their commitment to Metco 5-1. With the approval of the Metco executive committee, the program was set to go ahead in September.

Enter the Citizens for Responsible Education in Winchester (CREW). On March 27 they filed affidavits for a recall petition under provisions in the new town charter.

By 4 to 1 vote

Board grants renewal license to USA ice skating arena here

A renewal application for a common victualer license was granted to the Universal Sports Arenas, Inc., 7 Conant Road, by selectmen Monday night.

The vote was 4-1. Arthur Dunbar opposed. Chairman Larry Smith noted in speaking about the rink that he had been on the site last weekend and found that the restrictions placed by selectmen on the license to hold games seemed to be complied with.

He said that parking seemed improved and that the light which had been shining on the sign was turned off.

Selectmen had granted the USA rink a license to hold hockey games with paid admissions only on condition that certain restrictions were observed. Neighbors had been complaining about light, noise, and parking.

When Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall advised Town Clerk Elsie M. Nelson that the recall petition had no legal basis in the new charter, she refused to print the petition forms.

CREW then brought its first suit against Ms. Nelson. Superior Court Judge Vincent Brogna ruled in May that the recall move was in fact legal and directed the town clerk to print the forms.

Meanwhile, at the end of April ROAR, the Boston anti-busing group, came to town. Numbering roughly 400, they were joined by a few local residents as they rallied in front of the homes of the five school committee members who had voted for Metco (these were Chairman Stephen R. Parkhurst, Robert S. Frank Jr., Catherine R. Fallon, Richard R. Pharo, and Robert T. Pritchard).

When the possibility of the state not funding the program arose in July, the school board voted to reconsider their commitment if funding was not approved.

In a press conference August 11, Clara Hewis, speaking for CREW, charged committee members Pharo and Fallon with unilaterally sending letters to the state legislature regarding state funding of the program. Ms. Hewis asked the committee to rescind their Metco commitment.

On the 18th, with the word in that the state would not provide funds this year, the committee decided to delay the program. But the issue was not over yet.

The school committee appealed the Superior Court's recall decision. In order to expedite the case, appellate review was skipped over and the case went directly to the State Supreme Court. Earlier this month, the court dismissed the recall as illegal until the 1976 town elections, when the new system of districts goes into effect.

Voters also accepted a new charter at the March elections, altering the alignment of power in the town. The old executive secretary to the selectmen has been replaced by a town manager, and several small, elected boards were abolished. The town clerk and town treasurer will now be appointed by the town manager.

The water and sewer board, cemetery commission, and park commission are replaced by a public works department under the town manager.

Other major changes included redistricting the town from six to eight precincts; dropping town meeting membership by 36; cutting the school board from six to five members; increasing the power of the selectmen; and establishing permanent committees of the town meeting to update the School board hears reports, names three

The School Committee heard the last of the curriculum reports and made three appointments at its regular meeting December 22. Other reports on adult education and the Management Study follow-up were heard, and the committee decided to hold a special meeting January 6 to discuss the new budget.

Lorraine Forte presented her report on the business education program at the high school. She recommended adding a course in business law and extending the present one-term bookkeeping course to two terms.

The retention of the business English course was also suggested. Ms. Forte felt the course would be more effective if taken alongside practical skills courses.

In response to the Town Meeting mandate that the adult education program become self-supporting, James Perry, director of the program, announced that fees would increase from $10 to $15. The new fees would go into effect for the next session, beginning February 1.

The committee elected Thomas E. Kennedy to the position of teacher aide in English at McCall School.

Other appointments were Herman Greene as advisor to the high school's Girl's Double Sextet and Edward Scanlon as technical stage advisor for the high school.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Walter Gleason advised the committee that he had begun setting up workshops for school staff to prepare them to implement the new teacher evaluation program. The new program, called the "Field Method of Teacher Evaluation," was designed by Dr. Gleason as an alternative to the proposals of the Management Study group.

The committee decided not to expand the present extra-curricular program, refusing to provide the money for any new staff positions.

Personal services were also under discussion, but the fine points of the matter of salaries was left to the special meeting to be held January 6.

The storm: a box score

Snow (28 inches); sleet, rain: heavy soak.
Manpower: 75 men from town departments.
Salt: 500 tons. Sand: 600 tons.
Overtime costs alone: $25,000 estimated.
Damage to equipment: extensive.

Selectmen hear of snow hazard

Richard Burke, 42 George rd., went before the selectmen Monday night during the time allotted for matters from the audience to request their assistance in clearing what he called hazardous snow conditions from the roads in his area.

Burke referred specifically to safety hazards on Bradford, East, George, Charles, Cross, and Highland View avenue. He said fire trucks would not be able to get through these streets and that if they are not cleared by the opening of school on Monday, they would be a safety hazard to school children.

Chairman Larry Smith assured Burke that the combination of a double storm, Christmas shopping, and holiday church services made it difficult for the Highway to do all areas of town immediately. He commended the department for the efficient way it cleared the busy roads and the downtown area.

Robert O'Brien, superintendent of the Highway Department, hopes that all snow removal will be completed in time for the opening of school.

Special meeting Feb. 23

Selectmen chose February 23, 1976, as the date for the special town meeting. The warrant for that meeting will close on Monday, January 5, 1976.

Outlook for 1976

Town Manager Groux looks ahead

"It's a little like being a kid in a candy store," said Town Manager Thomas J. Groux describing his two and half-month-old job. "There's a mass of many things supposed to be happening that no one has a handle on yet."

Groux finds himself in a somewhat awkward position of fulfilling a town charter which created his job and yet finding that with the job came several items left over from the days of the executive secretary to the Board of Selectmen.

"The main problem right now," Groux said, "is to find ways of unloading some routine functions which Executive Secretary Ed Donnelly handled into offices more properly in charge of them."

For two and a half months Groux has had the support of the town's department heads, the comptroller, the school committee, and everyone else in a position to help him implement the requirements of the charter.

In fact, the assistance he has received Groux calls "the one bright note right now." Town officials help him to handle each problem as it comes along so that his decisions are in keeping with the charter and at the same time they establish a priority which will make sense five years from now.

One example of the problems facing Groux in this time of transition is the appointments prerogative of the fire and police chiefs as it was before the charter and the transfer of some of that prerogative to the town manager.

"The chiefs and I have to sit down and talk about who is responsible for what. There's a new charter, a new fire chief and a new town manager. Somehow we have to have everything working together," Groux said.

The new year will bring to the town manager's office problems of purchasing and of personnel.

Winterset seventy five. . . .

Winchester survives 'worst storm ever' -

Right this way — parking lot signs seem to point the way through flooded intersection at Main st. and Mystic Valley Parkway.

Twenty-eight inches of snow fell on Winchester during last week's storm, which Superintendent Robert G. O'Brien of the Highway Department called "the worst I can remember in Winchester's history."

The storm started at 3 p.m. on Saturday, December 20. By the time it was over at 4:30 a.m. the following Friday, 75 men from the town departments had plowed, sanded, salted, and relieved flooding conditions in every part of town.

Starting at midnight on Monday, snow removal around churches and businesses was begun in anticipation of the Christmas services and last-minute shopping in town. Those areas were pretty well cleared before the holiday. O'Brien said that between 450 and 500 tons of salt and between 500 and 600 tons of sand were put down in Winchester. "I don't have the exact figures yet, but I think Winchester is in pretty good shape. Other towns around have used most of the winter's supply of salt and sand, but I think we are all right."

According to O'Brien's current figures, overtime compensation to the workers may reach $25,000. "Those men were terrific," he said. "They kept going even when they couldn't move. I don't know what we would have done without them. Wherever and whenever they were needed, they responded."

Snow was not the only problem for the Highway Department. After the snow finally stopped on the 26th, the rains came, adding another two inches of precipitation. This time there was extensive flooding damage due to the clogged catch basins and melting snow.

There were thirty flooded areas in town, including a two to two and a half foot deep pool on the Mystic Valley Parkway. Catch basins were flooded over and had to be opened with front end loaders. All flooding conditions in the streets were relieved by 6 that night, when snow removal started again. The snow removal is still going on.

"We still have many areas that need snow removed," O'Brien said. "We hope to have it all finished by Friday, providing there are no more storms."

The storm took its toll in damages to the equipment used. Some of the small trucks had clutch problems, stuck wheel bearings, front end damage. Some of the plows were badly damaged.

O'Brien said, "This storm was worse than the one in 1969, even though there were a couple of more inches of snow in that storm. Everything just iced right over last week. It was a dangerous storm."

Saltmarsh appointed to Joint House, Senate Conference

Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr. was recently named to the joint House and Senate Conference Committee to resolve differences between House and Senate versions of a bill that would provide a comprehensive rail transit, accelerated highway and railroad improvement and maintenance bonding authorization for the Commonwealth.

The Winchester representative has been the only freshman legislator named to a conference committee during the current legislative session.

The bill would increase the bonding authorization of the MBTA by some 75 million dollars in order for the Commonwealth to meet the eligibility standards for federal grants that would cover some four-fifths of the estimated eligible costs of three additional MBTA extensions.

It would also provide $160 million in highway funds to be used for special bridge replacement and the construction of a new Department of Transportation building at Park Plaza.

Under the act the Executive Office of Transportation would plan for and carry out steps necessary to acquire, preserve and develop adequate and efficient rail rights of way and rail services.

An impasse developed when the House of Representatives approved a bill to which the Senate attached 21 amendments. The Conference Committee was named to resolve the disagreements.

In addition to Rep. Saltmarsh it comprises Sen. James A. Kelly, Jr., chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee; Sen. Arthur H. Tobin; Sen. William L. Saltonstall; Rep. John J. Finnegan, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee; Rep. Louis R. Nickinello, chairman of the House Committee on Transportation. Saltmarsh, a member of the latter committee, has been Winchester's disignee to the MBTA Advisory Board for over a decade.

Spinney skates

Peter Spinney, son of Recreation Director Don Spinney, is currently skating for the Alton Flames in the Madison-St. Clair Junior Hockey League in Illinois.

Spinney who skated for the Flames' "B" team last year, scored a goal in the Flames' opener last week as the Flames defeated the Wood River Seals 2-0. Young Spinney who finds the net quite easily, scored again the next game when the Flames beat the O'Fallon Club 7-2 and got his third goal of the young season the next evening when the Flames beat the Collinsville Sabres 7-3.

Unitarians to repeat Cantata

Due to the snow storm and in response of many requests, the performance of the complete Cantata no. 142 by Johana Sebastian Bach: To Us a Child is Born, will be repeated, on Sunday January 4 at 10:30 a.m. at the Winchester Unitarian Church.

Those participating are: Marlene Clayton, Betsy Ewing, Diana MacDougall, Peggy Sudbury, Janet Boone, Louise Barker, Justine King, Karen Detore, Debbie Manning, Nancy Cunningham, Susan Jones, Wallace Blanchard, Steve Davies, Charles Morgan, Jack Zarker, Bob MacDougall, Carolyn Collins, and Larry Stoddard.

The Cantata solos will be sung by Jack Zarker, Gretchen Kaufman and Luther Enstad, director of music.

The prelude for this Sunday will be "Fantasia in G Minor" by J.S. Bach and the postlude will be Toccata by Pachelbel. Organist is Julie Collins.

Does your family have a spending plan? Many families do not. They think of a budget as a straight jacket - something to take the joy out of living. What the budget really does, however, in any household, is to release money, that could be put to better use. And the best thing about a budget is that it puts you in charge and control of your own resources. A budget is a good way to keep out of continual financial harassment, and with it you can handle rising costs, taxation, sudden sickness, and other emergencies.

State agency called in fight to restore Middlesex Fells

The Massachusetts Office of Environmental Affairs was asked last week to join two other groups in the fight to restore a dump site in the Middlesex Fells Reservation that they allege had been destroyed by the dumping there of refuse from demolition projects and debris and other materials.

Charles H. Carlson of 36 Hillcrest parkway, a director of the Friends of the Fells, which is seeking to restore and preserve the vast woodland of the reservation, asked the Conservation Law Foundation of New England to help.

The foundation in turn, requested the state's environmental department to join the fray.

The Friends group has charged for some time that the M. DeMatteo Construction Co. is responsible in large measure for the dumping of construction debris at the site, which is located in that part of the Fells in Medford in the Middle road area. The DeMatteo company has declined to accept responsibility, however, and according to Carlson's letter, "has refused to cooperate in the restoration of the dump site."

Carlson has asked the state board to enter the matter because he feels that the DeMatteo company is primarily responsible for the dumping, and seeks "appropriate action consistent with the public interest."

He noted that the MDC began work to restore the Middle road area in November, but apparently plans no action against DeMatteo.

A letter seeking help was written for the Conservation Law Foundation by Alexandra D. Dawson, director of services, who cited the law involved in the case.

She applauded the efforts to clean up the area by the MDC, noting that "it seems unlikely that the MDC can come up with the money to do the whole job themselves," after stating that federal funds that were requested by the MDC were apparently refused.

She said of the DeMatteo company: "Whether they have based their refusal on a claim to have done the dumping under contract with the former commissioner of MDC (as was originally believed by Mr. Byrne), or whether they claim not to have done the dumping, we do not know."

"Legally, there is absolutely no doubt that dumping in the Fells violated at least three laws, whether the work was done by contract, by informal permission, by trespass, or even by MDC."

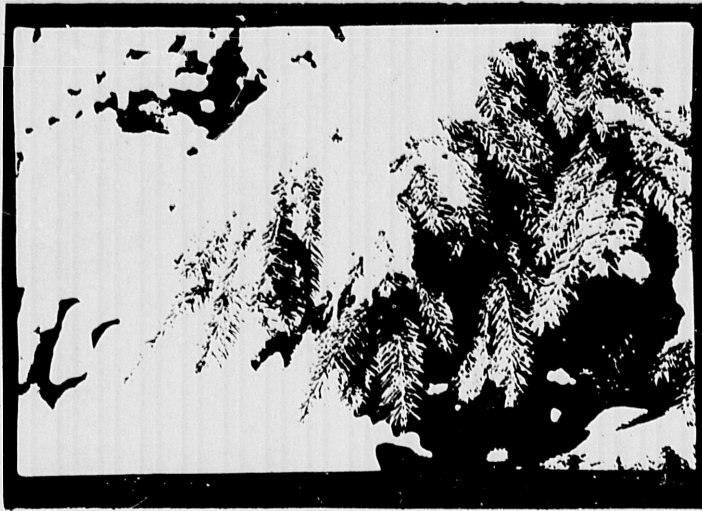

Not only did she cite specific laws against dumping of any kind, but said that in addition, such areas are protected by the Wetlands Protection Act that doesn't even allow "clean fill" within 100 feet of a wetland or stream, unless such filling is accompanied by an Order of Conditions provided for under the act.

Ms. Dawson concluded:

"We can readily understand that it is one thing to identify a violation of law and another thing altogether to obtain restitution by the offenders."

"However, we believe that restoration of public land is more important than private sensitivities."

"We urge that if your investigation reveals DeMatteo as the source of some or all of the dumping, you must hold a forthright discussion with the company. If all else fails, the AG's (attorney general's) Environmental Protection Division should be involved."

meeting governing rules and the town's by-laws.

88 candidates from all over the country applied for the job of town manager. Finally in September the Selectmen chose Thomas R. Groux, an administrator with extensive experience in town management in Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey. Groux delivered his opening remarks to the town at the special Town Meeting December 4.

The third article passed at the March 3 election was a proposal to allow certain non-profit organizations to use beano and other similar games to raise money.

The town meeting in April passed a new sign-by-law and a 24-hour leash law. The sign law will prohibit virtually all free-standing signs as well as regulating the size and type of signs permissible in other categories. The leash law goes into effect this summer.

The school closing proposal submitted to the school committee by Superintendent MacDonald September 22 has been another major issue of debate in the town this year.

Citing the town meeting's demand for "educational validity and the most efficient utilization of staff and facilities as they relate to economy," MacDonald recommended that three elementary schools be eliminated and the junior high schools be consolidated.

Noonan and Wyman Schools would be closed; the Lincoln School would convert from an elementary school to a junior high school with the addition of a connecting passage between the two buildings. Lynch School would become an elementary facility.

According to MacDonald, the necessary renovations and the Lincoln School addition would cost the town an estimated $281,000. The town would save about $245,000 per year by such a consolidation.

Reaction to the proposal from parents has been strong. A committee of Wyman parents was formed in October to evaluate data and work to keep Wyman open. "Save Wyman" bumper stickers have cropped up around town.

At a public hearing on October 6, the Wyman parents presented their case to MacDonald and the school committee. Defending the neighborhood school concept, they said there was no educational rationale behind consolidation. In addition, they said the costs do not justify closing what is the least expensive school to run in town.

Finally in November, reacting to public pressure and the arguments presented in opposition to the school closing plan, the school committee directed Superintendent MacDonald to come up with one or more alternative plans that would be compatible with the neighborhood school concept.

MacDonald agreed to consult with school parents in drafting the new proposals. He said the goal is still to save the town $250,000. The best alternatives will be brought before the special town meeting February 1 and eventually to the town.

The Lincoln School had its troubles this year. An explosion rocked the old building back in February, causing slight damage. In April a two alarm fire broke out in the school. According to then Fire Chief I. Francis Amico, the fire was set.

Chief Amico retired in August after 40 years in the department. Captain Robert W. McElhinney was named to replace Chief Amico by the selectmen. He took over September 1.

Appropriately enough, twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Carbone on Mother's Day.

On May 29 about 300-500 gallons of heating oil spilled out of a truck on Main st. near the Woburn line. Town departments and the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution reacted quickly to clean up the mess and avert disaster. It's nice to see something working well.

Two persons were shot when three men attempted to hijack a mail truck on June 16. MDC officer Dana Owens and Mrs. Mary Williamson of 55 Yale st. suffered gunshot wounds, but fortunately both of them lived to tell about it.

The hijackers were chased by MDC police through Winchester to the Middlesex Fells Reservation. They eventually abandoned the mail truck, and the driver, after waiting for police questioning, went on to finish his rounds.

An official Town Medallion was first issued in June. The medal is still on sale and depicts the Town Hall on one side, the Blackhorse Tavern on the other.

At the end of June, 200 girl scouts from 39 states, the Canal Zone, Great Britain and Canada came here to participate in some good old-fashioned local government. A mock town meeting was held to demonstrate to non-New Englanders how local government works here.

And the real town meeting reached new heights of efficiency at a special meeting December 4. In three hours nine out of ten articles were passed with, as the old poet said, "not a bang, but a whimper."

Public Works Employees picketed in August for higher pay increases. After a lot of squabbling and comparisons with surrounding towns, they won. On the 24th the town meeting approved a 44 cent across-the-board increase.

One new family in Winchester has made a longer move than most: they are Vietnamese refugees, sponsored by Barbara and Joseph Sullivan of New Meadows rd. Nguyen Huy Luc, 11, Nguyen Huy Phu, 8, and their aunt and uncle arrived last summer. One wonders what they think of all this snow.

The August issue of Ladies Home Journal came out with a real compliment. They picked Winchester as one of America's 15 best suburbs. But can they make it stick?

The two-volume edition of the town's history went on sale December 7, capping off a long effort by the Winchester History Committee. The first volume is a reprint of Henry S. Chapman's history, first published in 1936. The second volume brings the history up to the present. It was written by Bruce W. Stone.

Back in September the town was awarded a contract for $1,475,000 for construction of a 59-unit elderly housing complex on the site of the old Lincoln School on Washington and Westley sts. The money will come from the State Housing Authority.

At its last meeting December 15, the planning board voted to favor the proposals for this project which the local housing authority will present to the board of appeals.

But that is an issue which will belong to next year.

"Highway fatalities are down thus far this year," Governor Dukakis, Secretary Barry and Registrar Panora said today, "and we want them to continue to go down."

"If you attend a New Year's Party, enjoy yourself, but if you have been drinking, leave the driving to a sober person or arrange for other means of transportation."

"We will have enforcement officers throughout the state on duty to work around the clock to help you reach your potential killers."

destination safely. The rest is up to you!

"The speed limit is 55 miles per hour, but a much slower pace is required when there is inclement weather," the Governor and safety officials said.

It is a known fact that only sober drivers can cope with emergency situations and crowded travel conditions, and the officials urged party givers not to send drinking drivers out on the highways to become potential killers.

Open Meeting Law

A new law of vital interest to all citizens goes into effect January 1, 1976. It will touch upon the lives of all residents of Winchester, from the youngest to the oldest, from the poorest to the richest, from the humble to the high and the mighty.

It is the new open meeting law that affects governmental bodies at municipal, state, and county levels.

Ever-watchful news media organizations, after several years of effort, Common Cause, and the League of Women Voters, sought the new guidelines that in this law (Chapter 303) set forth specifics for conducting the public's business.

Its implementation brings a new era of accountability at all levels of government in this town, and indeed at all levels of government in Massachusetts.

The new law specifies seven reasons for which governmental bodies may close their meetings to the public and provides that a majority of the to go into executive session.

Such vote must be recorded and entered into the minutes.

The presiding officer must cite the purpose for the executive session and must announce whether or not the body will reconvene in public after the executive session.

Purposes for which executive sessions may be held are:

1. To discuss the reputation and character, physical condition or mental health rather than the professional competence of an individual. (However, if the individual involved requests an open meeting, the governmental body must comply with that request.)
2. To consider the discipline or dismissal of, or to hear complaints or charges brought against, a public officer, employee, staff member, or individual. (Again, the individual involved may request an open meeting.)
3. To discuss strategy with respect to collective bargaining or litigation, if an open meeting may have detrimental effect on the bargaining or negotiating position of the governmental body, and to conduct collective bargaining sessions.
4. To discuss the deployment of security personnel or devices.
5. To consider allegations of criminal misconduct.
6. To consider the purchase, exchange, lease or value of real property, if such discussion may have a detrimental effect on the negotiating position of the governmental body and a person, firm or corporation.
7. To comply with the provisions of any general or special statute or federal grant-in-aid requirements.

The law provides that citizens may seek court action to invalidate the proceedings of any meeting which was held in violation of the law. Three registered voters may file a petition for invalidation within 14 days after the suspected illegal action is made public.

It is crucial to the effective enforcement of the law, therefore, that citizens begin to monitor meetings of governmental bodies in their own communities, having first become familiar with the law's requirements and the rights of citizens under its provisions.

The public's right to know must be coupled with the public responsibility in holding public officials accountable.

Public meetings at which no members of the public are present are tremendously encouraging to those public officials who still believe they must operate behind closed doors. Unless citizens are willing to hold the door open, it may be closed again and will be ever so much more difficult to reopen in the future.

Citizens interested in monitoring the open meetings law in their communities may obtain guidelines and encouragement by contacting Common Cause-Massachusetts, 73 Tremont St., Boston, 02108, 617-523-8200.

Winchester's League of Women Voters is expected to organize monitoring efforts here, and The Star will keep a watchful eye on the implementation of Chapter 303 at all levels of town government. The goal is that no open meeting of a governmental body in Winchester or in any city or town of the Commonwealth, should ever be held without citizens participation or knowledge.

The new law was a long time coming. Every department head of town boards and committees has been made aware of the provisions of Chapter 303.

We applaud its arrival, coming appropriately in the 200th anniversary year of the birth of America.

It is another important safeguard to the freedom we all cherish. We pledge to preserve it.

Confusion

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As we look forward to a new year I feel there is still need to straighten out the confusion that remains with regards to the historical organizations in town. There are four distinct historical groups and I would like to see the confusion laid to rest as to what function each serves the Town of Winchester.

First there is the History Committee. This committee is responsible solely for the new Volume II of the History of Winchester and the reprinting of Volume I. The committee is a town body and was created only for this purpose. Bradford Eddy is chairman.

Next is the Historical Commission. Organized by the town several years ago, its primary purpose is to inventory the historical buildings in town and work with historic districts. The Historical Commission, chaired by Frank Curtis, was instrumental in Bicentennial projects such as the Bike-Way and the graphics display.

Thirdly, the Historical Society. Founded as the Winchester Historical and Genealogical Society in 1884, it was renamed the Winchester Historical Society in 1933. Interested in the preservation of Winchester's history, the Historical Society is responsible for the Bicentennial medallion, historic maps, house tours, etc. Currently the president is Frances B. VerPlanck.

The fourth organization is the Winchester Archival Center. Created in 1974, the Archival Center is a resource and reference center for the people of the town. Housing the collection of the Historical Society and many items received since its inception, the center is supervised by a town archivist authorized by the town. The Winchester Archival Center is a free, public study area for anyone interested in the history of the town.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the respective heads of the historical groups.

An invitation

EDITOR OF THE STAR: AND Parents:

The Winchester School Committee has made arrangements with the Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School to conduct a special Winchester Night for seventh and eighth grade students, their parents, and any other citizen wishing to attend on Wednesday January 7, at 7:30 p.m.

We sincerely feel that you should have every possible opportunity to examine occupational education as an alternative for your children, and Northeast offers a quality program open to Winchester students.

It is distressing to see so few applicants to Northeast when the other 11 communities in the district are over-subscribing the program. It was felt that perhaps Winchester parents, for some reason, were not fully informed of the potential of quality occupational education.

In an attempt to correct this situation, we have arranged for tours of Northeast, specially prepared material for Winchester, and we will even provide bus service for transportation to the school on January 7.

We hope that you will take advantage of the opportunity even if you are only mildly interested. As taxpayers you owe it to yourselves to see how your tax dollars are being used. As parents you should consider every available educational opportunity for your children before making any final decisions.

Please let me know that you will be among the interested parents on January 7 so that appropriate accommodations may be made.

You and Town By-Laws: II

By Harrison Chadwick

At the forthcoming public hearing on revising and implementing the Town By-Laws, the By-Law Revision Study Committee is most desirous of having the suggestions of any citizen of the town for improvements, eliminations, additions or rearrangements of any or all of the by-laws proposed by the committee as they appear in a recently printed preliminary draft. Copies of the draft may be obtained at the town clerk's office in the Town Hall.

To make it easy for anyone to find the subject matter of interest, there is a table of contents in the draft comprising 12 chapters, as follows:

- Chapter 1 General Provisions
- Chapter 2 Town Meetings
- Chapter 3 Elected Officers
- Chapter 4 Town Manager
- Chapter 5 Administrative Organization
- Chapter 6 Finances and Fiscal Procedures
- Chapter 7 Water Works and Sewerage

In the mood...

New England's better

By Karen Whittlesey-First

People who move to Florida to escape the New England weather are missing something vital.

For thousands of years people have celebrated the coming of spring, the re-birth of life. Without the desolation of winter and the feeling of futility and emptiness, the spirit could not be rejuvenated.

"Spring fever" has a real basis. The pure delight in seeing flowers and hearing birds after months of snow and cold creates a certain giddiness in the head. It's a feeling of birth, the continuity of life.

Miami Beach ain't got it.

Besides, Winchester is beautiful in the winter. Just drive down Church street from Cambridge after a snowfall. The church steeples in the winter blue sky look like a postcard. South Border road is like the set for a ballet choreographed in the classic manner. A fantasy in white.

The snow shoveling is a pain, true. The ice is ridiculous, heating bills are beyond comprehension. But that hot rum toddy just won't taste as good in April as it does this week. Those red cheeks and noses are begging for kisses. And whoever said mittens need to match?

Happy winter!

The Roman god Janus, two-headed to guard both the past and the future, the comings and the goings of people, gave his name to the first month of the year. It is nearly impossible not to consider the years past and those coming, to look at people around us and see what the years have done.

There is in our midst one such person worthy of study. He is a strange creature, male, shaggy-haired, a little pudgy in the middle, at times belligerent and at others affectionate. He is the pubescent first-born.

His was the four-weeks-old smile that made you forget it was stew again for dinner that week. His first tooth was the only one in the world; in fact, it rated a long distance call to grandma. How long ago did you wrap it in tissue and put it under his pillow?

When did those chubby legs which somehow didn't collapse every time he ran down the hill, when did they grow so long, three inches at a time?

Is that a comb in the back pocket of the ubiquitous jeans? Is that the shocker running again? That couldn't possibly be a pimple, could it? He's only ten.

Why are the kids growing up faster now than they did 20 years ago? The pornographic movie blurb says "Too much, too soon."

Maybe that's it.

This will be a year of learning to wait, to work, 50 set values clearly.

Don't go too fast. You're ten now.

In another few years maybe another first-born's smile will make you forget it's stew for dinner again this week.

Happy New Year!

Town watch...

When winters were winters

By The Observer

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux is looking for a house. Meanwhile his family remains in New Jersey and Groux drives down and back every weekend. "I brought two sons back with me after Christmas until New Year's Eve," Groux said proudly the other day. "They're looking around town, checking out the ice cream stores, the movies, the schools."

It used to be, according to the police department, that Winter Pond was plowed, flootit, and advertised as suitable for skating. This was many a year ago.

"That was when winters were winters," said one officer. "When the temperatures hit 30 degrees in December."

Selectmen set a precedent last week when their regular meeting was cancelled because of the storm. It was the first time, at least in Selectman John Sullivan's memory, that a meeting of the board had been postponed. "I remember one year," he said, "when the police went around to each selectmen's house to pick them all up for the meeting." Sullivan, of course, showed up last week, snow or no snow.

Peter Anastas and Theodore Kopanos came before the Board of Selectmen Monday night to explain their plans for a Greek restaurant in the now vacant Brooks Discount on the corner of Main and Mt. Vernon streets.

They would like to serve steak, pork, shish-ke-bob, Greek dishes and perhaps other ethnic food. The restaurant would serve the business people and shoppers in the center at lunchtime, and families in the evening.

When asked what the intended hours of business would be, Anastas answered "From 7 in the morning to 9 or 10 in the evening." John Sullivan wondered aloud if they would really be serving shish-ke-bob at seven in the morning. Anastas assured him that shish-ke-bob and eggs was a tasty breakfast, but the restaurant would also have bacon and eggs, pancakes, french toast, and the like.

The applicants only laughed when Sullivan next asked if they would serve corned beef.

About time

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A sincere thank-you to the roving reporters of Red and Black and The Winchester Star for a timely and honest article on the liquor problem among our youth.

We are concerned parents of teen-age children and we are aware of the liquor and dope problems here in Winchester. The article was especially informative to those people who do not have teen-agers as they really do not have any idea of the social pressures our youth are undergoing during these hectic times we are living in.

We the parents of teen-agers need the support of our entire community if we are to help our youngsters.

I wish the team would do a similar survey and article on the Dope Problem among the teen-agers.

If we don't get involved in this liquor and dope problem quickly we are in real trouble as if we are not already in trouble. The teen-age years were not that easy for us adults but I'm sure we would never want to trade places with our sons and daughters who are going through these years under the enormous pressures of our times. Many of our youth seem to live for today and tomorrow is unimportant.

It's sad for them and sad for us. Maybe it's time to start asking God for some help. We haven't tried too much of that lately.

BICENTENNIAL DISPATCH

About the time the town was set off and incorporated (1850), there was at the machine shop of the Lowell Railroad, a new locomotive, in process of construction, which the engineer wished to have named "Winchester." The then president of the railroad, Mr. Sturgis, being a resident and a large taxpayer of Woburn, which had resisted the act of incorporation, objected to the name, and it was called "Woburn." John A. Bolles, Esq., meeting Mr. Sturgis a short time after, inquired of him in relation to it, when the latter gentleman remarked that "the corporation would wait until they got the fragments of three locomotives, and then they would put them together and call it 'Winchester'." (Taken from Archival Center Files)

Door-to-door solicitors need police permission

The Selectmen and the Winchester Police Department remind the town that vendors and charitable organizations soliciting in the town are required by law to obtain a permit to solicit or sell from the Chief of Police.

Any household approached for funds or donations may check with the Police Department to verify the solicitor's identification.

Any organization intending to canvass the town registers its list of solicitors with the police. It also gives forms to its canvassers giving identification.

Householders are urged to verify any suspicious or unknown caller.

SPIRITS OF '76

by DAN BUSA

Try this cherry jubilee Parfait Pie to top off your perfect dinner party! ... Pour 1/3 cup brandy over 1 cup drained pitted dark sweet cherries (fresh or canned) and let stand several hours ... Drain, reserving liquid ... Dissolve 1 package raspberry-flavored gelatin in hot cherry juice and water in a 2 quart saucepan ... Add brandy, then add 1 pint vanilla ice cream by spoonfuls, stirring until melted. Chill until thickened but not set (15 to 25 minutes) ... Fold in drained brandied cherries ... Turn into 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled ... Chill until firm (25 to 35 minutes) ... Garnish with whipped cream and additional cherries ... Mmmmmmm!

Cynthia Hicks nuptials

Cynthia Hicks

Cynthia M. Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Livingston Hicks III of Greenwich, Conn., will marry Peter Walter Niles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Mansfield Niles, 50 Jefferson rd., January 3rd.

The candlelight ceremony in the Trinitarian Congregational Church in Concord will be performed by the Rev. Chandler W. Gilbert. A reception follows at the Concord Country Club.

The bride, to be escorted by her father, will wear a softly draped dress of quiana with shirred neckline. Her veil is a family heirloom of antique lace, worn by four generations of brides. She will carry lilies and stephanotis.

Miss Hicks' sister Elizabeth S. Hicks will be her only attendant, while Bruce Hill of Denver, Colo., will be the best man.

The bride's brothers, Dr. Edward L. and Stephen W. Hicks will be ushers along with Jeffrey Camp, Ron Cohen, and Peter Wild, all of Boston.

Miss Hicks graduated from Concord Academy and is attending the Boston University School of Nursing, where she is working towards her R.N. and B.S. degrees. Mr. Niles attended the University of Massachusetts. He is presently employed in Boston, where the couple will live after a wedding trip to St. Croix.

Regis Supporters honored guests

Miss Catherine M. Burke of 1 Longfellow rd. and Mr. and Mrs. S.M. Cipriano of 30 Squire rd., both of Winchester, were specially invited guests at a Holiday Champagne Reception at Regis College in Weston. Hosted by Regis President Sister Therese Higgins, C.S.J., the reception was held to honor active supporters of the college which will be celebrating the 50th anniversary of its founding in 1977.

Miss Burke is an alumna of Regis and Mr. and Mrs. Cipriano are parents of the Regis student.

Plant care course set

If you received a plant for Christmas and want to learn how to take care of it, enroll for a course conducted by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

A free calendar listing all the society's classes and events is available to anyone who is interested. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Calendar, 300 Massachusetts ave., Boston, MA 02115.

The society's courses range from basic indoor gardening to nature photography with something for everyone who has the slightest interest in horticulture.

Some topics include: flower arranging, botany, pests and diseases of houseplants, bonsai, ikebana, working with dried flowers, ground covers, growing herbs and landscape design.

For beginners, there are courses such as "Where to Being As a New Gardener," and for the more advanced, there are courses on greenhouse and organic gardening.

The course instructors are renowned experts in the field, such as Thalassa Cruso, who will lecture on "Making Vegetables Grow."

The Calendar can also be obtained by visiting the Horticultural Society, located at Horticultural Hall, 300 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, across the street from Symphony Hall.

Rowland baby

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Rowland of 145 Mt. Vernon ave., Melrose, announce the birth of Courtney Elizabeth December 16, their first child.

The new grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rowland, 72 Walton pk., Melrose, and Mr. Douglas Martell, 138 Main st., Essex and Palm Beach, Fla.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Loftus, 64 Woodside rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCormack, 4 Ridgeway. The boy was born here at Winchester Hospital.

Archival center

The Winchester Archival Center is now open to all. It is located on the lower floor of Sanborn House, 15 High st. Hours are Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 5 and Wednesday evenings, 7 to 10.

North Shore adds Sculpture course

This spring the Division of Continuing Education and Community Services of North Shore Community College will offer a new course for those interested in the creation of three-dimensional art.

Sculpture is a non-credit introductory course which will cover the basic skills of sculpting in a variety of materials such as plaster, wire, styrofoam and wood. This course will provide individual supervision as each student works on a final project of his or her own choosing.

William C. Barron, a professional sculptor from Marblehead, is the designated instructor for this course. Class size is limited to 15 students to allow Mr. Barron adequate time to give individual assistance to each student as needed. Due to this limitation in size, early registration is strongly recommended.

The course runs for ten weeks and will be conducted on Monday evenings from 7 to 9:45. Tools and materials required for the course are not expensive and become the property of the individual students. No prior experience in sculpture is required to take this course and students of all ages are encouraged to apply.

This is one of the five Community Service art courses being offered by NSCC this spring. The other courses are basic drawing, advanced drawing, basic design, and life drawing. All these courses are of ten weeks duration and have modest tuition fees in order to make them accessible to all interested students. Ms. Karen Lewis and Giles van der Bogert are the instructors for these courses.

Registration for all of these courses and the 73 other Community Service courses offered this spring can be completed by simply mailing in an application form and tuition payment to the college prior to January 6. After that date registration must be completed in person at the Main Building, 3 Essex st., Beverly.

Registration is scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. on January 12 and 13, and from 6 to 9 p.m. on January 19. During the spring semester a total of 78 non-credit Community Service courses and over 150 credit courses will be offered in Beverly and in the neighboring communities served by the seven North Shore Extension Centers.

In order to obtain a catalog of all the spring courses in the Division of Continuing Education and Community Services just phone the office or drop by at 3 Essex st., Beverly, between 7:30 a.m. and 10 p.m. Monday through Friday. Since many courses have limited enrollment try to make your course selections as early as possible.

Trust Company hikes dividend

The directors of the Winchester Trust recently voted a regular dividend of 40 cents a share and an extra dividend of 55 cents a share, which is an increase over last year's extra of 50 cents a share.

This action continues to show the stability of the bank as measured against a financial community experiencing difficulty, officials said.

If you haven't taken advantage of these luncheons, please plan to do so soon. Reservations must be made by calling the Senior Service Line by Monday noon of the week of the lunch.

Local programs are available to seniors

The following is a list of programs available to Seniors recently outlined in the newsletter of the Winchester Council on Aging and the Winchester Seniors Association.

Information and Referral-Senior Service Line, 729-2111, weekdays 9 to 3, assists seniors in finding answers to personal, financial, employment, recreational, health, residential, and other questions. (Staffed by senior volunteers)

Transportation-volunteers will drive elderly to appointments within a 3-mile radius of Winchester center. Please give us a minimum notice of 24 hours.

Newsletter-free, monthly publication mailed to all older adults at the first of each month.

I.D. cards, for discounts at participating stores in Winchester, and as proof of senior adult standing. Stop at the office to pick up your card and a list of local businesses giving discounts.

Recreation: Frequent bus trips to museums, theatres, historic points.

Weekly bowling group, taken by bus to Burlington.

Weekly card group for whist, bridge, scrabble, etc.

Special interest classes such as cooking for 1 and 2, chair caning, arts and crafts and basic drawing.

Special interest groups: choral, physical fitness, lip reading.

Housing-Committee studying all possible kinds of elderly housing. Supports project on old Lincoln School site, searching for ways to obtain more moderate income housing.

Income Tax Help-by trained volunteers, free, in tax season.

Tax Abatement Information and Assistance for persons 70 and over who meet certain requirements.

Keep-Well Clinic-2nd and 4th Thursday afternoons of each month (except July and August; 4th Thursday only.) Weight, blood pressure and personal consultation as needed. Call the office to sign up, 729-2111. Sponsored by the Council on Aging, Board of Health and Tri Community Health Services, Inc.

Volunteer Opportunities-the philosophy of the Winchester Council on Aging strongly emphasizes seniors helping seniors. Most of our programming is run by volunteers; the strength of our programming depends on each of you. We have numerous ways you can help: volunteer driver, assist with writing or producing the newsletter, being a friendly visitor or a friendly phoner, visiting school classes as a resource person to describe some of the historical events you have experienced, to share travel or talents, etc. Call 729-2111 to tell us how you can share yourself.

Children's group plans 'Peter Pan'

Preparations are under way for "Peter Pan" the Winchester Community Theatre, Inc., Children's Theatre's February production. The play will be at McCall Jr. High's Auditorium on Feb. 6 & 7.

Following is a list of the staff for this production:

Cathy Alexander, director; Carlene Samoiloff, artistic advisor; Bea Gorrella, dance; Carol Davidson, music director; Agnes Sarmanian, in charge of younger children; Wendy Capokianro, ticket chairman; Nancy Mills, props; Barbara Potter, publicity; Eileen Hartwell and Anne Gattineri, assisting directors, and Neil Gillis, staging and lighting.

Not everyone got to where they were going Friday, and those that did had to push a lot of water out of the way.

Senior citizens enjoy Yule party

Senior citizens of the Palmer street complex were recently treated to the Winchester Housing Authority's annual Christmas party.

After dinner, guests sang Christmas carols and danced to live music.

Herbert J. Cleary of Palmer street played familiar carols on the piano while others sang along. Accordionist Danny Noonan entertained guests with a repertoire of old-fashioned Irish "pub-type" music.

The Palmer Street Tenants Association and the housing authority especially wish to thank the Winchester Garden Club for their donation of a Christmas wreath, poinsettias and gifts.

Because the housing authority felt that hospitalized tenants needed some holiday cheer, the poinsettias were taken to the ill.

Members of the board, their spouses and staff attending the party were: Chairman Mary Murphy and her husband, John F.; Vice-Chairman Richard J. Donovan and his wife Sally; Secretary Charles T. Doucette and his wife Betty; Treasurer Charles W. Craven and his wife Mary; administrative assistant Clara Hewis and custodian Joseph Cullane.

Basketball team in win over Stoneham team by 80 to 67; routs Reading by 87 to 59

Griffing his teeth: Reading player with ball as Andy Stoeckel (21) and Kirk Swanson harass him.

(Don Young Photo)

Coach Doc Wheeler's quintet had a rather easy time with the Reading Rockets as they handed them an 87-59 setback Saturday night at Reading.

The home team opened strong and outplayed the Sachems slightly for a first period lead of 22-19. However, the Winchester team really got rolling the second period as they poured in 21 points against 9 for Reading. This fashioned a 40-31 half-time lead and from that point on it was all Winchester.

Coach Wheeler cleared his bench and nearly every player had a part in the scoring as the Sachem lead kept growing until the final stood at 87-59. It was a great team victory as the local team shows increasing development.

Tri-captain Andy Stoeckel had ten hoops to lead all scorers with 20 points and the other tri-captains Wayne Mills (13) and Dan Heffernan (12) were also in double figures. Good with 16 topped the Reading scorers.

The summary:

STONEHAM 80-67

Starting slowly in their first Middlesex League game at Stoneham the Sachem basketballers found themselves on the short end of an 18-14 count at the end of the first period. They began to gain momentum in the second period and held a 34-32 advantage at half time. Play was fast throughout the half with first one team and then the other having the advantage.

The third period was almost a carbon copy of the first two as Winchester moved two points more ahead to a 52-48 margin as the teams started the final period. However, although Stoneham maintained its steady pace the Sachems really put on the heat as they dropped 28 points through the hoop to clinch the verdict 80-67.

Tri-captain Andy Stoeckel was Winchester's top point getter with 21 and tri-captain Wayne Mills with 15, his brother, sophomore Glenn with a like number, and Kirk Swanson with a dozen also in double figures. Migliorini with 22 and Kwiatkowski with 16 kept the home team a constant threat.

Burlington will play here Friday night and next Tuesday Winchester journeys to Belmont.

Sachem track team splits two league meets

Coach Tom Kline's track team has competed in two Middlesex League meets to date and has broken even, winning from Burlington 52-54 and losing to the Reading powerhouse by 30-27. This week's meet will be on Saturday morning against Stoneham.

Running in competition for the first time this season Rick Mauger shattered the Winchester 300 yard record as he sped around the oval in 33.8 seconds. The Sachems turned in several good performances but there were no other records endangered.

Winchester has a well balanced team in almost all of the events but has definite weakness in distances over 1,000 yards. Reading won the second meet by 32 points with 26 points of the winning edge coming in the distance events where the Sachems managed only a single point.

Besides Mauger's winning efforts other first place winners in both meets were Rich Minutoli in the hurdles and Jim Saliba in the dash.

The summaries:

A two-miler on the track team shows his disappointment after the race against Reading Saturday.

Sachems tie Rockets 3-3

Reading and Winchester battled to a 3-all tie in a fast and interesting hockey game Saturday at the Woburn rink. Reading took a one goal lead less than half a minute before the end of the opening period as Cummings caged the disc. They extended it to 2-0 after only 25 seconds of action in the second session.

Winchester fought hard to catch the Rockets and Co-captain Gerry Kivney and Duck Allard drove home goals to even the score. Donovan gave the lead back to Reading but Bill McLean came through with a goal to forge a three all deadlock just before the second period closed.

Both teams worked hard to gain an edge in the third period and each had good scoring opportunities but neither could get the puck into the cage, so, at the final whistle it was still Winchester 3, Reading 3.

The summary:

Coach Dave Berman's hockey team was defeated by 4-2. After a scoreless first period the home team tallied a pair of second period goals and another early in the third period to take a 3-0 lead. Winchester netted a pair of goals during the third session but the Sachem team never really threatened the Lexington forces.

The following day they faced off against the Alumni group in the annual Christmas Eve matchup and the old timers bested them by 7-3 as Jay O'Leary scored one goal and Paul Whitney netted a pair.

McCall splits two games in Woburn

McCall Junior High split two games the past week with the Junior highs of Woburn. On Wednesday, McCall was shutout 2-0 by Joyce. Joyce scored two first period goals and held on as McCall could not score. Friday McCall came up with a solid effort in defeating Kennedy Junior by a 3-0 score. Hugo LaFanci scored two goals and Rickky Blanch added the third. Bubba Sanford collected three assists and played on outstanding game. In goal Chris Zappala stopped all of Kennedy's bids in a shutout effort.

Couples bowling

Last Saturday evening, not even the first snow fall could keep the Couples from bowling on their eighth evening of scheduled bowling. Bowler of the evening was Wimpy Burnett. He bowled 61 pins over his average. It was decided that only two strings would be bowled so all could enjoy the after bowling Christmas Party. Men's high games: Wimpy Burnett, 186; Walter Armstrong, 165. Women's high game: Isabel Hart, 141. High series: Dick Perry, 322. Improvement in averages: Wimpy Burnett, 166; Walter Armstrong, 165; Dick Perry, 322. Six pins: Walter Armstrong and Bill Ross, two pins each; John Bradley and Dick Perry, one pin each. Going into the New Year our four top bowlers are: Dick Perry, Stan Hart, Al Hart and Vi Vangell. After bowling, at the home of Tom and Vi Vangell, all enjoyed the Christmas Party which included a special tribute to Stan Hart and a Yankee Swap.

Novices invited to speed skating test

The Northeastern Skating Association announced that the 1976 Speed Skating Program for novices will be held at the Summer St., Arlington M.D.C. rink. Basic speed skating lessons and strategy of racing will be sponsored by the N.S.A. in cooperation with the M.D.C.'s Recreation Division. Sessions will be held every Thursday evening, beginning January 8, starting at 7 p.m. and will continue for approximately 10 weeks.

Each session will include teaching and racing segments with participants divided into age and ability groups for both instruction and competition. Boys and girls from 3 to 15 years of age are invited to participate. Due to increased number of applications, registration will be limited. Speed skates are recommended for the program. Helmets and gloves will be mandatory. Qualified coaches and regional amateur competitors will be conducting the sessions. Patches will be awarded to skaters who finish first, second, third and fourth in weekly final events. Awards will be presented at the end of the program to the high point champions in each class. Registration will take place at 6:45 p.m. January 8, at the rink.

Three straight for Jayvee team

The Sachem JV basketball squad matched the varsity record with their third straight success at Reading last Saturday 71-63. They won their opening two games under rookie coach Bob Ford 62-58 at Revere and 74-61 at Stoneham.

Donny Allard had his best game of the season totaling 16 points to lead the starters, Bob Broshan, Bill Tunnicliffe, and Jack Nolan added 12, 8, and 7 points respectively. Rick Pearl, Jim Burns, and big man Bob McCabe helped out their JV mates with 8, 6, and 5 points coming down from varsity.

Sophomore starting center Brian O'Connor had an outstanding rebounding effort and banged home 6 points.

Sachem swimmers take two openers

In defense of their Championship and their undefeated 1974-75 season, the Sachem swimmers won their first two meets of the season last week.

In a non-conference meet held at the Northeast Regional Pool December 17, Winchester was hosted by the Northeast Knights. Winchester won, 44-37.

The meet started off with a win for the Sachem when the 200-yard medley relay team of David Blasi (back), Jay Estabrook (breast), Tony Pollino (fly), and tri-captain Jeff Estabrook (free) came in with a time of 1:55:0. The Knights took a second and third. In the 200-yard freestyle event tri-capt. John Henriques, a senior and swimming unofficially, cracked the pool record with a time of 1:57:4, while sophomore Rich Palumbo won the event with a time of 2:04:0. The Knights took second and third.

Junior Tony Pollino won the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:27:0. Northeast took a second and junior Seth Goodman took a third with 2:52:3.

In the 50-yard freestyle, tri-capt. Danny Holmes, a senior, also swam unofficially and came in with a winning time of 24:0. Danny holds the pool record at 23:3. Northeast took a first in this event with a time of 26:2 and Bob Blasi took a second with a time of 27:0.

In the diving event Northeast took first with a total of 137.55 points and Tony Pollino took a close second with a total of 127.25 points.

John Henriques set another pool record in the 100-yard butterfly, taking first with a time of 57:8. The Knights took second while sophomore David Blasi captured third with a time of 1:13:5.

Again swimming unofficially in the 100-yard freestyle, Danny Holmes came in with the winning time of 53:7, while teammate Jeff Estabrook took first with a time of 58:3, and the Knights captured second and third.

Rich Palumbo took a first in the 500-yard freestyle event and Kevin Goslin took a fourth with a time of 9:04:8. Northeast captured second and third again.

The Knights won the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:08:0 and the Sachems' David Blasi took second with 1:12:8.

Senior Jay Estabrook won the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:10:2 while Northeast took second and third.

Winchester's 400-yard freestyle relay team of John Henriques, Rich Palumbo, Danny Holmes and Jeff Estabrook took first with a time of 3:48:5, and the Knights took second and third.

On December 20 the Sachem swimmers travelled to Leominster for their first conference meet.

To Coach Palumbo's surprise on their arrival at the Leominster Y, the pool was only 20 yards long. This is something the Conference has never seen since all the pools in this area are 25 yards long. The change could have presented some problems because all the 100-yard events become five lengths instead of the conventional four, and the finishes are at the opposite ends of the pool.

But as it turned out, Winchester posted its second victory of the week, winning all eleven events to the tune of Winchester 58-Leominster 24.

The Sachems' medley relay team opened the meet with a win in this 160-yard event, posting a time of 1:37:1, while Winchester's second medley relay team placed fourth.

Tri-capt. John Henriques won the 200-yard freestyle event in a head-to-head battle with teammate Rich Palumbo. They came in first and second with times of 1:59:5 and 1:59:8. The 160-yard individual medley saw Tony Pollino taking a first with a time of 1:54:0 and teammate Seth Goodman taking third with a time of 2:08:7.

Tri-capt. Danny Holmes won the 60-yard freestyle with 27:0 and Bobby Blasi placed fourth.

In the diving event the number one Leominster diver injured himself when he slipped on his vault off the board, skinning himself on the edge of the board. He was taken to the hospital for x-rays.

The event was won by the Sachems' Tony Pollino with a total of 137.55 points. Leominster's second diver took a second with 124.25 points.

Tri-capt. John Henriques and Jeff Estabrook placed first and third respectively in the 100-yard butterfly with times of 59:1 and 1:15:0.

In the 100-yard freestyle event tri-capt. Danny Holmes stopped after finishing only four lengths of the pool, thinking that the race was over. When he saw the others continue, he finished the race, still taking first with a time of 1:02:0.

Rich Palumbo won the 500-yard freestyle handsly with a time of 6:02:0 and teammate Kevin Goslin, a sophomore, took third with a time of 7:40:0.

David Blasi showed marked improvement and chopping two seconds off his previous best time won the 100-yard backstroke while teammate Tom Zappala, also showing improvement, came in third. Their times were 1:10:3 and 1:19:1.

Aggressive and talented Jay Estabrook won the 100-yard breaststroke over last year's Eastern Mass. rival Dick Von Eigen, who had beaten Jay previously. Jay's time was 1:09:8.

The Sachem swimmers ended the meet by taking a one-two in the 400-yard freestyle relay with the teams of Seth Goodman, Jeff Estabrook, Kevin Goslin, and Rich Palumbo taking first with a time of 4:42:0, and Tom Zappala, Dick Gardner, Danny Holmes, and John Henriques taking the second spot with 4:44:0.

Dr. Donald K. Lewis, noted physician dies

Dr. Donald King Lewis, 60, of 40 Wedgemere ave., died Sunday at Massachusetts General Hospital of lung cancer. Dr. Lewis was senior surgeon at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

When he became ill in July, Dr. Lewis halted his surgical duties at the hospital, and after several hospitalizations, he entered MGH for the last time December 17.

He is survived by his wife, Mary E. Lewis, and by six children: Mrs. Nancy Cole of Boston; Jeffrey K. Lewis, 40 Wedgemere ave.; Kimball Wallace of Weston; Susan Wallace of Cambridge; and Scott S. and Torrey Wallace of Winchester.

He also leaves his mother, Mrs. Hazael L. Smith of Cambridge, and a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Thrush of Cadillac, Mich.

Funeral services will be held today at the Unitarian Church. There will be a family graveside service 11 a.m. Friday at Wildwood cemetery.

Dr. Lewis was a native of Michigan and attended the University of Michigan under full scholarship. While playing club football, he made the acquaintance of President Gerald R. Ford.

On his 60th birthday, September 5, Dr. Lewis received a telegram from the President, which read in part:

"I was saddened to learn that you have not been well. While it is never easy for one as busy as you to have to spend time on the sidelines, I hope you will keep up your spirits as you work to recover."

In 1936 Dr. Lewis went on to the University of Michigan School of Medicine, serving his internship at the university's Ann Arbor hospital.

After completing his residency at Mass. Eye and Ear in 1953, he stayed on there as a full-time teacher for three years. While there he became a diplomate in the American Board of Otolaryngology.

He continued as a part-time teacher and as supervisor of residents at the infirmary even after going into private practice. For 24 years he was chief of the dept. of otolaryngology at both Winchester and Malden hospitals.

Working with Dr. Philip Meltzer of the Winthrop Foundation for the Investigation of Deafness, Dr. Lewis was appointed director of the foundation in 1958. In that same year he and Dr. Meltzer introduced the technique of stapedectomy, a procedure for the surgical treatment of otosclerosis, a type of deafness.

In 1963, the American Otolaryngological Society elected Dr. Lewis to their membership. He later became president of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary Alumni Assn. He belonged to the Centurians Club, which investigates causes of deafness.

Horst Fischer

A memorial service was held Tuesday for Horst Fischer, 10 Ginn rd., who died December 20 of smoke inhalation in an early morning fire at his home. He was 32.

Mr. Fischer's wife and two children leaped to safety from a second floor window. Mr. Fischer was apparently not far behind his family. He was found on the floor near the window.

According to Fire Chief Robert McElhinney, the fire started around 6 a.m. in the kitchen. Cause is as yet undetermined.

Mr. Fischer leaves his wife, Barbara (Titze), two daughters, Iris Anja and Christina Barbara Fischer, and his mother, Mrs. Meta (Gafert) Fischer of Germany.

A vice-president and co-manager of ABD Securities Boston office, Mr. Fischer had been with the firm since immigrating here from Germany five years ago. James Dowd, president of the Boston Stock Exchange (BSE) said of him, "The Boston financial community has lost a good friend and dedicated worker."

Born in Frankfurt, Germany, Mr. Fischer served as an administrator at the Dresden Bank for ten years before coming to the United States. He had lived in Winchester for the past four years.

He served on the executive committee of the Boston Cashiers Assn., the admissions and solvency committee, and the BSE advisory committee. He was an advisor to the central market committee of the BSE and a member of the Boston Bond Club.

Donations in his name may be made to "A Better Chance House," care of Charles Harris, Treas., 23 Stevens st., or to the Masterworks Choral, Box 312, Lexington, 02173.

Lucy B. Sullivan

Lucy B. (Joy) Sullivan of 41 Sargeant rd. died suddenly December 22 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. She was 66.

Mrs. Sullivan was the daughter of Ellis F. and Lucinda Fleet Joy. She was a resident of Winchester for thirty years. For the past three years she was President of the Aberjona Post V.F.W. and 3719 Ladies Auxiliary, and has been very active in V.F.W. affairs. She belonged to the Church of the Epiphany.

Surviving her are husband Edward F. Sullivan of Winchester and sons Theodore S. Nelson of Reading and Robert L. Nelson of Oregon. Mrs. Sullivan is also survived by a brother, Ellis F. Joy Jr. of Boca-Raton, Fla.; by two sisters, Mrs. Pauline Nolan of Peabody and Mrs. Dorothy Davy of Belmont; and by 11 grandchildren.

Services were held at the Church of the Epiphany December 26, with the Rev. John D. Bishop officiating. Burial was at Wildwood cemetery. Contributions in her memory may be made to the Kidney Foundation in Boston. Arrangements were by Lane Funeral Home.

Helen A. Callahan

Helen A. (Murphy) Callahan, 65, died December 28 at Winchester Hospital after a short illness. Mrs. Callahan lived at 74 Hemingway st.

A lifelong resident she attended Winchester public schools and belonged to the Immaculate Conception Ladies Sodality. She was also formerly employed at Paul O'Neil's Drug Store.

Her brother, the Rev. John

Joseph Murphy, S.J., of Boston College, will say Mass for her at the Immaculate Conception Church today at 10 a.m. Burial will follow at Calvary cemetery, Woburn.

Surviving Mrs. Callahan are her husband Robert J.; her brother the Rev. John J.; brother James F. Murphy of Winchester; and her two sisters, Mary A. Elliot of Grand Rapids, Mich. and Catherine Dunn of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Donations in her memory may be made to the Immaculate Conception Church Drum and Bugle Corps. Arrangements were by the Lane Funeral Home.

Antone C. Amerald

Antone C. Amerald, husband of Mary (Perry) Amerald, 12 Fairlane ter., died suddenly December 22. Mr. Amerald, 74, was a resident here for 17 years.

A Mass was said at St. Anthony's Church in Cambridge December 26. Burial followed at Oak Grove Cemetery.

Born in Portugal, Mr. Amerald spent most of his life in the United States. He was self-employed as an interior decorator. During World War I he served in the U.S. Army. He also belonged to the St. Anthony's Church.

Surviving Mr. Amerald are his wife Mary, five daughters: Mrs. Ruth DiTullio of California; Mrs. Madeline Lancaster of Winchester; Mrs. Mary Cavedon of Manchester, Conn.; Mrs. Nancy Floyd of Medford; and Mrs. Susan Starr of Billerica; and one son, John Amerald of New Jersey.

Mr. Amerald also leaves one sister, Mrs. Stella Madeiros of Stoughton, 25 grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter.

Mary Ann Paradis

Services were held December 24 for Mary Ann (Foley) Paradis of 3 Sheffield West at St. Mary's Church. Mrs. Paradis, wife of the late Arthur M. Paradis, died suddenly at the Falmouth Nursing Home December 21. She was 78.

A resident of Winchester for 18 years, Mrs. Paradis was the daughter of the late Daniel and Mary (Sullivan) Mrs. Foley. Surviving her are Sisters Mrs. Arthur S. McLean of Dorchester and Helen B. and Frances R. Foley, both of Winchester.

Mrs. Grant was a member of St. Mary's Church, and her service was presided over by the Rev. Roger C. Cormier of St. Mary's. Burial was at Oak Grove in Medford. Arrangements were by the Lane Funeral Home.

Matilda Bardetti

Services were held December 24 for Matilda Bardetti, 37 Lockeland rd. Mrs. Bardetti died suddenly December 22. She was 78.

The service at St. Eulalia's Church was followed by burial at St. Michael's cemetery in Boston.

Mrs. Barge Bardetti was born in Boston to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zani. Both parents were born in Italy. Formerly of Medford, Mrs. Bardetti was a member of St. Eulalia's Church.

She is survived by her husband, Andrew F. Bardetti, by a brother, Victor Zani of Deland, Fla.; and by a sister, Louise Zani of Andover. Arrangements were by the Gaffey Memorial Funeral Home.

Diane Hunter Burns

Services were held December 29 for Mrs. Diane Hunter Burns of Wellesley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hunter, 9 Bigelow ave.

Mrs. Burns, wife of Richard F. Burns of Wellesley, died December 27 at home after a long illness. The Rev. Craig B. Adams officiated at services at the First Congregational Church of Wellesley.

Burial followed at Woodlawn cemetery. Mrs. Burns was born June 3, 1943 in Boston. She was a member of the Wellesley League of Women Voters. Surviving her are her parents, husband, a young son, Jeffrey, a brother, Jeffrey Hunter of London, England, and sister Martha Hunter of Winchester.

Arrangements were by the J.S. Waterman & Sons Home in Wellesley.

The West Indies is a paradise in the Caribbean. It is composed of more than 7,000 islands and reefs which were the outposts of the New World discovered by Columbus in 1492. The soil of the islands is very thorough and the countryside is most beautiful, since most of it is sea-washed. The trade wind blows most steadily from the east, bringing warm winds and the balmy air that makes an ideal vacation spot. When you travel to the Indies you will find a different, more restful, and more comfortable world.

Knowing Your Honeywell Detector
Can Save Your Family From Tragedy
When a fire starts in your home... before the flames spread, even before you can smell smoke, invisible particles of combustion are spreading throughout your house. You hear nothing. You feel nothing. Then smoke and fumes creep through the house and strike while you're asleep.
Wouldn't you feel safer — sleep safer — if someone thought of a way to detect this silent menace? Someone has.
Honeywell... a company you know... now brings you a Fire and Smoke Detector for your house, apartment or mobile home.
It doesn't wait for heat or flames to build up. An extremely sensitive combustion particle detector sets off a piercing alarm when it detects traces of fire or smoke.

Action group forms to combat vandalism here

An action committee to combat vandalism in the community and in the schools has been formed at the joint call of Winchester School Committee members Catherine Fallon and Mary Pronski.

Other representatives on the committee include administrators Walter Gleason, Vincent Larocco, Tom Budrewicz and Evander French; Safety Officer McKinley, Students Robert Sutherland and Ellen McCarthy and citizens Phyllis Williams and Dorothea Twomey.

Members from the high school teaching staff will be represented at future meetings of the group.

The initial meeting tried to identify the parameters of the problem. Although the initial action thrust of the committee is to deal with the vandalism at the senior high school, it was acknowledged that the problem exists throughout the town and in all schools. Only with town-wide interest and cooperation and a long-range educational effort at the elementary grades can the problems be corrected, committee members noted.

Vandalism is taking a heavy toll in Winchester.

Board draws names of eight for jury

Two requests were presented by Lt. Crawford to the board of selectmen for eight jurors, seven to report to Cambridge court and one to Lowell court on March 1, 1976.

Chosen by lot were Audrey F. Douglas, 3 Kenilworth rd.; Robert A. Girard, 181 Highland av.; Robert Ingraham, 18 Ardley pl.; Richard S. Kelley, 54 Swanton st.; Phyllis M. Migliaccio, 31 Elm st.; Catherine L. O'Donnell, 35 Washington st.; and Paul Wankowicz, 26 Symmes rd. They will report to Cambridge court.

The juror for the Lowell court is Mildred J. Johnston, 3 Bellevue av.

Two win police prizes for meritorious service

Two Winchester police officers won the Winchester Police Department Meritorious Service Award for 1975.

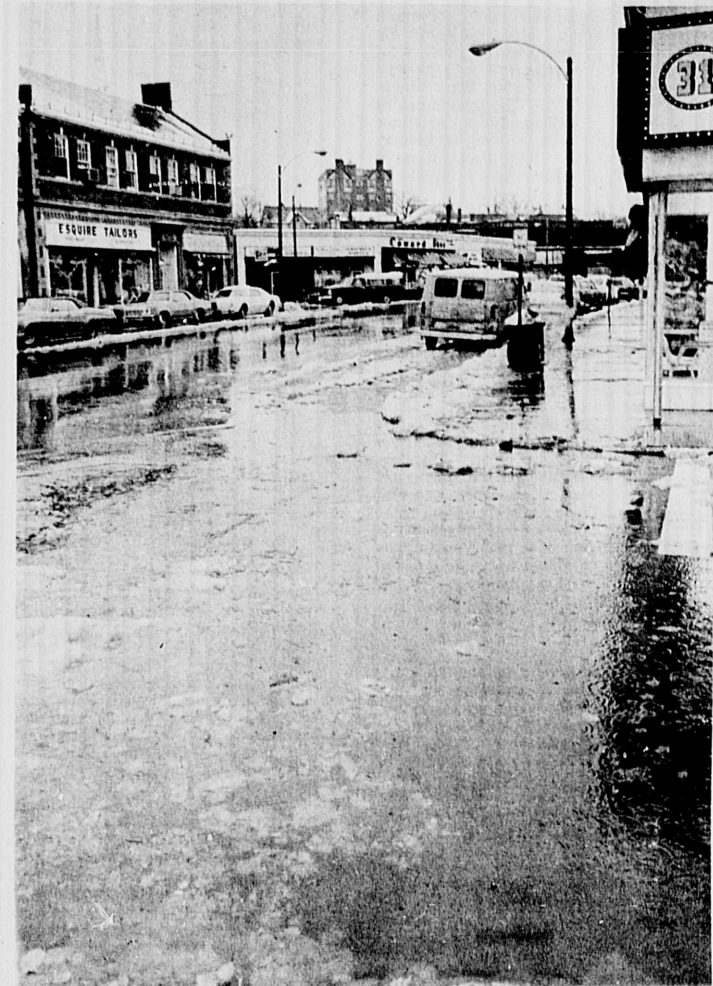

The prize went to Detective-Lieutenant William T. Haggerty and Patrolman William H. O'Neil for their work in breaking open an important case that had broad implications, resulted in house breaks and narcotics and other crimes.

The awards were presented at the Inaugural Ball of the Winchester Police Relief Association, at a dinner-dance at Montvale Plaza in Stoneham, Friday night. Some 350 persons were in attendance.

The awards, plaques and framed certificates, were presented to the officers by Mrs. Barbara Hankins of the Board of Selectmen, who read a speech in behalf of the Meritorious Service Award Committee of which she was a member. The other members were Charles Riley of the Woburn Times and J. Robert Sherman, executive editor of The Star.

Master of ceremonies at the affair was Lieutenant James J. Cogan, president of the association, who also introduced recently retired Chief Edward F. Bowler. Mrs. Hankins was introduced by Lieutenant John P. McHugh, treasurer of the association and coordinator of the award committee.

Census forms

Town Clerk Elsie Nelson urges all householders who have not yet returned their 1976 census forms to do so as soon as possible.

A police officer must visit the house of anyone not returning the forms order to keep the census lists up to date.

Election countdown

All town meeting seats are vacant: Nominations a must

As of late Tuesday afternoon, nomination papers for town meeting member had been taken out from the Town Clerk's office by 90 townspeople. The following is a listing of the number of potential candidates from each precinct: precinct 1: 15; precinct 2: 7; precinct 3: 15; precinct 4: 12; precinct 5: 11; precinct 6: 7; precinct 7: 15; precinct 8: 8.

In addition to all town meeting seats, there are vacancies on the following town boards: Town moderator, 1 year; Selectmen, 2 vacancies for 3 years; Assessors, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Board of Health, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Planning Board, 1 vacancy, 5 years; School Committee, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Library Trustees, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Housing Authority 1 vacancy, 5 years; 1 vacancy, 2 years.

There are many vacancies for elected town officials and town meeting members. There are very few townspeople who have taken out nomination papers for these openings.

According to the Winchester Home Rule Charter, ALL town meeting member seats are vacant this year. Anyone wishing to run, whether a current town meeting member or not, must have nomination papers signed by ten voters of the precincts in which the candidate seeks election.

Each of the eight precincts is to elect 24 town meeting members. For this initial year of the charter only, the candidates receiving the highest one-third of the votes will serve a

School board faces high costs; budget cut looms

A status report on Chapter 766 programs, high school English requirements, vandalism, and the town meeting mandate for a five per cent budget cut were among several policy and budget issues under discussion at the school committee's regular meeting Monday night.

Bill Dissinger, coordinator of special education, presented a budget report on certain Chapter 766 increases, most notably a request for $45,000 in additional funds for the tuition account.

The committee also discussed the English requirement in light of the new general student program and met with Frances Russell, the new director of the English program at the high school.

Committeewomen Cathy Fallon and Mary Pronski presented a progress report on a newly formed vandalism committee. The group includes students, parents, administrators, security personnel, and the two board members.

In other action, the school board accepted a memo from Superintendent William MacDonald dealing with procedures for implementing new sophomore study hall policy; a request for space was withdrawn by the Mystic Valley Clinic Observation Nursery School; Director of adult education Jim Perry informed the committee that the tuition for the upcoming session had been raised from $10 to $15; and the school board voted to renew funding for the ABCprogram.

Bill Dissinger reported that the tuition account which pays for students tutored under for special education programs under Chapter 766, had run up an overdraft of close to $45,000. A request for the extra funds has been sent to the finance committee.

According to Dissinger, tuition costs for individual students run from $900 to $15,000. The latter figure, he explained, involved one student who had to be placed in a 24-hour therapeutic setting. "It's certainly the exception rather than the rule," he added. He also said that the schools involved "have been approved by the state, and the rates are set by the state."

The school department has looked into state requirements with regard to high school credits in order to determine if the general student program will conflict with any of the statutes. High School Principal Vin Larocco reported to the committee that the state requires only that the school offer English courses; none are required.

"The state doesn't even require that a (School board--page 2)

Concerned about increases

FinCom scrutinizes budget, to quiz committee

The previous three Finance Committee meetings have been primarily devoted to careful perusal of the proposed school budget. They will query the school committee on certain items at to-night's public hearing.

FinCom members wonder why all budgets in Winchester invariably exceed the prior year's level. Despite a decrease in enrollment the budget this year continues to yield to increases.

One committee member says the entire school system is built around the philosophy that this is a wealthy town and if you want something, there's no need to do without.

Taking into consideration both inflation and decreased enrollment, FinCom says, schools must consider cutbacks. FinCom member Sally Kincaid predicts that the elementary schools someday soon will have to adjust to one principal for two schools.

Personal services is one area where the committee finds a large overhead. FinCom says many administrative personnel are well paid, and questions the need for so many.

Energy conservation

Both the amount of oil and the price per barrel have been challenged by FinCom. They see no evidence of a conservation program to reduce consumption.

FinCom member Alice Mirak says the thermostats should be turned down. "Not only is it a federal regulation but kids function better at 68 degrees. She says she has seen windows in the schools open, and has noticed her children coming home tired from overheating.

Justification for increased oil usage to the level of two years ago, FinCom member Richard Sayre joked, is that there are 200 less warm bodies in the schools.

Finance Committee hopes the newly staffed Winchester Energy Committee will establish constructive guidelines for the schools to adopt.

Theft and Vandalism

FinCom wants to know what procedures have evolved to counteract increased theft and vandalism. To decrease a $4,000 replacement of stolen goods expenditure next year, they suggest the schools consider an effective burglar detection system.

One member, half joking about the replacement cost of IBM typewriters said, "They're so expensive, can't we buy them back hot?"

Stiff penalties should be given to vandals caught destroying school property, says the FinCom, as amounts of time and money are spent toward Monday morning maintenance, which mostly entails replacement of broken glass.

With the uncertainty of certain grade schools remaining open, FinCom challenges upgrading of items in the maintenance and repairs budget.

Other expenses

FinCom member Sally Kincaid questioned school needs for more audio visual equipment when they haven't even completed an inventory. There is a substantial 15 percent increase over last year's A.V. expenditures.

FinCom also wants to know if automobile costs are being monitored.

These questioners of cost wonder if enough students are using the Wang computer to make it worthwhile. It's run on a volunteer basis, yet the high school wants to spend $1200 to replace it for a bigger and better one.

FinCom member Alice Mirak questioned usefulness of Science Kits. She said in one of her children's science classes, all the fruit flies in the kits were dead on arrival. These kits, she claims, are too expensive to be used at the teacher's discretion.

Members are also wary of the reimbursement ratio for 766 programs. They expect the town will have to assume more of these expenses than anticipated.

New member John Looney

The committee accepted John Looney of 19 Perkins rd. as a new member replacing Richard Richmond, former chairman.

Oil spill slips into the Aberjona and the Mill Pond

An oil spill originating in Stoneham and of unknown quantity is slipping down the Aberjona river into the mill pond.

According to the state's water pollution board, the oil started coming down the river three or four days ago. The Atlantic Gelatin Company notified the board Monday and engineers looked into the tunnel under route 93. Apparently boards and debris across the underground water passage helped to keep the amount of oil passing through to a low level.

A boom was installed to further reduce the flow downstream and an additional three booms are being put in place further down the river.

The Coastal Services Company, which is taking care of the problem, declined to say just how much oil has been spilled or the source of the spill, if known. The river flows underground for much of its way from Stoneham and determination of the original spill site may be difficult.

The water pollution board does not know at this time if there is danger to the ducks, geese, and swans on the mill pond. They hope that within a few days the problem will have been cleared up. Meanwhile, someone will be out to check the oil every day.

Dr. Donald K. Lewis, noted physician dies

Dr. Donald King Lewis, 60, of 40 Wedgemere ave., died Sunday at Massachusetts General Hospital of lung cancer. Dr. Lewis was senior surgeon at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

When he became ill in July, Dr. Lewis halted his surgical duties at the hospital, and after several hospitalizations, he entered MGH for the last time December 17.

He is survived by his wife, Mary E. Lewis, and by six children: Mrs. Nancy Cole of Boston; Jeffrey K. Lewis, 40 Wedgemere ave.; Kimball Wallace of Weston; Susan Wallace of Cambridge; and Scott S. and Torrey Wallace of Winchester.

He also leaves his mother, Mrs. Hazael L. Smith of Cambridge, and a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Thrush of Cadillac, Mich.

Funeral services will be held today at the Unitarian Church. There will be a family graveside service 11 a.m. Friday at Wildwood cemetery.

Dr. Lewis was a native of Michigan and attended the University of Michigan under full scholarship. While playing club football, he made the acquaintance of President Gerald R. Ford.

On his 60th birthday, September 5, Dr. Lewis received a telegram from the President, which read in part:

"I was saddened to learn that you have not been well. While it is never easy for one as busy as you to have to spend time on the sidelines, I hope you will keep up your spirits as you work to recover."

In 1936 Dr. Lewis went on to the University of Michigan School of Medicine, serving his internship at the university's Ann Arbor hospital.

After completing his residency at Mass. Eye and Ear in 1953, he stayed on there as a full-time teacher for three years. While there he became a diplomate in the American Board of Otolaryngology.

He continued as a part-time teacher and as supervisor of residents at the infirmary even after going into private practice. For 24 years he was chief of the dept. of otolaryngology at both Winchester and Malden hospitals.

Working with Dr. Philip Meltzer of the Winthrop Foundation for the Investigation of Deafness, Dr. Lewis was appointed director of the foundation in 1958. In that same year he and Dr. Meltzer introduced the technique of stapedectomy, a procedure for the surgical treatment of otosclerosis, a type of deafness.

In 1963, the American Otolaryngological Society elected Dr. Lewis to their membership. He later became president of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary Alumni Assn. He belonged to the Centurians Club, which investigates causes of deafness.

Horst Fischer

A memorial service was held Tuesday for Horst Fischer, 10 Ginn rd., who died December 20 of smoke inhalation in an early morning fire at his home. He was 32.

Mr. Fischer's wife and two children leaped to safety from a second floor window. Mr. Fischer was apparently not far behind his family. He was found on the floor near the window.

According to Fire Chief Robert McElhinney, the fire started around 6 a.m. in the kitchen. Cause is as yet undetermined.

Mr. Fischer leaves his wife, Barbara (Titze); two daughters, Iris Anja and Christina Barbara Fischer, and his mother, Mrs. Meta (Gafert) Fischer of Germany.

A vice-president and co-manager of ABD Securities Boston office, Mr. Fischer had been with the firm since immigrating here from Germany five years ago. James Dowd, president of the Boston Stock Exchange (BSE) said of him, "The Boston financial community has lost a good friend and dedicated worker."

Born in Frankfurt, Germany, Mr. Fischer served as an administrator at the Dresdner Bank for ten years before coming to the United States. He had lived in Winchester for the past four years.

He served on the executive committee of the Boston Cashiers Assn., the admissions and solvency committee, and the BSE advisory committee. He was an advisor to the central market committee of the BSE and a member of the Boston Bond Club.

Donations in his name may be made to "A Better Chance House," care of Charles Harris, Treas., 23 Stevens st., or to the Masterworks Chorale, Box 312, Lexington, 02173.

Lucy B. Sullivan

Lucy B. (Joy) Sullivan of 41 Sargeant rd. died suddenly December 22 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. She was 66.

Mrs. Sullivan was the daughter of Ellis F. and Lucinda Fleet Joy. She was a resident of Winchester for thirty years. For the past three years she was President of the Aberjona Post V.F.W. 3719 Ladies Auxiliary, and has been very active in V.F.W. affairs. She belonged to the Church of the Epiphany.

Surviving her are husband Edward F. Sullivan of Winchester and sons Theodore S. Nelson of Reading and Robert L. Nelson of Oregon. Mrs. Sullivan is also survived by a brother, Ellis F. Joy Jr. of Boca-Raton, Fla.; by two sisters, Pauline Nolan of Peabody and Mrs. Dorothy Davy of Belmont; and by 11 grandchildren.

Services were held at the Church of the Epiphany December 26, with the Rev. John D. Bishop officiating. Burial was at Wildwood cemetery. Contributions in her memory may be made to the Kidney Foundation in Boston. Arrangements were by Lane Funeral Home.

Helen A. Callahan

Helen A. (Murphy) Callahan, 65, died December 28 at Winchester Hospital after a short illness. Mrs. Callahan lived at 74 Hemingway st.

A lifelong resident she attended Winchester public schools and belonged to the Immaculate Conception Ladies Sodality. She was also formerly employed at Paul O'Neil's Drug Store.

Her brother, the Rev. John

Joseph Murphy, S.J., of Boston College, will say Mass for her at the Immaculate Conception Church today at 10 a.m. Burial will follow at Calvary cemetery, Woburn.

Surviving Mrs. Callahan are her husband Robert J.; her brother the Rev. John J.; brother James F. Murphy of Winchester; and her two sisters, Mary A. Elliot of Winchester and Catherine Dunn of Grand Rapids, Mich. She is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Donations in her memory may be made to the Immaculate Conception Church Drum and Bugle Corps. Arrangements were by the Lane Funeral Home.

Antone C. Amerald

Antone C. Amerald, husband of Mary (Perry) Amerald, 12 Fairlane ter., died suddenly December 22. Mr. Amerald, 74, was a resident here for 17 years.

A Mass was said at St. Anthony's Church in Cambridge December 26. Burial followed at Oak Grove Cemetery.

Born in Portugal, Mr. Amerald spent most of his life in the United States. He was self-employed as an interior decorator. During World War I he served in the U.S. Army. He also belonged to the St. Anthony's Church.

Surviving Mr. Amerald are his wife Mary, five daughters: Mrs. Ruth DiTullio of California; Mrs. Madeline Lancaster of Winchester; Mrs. Mary Cavedon of Manchester, Conn.; Mrs. Nancy Floyd of Medford; and Mrs. Susan Starr of Billerica; and one son, John Amerald of New Jersey.

Mr. Amerald also leaves one sister, Mrs. Stella Madeiros of Stoughton, 25 grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter.

Mary Ann Paradis

Services were held December 24 for Mary Ann (Foley) Paradis of 3 Sheffield West at St. Mary's Church. Mrs. Paradis, wife of the late Arthur M. Paradis, died suddenly at the Falmouth Nursing Home December 21. She was 78.

A resident of Winchester for 18 years, Mrs. Paradis was the daughter of the late Daniel and Mary (Sullivan) Mrs. Foley. Surviving her are Sisters Mrs. Arthur S. McLean of Dorchester and Helen B. and Frances R. Foley, both of Winchester.

Mrs. Grant was a member of St. Mary's Church, and her service was presided over by the Rev. Roger C. Cormier of St. Mary's. Burial was at Oak Grove in Medford. Arrangements were by the Lane Funeral Home.

Matilda Bardetti

Services were held December 24 for Matilda Bardetti, 37 Lockland rd. Mrs. Bardetti died suddenly December 22. She was 78.

The service at St. Eulalia's Church was followed by burial at St. Michael's cemetery in Boston.

Mrs. Barge Bardetti was born in Boston to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zani. Both parents were born in Italy. Formerly of Medford, Mrs. Bardetti was a member of St. Eulalia's Church.

She is survived by her husband, Andrew F. Bardetti; by a brother, Victor Zani of Deland, Fla.; and by a sister, Louise Zani of Andover. Arrangements were by the Gaffey Memorial Funeral Home.

Diane Hunter Burns

Services were held December 29 for Mrs. Diane Hunter Burns of Wellesley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hunter, 9 Bigelow ave.

Mrs. Burns, wife of Richard F. Burns of Wellesley, died December 27 at home after a long illness. The Rev. Craig B. Adams officiated at services at the First Congregational Church of Wellesley.

Burial followed at Woodlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Burns was born June 3, 1943 in Boston. She was a member of the Wellesley League of Women Voters. Surviving her are her parents, husband, a young son, Jeffrey, a brother, Jeffrey Hunter of London, England, and sister Martha Hunter of Winchester. Arrangements were by the J.S. Waterman & Sons Home in Wellesley.

Citizen expresses concerns at public forum of selectmen

John Walsh, 21 Baldwin st., went before the selectmen and town manager Monday night to express several concerns relating to the area around Baldwin, Holton and East streets.

His major request was that selectmen look into the problem of trucks fueling at 39 Holton st., in apparent violation of the permit issued to George Whitten at that address. It is Walsh's understanding that trucks may be taking on diesel fuel. He is also concerned with the noise and fumes which he says are very distressing.

Selectman John J. Sullivan said that he would check the status of the petroleum permit, which was granted in 1969 after controversial public hearings.

Walsh also appealed to the selectmen for installation of a flashing orange light at Holton and East streets, an intersection he considers dangerous because of the bridge there. Selectmen asked that he put his request in writing with a sketch of the intersection for Safety Officer John McKinley.

Walsh's other concerns were the procedure for members of the American Party to follow in the presidential primary, and the lack of snow removal on Baldwin and Holton streets. Sullivan assured him that American party voters would be able to vote, but the procedure has not yet been determined. Selectmen also noted Walsh's dissatisfaction with the snow removal in his area.

Selectmen renew several licenses

Board of Selectmen renewed common victualer licenses for the following establishments: Washington Cafe, 292 Washington st., Bill's Place, 14 Skillings rd. and Baskin-Robbins, 527 Main st.

They also granted a Public Amusement license to the Recreation Department for the Children's Theatre Production of Peter Pan.

Icy fingers reach up for the morning sun's rays, through warmth is a far reach. And what glows in the woods? Perhaps these frozen stalks are dreaming of kites flying in a summer breeze. Photographer David Funkhouser wondered if the kite-shaped lights in the woods were some sort of flying saucers, invaders from outer space — or are they a play of light on the lens? He settled for the latter choice.

Every year

Fire chief dismayed at number of false alarms

Fire Chief Robert W. McElhinney, relatively new to the job of chief, is dismayed by the number of false alarms the department has responded to in the past year.

"We went out to 127 false alarms this year, 79 of them maliciously rung and 48 accidental," McElhinney said. "Last year there were about a hundred. Most of the problems seem to come when the kids are out of school in the summer and around Halloween. It seems to be a bad trend."

On the positive side of the firefighting profession, McElhinney is proud of the number of men in the department who are EMTs—emergency medical technicians trained by a hospital to provide emergency care. There are 12 men who have completed the 81-hour course at the Winchester Hospital. "We have another four men taking the exam this month. In addition to the 81 hours of instruction, the men have to go back every two years for another 20 hours," the chief said.

The Winchester Fire Department answered 841 still alarms and 368 box alarms in the past year. In addition, the department to these fire calls, the department has responded to 72 calls for mutual aid assistance from neighboring communities.

The still alarms vary from brush fires to automobile fires to resuscitation assistance and other various emergency situations which required the assistance of firefighters. Box alarms include dwelling fires, building fires, and large brush fires.

The total of 1,281 calls that were answered last year reflect an increase of 200 runs, according to Fire Chief Robert W. McElhinney.

In addition to fire calls, the department has conducted yearly inspections of all business establishments in the town. Also, quarterly inspections of all nursing homes and hospital facilities, as well as of all schools, are conducted.

The Tot-finder program for families with small children and the Invalid sticker program for all the invalids residing in the town are still maintained.

The department also has a fire science course available to high school students in the Max Ed program. The students attend sessions two afternoons a week at fire headquarters and are instructed in all phases of firefighting and first-aid techniques. The course does not intend to make firefighters out of these students, but simply to deepen their educational well. The course is conducted September through January.

The department has visited various schools and demonstrated modern methods of first-aid to the students. There is also a training program within the department which runs nine months of the year. This program keeps the firefighters abreast of all modern techniques which come about in this vocation. It also serves as a refresher in the knowledge already gained.

Public ear lacking...

By-law revision hearing held; budget, officers, rules at issue

A public hearing on proposed changes in the town's by-laws, held Tuesday night at the Lincoln School auditorium, was sparsely attended. Significant changes in budget preparation, the appointment of town officers, and town meeting procedure drew the most discussion.

The hearing, which dealt with twelve chapters of preliminary by-law proposals issued in December by the town by-laws revision study committee, lasted four hours. The proposals involve everything from the creation of town agencies to window peeping.

Just over two dozen persons attended the hearing, almost half of them town officials. Each major revision was reviewed by the committee and widely discussed on the floor. Harrison Chadwick, chairman of the committee, noted at the end that when hearings are held, most of the town stays away; he also commended those who did show up for their suggestions and opinions.

Commenting on the committee's proposal that the budget be turned over to the finance committee no later than April 15, Town Manager Thomas Groux said March 1 might be a more realistic date.

When Mr. Chadwick asked why the budget preparation couldn't begin in July and thereby avoid the pressures of the present method, Mr. Groux replied that "the further away from the effective date you set your figures, the less realistic they are."

"The budget can't be evaluated in pieces. It's like piecing together a puzzle—you don't know how it will turn out until it's all together," he added.

Mr. Groux then suggested that the first year under the new charter be considered a transitional year in which the town manager will work together with the finance committee to prepare the budget and work out new procedures.

Selectman Larry Smith, speaking for the selectmen as a whole commented that the offices of town clerk, town counsel, and town engineer should be made appointments for

Town pressured by EPA edict to build new rubbish station

Winchester has to start construction of a rubbish transfer station by March 1 or pay a whopping fine of $25,000 a day.

With that in mind, Selectmen focused their major discussion at the irregular Monday night meeting on the proposed zoning by-law changes that would apply to the station as required by the Environmental Protection Agency, which is the governmental body that imposed the edict.

With Planning Board Chairman Michael Boodakian present, the selectment discussed for more than an hour the technicalities of allowing a transfer station to be built 20 feet from the lot line of a conservancy-zoned area.

The Planning Board is opposed to changing the lot line limitation from the 40 feet now required in a conservancy district to the 20 feet which present plans call for. Boodakian suggested changing the zone to light industrial and making the transfer station a permitted use under that designation.

Chairman Larry Smith prefers to leave the zoning as it is and work around the 40-foot limitation.

The Waste Study Committee is meeting with engineers Thursday night to discuss the cost of building the station 40 feet back. With the information which comes from this meeting an article will be prepared for the town meeting.

The selectmen would like to see this article presented in a way which allows town meeting members several options for deliberation. The question will be whether town meeting will appropriate funds for building the transfer station 40 feet from the lot line and/or amend the by-law to change the district to light industrial.

By giving town meeting both alternatives, the town will be covered in case the Attorney General's office does not give approval to the revised zoning by-laws package. If his office disapproves the by-laws, funds would still have been appropriated for moving the station 40 feet from the lot line.

The town is under a great deal of pressure now because of the EPA-mandated schedule. Under their timetable, construction of the transfer station must begin March 1, 1976. Under charter laws, money allocated by special town meeting may be used until five business days after the dissolution of the special town meeting.

Selectman Arthur Dunbar remarked that should the February 23 meeting run even one additional session, allocated funds could not be used in time for the building to start. It is likely, then, that a special town meeting will be held within the February 23 town meeting to assure that other matters on the warrant will not delay use of funds for construction of the transfer station.

Manager names three new men to Winchester Police

Town Manager Groux named three men to the Winchester Police Department Monday night, their appointments to become effective on January 26.

Lawrence P. Hill of Irving st. was recommended for placement as a permanent police officer. Hill will join the class at the Police Academy on January 12.

Robert W. Palmer, also of Irving st., and James Gallant of Rock ave., were recommended by Groux for appointment as part-time police officers. They would join the force to help during vacations, sick leave, and academy training of the other officers.

Hill joins two other recently appointed full-time police officers who will be going to the Academy on January 12. Groux appointed James Pierce, 31 Loring ave., and John Alford, 106 Grove st., to the force last fall.

Town to get lottery money

Winchester will receive $51,486.75 from the Massachusetts State Lottery in calendar 1975. A distribution from Lottery receipts is made twice a year by the State.

The above figure covers June 1 to November 30, 1975. The Local Aid Fund was increased this year by a growing contribution from income from beano games, which are also supervised by the lottery commission.

Since April, 1972 Winchester has received a total of $308,686 from the fund.

Housing Authority opens bids for old Lincoln School razing

The Winchester Housing Authority (WHA) last week publicly opened and read eight bids for demolition of the old Lincoln School—site of a new senior citizen housing facility.

Bids received (listed in ascending order) include: Leo M. Rush, $8,060; Malinowski Construction Co., $10,500; Dan Raustis, contractor, $10,685; John J. Duane Co., $14,690; Mystic Building and Wrecking Co., Inc., $14,774; Peter Ruggiero, Inc., $14,800; Ups and Downs Wrecking Co., $17,200; and McLeod Construction Co., with the highest bid of $39,700.

McLeod, the high bidder, is the construction company that built Palmer Street Housing.

The housing authority was pleased with the substantial bidder response to the demolition contract. Housing authority administrative assistant Clara Hewis partially attributes the good response to the scarcity of demolition jobs during the winter months.

The authority found the disparity in bid prices somewhat alarming, though. The wide range may be linked to what each contractor feels can be salvaged from the old school, and what can be resold. Much of the old brick can be salvaged.

The contract will be awarded at a meeting scheduled for Monday, January 12, providing the authority is able to obtain sufficient information about each of the bidders and necessary legal advice.

Information regarding the demolition bidders has been sent to the Department of Community Affairs for approval.

No award will be made to a bidder until determinative considerations are reviewed by WHA. These are: Whether or not the contractor has ever filed additional cost claims on past projects—a method which increases a low bidder's revenue; whether the contractor's business is solvent; and his past performance, emphasizing any public projects undertaken.

Under Chapter 149 a public agency such as the Winchester Housing Authority must accept the lowest responsible bidder. Ms. Hewis expressed some misgivings with this law since proving that a lowest bidder is irresponsible is difficult.

If the lowest bid is not accepted by the public agency, all bids must be thrown out and the agency has the extra expense of re-advertising.

Ms. Hewis says the concept in theory is good, but provides public agencies with little flexibility to choose a contractor. She says, "You can't get ground sirloin at hamburger prices."

When a bidder asked how soon demolition of old Lincoln School could take place, a unanimous response was heard from all board members present. "As soon as possible!" The WHA considers the vacated building a liability, for which they'd rather not be responsible.

Once the old brick school comes down, bids will go out for a general contractor and for the sub-bids. WHA hopes to break ground for construction of the new senior citizens' housing facility in April.

Funds earmarked for repairs to Town Hall Auditorium

The long-smoldering issue of the "unsafe" Winchester Town Hall Auditorium is on the way to being resolved.

The Finance Committee has transferred $2500 from the reserve fund and earmarked another $2000 to cover repairs and improvements to the Town Hall auditorium.

In informing selectmen of this transfer of funds, Town Manager Groux said that material from the old Lincoln School has been salvaged for the auditorium, thereby keeping costs for hardware and doors to a minimum.

He also said that the work, expected to be completed shortly, will not interfere with Winton Club rehearsals held in the Town Hall auditorium.

In other matters, Groux advised the selectmen that the fact finder's bill for assisting in contract negotiations between the town and the firefighters' local has been submitted. The bill of $2247.15 includes expenses incurred during the hearings of last June, July, and September. The bill will be shared equally by the town and the firefighters.

Chairman Lawrence T. Smith recommended to the selectmen that Al LaPointe be appointed to fill a vacancy on the Energy Conservation Commission. This recommendation met with approval by selectmen who cited LaPointe's interest and expertise in energy conservation.

Selectmen also approved placing a street light on pole number 429-2 on Dean rd.

fixed terms, rather than at the will of the selectmen as proposed by the by-laws revisions.

Town Counsel Douglas Randall agreed, pointing out that under the proposals, the town officers could only be removed from office by finding cause, which might not be the intent of either the selectmen or the officer involved.

The revision committee's suggested changes in town meeting procedures would put more definite time limits on individual speakers and recognizes that "it shall be the duty of every citizen of the town seeking recognition to speak at a town meeting to have attempted in advance... to inform himself regarding the warrant article under consideration."

The latter provision also directs the town manager to "schedule a time and place at which information with respect to said article (that is, any article for which a hearing is not scheduled) shall be furnished in advance of the meeting by the appropriate town agency or agencies if any."

Most of the other proposals discussed involved bringing the by-laws into compliance with state statutes and the new charter.

The revision committee will continue to work on the by-laws and plans to come out with a more refined draft before the February special town meeting.

Council on Aging has a display at the library

The Council on Aging has a display depicting the changing image of older adults. Traditionally, the image of an elderly person which flashed into a younger person's mind was probably something like Whistler's mother or grandpa fishing. The contemporary view of older adults shows older people deserting the rocking chair, being actively involved with their communities and families and pursuing meaningful activities.

The general public, both young and old, still retains many myths and stereotypes about the elderly, according to Gretchen Batra, program coordinator, for the Council on Aging. As these myths and stereotypes are corrected, older adults will be freer to contribute to society and society will benefit from the valuable resources which are now being overlooked in the 20 million Americans who are 65 or over.

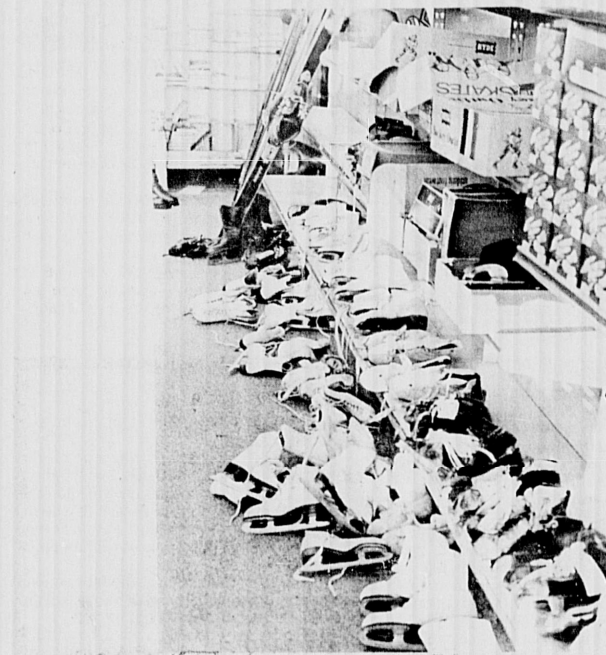

Louis Lowy, professor of Social Work at Boston University, has suggested a number of assumptions about older people which are not part of the ethos of American society, said Ms. Batra. She thinks if these assumptions became a part of people's understanding of human development, we would all be much healthier. For example, aging is normal. We value growing up but speak of growing old with fear. This fear evolves from an image of aging which involves physical illness and living in the past. Secondly, aging is universal. It happens to everyone and is not peculiar to a small portion of the population. Death is the only way to avoid aging.

Older people can learn. The capacity of older people to learn is not diminished, but the patterns of learning change. Speed of learning is slower but probably has deeper meaning as new learnings are integrated with life's experiences.

Older people want to retain self-directing. Often one hears expressions about older people being just like children, and society tends to put the elderly in dependent roles. However, maintaining self direction is usually a chief goal of older people and a major factor in continuing self-respect.

Ms. Batra says there are several handouts available at the library exhibit. One describes the Council on Aging and the Winchester Seniors Association plus the services and activities available to older residents of Winchester. The second handout, she said, contains facts and figures about older Americans which should provide people with some surprising and positive knowledge about older adults.

The Winton Club is offering seniors a reduced rate of $3.50 a seat for its production of "Play It Again, Uncle Sam" on Wednesday, January 28. Call Mrs. Carlson, 729-5238, to reserve tickets.

The Winchester Seniors Association Christmas party succeeded in spite of all the snow. More than 80 persons came to enjoy slides from this year's trips, exchange some popular gifts at the Yankee swap, sing and enjoy cookies.

Lots of plants are thriving on sunny window sills in new homes. Approximately 60-70 plants were adopted in this fall's plant adoption program.

When you are baking cookies, consider baking one or two dozen extra to bring down to the office or to one of the groups you attend. The cookies for WSA events are baked by volunteers and more good cooks are certainly welcome.

YWCA winter term to start January 12

A full range of courses planned to meet the needs and interests of both adults and children will be available during the winter term of the Central Middlesex YWCA.

The public is invited to an open house Thursday, January 8, to see exhibits, speak to instructors and get complete information on courses. Hours will be 10 a.m. to noon and 7 to 9 p.m. The snow date will be January 9.

The Y is located off Lexington st. between Burlington Mall and Burlington center.

The open house will be the first date on which in-person registrations can be made. The deadline for mail registrations is Monday, January 5. Classes will begin January 12, and most will run for 10 weeks. Nursery care is available for mothers attending classes at the Y.

Arts and crafts offerings during the winter term include dollmaking, macramé, "Make It and Take It", nature crafts, oil painting, silver jewelry making and stained glass.

Children will have an opportunity to enjoy theater games, costumes, make-up and the production of a play in Candace Coburn's adventures in theater class.

Other children's activities include arts and crafts, ballet (pre-school, beginner and intermediate), exercise and dance, floor exercises and tumbling, highland dancing, mother and tot gym, physical education, Scottish country dancing and tap dancing.

For information on any of these activities, please call 272-3181.

Open Meeting 'Acts'

The new state open meeting law went into effect January 1.

The law involves every governmental body at municipal, county and state levels and provides for the public's right to know how its business is being conducted.

The Star reprints it as it came from the office of Secretary of State Guzzi for the edification of officials and for the general public.

Section 3, Chapter 39 of the General Laws is hereby amended by striking out sections 23A, 23B and 23C and inserting in place thereof the following three sections:-

Section 23A. The following terms as used in sections twenty-three B and twenty-three C shall have the following meanings:-

"Deliberation," a verbal exchange between a quorum of members of a governmental body attempting to arrive at a decision on any public business within its jurisdiction.

"Emergency," a sudden, generally unexpected occurrence or set of circumstances demanding immediate action.

"Executive session," any meeting of a governmental body which is closed to certain persons for deliberation on certain matters.

"Governmental body," a municipal board, commission, committee or subcommittee, however elected, appointed or otherwise constituted, and the governing board of a local housing, redevelopment or similar authority.

"Meeting," any corporal convening and deliberation of a governmental body for which a quorum is required in order to make a decision at which any public business or public policy matter over which the governmental body has supervision, control, jurisdiction or advisory power is discussed or considered; but shall not include any on-site inspection of any project or program.

"Quorum," a simple majority of a governmental body unless otherwise defined by constitution, charter, rule or law applicable to such governing body.

Section 23B. All meetings of a governmental body shall be open to the public and any person shall be permitted to attend any meeting except as otherwise provided by this section.

No quorum of a governmental body shall meet in private for the purpose of deciding on or deliberating toward a decision on any matter except as provided by this section.

No executive session shall be held until the governmental body has first convened in an open session for which notice has been given, a majority of the members have voted to go into executive session and the vote of each member is recorded on a roll call vote and entered into the minutes, the presiding officer has cited the purpose for an executive session, and the presiding officer has stated before the executive session if the governmental body will reconvene after the executive session.

Nothing except the limitation contained in this section shall be construed to prevent the governmental body from holding an executive session after an open meeting has been convened and a recorded vote been taken to hold an executive session.

Executive sessions may be held only for the following purposes:

(1) To discuss the reputation and character, physical condition or mental health rather than the professional competence of a single individual. A governmental body shall hold an open meeting if the individual involved requests that the meeting be open.

(2) To consider the discipline or dismissal of, or to hear complaints or charges brought against, a public officer, employee, staff member, or individual. A governmental body shall hold an open meeting if the individual involved requests that the meeting be open.

(3) To discuss strategy with respect to collective bargaining or litigation, if an open meeting may have a detrimental effect on the bargaining or litigating position of the governmental body, and to conduct collective bargaining sessions.

(4) To discuss the deployment of security personnel or devices.

(5) To consider allegations of criminal misconduct.

(6) To consider the purchase, exchange, lease or value of real property, if such discussions may have a detrimental effect on the negotiating position of the governmental body and a person, firm or corporation.

(7) To comply with the provisions of any general or special law or federal grant-in-aid requirements.

This section shall not apply to any chance meeting, or a social meeting at which matters relating to official business are discussed so long as no final agreement is reached. No chance meeting or social meeting shall be used in circumvention of the spirit or requirements of this section to discuss or act upon a matter over which the governmental body has supervision, control, jurisdiction, or advisory power.

Except in an emergency, a notice of every meeting of any governmental body shall be filed with the clerk of the city or town in which the body acts, and the notice or a copy thereof shall, at least forty-eight hours, including Saturdays but not Sundays and legal holidays, prior to such meeting, be publicly posted in the office of such clerk or on the principal official bulletin board of such city or town.

The secretary of a regional school district committee shall be considered to be its clerk, and notices of meetings of the committee shall be filed with its secretary and posted in his office or on the principal official bulletin board of the district.

If the meeting shall be of a board, the officer calling the meeting shall file the notice thereof with the clerk of each city and town within such district, and each such clerk shall post the notice in his office or on the principal official bulletin board of the city or town. The notice shall include the date, time and place of such meeting. Such filing and posting shall be the responsibility of the officer calling such meeting.

A governmental body shall maintain accurate records of its meeting, setting forth the date, time, place, members present or absent and action taken at each meeting, including executive sessions. The records of each meeting shall become a public record and be available to the public; provided, however, that the records of any executive session may remain secret, so long as publication may defeat the lawful purposes of the executive session, but no longer.

All votes taken in executive sessions shall be recorded votes and shall become a part of the record of said executive sessions. Upon request of any member of a governmental body, any vote taken in its executive session shall be verified by a roll call.

A meeting of a governmental body may be recorded by any person in attendance by means of a tape recorder or any other means of sonic reproduction except when a meeting is held in executive session; provided, that in such recording there is no active interference with the conduct of the meeting.

Upon qualification for office following an appointment or election to a governmental body, as defined in this section, the member shall be furnished by the city or town clerk with a copy of

It's a dangerous and icy path home from school for this youngster. Winchester was hit by an unusual amount of ice on top of the 28 inches which fell Christmas week. Householders are reminded that they should keep walks clear. It is up to the Highway Department to improve matters in the streets. Some of Winchester's streets are sheer ice. Some warm weather would help, too, of course.

Booze and cigarettes

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Booze and cigarettes.

These two vices are getting worse year after year. Why do people have to drink to be happy. The trouble with booze is, if you take one, then another before you get through you do not function as far as your brain goes, and certainly not as far as your body goes, and your character. Do you ever think when you are driving along in a car the other fellow may be drunk. What a thought that is, if you know what alcohol does to the system.

Now on this other awful vice. Cigarettes. Did you ever have a cold and have someone smoking in the room. I was in a room the other day with a lady who had bronchitis, and her husband was smoking. She choked right up and couldn't stop choking. People who smoke should be considered of the other fellow. If he wants to smoke and shorten his life ok, but why subject everyone else to this breathing problem? For one hope they outlaw booze and cigarettes. Who needs them?

A veteran's thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I want to thank you very much for having my letter published in the Winchester Star. And I want to thank all the wonderful people for sending me cards and letters. I received a good many cards and letters and it made my Christmas a merrier and happier one.

Anyone still wishing to send me a get well card, letter, or a birthday card to cheer me up these long dreary days would be very much appreciated. My birthday is January 19. I will be 51 years old.

Thanks to all.

Some care, some don't

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I want to thank the people who were so kind as to give all those warm blankets and food to the pound for Xmas as well as the rest of this cold winter.

To the Lady in Arlington, who wishes to remain nameless, a special thanks — she saved the day on Christmas. We had 14 puppies all under six weeks and they had food, warmth, and egg nog, plus each other.

To the cruel person who left six tiny puppies in a box, I hope he or she made his resolution to be much kinder and more thoughtful in 1976. It was a cruel and heartless thing to do. Also, may I add my own personal feelings about the person or people who broke in and stole our beat-up old radio and jammed the door and lock, just for meanness. The radio helped with comforting the lonely frightened strays. My fan that was stolen is not needed now, but next summer when it's 95 degrees at night in the pound it will be badly missed.

Don't take it out on the poor defenseless animals, they are so helpless!

Thank you Mrs. Jonas also.

In the mood...

Seed catalogue time's here

By Karen Whittlesey-First

It's true, it's true. There is a spring and a time of flowers. The seed catalogue for a well-known flower and vegetable firm has arrived at the Winchester Public Library.

When the next ten inches of snow start falling and the ice in your driveway won't go away no matter how much salt and sand you put on it, then pull up to the fire, give your rum toddy another stir, and behold spring on the pages of your catalogue.

You can produce a bi-centennial garden of red, white, and blue asters. Or be unique and raise white marigolds which cost the company a quarter of a million dollars in payment to the producer, research, and testing costs, and advertising the event. Like the true black flowers, the true white marigold has eluded growers and does not really exist. This particular marigold is the closest to pure white that has so far been developed.

Vegetables of course are bigger, juicier, more luscious, and easier to grow than ever. The catalogue even gives advice for the youngest gardener and has seed strips available to make placement of tiny seeds from tiny fingers as easy as possible. It seems a little bit like cheating not to put each seed in a special hole you dug yourself, but maybe there is something to be said for the ease of future thinning when the seeds are already spaced in the beginning.

There are trees for every location and fruit trees in three sizes.

How can the pictures look so good? Is it really possible for a person whose house plants wither as soon as the back is turned to produce vegetables for the table, flowers for the living room, and trees for the yard? Every year the same amazing answer comes true — yes it is possible.

Concurrently with perusing the seed catalogue is the desire for some to try locating a bee hive or two in the front or back yard.

The constant fascination and satisfaction in watching these social insects perform feats of communication is one of the wonders of nature readily available to householders in the suburbs.

In relatively little space and with a minimum of equipment it is possible to enjoy a recurring spectacle and at the same time benefit from the honey production of the hive.

Flowers and bees are essential for each other, of course, and so the annual reading of the seed catalogue could very well instill ideas of beekeeping in your mind. There are a few beekeepers in Winchester, some with several hives and others with one. Bees are of benefit not only to the honey lover, but also to his neighbors, whose flowers and vegetables and trees will produce a larger crop than they would without bees nearby.

Whether bees and flowers are your thing or not, it's fun to consider that winter will end and spring will start on schedule in a couple of months.

Town watch...

Hello Central? Give me...

By The Observer

The Star was informed by a citizen who keeps a very close eye on town affairs that the Finance Committee, in its search for ways to cut spending in town, would take the air packs from the fire department.

Chief McElhinney, denying the rumor has any basis, said that the department needs the 18 air packs it has on hand.

"Some men in other departments don't like to use them for psychological or physical reasons," the chief said. "Almost all our men use them, though. They train with the air packs and feel comfortable with them. We have more than the minimum requirement of two per apparatus, but we need them."

Air packs are carried on the backs of the firefighters to assist them in rescue operations where breathing is difficult or impossible. Town Manager Thomas J. Groux has found a place to live in Winchester — not a house yet, but at least an apartment. Meanwhile the search goes on. Parking was a problem Monday night at Town Hall. No, it was not a sudden surge of interest in the happenings of the Board of Selectmen. Response to Town Manager Groux's invitation to speak before the board any Monday night has been dismally bad. No, the parking problem was caused by the Winton Club tryouts for their annual cabaret.

Arthur Dunbar expressed his exasperation with the transfer station problems. He said, "Until the EPA told us we had a bad incineration system, I thought we had a pretty good one. There's nothing wrong with the way this town disposes of its rubbish. Now it's going to cost us maybe half a million dollars for something I'm not convinced we need."

BICENTENNIAL DISPATCH

By Donna W. Curtis

"The inhabitants of South Woburn and vicinity are hereby requested to meet at the vestry of the Congregational Church on Monday, Nov. 26th at 6:00 o'clock p.m. to take into consideration the subject of petitioning the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation into a separate Town; or to do anything in relation to the same.

South Woburn
Nov. 20, 1849."

With the posting of this notice the citizens of South Woburn had for the first time publicly announced their intentions to incorporate a new community.

It was almost ten years since the Congregational Church of Woburn had split much to the dismay of the older church. Ill feelings intensified when the South Woburn Church requested that an endowment fund belonging to the Woburn church be divided between the two on "moral" grounds.

The South Woburn church had no legal grounds for its request. The Woburn church curtly refused. This disappointed and annoyed the South Woburn church. It, in turn, sent a strong statement back to the older church. The Woburn church, in turn, chose to ignore the statement. The only result was more ill feelings on both sides.

Another financial disagreement was to involve the "Surplus Fund" which was Woburn's share of the money that had filtered down from the federal government through the state government to town level when the federal government found a surplus of funds in its treasury. An argument ensued as to how this money should be used. Conservatives, many were from South Woburn, wanted the money spent on town expenses

The start of a new town

thus reducing the tax rate. Others wanted the money equally divided among the voters. After a long struggle the conservatives won. It left these conservatives, according to Chapman's History of Winchester, "very suspicious of the 'radical' tendencies among the Woburn electorate."

Another confrontation concerned the construction, in 1845, of Pleasant street (now Mr. Vernon street on the town side of Washington street).

South Woburn residents were tired of traveling an unnecessary half mile on Washington and Main streets to reach the town center. They petitioned for the construction of Pleasant street. The Selectmen of Woburn strongly objected to the proposed street. According to Chapman's History, during a County Commissioners' meeting on the proposal, one selectman, Bartholemew Richardson, "became so abusive that one of the commissioners threatened him with a libel suit." The street was built but again it was one more item to fuel animosities between the two communities.

The South Woburn citizen was another strong reason for the inevitable separation of his community from that of Woburn. South Woburn was a growing community which attracted residents from many towns other than Woburn. These people felt no great attachment or sentiment for the Town of Woburn. South Woburn residents were mostly conservative (Whigs) where as Woburn was strongly Democratic. Therefore when the Whig party came into power in Massachusetts in 1848, the South Woburn residents began to realize that their chance was upon them.

The notice of Nov. 1849 was posted. Thus began the legal process by which South Woburn would soon become Winchester.

'Play it Again, Uncle Sam'

Winton Club holds first rehearsal for '76 show

It was a cold, clear night in Winchester, but inside the Town Hall it was warm, noisy and merry - everyone smiling and ready for rehearsals for the 1976 Cabaret. This year's show, the 55th Winton Club

Cabaret, is called "Play It Again, Uncle Sam," and it is Winchester's answer to the Bicentennial. The Cabaret will run from Tuesday, January 27 through Saturday, January 31. Singers and dancers from Andover, Woburn, Arlington, Waltham, Weymouth, Harvard, Stoneham, Lowell, Malden, Medford, Wilmington as well as Winchester demonstrated their talents for this year's director, Gary

Very simply, the alternatives are increases in local property taxes or reduction in municipal services. It also means that by returning to the old system of so-called "categorical" federal grants, small towns will be at a disadvantage in competing for the federal dollar.

The Selectmen's Association has urged your local selectmen to contact their congressmen to fight for renewal of General Revenue Sharing. They need your support in this effort. It is important to you, as a taxpayer, to contact your U.S. Senators and Congressmen to remind them that if they fail to actively support revenue sharing renewal, they will be responsible for higher property tax bills in your community next year or a reduction in the municipal services on which you and your neighbors depend.

Special thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On behalf of the officers of the National Honor Society and the faculty advisor, Dr. Clifton Wheeler, I would like to thank everyone in town who bought chances for our December 19 drawing of a color television set.

Thanks go to Mr. Jack Sutherland for donating all the drawing tickets. I would also like to thank Mr. Hugh LaFauci of Winchester Television and Music who provided the television set and those members of the National Honor Society who gave their time and energy to sell the tickets. Without all these people the drawing never could have been a success.

The family of Rev. George Easton of Winchester won the color television set and they had it in time for Christmas.

Water quality

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I have been informed that the Waton Department plans to have the E.P.A. test Winchester's drinking water for potential health hazard chemicals in their laboratories in Cincinnati. It is important we know what we are drinking to determine what precautions are necessary. These tests will be quite timely in view of a recent Washington news release that air pollution and chemicals in drinking water account for a good percentage of cancer and heart disease.

Whether dangerous chemicals are found or not, something must be done about the filth that comes out of the tap. The quality of the town's water is steadily decreasing. The Water Department claimed that the poor water quality was due to the cleaning of the storage tanks. Two months have passed since the cleaning was done but the poor water quality remains the same.

I had a water purifier installed in my home to correct this problem. Due to the impurities in the water, the purifier cartridge needs frequent changing. Friends of mine in neighboring towns with the same purifier do not have this frequent changing problem.

My cartridge replacement is five times to their one which indicates the comparison of water quality. This problem exists with those who have purifiers in town on the Winchester water supply. The west side of town is supplied by the M.D.C. Water Works and shows a much better quality of water. It is surprising that the State Testing Laboratories who make frequent tests here haven't notice this problem.

It is clear that our town needs a water filtration system to improve the water quality for all to enjoy and not only for those who can afford a home water purifier. Pure water is important for good health. Therefore, I would like to see improvements made for a better and healthier community.

Open Meeting 'Acts'

The new state open meeting law went into effect January 1.

The law involves every governmental body at municipal, county and state levels and provides for the public's right to know how its business is being conducted.

The Star reprints it as it came from the office of Secretary of State Guzzi for the edification of officials and for the general public.

Section 3. Chapter 39 of the General Laws is hereby amended by striking out sections 23A, 23B and 23C and inserting in place thereof the following three sections:-

Section 23A. The following terms as used in sections twenty-three B and twenty-three C shall have the following meanings:-

"Deliberation," a verbal exchange between a quorum of members of a governmental body attempting to arrive at a decision on any public business within its jurisdiction.

"Emergency," a sudden, generally unexpected occurrence or set of circumstances demanding immediate action.

"Executive session," any meeting of a governmental body which is closed to certain persons for deliberation on certain matters.

"Governmental body," a municipal board, commission, committee or subcommittee, however elected, appointed or otherwise constituted, and the governing board of a local housing, redevelopment or similar authority.

"Meeting," any corporal convening and deliberation of a governmental body for which a quorum is required in order to make a decision at which any public business or public policy matter over which the governmental body has supervision, control, jurisdiction or advisory power is discussed or considered; but shall not include any on-site inspection of any project or program.

"Quorum," a simple majority of a governmental body unless otherwise defined by constitution, charter, rule or law applicable to such governing body.

Section 23B. All meetings of a governmental body shall be open to the public and any person shall be permitted to attend any meeting except as otherwise provided by this section.

No quorum of a governmental body shall meet in private for the purpose of deciding on or deliberating toward a decision on any matter except as provided by this section.

No executive session shall be held until the governmental body has first convened in an open session for which notice has been given, a majority of the members have voted to go into executive session and the vote of each member is recorded on a roll call vote and entered into the minutes, the presiding officer has cited the purpose for an executive session, and the presiding officer has stated before the executive session if the governmental body will reconvene after the executive session.

Nothing except the limitation contained in this section shall be construed to prevent the governmental body from holding an executive session after an open meeting has been convened and a recorded vote been taken to hold an executive session.

Executive sessions may be held only for the following purposes:

(1) To discuss the reputation and character, physical condition or mental health rather than the professional competence of a single individual. A governmental body shall hold an open meeting if the individual involved requests that the meeting be open.

(2) To consider the discipline or dismissal of, or to hear complaints or charges brought against, a public officer, employee, staff member, or individual. A governmental body shall hold an open meeting if the individual involved requests that the meeting be open.

(3) To discuss strategy with respect to collective bargaining or litigation, if an open meeting may have a detrimental effect on the bargaining or litigating position of the governmental body, and to conduct collective bargaining sessions.

(4) To discuss the deployment of security personnel or devices.

(5) To consider allegations of criminal misconduct.

(6) To consider the purchase, exchange, lease or value of real property, if such discussions may have a detrimental effect on the negotiating position of the governmental body and a person, firm or corporation.

(7) To comply with the provisions of any general or special law or federal grant-in-aid requirements.

This section shall not apply to any chance meeting, or a social meeting at which matters relating to official business are discussed so long as no final agreement is reached. No chance meeting or social meeting shall be used in circumvention of the spirit or requirements of this section to discuss or act upon a matter over which the governmental body has supervision, control, jurisdiction, or advisory power.

Except in an emergency, a notice of every meeting of any governmental body shall be filed with the clerk of the city or town in which the body acts, and the notice or a copy thereof shall, at least forty-eight hours, including Saturdays but not Sundays and legal holidays, prior to such meeting, be publicly posted in the office of such clerk or on the principal official bulletin board of such city or town.

The secretary of a regional school district committee shall be considered to be its clerk, and notices of meetings of the committee shall be filed with its secretary and posted in his office or on the principal official bulletin board of the district.

If the meeting shall be of a board, the officer calling the meeting shall file the notice thereof with the clerk of each city and town within such district, and each such clerk shall post the notice in his office or on the principal official bulletin board of the city or town. The notice shall include the date, time and place of such meeting. Such filing and posting shall be the responsibility of the officer calling such meeting.

A governmental body shall maintain accurate records of its meeting, setting forth the date, time, place, members present or absent and action taken at each meeting, including executive sessions. The records of each meeting shall become a public record and be available to the public; provided, however, that the records of any executive session may remain secret, so long as publication may defeat the lawful purposes of the executive session, but no longer.

All votes taken in executive sessions shall be recorded votes and shall become a part of the record of said executive sessions. Upon request of any member of a governmental body, any vote taken in its executive session shall be verified by a roll call.

A meeting of a governmental body may be recorded by any person in attendance by means of a tape recorder or any other means of sonic reproduction except when a meeting is held in executive session; provided, that in such recording there is no active interference with the conduct of the meeting.

Upon qualification for office following an appointment or election to a governmental body, as defined in this section, the member shall be furnished by the city or town clerk with a copy of

It's a dangerous and icy path home from school for this youngster. Winchester was hit by an unusual amount of ice on top of the 28 inches which fell Christmas week. Householders are reminded that they should keep walks clear. It is up to the Highway Department to improve matters in the streets. Some of Winchester's streets are sheer ice. Some warm weather would help, too, of course.

Booze and cigarettes

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Booze and cigarettes.

These two vices are getting worse year after year. Why do people have to drink to be happy. The trouble with booze is, if you take one, then another before you get through you do not function as far as your brain goes, and certainly not as far as your body goes, and your character. Do you ever think when you are driving along in a car the other fellow may be drunk. What a thought that is, if you know what alcohol does to the system.

Now on this other awful vice. Cigarettes. Did you ever have a cold and have someone smoking in the room. I was in a room the other day with a lady who had bronchitis, and her husband was smoking. She choked right up and couldn't stop coughing. People who smoke should be considered of the other fellow. If he wants to smoke and shorten his life ok, but why subject everyone else to this breathing problem? I for one hope they outlaw booze and cigarettes. Who needs them?

A veteran's thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I want to thank you very much for having my letter published in the Winchester Star. And I want to thank all the wonderful people for sending me cards and letters. I received a good many cards and letters and it made my Christmas a merrier and happier one.

Anyone still wishing to send me a get well card, letter, or a birthday card to cheer me up these long dreary days would be very much appreciated. My birthday is January 19. I will be 51 years old.

Thanks to all.

Some care, some don't

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I want to thank the people who were so kind as to give all those warm blankets and food to the pound for Xmas as well as the rest of this cold winter.

To the Lady in Arlington, who wishes to remain nameless, a special thanks — she saved the day on Christmas. We had 14 puppies all under six weeks and they had food, warmth, and egg nog, plus each other.

To the cruel person who left six tiny puppies in a box, I hope he or she made his resolution to be much kinder and more thoughtful in 1976. It was a cruel and heartless thing to do. Also, may I add my own personal feelings about the person or people who broke in and stole our beat-up old radio and jimmied the door and lock, just for meanness. The radio helped with comforting the lonely frightened strays. My fan that was stolen is not needed now, but next summer when it's 95 degrees at night in the pound it will be badly missed.

Don't take it out on the poor defenseless animals, they are so helpless!

Thank you Mrs. Jonas also.

In the mood...

Seed catalogue time's here

By Karen Whitlesey-First

It's true, it's true. There is a spring and a time of flowers. The seed catalogue for a well-known flower and vegetable firm has arrived at the Winchester Public Library.

When the next ten inches of snow start falling and the ice in your driveway won't go away no matter how much salt and sand you put on it, then pull up to the fire, give your rum toddy another stir, and behold spring on the pages of your catalogue.

You can produce a bicentennial garden of red, white, and blue asters. Or be unique and raise white marigolds which cost the company a quarter of a million dollars in payment to the producer, research, and testing costs, and advertising the event. Like the true black flowers, the true white marigold has eluded growers and does not really exist. This particular marigold is the closest to pure white that has so far been developed.

Vegetables of course are bigger, juicier, more luscious, and easier to grow than ever. The catalogue even gives advice for the youngest gardener and has seed strips available to make placement of tiny seeds from tiny fingers as easy as possible. It seems a little bit like cheating not to put each seed in a special hole you dug yourself, but maybe there is something to be said for the ease of future thinning when the seeds are already spaced in the beginning.

There are trees for every location and fruit trees in three sizes.

How can the pictures look so good? Is it really possible for a person whose house plants wither as soon as the back is turned to produce vegetables for the table, flowers for the living room, and trees for the yard? Every year the same amazing answer comes true — yes it is possible.

Concurrently with perusing the seed catalogue is the desire for some to try locating a bee hive or two in the front or back yard.

The constant fascination and satisfaction in watching these social insects perform feats of communication is one of the wonders of nature readily available to householders in the suburbs.

In relatively little space and with a minimum of equipment it is possible to enjoy a recurring spectacle and at the same time to benefit from the honey production of the hive.

Flowers and bees are essential for each other, of course, and so the annual reading of the seed catalogue could very well instill ideas of beekeeping in your mind. There are a few beekeepers in Winchester, some with several hives and others with one. Bees are of benefit not only to the honey lover, but also to his neighbors, whose flowers and vegetables and trees will produce a larger crop than they would without bees nearby.

Whether bees and flowers are your thing or not, it's fun to consider that winter will end and spring will start on schedule in a couple of months.

Town watch...

Hello Central? Give me...

By The Observer

The Star was informed by a citizen who keeps a very close eye on town affairs that the Finance Committee, in its search for ways to cut spending in town, would take the air packs from the fire department.

Chief McElhinney, denying the rumor has any basis, said that the department needs the 18 air packs it has on hand.

"Some men in other departments don't like to use them for psychological or physical reasons," the chief said. "Almost all our men use them, though. They train with the air packs and feel comfortable with them. We have more than the minimum requirement of two per apparatus, but we need them."

Air packs are carried on the backs of the firefighters, to assist them in rescue operations where breathing is difficult or impossible. Town Manager Thomas J. Groux has found a place to live in Winchester — not a house yet, but at least an apartment. Meanwhile the search goes on. Parking was a problem Monday night at Town Hall. No, it was not a sudden surge of interest in the happenings of the Board of Selectmen. Response to Town Manager Groux's invitation to speak before the board any Monday night has been dimly bad. No, the parking problem was caused by the Winton Club tryouts for their annual cabaret.

Arthur Dunbar expressed his exasperation with the transfer station problems. He said, "Until the EPA told us we had a bad incineration system, I thought we had a pretty good one. There's nothing wrong with the way this town disposes of its rubbish. Now it's going to cost us maybe half a million dollars for something I'm not convinced we need."

In the it's-about-time-department: This should be especially helpful to

By Donna W. Curtis

"The inhabitants of South Woburn and vicinity are hereby requested to meet at the vestry of the Congregational Church on Monday, Nov. 26th at 6 1/2 o'clock p.m. to take into consideration the subject of petitioning the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation into a separate Town; or to do anything in relation to the same.

South Woburn Nov. 20, 1849."

With the posting of this notice the citizens of South Woburn had for the first time publicly announced their intentions to incorporate a new community.

It was almost ten years since the Congregational Church of Woburn had split much to the dismay of the older church. Ill feelings intensified when the South Woburn Church requested that an endowment fund belonging to the Woburn church be divided between the two on "moral" grounds.

The South Woburn church had no legal grounds for its request. The Woburn church curiously refused. This disappointed and annoyed the South Woburn church. It, in turn, sent a strong statement back to the older church. The Woburn church, in turn, chose to ignore the statement. The only result was more ill feelings on both sides.

Another financial disagreement was to involve the "Surplus Fund" which was Woburn's share of the money that had filtered down from the federal government through the state government to town level when the federal government found a surplus of funds in its treasury. An argument ensued as to how this money should be used. Conservatives, many were from South Woburn, wanted the money spent on town expenses parents with a houseful of kids scratching their heads every time the telephone bill arrives.

New England Telephone is introducing a new bill this month.

In addition to the usual information, the bill will show the time of connection, length of the call in minutes, and symbols will show the type of call made (whether person-to-person, station-to-station, etc.), and any discount allowed if the call was made at certain times of the day.

A complete explanation of the rate periods and discount symbol of long distance calls in and out of state will be shown.

While you may no longer have to scratch your head in wonder and confusion, you'll still probably be able to sigh about the cost. Making it any easier to understand won't make it any easier to pay.

There's another welcome note here:

The federal excise tax has declined one per cent — from 7 to 6 on bill sent out after the first of the year. It will continue to fall one per cent per year until it disappears entirely six years from now.

There is an oddity of omission here that requires mention:

The release with all of this important information didn't mention whether this same new type of bill will also go to businesses, or more important from a citizen view, to the Town Hall and town departments.

We thought we'd better call the party responsible for the release and find out.

Guess what? There's no telephone number listed on the two-page release. No address either.

Now, if the phone company could only get the people who figure out what to put on their bills what to include in their releases...

"Information, please!"

Or is that Directory Assistance?

The start of a new town

thus reducing the tax rate. Others wanted the money equally divided among the voters. After a long struggle the conservatives won. It left these conservatives, according to Chapman's History of Winchester, "very suspicious of the 'radical' tendencies among the Woburn electorate."

Another confrontation concerned the construction, in 1845, of Pleasant street (now Mr. Vernon street on the town side of Washington street).

South Woburn residents were tired of traveling an unnecessary half mile on Washington and Main streets to reach the town center. They petitioned for the construction of Pleasant street. The Selectmen of Woburn strongly objected to the proposed street. According to Chapman's History, during a County Commissioners' meeting on the proposal, one selectman, Bartholemew Richardson, "became so abusive that a libel suit." The street was built but again it was one more item to fuel animosities between the two communities.

The South Woburn citizen was another strong reason for the inevitable separation of his community from that of Woburn. South Woburn was a growing community which attracted residents from many towns other than Woburn. These people felt no great attachment or sentiment for the Town of Woburn. South Woburn residents were mostly conservative (Whigs) where as Woburn was strongly Democratic. Therefore when the Whig party came into power in Massachusetts in 1848, the South Woburn residents began to realize that their chance was upon them.

The notice of Nov. 1849 was posted. Thus began the legal process by which South Woburn would soon become Winchester.

'Play it Again, Uncle Sam'

Winton Club holds first rehearsal for '76 show

It was a cold, clear night in Winchester, but inside the Town Hall it was warm, noisy and merry — everyone smiling and ready for rehearsals for the 1976 Cabaret. This year's show, the 55th Winton Club Cabaret, is called "Play It Again, Uncle Sam," and it is Winchester's answer to the Bicentennial. The Cabaret will run from Tuesday, January 27 through Saturday, January 31. Singers and dancers from Andover, Woburn, Arlington, Waltham, Weymouth, Harvard, Stoneham, Lowell, Malden, Medford, Wilmington as well as Winchester demonstrated their talents for this year's director, Gary

Very simply, the alternatives are increases in local property taxes or reduction in municipal services. It also means that by returning to the old system of so-called "categorical" federal grants, small towns will be at a disadvantage in competing for the federal dollar.

The Selectmen's Association has urged our local selectmen to contact their congressmen to fight for renewal of General Revenue Sharing. They need your support in this effort. It is important to you, as a taxpayer, to contact your U.S. Senators and Congressmen to remind them that if they fail to actively support revenue sharing renewal, they will be responsible for higher property tax bills in your community next year or a reduction in the municipal services on which you and your neighbors depend.

Richard T. Moore,
President
Massachusetts Selectmen's Association

Special thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On behalf of the officers of the National Honor Society and the faculty advisor, Dr. Clifton Wheeler, I would like to thank everyone in town who bought chances for our December 19 drawing of a color television set.

Thanks go to Mr. Jack Sutherland for donating all the drawing tickets. I would also like to thank Mr. Hugh LaFauci of Winchester Television and Music who provided the television set and those members of the National Honor Society who gave their time and energy to sell the tickets. Without all these people the drawing never could have been a success.

The family of Rev. George Easton of Winchester won the color television set and they had it in time for Christmas.

Water quality

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I have been informed that the Water Department plans to have the E.P.A. test Winchester's drinking water for potential health hazard chemicals in their laboratories in Cincinnati. It is important we know what we are drinking to determine what precautions are necessary. These tests will be quite timely in view of a recent Washington news release that air pollution and chemicals in drinking water account for a good percentage of cancer and heart disease.

Whether dangerous chemicals are found or not, something must be done about the filth that comes out of the tap. The quality of the town's water is steadily decreasing. The Water Department claimed that the poor water quality was due to the cleaning of the storage tanks. Two months have passed since the cleaning was done but the poor water quality remains the same.

I had a water purifier installed in my home to correct this problem. Due to the many impurities in the water, the purifier cartridge needs frequent changing. Friends of mine in neighboring towns with the same purifier do not have this frequent changing problem.

My cartridge replacement is five times to their one which indicates the comparison of water quality. This problem exists with those who have purifiers in town on the Winchester water supply. The west side of town is supplied by the M.D.C. Water Works and shows a much better quality of water. It is surprising that the State Testing Laboratories who make frequent tests here haven't noticed this problem.

It is clear that our town needs a water filtration system to improve the water quality for all to enjoy and not only for those who can afford a home water purifier. Pure water is important for good health. Therefore, I would like to see improvements made for a better and healthier community.

Winchester man named president of realtor group

Wesley B. Swanson, of Winchester, has been elected president of Brokers Institute, a major division of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board according to Donald C. Dolben, president of the board.

Swanson will serve for one year as the leader of the 1200-member division. Dolben pointed out that this is not a paid position, and Swanson is only motivated by his desire to see the professionalism of the real estate industry grow.

W. B. Swanson

Swanson is the owner of Swanson Associates in Winchester, a company specializing in residential real estate. Since joining the Greater Boston Real Estate Board in 1966, he has taken an active leadership role. Positions and offices held by Swanson include: president of his local Realtor Council L, treasurer of Council L, director of Council L, vice president of Brokers Institute, president of the Multiple Listing Service (MLS is a major division of the Real Estate Board), director of MLS, chairman of the MLS Finance Committee, member of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board's Finance Committee, and a member of the board's directors.

In addition he is a past director of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, a past member of MAR's Legislative Committee, and a member of the National Association of Realtors.

A community-minded individual, he is a member of the First Congregational Church in Boxford's Board of Deacons, the Winchester Rotary, a past assistant cub-master in the Boxford Boy Scouts, worked in a drug rehabilitation program at the Cita Center for Boys in Lawrence, and is a member of several Masonic Temples, including Aleppo Temple, which maintains the Shriners Burns Institute at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Swanson attended Burdett College in Boston and as a naval veteran served in the Korean War. He is also a graduate of the Realtors Institute of Massachusetts (GRI) and has been awarded membership in the MLS Million Dollar Club. A resident of both Boxford and Winchester, he and his wife, Velvin have two children: Jennifer, 16, and Bradford, 10.

New Volkswagen dealer in Woburn

Jim DiCostanzo

Woburn Volkswagen is now the official Volkswagen dealership in Woburn, and James G. DiCostanzo is the new Volkswagen dealer.

Jim DiCostanzo is no stranger to the automobile business, having served in it for over 20 years. His career began in 1955 at Heywood Ford in Worcester where he soon became the top Ford salesman in the Worcester area.

In 1965, Jim became President of the then mammoth Natick Dodge and Natick Leasing Company, one of the largest automobile operations of its type in the entire USA.

He joined the Peter Fuller organization of Boston in 1969 and served, alternately, as Cadillac manager and Oldsmobile manager.

Since leaving the Fuller agency in 1974, Jim has traveled all over the United States serving as a consultant to all types of automobile dealerships.

Woburn Volkswagen is located at what was previously the John A. Harrison, Inc. VW Agency on Lexington Street, just off Route 3 in Woburn.

Former student revives an ancient art for profitability

Sue Kowaleski of 227 Pond st. displays her individually designed and handcrafted product—brightly colored tie-dye apparel.

When Sue Kowaleski of 227 Pond st. graduated in 1973 from Boston University in sociology, she didn't take the usual route of becoming an employee in the workaday world.

Instead she practices an art done for centuries in China, Japan and Peru—tie-dyeing. This craft has since been revitalized by young people during the late sixties "doing their own thing."

She prefers initiating her own enterprise to getting up at 7 a.m., going into work at a fixed time and toiling with all the profit of her energies going to someone else.

A friend, Deborah Horsey of Dorchester, introduced Sue to tie-dyeing, when she had a large wholesale order to get out quickly. Sue enjoyed it so much that they joined in partnership. "It's such a nice feeling being able to look at something that you've created," she enthuses.

Currently creating matching top and bottom baby outfits, children's t-shirts and adult t-shirts, Sue hopes to expand into other products—one idea is to tie-dye lampshades. Their products are sold through Lady Madonna Maternity Boutique on Newbury Street in Boston, at major arts and crafts shows throughout New England, and in front of Boston University.

Sue says that when she sells in front of B.U. her alma mater, she hears such comments as "look at them, they're so poor they have to peddle."

"It's then that I inform them that I'm a graduate of B.U. and that even if you graduate from this grand school, you may not find a job which suits you," laughs Sue.

She and other B.U. graduates operating there find the location to be a profitable one. She claims that students are more apt than other age groups to purchase items for themselves.

The two female entrepreneurs hope to expand their craft into a full time operation by February through expansion of their wholesale business.

Besides tie-dyeing, Sue also teaches swimming at the Burlington YMCA, and does volunteer work at a Medford day care center. As an art project, she plans to let the little ones try their hands at her crafts.

Although she disavows any artistic bent, designing the garments comes easily to her. But Sue says, "As much fun as our work is, if we couldn't make it worthwhile financially, we wouldn't be tie-dyeing."

Cost of materials for the enterprise are minimal. But considering the knowledge and craftsmanship involved she doesn't appreciate such customer comments as, "Oh, I could make that for 45 cents."

The two partners have invested time in their product. Sue says she spends at least a half hour on each garment, not counting waiting time while the garments go through various color baths.

Basic materials include rubberbands, professional dyes, 100 percent cotton garments and a washing machine to transform the stark white to bright rainbow hues. Salt and washing soda are added to activate the dye and fix the colors.

The process involves folding sections of fabric and then tying off with rubber bands. This prevents sections of fabric from absorbing dye, giving an undyed pattern on a dyed background. After the fabric is pinched up and banded tightly, it is then immersed into a dye solution.

Each garment goes into at least two different dye baths. For this reason they prefer working with small children's sizes, as they can do more articles of clothing per dye lot. Sue is adamant that preplanning is the most important step in creating a pleasing finished product. "First of all you have to figure out what you want the shirt to look like," she advises.

Certain patterns are tried first on paper with a dressmaker's wheel, which leaves a colored impression on paper. Different effects can also be created by moving the elastics between steps of dyeing.

The folding of material is also a crucial step in tie-dyeing—perhaps borrowed from the Japanese paper folding art of origami, in which specific designs are repeated. Fabric is folded into fan pleats (or in half or fourths), and then tightly banded.

As in any occupation, there are certain perils to the tie-dye craft which can mar the expected results.

Sometimes when the elastics are cut, scissors leave almost invisible holes in the fabric. In this case they mend and mark down their product. Sue says, "I feel bad and very unprofessional if someone spots a little hole in the garments. We try to be very careful."

If the elastics are not tight enough, dye can seep through. Or, when they cover part of a garment with plastic to resist the dye, the plastic sometimes has small holes in it, giving the same unfortunate results. Sometimes these can be rectified with navy blue dye, says Sue.

Another peril is spilling the powdered dye and getting specks of color on clothes from the mixing of the dye. When a drop of water mixes with the dye, you might find splashes of color on an item you'd least suspect," she warns.

Besides the tie-dye process, Sue also enjoys the personal contact with some of her customers.

"I get the most satisfaction from my work when a browser comes up to me, perhaps without making a purchase, and tells me how much he or she admires our product," she says.

Course teaches how to operate day-care facility

Operating a day care facility in your home is a profit-making business which fills a real community need. The skills needed to set up and run such a facility will be taught in a special course beginning January 12 at the Central Middlesex YWCA, located off Lexington st. between Burlington Mall and Burlington center.

Classes will be held on Mondays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for a ten-week period. They will be taught by Carol Lietch, a staff member of the family day care program affiliated with Massachusetts Mental Health. Normal child development and activities for mixed age groups will be covered, and licensing and certification will be granted upon completion of the course. Registration for the course

Girl's skill in fashion helps win contest

Two young women from Winchester High School recently won a make-it-yourself clothing competition in Pittsfield, N.H. Suzanne Worth, 17 Edgehill rd., was one of two winners in the Junior division, while Ellen Franklin shared first place for the Seniors with a New Hampshire girl.

The participants in the New Hampshire Make It Yourself With Wool contest came from all over New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Ms. Worth won with a bright red coat; Ms. Franklin had made herself a green and black plaid, two-piece outfit. The contest consisted of 47 garments being judged on and off the girl for fashion, fabric, color, workmanship, fit, and poise, as well as being a style show.

Suzanne Worth, left, and Ellen Franklin model the outfits that won first place in the "Make it with Wool" contest held recently in Pittsfield, N.H.

and for nursery care, if needed. For further information, should be made in advance, please call the Y office.

Mrs. Susan Geller McGuigan

Geller-McGuigan take vows in December 14 ceremony

Susan Eve Geller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Geller of 94 Pleasant st., Medford, was married December 14 to John Joseph McGuigan III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McGuigan Jr., 9 Grove pl.

The Rev. Dean Benedict presided over the afternoon ceremony at Valle's Restaurant in Newton where the reception was also held. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown by Priscilla, an ivory alencon lace bodice and full skirt with cathedral train, victorian neckline, bonnet sleeves and matching alencon lace and net mantilla.

The bride's flowers were a victorian nosegay of pink and cream tea roses, baby's breath, and holly.

The maid of honor was her sister, Barbara

Geller, who wore a Christmas green jersey with empire waist. She carried a nosegay of red roses and minuet roses.

Ann McGuigan, the groom's sister, was a bridesmaid. She also wore a Christmas green jersey with empire waist and carried red roses with minuet accents.

Richard Chandler of Winchester, N.H., was the best man. N. Douglas MacLennan of Waltham was the usher.

The bride attended Mass. Bay Community College and is a 1974 graduate of Framingham State College.

Mr. McGuigan, a manager at the Baker Shoe Store in Peabody, graduated from Babson College in 1973.

The couple plan to live in Waltham.

Mary Elizabeth Belliveau

Miss Belliveau to marry Mr. Swanson this June

Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Belliveau of 6 Euclid Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Richard Sprague Swanson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Parkhurst of 5 Hawthorne Road.

Miss Belliveau, a 1972 graduate of Winchester High School, is a senior at the University of Vermont.

Also a 1972 graduate of Winchester High School, Mr. Swanson, son of the late Robert Lindsey Swanson, will graduate from Harvard College in June.

A June 19th wedding is planned.

Miss Millican to wed in June

Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Millican announce the engagement of their daughter Katharyn to Mr. Christopher E. Harlow.

Miss Millican is a student at the University of Vermont. Mr. Harlow is a member of the faculty at Governor Dummer Academy. A June wedding is planned.

Kean-Moris nuptials held November 8 at St. Mary's

Miss Claudia Moris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Moris of Red Gate Lane, Meredith, N.H., was united in marriage to Peter K. Kean of 703 Washington St. on Nov. 8.

Father "Bert" Richman and Father Bernard Hoy of Providence, R.I. and St. Mary's Church, respectively, officiated at the two o'clock nuptials held at St. Mary's Church. Richard Moris, brother of the bride assisted at the altar. Yellow mums, and bronze and yellow poms decorated the church altar. Organist was Mrs. Daschbach of Winchester.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white crocheted British-style Redingote with train. Underneath the coat, the bride wore a white satin princess-style gown. Her veil featured a crocheted crown-style cap. The wedding coat and veil were styled from motifs crocheted, then sewn together by the bride, her mother, and Mrs. Winifred Hardy of Meredith, N.H. The bride carried a bouquet of dried golden mums, assorted dried and silk flowers and statice, complimented with pheasant feathers and bamboo stalks.

Milissa Moris attended her sister as maid of honor wearing a wine double-knit empire gown. She carried a basket of dried golden mums, assorted wine dried and silk flowers and statice, complimented with pheasant feathers.

Attending as bridesmaids were Miss Susan Enright of Meredith, N.H. and Miss Debra Westcott of Hudson, N.H. They were attired in forest green gowns, identical in style to the maid of honor's. Both carried baskets of dried golden mums, assorted forest green dried and silk flowers, complimented with pheasant feathers.

Laura Kean, niece of the bridegroom served as flower girl. She wore a long-sleeved pink gown, trimmed with white lace. Her basket was made up of pink dried and silk flowers, statice and pheasant feathers. She wore a long-sleeved pink gown, trimmed with white lace.

The bride's bouquet, girl's baskets and church flowers were designed and created by Jack Kean, brother of the groom.

Best man was Robert Connolly of Woburn. Ushers were Richard Barrett of Arlington and Craig Tattersall of Nashua, N.H.

A garden reception followed at the home of the groom's parents where a buffet luncheon was prepared and enjoyed by family and friends. Jack and George Kean, brother of the groom are to be given credit for beautifully decorating the Kean Home. The guest book and good-luck favors were presented by flower girl, Laura Kean.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moris selected a peach gown complimented by a matching chiffon floor-length cape, while Mrs. Kean chose a grey gown complimented by a matching floor-length coat trimmed with gold braid. Both wore corsages of white orchids.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Inter-Lakes High School in Meredith, and a 1973 graduate of the New England Aeronautical Institute in

Mr. & Mrs. Kean

Nashua, N.H. She is employed in the bookkeeping department of the Myopia Hunt Club in Sol Hamilton.

Her husband is a 1970 graduate of Winchester High School. He is employed as an assistant golf professional at the Myopia Hunt Club.

Following the reception, the newlyweds left for a two-week honeymoon to Florida.

Women's GOP Club holds Yule tea

The Winchester Women's Republican Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Gustav Kaufmann for its annual Christmas Tea.

A highlight of the affair was the presentation of new members, Mesdames John Coakley, Marianne Derro, John Finamore, Joseph Georgis, George Gowdy, William Lang, Horace Pugh, Antonio Tambone, Miss Clara Hewis and Rev. Jacqueline Mills.

Ann Blackham, candidate for Republican State Committeewoman, in her capacity as vice president of the National Federation of Republican Women, extended greetings to the local Club from that organization, the largest women's political organization in the world.

Mrs. Gordon Siebotham, president, presided. She noted a warm welcome awaits any resident of the town wishing to become a member of the Winchester Women's Republican Club. Mrs. Maxwell McCreery is membership chairman.

Hospital Friends orientation set

The Friends of the Winchester Hospital will hold an orientation program for new volunteers on Wednesday, January 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Board Room of the Winchester Hospital.

A tour of the hospital will follow job descriptions of the services provided to the hospital. There are approximately 400 volunteers maintaining the 24 services to the hospital, and new volunteers are always appreciated.

This is the time of New Year's resolutions. The Friends provides an excellent opportunity to begin the year by helping others.

Local woman is tennis winner

Jane Oliverdoti of Winchester was winner and high-scorer of last Saturday's Mixed-up Doubles Tennis Tournament held at the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Center. In acknowledgement of her victory, she was presented an inscribed trophy.

According to Tournament Director Mary Roark, Mrs. Oliverdoti played the type of tennis you must play to be a winner, a relatively error-free game. This is particularly true in these type of tournaments where the scoring is accomplished via the Vass System.

Sachem hoopssters demonstrate plenty of determination in Dec. 30 game with Melrose at Winchester and which the locals won 54-44. Number 25 here with the ball, left, and in the inset, is Wayne Mills. (Photos by Don Young)

Sachems move into first on five straight hoop victories

By JOHN F. PARRELL

Captain Doc Wheeler's Sachem quintet rolled to an impressive triumph Friday as they downed the Red Devils of Burlington 70-58.

This marked their fifth consecutive victory and gives them sole possession of first place in the Middlesex League title race.

However, the margin is still all too close as Wakefield, Lexington and Burlington are just a step behind and waiting the slightest slip by Winchester to climb into a first place deadlock.

The moment for decision is directly ahead.

The Wakefield Warriors will be here for their chance tomorrow night and the local quintet goes to Lexington for the confrontation with the Minutemen next Tuesday. The results of these games should go far towards determining the leaders of the race at the half-way mark.

Last Tuesday's meeting with Melrose resulted in the closest score of the season as the Winchesterites won by 54-44. The Spotless Towners rallied to a 44-all deadlock with about three minutes of action left as a combination of a foul call and a technical foul resulted in all shots being made to forge the deadlock. However, the Sachem defense became impenetrable as they went on for the ten points to clinch the decision.

This was by far the poorest performance of the season to date for Winchester's quintet. Andy Stoeckle, who was top scorer in the first three games, got into foul trouble very early and was forced to sit on the sidelines until late in the final quarter when he came in to help ignite the winning rally.

The Winchester shooting was not good in the first quarter as they made only a half dozen points while Melrose was not exactly piling things up with nine over the first eight minutes. The Sachems found the range in the second quarter and by half time they seemed to have things well in hand with a lead of 24-15.

But the visitors were still not beaten and stayed close as play continued ragged in the third session. They began to draw closer and finally reached a 44-44 tie with the help of the foul shots mentioned earlier. Then came the final burst of baskets to ice the win for the Sachems. It was a well-earned decision but the local rooters breathed easier when the final whistle sounded.

The play in the Burlington game was much faster and much better basketball on the part of both teams. The Red Devils managed to outscore Winchester 16-15 in the first quarter but the Sachems rallied for a 32-29 half time lead. Once again Tri-captain Stoeckle was in foul trouble early and was forced out of action over the entire middle two periods.

The third quarter found the visitors and their coach beginning to complain about the decisions of the officials and the total of 18 points from the foul line by Winchester's team just about spelled the difference between the two teams. The final score was 70-58 and the win gave Winchester sole possession of the top spot.

Winchester hockey players leave the Hockeystown USA arena in Melrose after fire and explosion put off their game Saturday night. They were scheduled to play Melrose. Some 150 fans, coaches and players got out without injury. The blast occurred in a backroom early in the evening. The game was set for 8 p.m. (Photo by Don Young)

Fire forces hockey game cancellation

A combination of an explosion and small fire filled the Hockeystown rink with smoke and forced a postponement of the Melrose-Winchester clash on Saturday night. Some 150 Schem supporters made the trip in vain including Principal Vin Larocco. After a brief inspection it was deemed impossible to play and the game was rescheduled for Monday of this week.

The only other varsity action proved disastrous for the Schems as the Stoneham sextet rained 37 shots on the Schem goal for a walkaway 13-2 win.

Coach Kevin Chrusz J V team has chalked up a pair of victories as they defeated Wakefield by 4-3 and Lexington 1-0.

The smoked out game was played Monday and Winchester was smoked out again, only this time in the scoring. They yielded six goals to Melrose, while tallying only one for themselves.

St. Eulalia Squirts on winning streak with nine victories scoring with individual goals, while newcomers Paul Shugrue and Steve Moros skated well up front. A special note of thanks to John Griffin for keeping the transportation in tow on this icy night.

On Saturday night, a combined team of St. Eulalia Pee Wee and Squirt Lions defeated a Chelmsford Pee Wee team by a 7-0 score.

Paul Tucci's early goal proved to be the game winner as two goals each by Steve Tucci and Mike Griffin and single tallies by Bill Ferry and Mike Paynter rounded out this solid effort.

Curt Lawson, Steve Brogdon and Mike Hubel were solid contributors with their aggressive play while John Kisil, Steve Masiello and Tim Kiveney back-checked well and showed fine teamwork with their good passing. Billy Eaton and Sean O'Connor turned in solid defensive efforts with their strong work around the net. David Boyle continued to "shine in the twine" protecting his shutout with good glove and skate saves.

The Lions have now recorded five shutouts in nine games as they remain undefeated.

In defeating Lowell 7-0, Mike Griffin and Mike McCarthy led the Lions' charge as each contributed two goals as a result of their heads-up play.

Ricky Parker, who continues to improve with each game, tallied the Lions' second goal. Paul Tucci and Billy Eaton played well defensively and each scored one goal and two assists. Eric Conti, Andy Gulesarian and Mike Shaw were impressive with their two-way play. Sean O'Connor, playing his best game of the year was solid on defense.

Against Belmont, the Lions continued their streak with a hard fought 4-2 victory. Griffin, Bryant, Tucci and Parker figured in the

Town Youth Hockey

Some goals: 26 scored in two games

Winchester Youth Hockey League started off with a scoring bang with 26 goals scored in the first two games and 19 in the next two. It appears the boys learned their lessons well under the excellent supervision of Eddie Sandford, Kevin Nolan, Kevin O'Neil, Mike O'Leary and the other instructors who gave so generously of their time during the past six weeks.

The Bruins coached by Dick Burke held off a third period surge by Tony Guarente's Capitols to win a hand earned 7-5 victory.

Bruins scorers were Scott Manley, John McGrath and Mark Vernaglia with two each and Rich Burke with one. Tom Shirley, John McGrath and Rick Burke cleverly set up the scores with assists, Rich getting two.

Capitols lampighters were Phil Monson, Bob Torriere, Mark Pasillo, Rich Pantaleo and Mark Cassino with assists going to Torriere, Pantaleo, Cassino and two for Scott Simeone.

Coach Bob Simpson's Red Wings won 8 to 6 over a tough Black Hawks team coached by Mike O'Leary and Kevin O'Neil. Mike Jackson scored the hat trick with 3 goals and added two assists and Hugo LaFauci scored two with one assist. George Bowker, Tom Brown and Bob Lynch each netted one. Mark Simpson had two assists and Len Rallo one.

Steve and Jack Barrett put on a brother act with Steve banging in two and Jack one goal, two assists.

Peter Antonuccio and Tom Masiello each had a goal and assist with the other goals by Sean Mandeville and Dave O'Neil. Steve Schromm helped with an assist.

Red Wings continued their winning ways and outscored the Bruins 7-3. Mike Jackson scored his second hat trick and now has six goals and four assists in two games. Other goal getters Hugo LaFauci, George Bowker, Tom Brown and Bob Lynch. Assists by Jackson (2) LaFauci (2), Bowker, Lynch and Jack Noble (1) each.

Bruins goals by Rich Burke (2), and Tom Shirley (1), with John McGrath adding an assist.

Black Hawks overpowered the Capitols 6-3. Hawk goals by Steve and Jack Barrett, Tom Masiello, Mike Schromm, Mark Fazio and Chad Doe. Assists by Jack Barrett, Peter Antonuccio, Sean Mandeville, John Skinner and Chad Doe.

Capitol scorers were Bob Torriere, Mark Pasillo and Paul Colleran, Bob Amdio, Scott Simeone and Mark Cassino made the assists.

Goalies are Frank Vozella, Jerry

Kenney, Bob Cooke and Richard Melaragni.

All games are at the U.S.A. Rink.

January 11, schedule will be Bruins vs. Black Hawks 8:45 a.m. and Capitols vs. Red Wings 7:30 a.m.

Senior bowlers enjoy party

The annual Christmas party of the senior citizens' bowling league was a complete success with all members in attendance. A buffet lunch was served at the Burlington Bowladrome and the dessert was provided by the members and consisted of Italian, Irish, French, German and British delicacies.

The second half of the regular schedule is under way with scores running high and the ten teams all having a chance at first place. For the men, Arthur Fonseca, Clarence Dunbury, Clarence Borggaard, Norman Reed, Ed Sharkey and Al Prescott are bunched at the top, while Dorothy Nawn, Mary Robinson, Lillian Martinielli, Mary Flaherty, Sadie Gilberto and Mary Connor are leading the Women's race. The big improvement in the scores of Nanna Renna, Barbara Leahy, Vivian Bullard and Dorothy Glowacki will have a real influence on the final scores of their teams.

Physical fitness classes for women

Women's physical fitness classes, under the instruction of Gerlinde Boyack, will begin at the Lincoln School Gym Monday night, Jan. 12 at 7:30 and at the Ambrose School on Wednesday morning, Jan. 14 at 9:30.

The course will last ten weeks. Each class lasts one hour plus an hour of volleyball and other activities.

Mrs. Boyack has been teaching Women's physical fitness classes in Winchester for six years. She also has movement education classes in many of Winchester's elementary schools for children.

According to Mrs. Boyack, "physical fitness can and should be fun and stimulating." She notes that physical fitness can free a person from boredom and monotony. She has long been engaged in making this goal a reality in programs for young and old alike.

McCall player Willy Struzzolo lifts the puck down the ice as teammates John Sevarino (3) and Bubba Sanford (17) move out. About to make a quick reverse are Lynch skaters Bob Coppins (8) and Peter Mahoney (14).

For more information on the women's fitness classes contact Mrs. Noreen Arcari, 23 Nelson st.

Recreation dept. to sponsor b-ball team

Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney announced today that the Winchester Recreation Department will sponsor a recreational basketball team in the new Middlesex County Recreational Basketball League. This year's coach will be Jerry Ferro.

The league is set up for boys who are not playing varsity basketball at the junior high level and also stipulates that no boy may be 15 years of age prior to August 1, 1976 and shall not be in a higher school grade than eight.

Director Spinney says all home games will be held at the Lynch Junior High School on Wednesday evenings, starting at 7:30.

McCall beats Lynch, ties Stoneham team

McCall Junior High's hockey team completed a good week with a hard-fought 6-4 win over cross-town rival Lynch on Friday.

Coach Jim MacDonachie's team overcame a 2-1 deficit at the end of one period to lead 4-2 at the end of the second period.

McCall added one more goal in the third period and then hung on as Lynch mounted a strong attack to score two goals.

Bubba Sanford scored the winning goal and added 2 assists.

Other McCall goals were 2 by Hugo LaFauci and one each by Ricky Blanch and Jimmy Willing.

Peter Mahoney scored two goals and Skip Sizemore and Jack Collins scored the others for Coach Mike Houghton's Lynch team.

On Tuesday, McCall and the Stoneham freshmen battled to a 2-2 tie. McCall's goals were by Ricky Blanch and Bubba Sanford.

McCall plays the Brookline freshmen team at Brookline on Wednesday and then plans the Belmont freshmen on Friday at the USA rink.

Jack Collins (7) and Jim Wilbur (11) leave McCall skater behind as they move in on the net.

Final Closing Of Forest Crest Farm School

May 28, 1976

It is with deep regret and mingled emotions, that I must announce the closing of Farm School. After a period of some twenty years, I feel the need to extend thanks to all those who have helped to make it such a success!

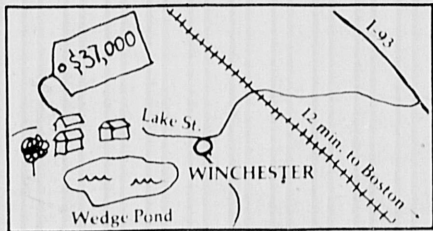

First, I wish to thank my husband, Howard, for his understanding patience and support while I pursued this endeavor, closest to my heart. To my staff, past and present, I cannot express adequate appreciation. To the following, my present staff, Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Francis McGaffigan, Mrs. John Larkin and Mrs. Albert Kajander I extend thanks for their love expressed to the children, their dedication to the school and loyalty in all endeavors. To all the school bus drivers who have transported our little ones, and especially to Mrs. Robert Baird, Dr. Wheeler, thank you for being our Medical Advisor.

Last, but not least, to all the parents, in Winchester and neighboring towns, how can I thank you for sharing your children with us and giving us such great happiness?

Forest Crest, as a School, may exist no longer, but the old Farm House will always echo the happy laughter and fond memories of the many children who have been here, each for a short while. Many thanks to all.

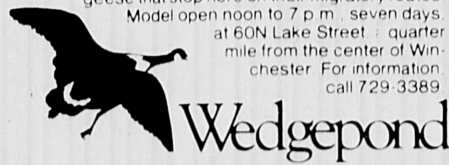

Elsa H. Wittet
(Mrs. Howard A)

If Price and Location Are Your Prime Concerns

Consider Our $37,000 Townhouse in Winchester

When it comes to purchasing a home, most people put price and location first. That's why we think that our 2-BR townhouses (priced from $37,000 to $41,000) are the best condominium buys in the state. The train station is a short walk (travel time to Boston 12 mins.), the supermarket is around the corner, and 15-tennis courts are up the street! Full basement, free parking, plus excellent financing terms. The condominiums are located on the shore of Wedge Pond where you can swim, boat and watch the ducks and geese that stop here on their migratory routes. Model open noon to 7 p.m., seven days, at 60N Lake Street - quarter mile from the center of Winchester. For information call 729-3389

hospital staff

James S. Quinn, M.D.

Dr. James S. Quinn, associate chief of medicine at the Malden Hospital, was elected president of the hospital's medical staff at its annual meeting held earlier this month. He is a resident at 21 Sheffield rd. Dr. Quinn succeeds Dr. Marvin Neipris in the presidency of the some 360 medical staff members at the Malden Hospital.

Dr. Quinn, who has been a member of the hospital's medical staff since 1961, is a graduate of Tufts Medical School. He served his internship at the Upstate Medical Center, Syracuse, N.Y., his residency in medicine at the Boston Veterans Administration Hospital, and his residency in cardiology, the study of the heart and its functions, at the West Roxbury V.A. Hospital.

A board-certified internist, Dr. Quinn has served as director of the Malden Hospital's Coronary Care Unit since 1968. In 1969, he was appointed associate chief of medicine whereby he works in conjunction with Physician-in-Chief Dr. Warren Bennett.

A member of both the American Medical Association and the Mass. Medical Society, Dr. Quinn holds memberships in the Mass. Society of Internal Medicine and the Mass. Heart Association.

Toastmistress Club holds speech contests

The first meeting of the new year for the Winchester Toastmistress Club has a theme of "Through Practice Comes Progress," and will be held in the Suter Room of Epiphany Church, 70 Church st., starting at 8 p.m. January 12.

There will be a preliminary speech contest to allow members to practice before the real contest planned for January 26.

Mrs. Kenneth Weiss of Winchester, Mrs. John L. Pappalardo of Medford, Mrs. Preston Johnson of Melrose, and Mrs. Joseph Darish and Lois Hamilton, both of Malden, will be contestants.

Each of the ladies has three words to choose from to make a five to seven minute speech using one of the words. They will be judged on organization and delivery.

Judges will be Mrs. Hilda Hope of Winchester, Mrs. Aldo Pietrantoni of Medford and Mrs. Charles Tyner of West Medford.

On January 17, Beverly Laskey of 140 Cambridge st. will participate in a debate on the Equal Rights Amendment at the meeting of Council No. 3 at the Ramada Inn in East Hartford, Conn. "Women of Influence" will be the theme for the January 17 meeting.

Three students make honor roll

Three Winchester students at Malden Catholic High School recently were named to the honor roll.

They were Sean P. Duffy, 9th grade, and his brother Brian H. Duffy, 11th grade. Both are sons of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Duffy, 19 Denner rd.

John M. Fazio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Domenic Fazio, 19 Columbus rd., made the honor roll in the 12th grade. Students on the honor roll have achieved 80 per cent or better in all of their subjects.

Nursery school for young families set

Beginning on Friday,

February 27, the Mystic Valley

Mental Health Association will sponsor a 12 week nursery school focusing on the young family. Mothers and their three-year-olds are invited to meet once a week from 9:15 to 11:15 in Winchester.

The children will participate in nursery school activities such as painting, singing, outdoor play, and a variety of other projects under the direction of Mrs. Catherine

Alexander and her assistants,

Mrs. Barbara Puffer and Mrs.

Kate Baty. At the same time, the mothers will spend a short period of time quietly observing the children, and then move on to a discussion led by

Muriel Wechstein; a child psychologist from the Mystic Valley Mental Health Clinic in Lexington.

Discussion will center around any issues of family life that concern the mothers as well as focus on some of the things they have just seen in the nursery school.

This is an opportunity to observe your child in a way not ordinarily possible, and to learn something new about the world of pre-schoolers. By sharing thoughts and ideas not only with each other but with a professional family life expert, newly gained insights can be carried home and applied to the life of your whole family.

While the initial focus is on the three-year-old and the parents, the whole family and perhaps even the community may benefit from your thinking about healthy family attitudes.

Registration is limited. For more information, call Mrs.

Jane Dowling, 24 Nassau dr.,

Winchester, or Mrs. Kathy

Beirne of Mass. ave.,

Lexington.

open house set

The Winchester Diet Workshop announced that it will hold Open House during the entire week of January 12--on Monday at 7 p.m. and on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Church of the Epiphany on Church st., to present its latest dieting program entitled "Feel Good." The public will be welcome to attend at no obligation.

"Feel Good" is a new concept in weight control which encourages dieters to take charge of their own eating behavior through the use of a behavior modification program. By selecting their own goals and choosing their own rewards, dieters can now achieve much greater success--thus, they feel good!

Recent statistics taken by The Diet Workshop have proven that behavior modification (coupled with balanced diet, knowledge of nutrition and toning exercises) has become one of the most effective methods possible for permanent weight loss.

Men, women and youngsters will be welcome to attend the Open House in order to learn more about this new program. More details may be obtained by contacting The Diet Workshop, 177 Wildwood st., Wilmington, MA 01887.

Miss Bryant to play in jazzfest

Marjorie Bryant, a gifted saxophonist from Winchester High School, will make her Symphony Hall debut in a January 10 performance with the Northeast District Jazz Ensemble under the direction of internationally famous bandleader, Herb Pomeroy, head of the Berklee College of Music Jazz Composition Department.

The program calls for works by Wayne Shorter, Berklee alumnus Hal Crook and the premiere of "Liturgy," a composition written by the College's Composer-in-Residence, Mike Gibbs, commissioned especially for this concert by the state chapter of the National Association of Jazz Educators.

Pomeroy comes at the invitation of the Northeast District of the Massachusetts Music Educators Association, sponsors of this annual event. A native Bostonian, he is a prominent jazz figure who appeared with the bands of Charlie Parker, Duke Ellington and Stan Kenton, prior to leading his own orchestra for many years.

Some unsung heroes

By FRANCIS X. MURRAY

Winchester is a good town for a boy to grow up in. The school system and recreation commission provide many varied recreational activities. Each season provides many outlets for boys to enjoy healthy outdoor and indoor sports.

Most of the programs are tax supported as the town maintains gyms, playgrounds, tennis courts and beaches. Townspeople are justifiably proud of many of our boys who made a name for themselves in the sports world at the high school, college and pro level.

It's a great feeling knowing a boy who made it. Too often we forget he didn't make it alone. True, he had to work hard to develop his God-given talent, but there were many other fine men who recognized his gift and devoted many long hours unselfishly teaching and coaching him in how best to use his talent.

These men are the unsung heroes of the sports world and Winchester boys are fortunate to have many dedicated men who are willing to give freely of their time and knowledge.

Fifteen years ago out on the frozen ponds of Winchester our boys were playing pond hockey in haphazard fashion. Some of their fathers and older brothers would be out there with them and realized these boys could get hurt without proper safety equipment and supervision.

This realization was the birth of Winchester Youth Hockey, Inc. Time at the M.D.C. rink on the Medford-Stoneham line was purchased and these dedicated men offered the opportunity of learning skating and hockey skills to all the boys of Winchester.

Why would any sane man give up a nice warm bed on cold Sunday mornings during the severe winter months to don skates and spend up to three hours teaching and supervising hockey? The answer is simple. They like kids. They also enjoy hockey and get great satisfaction in seeing boys develop from the "rover #1" the ankle stage" to becoming skilful, artistic skaters and pretty decent hockey players. The boys and their parents owe them a lot.

These men never sought recognition and volunteered their time and talent without compensation.

Our behind-the-scenes heroes have names like Bill Cruwys, Herb Wood, Nick Troiano, Al

(Francis X. Murray of 5 Sylvester St., is the clerk of Winchester Youth Hockey, Inc.)

Miley, Brian McCormack, Bill Kimball, Ed Sandford, Bill Coppins, Al Ross, Kevin Nolan, Charlie Hartnett, Kenny Binding, Arthur Gorassi, Jim Beck, John Falla, Bob Surabian, Jack Noble, Ken Donaghey, Ed Doherty, Bob Johnson, Paul Mahoney, Dave Boyle, Bob Simpson, Tony Martignetti, Duane Belden, Victor Lawson and many others who never forgot they, too, were boys once.

Many other young men have returned on their holidays from college and prep school to help out. We are also fortunate to have players on the Winchester High School hockey team to volunteer their time on Sunday mornings over the years.

Winchester Youth Hockey has come a long way from its humble start in the frigid outdoor M.D.C. rink to the present much more satisfactory indoor U.S.A. rink. Many lasting friendships were born in the early morning "balmy" winter hours as parents scrambled to form car pools. The eager youngsters always are bright-eyed while sometimes dark glasses are standard equipment for parents, especially if there was a late Saturday night party, but year after year they return and enjoy renewing the friendships of the previous year.

In addition to the Sunday morning program Winchester Youth Hockey sponsors nine teams which are formed after tryouts in the Middlesex Youth Hockey League.

Over 135 boys from age six to 16 enjoy competition from the most talented boys representing 12 cities and town of Middlesex County. In addition they are invited to play in various tournaments throughout the season and have won many trophies over the years.

These boys have the opportunity to play on the rinks of many colleges, prep and private schools which hopefully will encourage them to keep their school work at a level whereby they will be qualified to attend college in the not-too-distant future. Occasionally they also play traveling teams from out of state and Canada.

Over the years our boys have had fun while learning and playing under safe, supervised conditions. Parents and whole families have enjoyed seeing the boys develop while sharing lasting friendship with neighbors from every section of town, but let us not forget the unsung heroes who devote so much time and energy to give our boys something extra in life.

May they grow to manhood and, in turn, remember to do unto others.

Police blotter

December 29: Break and entry at the Parker residence, 8 Wilson street. Entry was gained through an open window in the rear of the house. Silver and jewelry were stolen.

Break and entry into the boiler room at the dog pound. A roll of plastic bags was taken.

The police call box at East and Cross streets was damaged. At least four bullets were discharged into the box.

Special education group to meet

The Advisory Committee on Special Education will meet Thursday, January 8 at Sanborn House at 7:30 p.m.

Following announcements and committee reports, Frank Bianco, education specialist at the New England Regional Center, will speak. Mr. Bianco will discuss the role of the Northeast Regional Center as it relates to Winchester, as well as questions such as "How does the Winchester special education program compare to those of other school systems, particularly those of comparable size and costs?"

At the November 20 meeting of the Advisory Committee, Robert Goode highlighted two phases of work being done at the Mystic Valley Office for Children.

They are: Help for Children, primarily an information referral and follow-up type of service for parents; the Lay Advocate Training Program which trains volunteers to assist parents through the core evaluation process. The Office for Children has also presented Community Workshops on Chapter 766 which are open to parents and staff personnel.

Credit course set for police

Dr. Mark Eisenstadt and Sergeant Donald Melissi, discuss joint police and Community College course of law enforcement.

A credit course for local police officers, criminal justice, and other public service personnel to develop competence in the management of crisis situations is part of the regular curriculum of Middlesex Community College for the spring term beginning in February, 1976.

This course has been planned by the College in collaboration with Mystic Valley Mental Health Center professional staff. Dr. Mark Eisenstadt, staff psychiatrist and also a member of the Crisis Intervention Team at the Center, will be the instructor. The course will be held on Tuesdays from 9:15-11:45 a.m. and there will be fifteen sessions.

The purpose of the course is to help police, probation officers and others to gain new insights and skills. Movies, discussions of first hand experiences and role-playing will be used as well as theoretical material. Emphasis will be placed on examining the possible causes of crisis situations so that the understandings gained from this study can be applied to the management of simulated crises such as the handling of rape victims, destructive groups of adolescents, management of suicidal persons and those needing commitment, and the counseling of families experiencing sudden deaths.

Optimal and appropriate use of community resources as well as a perception of the stresses on the professionals dealing with crises will be focused on. An overview of personality development theory and current counseling techniques will round out the course curriculum.

The course catalogue for Middlesex Community College is now being published and will be available beginning the second week in January for those wishing to enroll in the course for credit.

Sgt. Donald Melissi, chairman of the Criminal Justice and Private Security Department of the Division of Continuing Education at the College, has been collaborating on the content and planning of the course to assure that it is keyed to the kinds of situations actually encountered by police and other public service personnel.

Three course credits can be earned and are applicable to the Law Enforcement Associate degree offered by the College, or can be transferred to other degree programs in which these professionals may already be participating. The course will also be open for audit to those not seeking credits.

Because of the Federal Staffing Grant for expanded Mystic Valley Mental Health Center services, the Center staff can provide greatly increased community consultation and education, enabling it to collaborate on this course which can therefore be provided at half the regular tuition for police from the five town area. The remaining fee will cover the responsibilities assumed by the College.

Dr. Eisenstadt is currently working to develop relationships with all the courts and police departments of the area in line with the increased commitment to community consultation by Mystic Valley Mental Health Center staff who are working with other community agencies on problems of aging, alcoholism, and children.

Teenagers complete baby-sitting course

Three Winchester residents were among the thirty students who have completed the seven session baby sitting course which is offered twice a year by the Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford. Over 175 teenagers have completed the program since it began in 1972.

The Winchester graduates of the course are: Kristen Johnson, Anne Simpson and Melissa Vallas.

The course is conducted by members of the hospital staff and representatives from the Medford Fire and Police departments. Topics covered included: "Infant and Child Care," Miss Mary Jane Walsh, head nurse pediatric department; "Fire Safety," Insp. Joseph Mobilia, Medford Fire Department; "Medical Aspects of Babysitting," Dr. Edward S. Murphy, chief of LMH pediatric department; "Control and Entertainment of Children," Mrs. Nancy Fazekas, pediatric instructor, LMH School of Nursing; and "Personal Safety," Det. Lt. John Keating, Medford Police Department.

The next baby sitting course is scheduled to begin in the Spring. It is open to all boys and girls age 12 and over. Information about the program is available from course coordinator, Mrs. Irene S. O'Donnell, public relations office, Lawrence Memorial Hospital.

Special music set for Sunday services here

Isabelle Plaster, bassoonist, will perform during the morning worship service at the Winchester Unitarian Church, Sunday, January 11 at 10:30. According to Music Director Luther Enstad, Ms. Plaster will perform "Three Pieces" by Hindemith and "Concerto for Bassoon," Movement II by Eckhardt-Grammatte with organist Julie Collins and "Bachianas Brasileiras No. 6," Aria for flute and bassoon by Villa-Lobos with Suzanne John, flutist.

Isabelle Plaster began her musical training in Louisville, Ky. then received a B.A. degree from Wellesley College. While there she studied with Sherman Walt, first bassoonist in the Boston Symphony. She played at New England Conservatory, with the Rhode Island Philharmonic and the Berkshire Music Center orchestra.

After graduation she played in Winnipeg, Canada with the Winnipeg Symphony, CBC orchestra, chamber, opera and oratorio groups. Since returning to Boston, she has earned a master of music degree from New England Conservatory and appeared in orchestral, choral and chamber music concerts. She is on the faculty of Wellesley College and Lowell University, is married to Richard Plaster of the Boston Symphony and is the mother of three children.

Suzanne John (Mr. Richard R.) graduated from Wellesley College in 1955, majoring in music history. She also studied musicology at both Columbia and London Universities. In the New England area since 1958, she taught flute and chamber music at the Phillips and Abbott Academies in Andover and chamber music at the Fiske School in Lexington, where her three children were students. She has also played both flute and cello in various churches in the area and is a member of the Lexington Music Club.

Energy use study for Unitarians

The Adult Education Committee of the Winchester Unitarian Society announces an eight-week series beginning this Sunday, January 11 at 11:30 a.m.

Titled "Values for a small planet," the series will begin with a slide-lecture presentation by Edward G. Barker, Winchester resident and lecturer at Wentworth Institute. Long a student of energy problems and use, Mr. Barker has designed a questionnaire to be tabulated by computer which seeks to establish an individual's "Energy I.Q." All participants in the series will have the opportunity, if they wish, to sample their own "Energy I.Q."

Continuing through January and February, the series will examine the problem of starvation and food distribution, food waste, questions of life-style, institutional and governmental policies regarding energy use, alternative practical methods of producing energy.

Special learning techniques will introduce a values clarification session and a "Have, Have-not" simulation game. Leaders in the series include in addition to Mr. Barker; a representative from the Paulist Center in Boston; Robert Swank director of the International Institute; Carol Arnold, religious education director and Reverend Jack D. Zoerheide, minister. This series is open to the public, junior high age and over.

NEMH has plan to stop smoking

Smokers who would like to become "non-smokers" are invited to participate in a "5-Day Plan to Stop Smoking" program, Sunday through Thursday, January 18-22, at 7:30 p.m., in the auditorium at the New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham.

The stop-smoking program, which is conducted five times each year by the Health Education Department at NEMH, was first offered by health educator Wayne McFarland, M.D. (at that time based at NEMH), in the auditorium of Barbo's Inc.,

Stoneham, in 1960.

Since 1960, over 17,000 persons have participated in the 5-day plan. According to an in-depth survey developed in 1969 by a statistics instructor at Northeastern University (who had been one of the program's enthusiastic participants) 43 per cent of those who had attended the program during the previous three years had not returned to the smoking habit.

The 5-day plan contains no "gimmicks." It emphasizes ways of coping with the physiological, psychological and nutritional problems associated with breaking the habit.

Health educators, dietitians and a team of physicians, which includes Roger T. Nelson, M.D., thoracic surgeon; G. Robert Rigby, M.D., and Jens D. Henriksen, M.D., psychiatrist, will provide expert assistance and instruction to those who really want to "kick the habit."

For further information call the Health Education Department at NEMH, 665-1740, ext 426. There is a $5 registration fee.

Obituaries

James P. Gallagher

James Patrick Gallagher, formerly of Winchester, died Christmas Day at the Choate Hospital in Woburn after several months' illness. He was 68.

Born in Manchester, Mr. Gallagher was a resident at 10 Wiley st., Woburn for the past 18 years.

He served with as a private-first-class in the U.S. Army with Company A, 119th Infantry, during World War II. Awarded the Bronze Medal, he was a member of the Military Order of the Purple Heart and held lifetime membership in the Woburn D.A.V., post 88. He also belonged to American Legion Post 27 in Cambridge. For 20 years Mr. Gallagher was employed as credit manager for Federal Distillers, Inc. of Boston. He retired in 1972 because of poor health.

Mr. Gallagher leaves his wife, Andree R. (Roussat) Gallagher, and two sons, John R. of Woburn and Ralph J. of Cold Bay, Alaska.

The Rev. Leonard Pelletier officiated at services at the Immaculate Conception Church December 29. Mr. Gallagher was a member of that church. Burial followed at Cambridge cemetery.

Donations in his memory may be made to the American Heart Association, 112 Cypress st., Brookline.

Arrangements were by Lane Funeral Home.

Geneva H. Millen

Services for Geneva H. Millen, 79, mother of Mrs. Ruth Gray of 16 Norwood st., were held December 23 at the Laconia Congregational Church in Laconia, N.H.

where Mrs. Millen had long been active in music and religious education.

The Rev. E. Barent Grevatt officiated, with Mr. Alger Sherman as organist and Mrs. Millen's two brothers from Nova Scotia as vocalists.

Mrs. Millen is survived by her husband, Karl Millen of Gilford, N.H., another daughter, Mrs. Anne Trout of Texas, eight grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. Relatives from Texas, Washington, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Nova Scotia were in attendance at the funeral.

A memorial service and burial will be held at a later date in New Annan, Nova Scotia.

Theresa E. King

Services were held for

Theresa E. King December 31 at St. Mary's Church. Miss King, a ten-year resident at 17 Herrick st., died December 28 at Vernon Hall Nursing Home in Cambridge after a long illness. She was 78.

Miss King was born July 5, 1897 to Michael J. and Bridget E. King, both natives of Ireland. She was a member of St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Roger Cormier of St. Mary's officiated at the services last Sunday.

She was the sister of the late George J. King. Surviving her is her sister Alma A. King of Winchester.

Funeral arrangements were by the Lane Home.

William J. Pearce

William J. Pearce, 66, formerly of 38 Grove st., died suddenly January 2 at City Hospital in Boston. For the past 18 months Mr. Pearce had been a resident at 302 Wachusett st., Jamaica Plain. Born March 23, 1909 to Stanislaus and Elizabeth (Mooney) Pearce, he attended Revere schools and Tufts University. Mr. Pearce was a graduate of Wentworth University School of Engineering in Boston.

For 33 years he served as an electrical and mechanical engineer for Factory Mutual Corp. of Norwood. He retired two years ago.

Mr. Pearce was a member of the Professional Engineers Society of Boston and the International Electronic Electrical Engineers Association, through which he was associated with the Charles River Power Squadron, Waltham.

A 25-year resident of Winchester, Mr. Pearce is survived by his wife, Anna M. (Hupler) Pearce, and three daughters: Mrs. Gary (Joanne) Triplet of Sparta, N.J.; Mrs. Lauren (Claire) Keene of Mattapoisett; and Mrs. John (Patricia) Lally of Westford.

He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Gerraughty of Medford; two brothers, Stanley Pearce of Huntington Beach, Calif., and Robert Pearce of Lake Park, Fla.; and seven grandchildren.

Services were held at St. Raphael's Church in West Medford January 6, with the Rev. Richard Harrington officiating. Burial followed at Oak Grove in Medford.

Donations in his memory may be made to the Children's Hospital Medical Center for Research for the Prevention of Deafness in Children, 300 Longwood ave., Roxbury. Arrangements were by the Lane Funeral Home.

The latest snowfall (this time up to around ten inches) tells a dual story here. On the one hand, this scene on Ainsworth road is a pretty sight to behold. But it also shows telltale signs of problems for motorists, as witnessed by the serpentine tire tracks on the snow. Ah, well, can summer be far behind? (Star Photo by Don Young)

Operation dig-out

Second big storm staggers town

Another 11 inches of snow fell on Winchester in the latest storm of a series which began Christmas week.

According to the Highway Department, the snow started falling at noon Sunday and continued through the next day, keeping school children home and forcing many cancellations.

Snow fall was slow the first three hours, so the department sent out only one salter carrying a load of salt and sand mixed. By 3, however, five more sanders were called out, each carrying three loads.

By ten Sunday night, all departments in town had been notified — water, park, cemetery, and highway personnel were alerted.

Additional equipment was hired to supplement Winchester's trucks.

As of Tuesday evening, Highway Department officials did not have figures available on overtime pay or number of men who responded to snow removal operations.

Meanwhile, the department is getting ready for the next taste of New England weather.

Schools, town offices close for King Day

Winchester schools and town offices are closed today in observance of Martin Luther King Day.

Town offices are staffed but are closed to the public for the transaction of business.

New alcohol abuse program mandatory for sophomores

In response to a growing concern about teenage drinking in Winchester (recently highlighted by the Red and Black survey on this topic reported in The Star several weeks ago), the high school administration and the Student Union began in late October to develop an alcohol education program for sophomores as part of their overall orientation to Winchester High School.

Ms. Barbara Kleeman, an alcohol education specialist from Mount Auburn Hospital, spent 16 hours in the high school with 15 seniors who had volunteered to undergo training in basic facts as they relate to alcohol and in methods of conveying these facts to sophomores.

Bob Sutherland, Student Union chairman and one of the volunteers, was responsible for recruiting other seniors. These students included: Mimi Began, Chris Carzo, Andrea DeSanctis, Lynn DiRocco, Bill Hamilton, Lisa Jeffrey, Gerard Kivney, Carol McElhinney, Moira McGoldrick, Nancy McHugh, Mary Porter, Hope Stavros, Linda Waitsman and Kevin Whalen.

On January 5, all sophomores were given a letter to take home to their parents which briefly explained the program. The letter explained that the program would be mandatory for all sophomores unless parents did not want their son or daughter to participate.

A formal presentation was made to all sophomores through American Studies I classes on Wednesday, January 7. The presentation consisted of an introduction by Evander French, Jr., assistant principal, an explanation of the program by Bob Sutherland, the showing of "Ninety-nine Bottles of Beer" (a film that depicts six teenagers with drinking problems), and the distribution of two pamphlets, "What Everyone Should Know About Alcohol" and "ABC's of Drinking and Driving" made available by Gerard Rooney, occupational specialist for the Division of Alcoholism, State Department of Health.

Town Highway Department Superintendent Robert G. O'Brien, busily preparing the cost figures for the latest storm, yesterday completed his tally for the first storm that spanned several days after Dec. 20.

He said storm number one cost somewhere around $75,000, "but there is still a healthy amount in the special budget the town voted for snow removal." That figure is $200,000.

In the past few years, with Winchester in the embrace of spring-like weather (well, almost), O'Brien was able to turn back most of his funds to the town.

He said he expects the current cash reserve will be adequate for this year, hoping that the next few weeks will be a prolonged thaw.

Selectman warns against another 'hamburg joint'

The case of the delayed restaurant license for a Winchester Center location came up again Monday night at the selectmen's meeting, and at least one member warned against allowing "just another 'Sloppy Joe's' hamburger joint" in town.

Selectmen Arthur Dunbar, expressing concern about the request for the license by Theodore Anastos, his wife and brother and sister-in-law, for the property at Main and Mt. Vernon streets, declared:

"I want to know more about what it will look like... for... I've been burnt before."

It was the second time the Anastoses came before the board for the license.

In a public hearing Anastos said he removed two booths from the plan in response to the building commissioner's request to make the floor plan a safer one for patrons and employees.

He also discussed with the Architectural Barrier Board ways of allowing handicapped people access to the restaurant. Anastos said that with a booth arrangement as he planned, it would be difficult to serve handicapped people. He felt that wheelchairs would be precluded and that the 40 or 60 degree angle from the street to the building would be impossible for wheelchairs even if a ramp were provided.

Selectman Dunbar in expressing concern about the restaurant said, "I don't want to see another 'Sloppy Joe's'." I want to know more about what it will look like. Will there be carpeting, curtains, what's the decor? I've been on this board too long not to have been burnt before. Too many times I've voted for a restaurant license only to find that the owners did not follow through on what they promised. We need some assurances from you that this place will not be a hamburger joint."

Chairman Lawrence Smith concurred that more definite plans should be submitted to the board, although he also said that he has changed his thinking on the matter of a

Winchester High: new and leaking

Vote funds for attorney as court battle looms over WHS construction problems

Winchester is faced with the possibility of a long and costly court fight to get the construction problems at the new Winchester High School corrected. As a result, officials voted last week at a meeting of the Winchester Finance Committee to hire a lawyer to help them in the battle with a construction company from which they withheld $100,000 and which is countering for the money.

The Finance Committee, which at its meeting unanimously named Anthony Pelletier as its new chairman, was asked by the Permanent Building Committee to transfer $2500 to hire the lawyer, since the battle ahead promises, they said, to be too much for the town counsel to handle alone.

Also on the agenda was a proposal by Town Manager Thomas J. Groux for all Winchester departments and agencies to adopt a "Program Style Budget" when it comes time to match up costs with services provided.

Water leaks at WHS

Representing the Permanent Building Committee (PBC) and authorized engineering consultants, Simpson, Gumpertz and Hager, committee member Robert Frank laid out major factors concerning water leakage at the newly constructed high school.

It was alleged that since the completion of WHS in March of 1972 a substantial number of leaks have been observed at the windows, especially on the second and third floors.

Up to the present all efforts to compel the contractor and architect to resolve the leak problem have failed. In order to acquire additional professional advice, the building committee successfully sought an appropriation of $15,000 at Town Meeting in July of 1974.

Since that time the engineering troubleshooters have found what they believe to be six major causes of window leakage. These were listed in a preliminary report submitted to the Finance Committee.

The following are some of the causes given by Simpson, Gumpertz & Hager for "window leakage."

The configuration of the flashing within the walls of the high school building is such that instead of causing water which enters the outer walls to be returned to the outside of the building, water is conveyed to the area in which windows are located at which point water is permitted to enter the inner portion of the building.

The configuration of leveling mortar upon which window frames are mounted is such that water which penetrates the outside of the walls or windows is carried to the inner portion of the building.

Some of the junctures of brickwork and concrete columns are not water tight.

There are defects in the sealant around the perimeter of the windows and in the bond between the sealant and adjacent surfaces which allow water penetration.

Water is entering the building perimeter of the roof deck principally because the flashing around the perimeter of the roof deck has separated from the parapet wall.

In addition the Permanent Building Committee's consulting engineers have discovered other contributors to the leaking problem, including flaws in the windows themselves and in window glazing.

Some of these other defects the committee feels are of major concern. Most significantly, the roofing materials applied over the concrete roof contain excessive moisture which will result in a reduced life of the roof membrane.

From these findings it can be concluded that repairs are necessary. The question is which defects required immediate attention and which can be put off.

But the law suit, Frank says, is not as narrow as just window leakage. Original design of the high school is also involved. The design is such that certain methods of construction should not have been used. So the issue at hand is what conditions actually exist there, not so much who is to blame.

Because the town of Winchester has withheld payment close to $100,000 from White Construction Co., pending repairs of existing leaks, White Construction has sued the town. Winchester, in turn, has a counter claim suit against White Construction Co.

The case is of such magnitude, requiring large quantities of legal time and effort, that this litigation, along with Town Counsel Douglas Randall's municipal duties, would be an extraordinary, if not impossible burden, officials said.

The Finance Committee, in agreement with Selectmen, voted unanimously to recommend that the town engage a trial attorney in the field of construction litigation. A sum of $2500 was set as the amount to pay for services of that counsel prior to the Special Town Meeting in February.

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux submitted a method of streamlining budgetary procedures to the Finance Committee. The method referred to as a "Program Style Budget," if passed by Town Meeting vote would be adopted by all of Winchester's departments and agencies.

The purpose, Town Manager Groux says, is to match up costs of a department with the services provided on a line by line itemization.

He believes initial implementation of the new budgetary method may appear a little difficult, but he plans to meet with chairmen of all departments to work out troublespots.

The School Committee is already transposing their figures into this new format, says Groux.

He hopes to involve chairmen of the town departments and not the various department secretaries, as he firmly believes that these acting executives should have a notion of available funding without having to refer to another member of the particular agency or department. "This way," he says, "their esteem won't be knocked down a couple of pegs because they don't know numbers."

Lieutenants to fill for chief

When Police Chief Edward F. Bowler's retirement becomes effective on January 15, the four lieutenants in the department will rotate as lieutenants-in-charge until a new chief is appointed by Town Manager Thomas J. Groux.

The lieutenants will take the Civil Service exam for chief as soon as a date is set for that exam. From the four, Groux will appoint one to be chief.

The first to head the department until that time will be Lt. Andrew Crawford. He has been involved in budget discussions with the department and Groux feels his knowledge is especially appropriate at this time when town departments are working on their budgets.

School board seeks answer to vandalism

The school committee at its regular meeting Monday night expressed deep concern about the high cost of vandalism and voted to do something about it.

They named the two women members of the board, Cathy Fallon and Mary Pronski, to delve into the matter and come up with some potential solutions.

Ms. Pronski described some of the types of damage which occur and estimated the cost to the town at $65,000 annually. In a report on her personal investigation at the high school, she suggested the formation of a group made up of committee members, parents, students, and a representative from the police department.

Assistant Superintendent Walter Gleason pointed out that there is a committee already formed within the school department for the same purpose. Although that committee had discovered much public sympathy for their cause, he said "nothing was ever done."

"What's missing is the involvement of the community," said Chairman Richard Pharo. "If the public were informed about the nature of some of the vandalism, they might be moved to act," he continued.

Some of the variations on the theme witnessed by Committeewoman Pronski included:

- Broken glass buried under swings;
- A burned-out thermostat;
- Fire hose nozzles stolen;
- Fire extinguishers missing or broken;
- Auditorium seats slashed and unbolted;
- Broken bathroom fixtures;
- Fire warning lights for the hard of hearing destroyed.

Mr. Gleason said he hoped the committee would coordinate their efforts with the existing school department committee on vandalism so that the latter's efforts would not be duplicated.

Referring to descriptions of the damage offered by both Mary Pronski and Jack Noble, Cathy Fallon concluded, "That's not my idea of how you treat a $13 million investment."

At least there was some joy in the latest (weekend) snow fall for some citizens, including these youngsters, top to bottom, Cliff Shultz, 12, Andy Guarene, 14, and Bob Shultz, 11, who paused in their play to pose for the Star photographer at the Winchester Country Club. (Photo by Don Young)

Selectmen grant some renewals, hold hearings

Selectmen Monday renewed taxi operators licenses for drivers employed as of January 1 by the following companies: Lane Limousine Service, 760 Main st.; Winchester Red Cab, 117 Highland ave.; Green Taxi, 68 Johnson rd.; Bill's Taxi Service, 1 Shore rd.; and Winchester Cab Company, 1 Shore rd.

The board also renewed a common victualer's license for Linda's Donut Shop, 878 Main st., after the owner complied with the State Building Code provision for emergency lighting for egresses.

Discussion regarding a lodging house license for the premise at 219 Washington st. was deferred at Selectman Arthur Dunbar's request. He would like to see official notice from the police department that a lodging house would be safe.

Dunbar would also like discussion when all members of the board would be present. At Monday night's meeting, Selectmen John J. Sullivan and William G. Chapman, as well as Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall, were absent.

This application for a lodging house license is the only one which will come before the Board of Selectmen. Under new charter law, no new lodging houses may open in Winchester. Anyone wishing to apply for such a license would have had to notify the selectmen before January 1.

The property, owned by Matteo Gallo, was inspected by the fire department on December 16 and was found to be in accordance with all state and local laws. Building Commissioner William B. MacDonald also informed selectmen that the property, commonly known as the Carlisle House, qualifies for licensing as a lodging house.

In other matters, selectmen deferred discussion of public bidding for group insurance for town employees.

They also signed an agreement with the Commonwealth to indemnify the Aberjona river. The state Department of Public Works will dredge and improve the channel of the Aberjona by Fenwick rd., and will restore a foot bridge connecting the Mystic Valley Parkway to the basketball area of Ginn Field.

The town meeting of December 4 authorized the selectmen to indemnify the Commonwealth against all claims and demands for damages that may be sustained during the work.

Selectmen held a public hearing regarding the installation of two conduits on Valley rd. Boston Edison wants to put in two new

To low bidder

Contract for Lincoln School demolition awarded: $8360

Despite preliminary quandaries regarding the low bidder's business references and his accessibility to the Winchester Housing Authority (WHA), Leo M. Rush Monday night was unanimously awarded the contract to demolish old Lincoln School, by the WHA. His bid was for $8360.

Leo Rush and his future partner, Robert Stalker, hope soon to be incorporated in a partnership. Up to this point they have done mostly sub-contract work, but now want to strike out on their own.

And the WHA is willing to give them an opportunity to exhibit their skills, providing the Department of Community Affairs approves the award.

Rush and Stalker have done similar work in Winchester. They demolished a two and a half story house on Highland ave., across from Winchester Hospital.

The two have also done extensive sub-contract work for Framingham Building and Wrecking Co., which is now located in Salem, NH. According to Chairman Mary Murphy, Framingham has an excellent reputation of good performance.

Three to four thousand dollars worth of salvageable material can be obtained from the building, Rush's head foreman and future partner estimates.

Stalker predicts that there are 18-20 tons of cast iron, which runs about $45 a ton.

Rush was able to obtain the necessary insurance and performance bond, legally qualifying him to do work in Massachusetts. This performance bond brings in a third party as a surety that there are enough funds to complete the contract in the event of initial contractor's default.

Procedures for actual demolition of old

Lincoln School were then discussed. Architect George Phillips, Jr. of Edward Read, Sears and Associates, assured the demolition due that compaction tests would be arranged.

With a crane operator, a shovel-dozer operator, two truck drivers and himself, head foreman Stalker thinks the job can be completed in a week and a half to two weeks time.

The authority warned the low bidders of the infamous vandalism which plagues the town, and suggested that all equipment be taken off the site at night.

Charles W. Craven quipped, "Yes, they'll be very unhappy we're taking down their playground."

"How do you visualize physically handling the building?" vice-chairman Richard J. Donovan asked.

"We'll take off the roof first and drop out the walls to save the brick and then haul all the salvage and debris to Pelham, NH," Stalker said.

"We certainly don't want it in this town," said Donovan emphatically.

WHA's architect feel the most important step in the demolition is putting in a good grade of gravel, after remains are cleared off the property. Rush said he would buy the gravel in New Hampshire. Architect Phillips requested that it be "nice and dry."

Seemingly eager to please, demolition contractor Rush said he's willing to start demolition as soon as requested.

WHA assured the demolition bidders that the authority's money is good, but not to expect it the Saturday night following completion.

Hearing set for station

A public hearing will be held Thursday, February 5 to discuss construction of a rubbish transfer station as required by the Environmental Protection Agency.

According to Town Engineer John H. Ciarcia, three items will be of particular interest.

One will be to amend the present zoning to light industrial to allow construction of the transfer station 20 feet from the lot line.

Another topic will be revising the table of use to include municipal waste disposal as a permitted use. There is a question as to whether "incinerator" includes a transfer station.

The third item is to amend the use table to include a municipally-owned dog pound, which is currently permitted only in a conservancy district.

Dean's list

Alec Goodman, a freshman majoring in Biology, of 287 Highland ave. has been named to the Dean's list of the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse for the first semester of the 1975-76 academic year.

O'Neil on dean's list

Paul W. O'Neil Jr., 7 Wolcott rd., made the dean's list at Georgia Tech in Atlanta for the fall quarter.

Students need a grade point average of 3.0 (B) or better to make the list.

Warrant reopened

The Board of Selectmen reopened the warrant for the February special town meeting to include three additional articles. They then closed the warrant again.

The first is to ask town meeting to approve $170,000 for the state Water Resources Commission to study sewerage in Winchester. Approximately 75 percent of that amount would be reimbursable by the state.

The second article is to authorize the town to receive a grant of $6000 to construct bikeways as part of the bicentennial program.

The third article selectmen voted to include concerns supplementing previously appropriated budgets where additional monies might be required, for example in the highway budget, the legal fund, etc. These additional funds have not yet been determined.

Local resident ends training

Brian N. Mandeville

Airman Brian N. Mandeville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert F. Mandeville of 5 Upland rd., has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

During his six weeks training, he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman is remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the security police field.

Airman Mandeville graduated from Winchester High School.

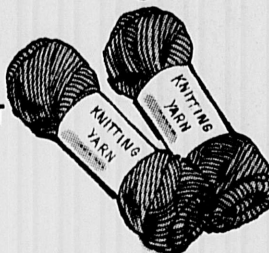

Shovel it!

The Winchester Fire Department asks residents to shovel the snow away from fire hydrants in front of their homes. In the event of a fire, much precious time would be saved if the hydrants have been shoveled out.

If you drive to the bus, take a neighbor. It's cheaper.

School board decides

Portable classrooms will continue at Mystic School

The school committee heard a report on the results of the SEEM survey from Bill Dissinger, local SEEM representative, at its regular meeting Monday night. The board also decided to continue using the portable classrooms at the Mystic School and directed high school Principal Vincent Larocco to come up with a plan to ensure that students would be supervised when their teachers are absent.

In other business, the committee heard a progress report from Superintendent William MacDonald on his enrollment study committee and commended the volunteers who helped staff the library during Mrs. Neville's recent absence.

The SEEM survey ("Special Education for Education Mutual") was initiated to see if the towns in the local SEEM district have enough special-ed students in similar age groups and with similar problems to set up their own classes. The seven communities involved are, besides Winchester, Reading, North Reading, Lynnfield, Woburn, Stoneham, and Wilmington.

At present Winchester has 16 children tutored out to private and public facilities for special programs. There are in addition ten children at state schools under the Bureau of Institutional Schools who would be involved in SEEM classes.

Superintendent MacDonald pointed out that Winchester has the greatest number of children tutored out and pays the highest tuition of all the communities in the district.

"There appears to be enough support to start some classes," said Dissinger. He added that there are enough children to organize classes for several age groups in the area of learning disabilities.

Committee Chairman Richard Pharo noted that the amount the town spends per tutored-out child is substantially greater than the $1400 spent for each child in the regular school system. By formation of local special-ed classes (which may not be located in Winchester) the school board hopes to cut back on educational expenses next year.

Jack Fallon reported to the committee that he had plans to request a "continuance of variance" from the Board of Appeals to allow the portable classrooms at the Mystic School to remain another year through June 30, 1977.

In reply to Robert Frank's question as to whether or not the school could accommodate its students without the portables, Fallon said, "Not at all." He reassured the committee that the temporary buildings would last at least another two years.

In the event that the Board of Appeals refuses his request, the school committee voted to place the issue on the town warrant.

When Principal Larocco presented a memo regarding the new policy on sophomore study hall, Committee member Mary Pronski brought up the problem of supervision when a teacher is absent. She pointed out that "the school is legally liable for that supervision, and there should be some arrangement to cover this."

Larocco said the solution would involve requiring the students to remain in one of the open areas or placing them under the supervision of a teacher's aide if one is available.

A motion was then passed to direct Larocco to come up with a memo to that effect.

Superintendent MacDonald reported doubts that his enrollment study committee would be able to come up with a viable plan by the February deadline set by the school committee. He said his group had "gone back to the drawing board to gather the statistics we need to develop recommendations."

Reacting to Committeeman Jack Noble's concern that the study was slowing down, MacDonald replied, "We are going as fast as we can under the circumstances. We are facing a monumental decision, and I would rather take an extra week or two and come up with a recommendation we're confident in."

The superintendent also expressed his gratitude towards the volunteers who helped out at the library recently. Those he listed were: Aileen Barcus, Helene Cabour, Esther Deininger, Esther Johnson, Eleanor Fitzgerald, Donna Goodman, Sally Kincaid, Ann Russell, Del Sullivan, Alison Taber, Theresa McGrail, and Joan Stevens.

Jack Noble then suggested that, since there had been so much response to the request for help at the high school, some effort be made to get parents involved as volunteers at the junior high level.

Elaine Farnam, president of the Lynch PTA, said "there are plenty of parents ready to go." All agreed an effort in this direction would be worthwhile.

Chairman Richard Pharo, in reading the committee reports, noted that the Massachusetts Association of School

'Performance objectives'

Board approves new program for non-college bound students

The School Committee approved the high school program for non-college bound students presented by Principal Vincent Larocco at Monday night's meeting. After agreeing in principle to the concept of "performance objectives," the committee went on to decide a number of policy matters related to the program.

The program is designed to provide the student who is not preparing for college with both marketable skills and some work experience in addition to proficiency in the standard areas of study.

Since the application of the present credit system to the general student program would be nearly impossible, the awarding of a diploma or certificate of completion would depend upon the student's attainment of certain performance objectives. Principal Larocco expressed the opinion that "ideally we would get rid of the credit system altogether, and a student would graduate on the basis of proficiency."

The school board voted to accept the performance objectives as stated in Larocco's report and to open the program to a maximum of 60 students for the first year. In addition, no student will be able to take a second English course unless space is available in an undersubscribed course.

To staff the new program the committee voted for the addition of three and three-fifths positions for next year. The course descriptions offered by the principal were also accepted.

Committee member Jack Noble disagreed with the design of the program, though he Superintendents has filed legislation to amend the new open meeting law so that discussion of professional competence in executive session will be allowed. A motion to write to Representative Saltmarsh and Senator Bullock to urge them to support the amendment was unanimously approved by the committee.

Committeeman Robert Frank, reporting for the building committee, said that they were seeking counsel for the suit against the high school involving apparently faulty construction. As for the leaks at the school, Frank said there is "no immediate perceived danger to the kids."

In other matters, the committee has decided, once again, not to send any of its members to the National School Board Association's annual convention in San Francisco.

Jack Noble reported that he "saw good, affirmative results in the kids' reactions" to a recent lecture and study hall session on alcoholism. The lecture, with a movie, and the rap sessions in study hall were conducted by a group from Mt. Auburn Hospital.

At the suggestion of Mary Pronski, the committee, decided to schedule another budget meeting for this Monday, January 19. The last meeting, held January 6, was adjourned for lack of a quorum. Pharo pointed out that there had not been anything to discuss at the last meeting anyway.

later voted in favor of it. "I think we're getting too sophisticated for the program we have," he said, adding later, "I don't think the performance objectives are going to motivate the kids."

Larocco responded by assuring the committee that the administration wants to increase the reading and writing abilities of the students in the general program just as it does in the regular course of studies. In defense of the program he insisted that "kids need to see the reason for such standards of performance."

The program provides that students attend classes in the morning and become involved in one of a number of vocationally oriented activities in the afternoon.

Committeeman Robert Frank strongly suggested that "one requirement of graduation should be that a kid reaches a certain level of proficiency in skills that makes him readily employable."

According to Larocco, "The first priority is work of course with the other alternatives open when paying jobs are not readily available." The afternoon activities are meant to relate closely to the skills the student learns in the morning classes.

Mary Pronski was the only committee member to oppose the limiting of the program to 60 students for the first year. She said the larger figure (80) would give the program greater flexibility, and she would like to see that all of those students interested had a chance at the program.

Other members of the board agreed that for the first year the high school should deal with the lesser number and then perhaps enlarge the program the following year.

The three and three-fifths mentioned is a budgetary figure representing the amount of money necessary to staff the program. A full-time teacher normally teaches five class sections, so that the three and three-fifths figure means the committee authorized a total of eighteen new sections or $36,000 in new salaries. The actual number of teachers involved may vary.

Cathy Fallon and Robert Frank opposed this figure and argued for a two and two-fifths allocation. Frank cited the potential number of teachers freed up by students shifting from the regular program to the new one.

Principal Larocco said he could get by on the lower number, but that his staff was already "tight." Superintendent William MacDonald supported him, commenting that "we have as tight a ratio of (teachers to students) as any community in the state."

Mary Pronski explained that the allocation had to cover more than just the general student program. Mr. Larocco elaborated: the AP English program is understaffed, and he hoped to alleviate the burden with an extra section.

Further, the school plans to open two new language programs, Spanish 4 and Latin 2, and the principal wished to expand stenography I and 2 to double periods. In the final vote on staff allocation, Robert Frank and Cathy Fallon were still opposed.

Publishing group to honor former political leaders

Martin E. Burkhardt, 9 Albamont rd., is first vice-chairman of the Printing and Publishing Council of New England, Inc.

The Council, now celebrating its 30th anniversary, will honor former U.S. House Speaker John W. McCormack and former U.S. Senator Leverett Saltonstall at the annual Printing and Publishing Week Banquet January 15 at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel. Former Massachusetts Governor Francis Sargent will be the guest of honor.

Printing and Publishing Week is held each year throughout the country to observe the importance of the printing and publishing industry. The Council awards more than $20,000 in scholarships a year, in what is believed to be the country's largest locally-funded scholarship program.

The Council is sponsoring the Boston Museum of Science exhibit on "200 Years of Printing and Publishing in America," on display Jan. 12 through April 3.

The New England Press Association is a sponsoring member of New England Printing and Publishing Week.

Bloodmobile to visit Jan. 28

A Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Winchester on Wednesday, January 28. The bloodmobile will be set up in the Red Cross Chapter House at 39 Church st., next to the Winchester Trust Company. There will be three beds in service.

Donors will be received from 2 p.m. through 6:45 p.m. Persons between 17-65 may give blood. Parental consent is needed for 17-year-olds and consent forms may be obtained at the Red Cross Chapter House.

Blood donors should eat a regular well-balanced meal within four hours prior to donation. Do not attempt to donate on an empty stomach. Avoid fatty foods such as butter, cream, ice cream or eggs. Both men and women must weigh at least 110 pounds.

Appointments must be made in advance through the Red Cross office, 729-2300.

A Red Cross Standard First Aid and Personal Safety course will be offered by the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross at the Chapter House, 39 Church st., beginning Tuesday, February 3.

The course will continue each Tuesday and Thursday evenings 7-9:30 p.m. for three weeks. Mr. Hubert M. LeFever will conduct the course. No fee is required.

Anyone interested in registering can call American Red Cross. Registration will be limited.

Students: tackling a problem

A program of education about the use and abuse of alcohol has been instituted at Winchester High School. It has been targeted for all sophomores and is a mandatory course of study unless parents deem otherwise.

For want of a better name, you might call it youth power in action, for that's what it is. It's a case of concerned, caring seniors helping their younger schoolmates under adult supervision.

It doesn't attempt to steer anyone away from alcohol; it merely tries to inform them of the pitfalls that may lie ahead if they choose to overindulge in its use, which would then become its abuse.

It is presumed—indeed hoped—that none of the sophomores is in the clutches of a drinking problem.

According to the administrator of the program, which has been tried out successfully at the high school, it has had positive initial results. WHS Assistant Principal Evander French, Jr., expects an evaluation of the program to be completed soon and results will be used to improve it next year.

That there is a problem of alcohol use among youth of Winchester was confirmed recently in a survey conducted by staff members of the high school's newspaper, Red and Black, in which high school students responded and revealed that 37 per cent of the seniors had consumed alcoholic beverages during school hours.

At the time, school committee member, Mrs. Mary Pronski, in response to the article in the paper, said she felt the youngsters were imitating their parents. Perhaps so, perhaps not. At least, they have been responding to the acts of the elders of society, and their behavior.

It is gratifying to note that the 'leadership' in their society is in their own community of students, seniors they traditionally look up to and whom they have tried to emulate down through the ages.

The seniors have been guided by Mr. French in his capacity as an administrator of educational programs, and by outsiders, including Mrs. Barbara Kleeman, an alcohol education specialist from Mt. Auburn Hospital, and Gerard Rooney of the State Department of Public Health's Division of Alcoholism. He is an occupational specialist.

We should also like to hand bouquets to the following students, the senior volunteers led by Student Union Chairman Robert Sutherland. They include Mimi Began, Chris Carzo, Andrea De Sanctis, Lynn DiRocco, Bill Hamilton, Lisa Jeffrey, Gerard Kivney, Carol McElhinney, Moira McGoldrick, Nancy McHugh, Mary Porter, Hope Stavros, Linda Waitsman, and Kevin Whalen.

We also take this opportunity to congratulate the authors of the high school newspaper survey, Mike Goodman and Dennis Lamar, for a job well and fearlessly done in the best tradition of responsible journalism. If we had our way they would receive straight As in English this year and plenty of encouragement.

In fact, we would urge that they conduct some other surveys among their contemporaries: drug use in the high school, for instance, and ways to cope with it.

If the alcohol abuse educational program keeps even one youngster away from the horrors of the disease of alcoholism, it will have served its purpose well.

Why do 'teenagers drink'?

By KARYL SCOTT
(Star correspondent at WHS)

The problem of teenage alcoholism seems to be receiving a plethora of publicity from the media on all sides. Two articles were published in this newspaper December 19 and 25, as well as one in Winchester High School's Red and Black newspaper dealing with the problem of teenage alcoholism at our very own high school.

The Red and Black's Flashlight Team of Michael Goodman and Dennis Lamar conducted a survey within the high school's senior student population as to their consumption of alcoholic beverages and the circumstances under which students drink.

The results of their investigation were well presented but rather shocking, indicating that a large majority of students drink alcohol on a regular basis, and that these kids to some extent are future alcoholics if not already.

An important contribution to our awareness was made by these revelations, yet there still remains a question to be asked: why does this problem exist, especially in suburbia?

One might think that teenage alcoholism would be more prevalent in impoverished urban areas where adolescents face constant exposure to the onslaught of the reality of life in the city. Quite contrary to this, studies show that kids in the suburbs, namely the higher income ones, have the money as well as contacts to obtain liquor regardless of the legal drinking age.

In order to begin to solve this problem which is fast reaching near epidemic proportions one must recognize the cause of the problem before the remedy may be sought. Peer pressure has been cited as one of the major causes of teenage drinking and seems like a valid answer, but what about the person whose problem is a more serious than the social drinker? It would seem that whether or not the social atmosphere was conducive to drinking or not this person would seek alcohol as a shelter.

The Adult Community is quick to condemn an adolescent's peer group as being the sole cause for the problem, yet they neglect to Pictorial editorial...

Kevin Daykin, 11 Euclid rd., Tewksbury, pours a wine toast for his wife, Sheila, to celebrate the birth of their first child, Michael Kevin, at Winchester Hospital.

A new, welcome wrinkle at Winchester Hospital for brand new parents

Mothers and fathers of babies born at Winchester Hospital are now given a special treat toward the end of the mother's hospital stay when both are invited to enjoy a complete dinner for two, including a bottle of wine, to celebrate their new arrival.

The invitation, delivered to the mother's room reads:

"Many congratulations from all of us at Winchester Hospital. We are happy for you and your husband.

"Because we know that many of your favorite foods have been on a restricted list for the past nine months, we have prepared a special dinner menu for you and your husband to enjoy together.

"When you both have made your choices from the menu, please notify your Diet Aide when your husband can join you for dinner. It will be served in your room at the regular time of the evening meal.

"P.S. With the consent of your physician, it will be our pleasure to enable you to toast the new arrival with wine."

The special menu features a choice of appetizer, a choice of entree (filet mignon with mushroom sauce or double kidney lamb chops with mint dressing), baked potato with sour cream or whipped potato, vegetable, rolls and tossed salad with apple pie or sultana roll for dessert and a choice of beverage. And, of course, the wine, if approved by the mother's physician.

About the only things missing are the candlelight and the soft music playing in the background.

The innovation, just recently put into effect, has proven very popular with the new parents.

Letters from readers

Honesty cited

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On December 20 our family drove from New Jersey to Winchester for a wedding. It was a blustery, snowy night, and in order to find our way we had to have one of our children get out of the car at various street corners to read the street signs. During one of these jaunts our daughter's wallet dropped from her purse, which we did not realize until a day later.

Now back in New Jersey, we have just received a letter from Mrs. James J. McCauley of Woburn, whose son Stephen found the wallet while plowing the street. We should like to give public thanks to this wonderful person whose honesty and thoughtfulness mark him as a super citizen and a credit to his family!

Station safety

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

How much longer will it be before Winchester commuters can safely walk the ramps and platforms of Winchester Station?

Several weeks ago I walked to catch the 8:12 to Boston and turned to see a middle-aged lady fall on the icy platform as her feet came out from under her. Obviously snow and ice maintenance on the platform is very deficient. If it is the MBTA that is responsible for maintaining the platforms, town officials should see that the MBTA carries out its responsibility.

Equally if not more dangerous are the access ramps at Winchester Station. During the winter months the ramps are always dark after 5 p.m., often icy, and frequently strewn with broken glass. Must many more commuters continue to slip or fall before some serious accident and probable law suit bring corrective action from the responsible parties?

The party responsible for ramp maintenance, as I understand it, is Porter Real Estate. I ask Mr. Murphy of Porter to fulfill his agency's responsibility, both legal and civic, to maintain the ramps in safe condition, by promptly replacing broken or burned out lights, cleaning up broken glass and quickly sanding icy spots.

If town officials have a responsibility here too, as I understand Mr. Murphy has claimed,

Public nuisance

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Why? Two years ago I took measurements—submitted a print—a petition and a cure for an offending catch basin at East street and Adams road which is in non-compliance with the town and state regulations. I asked that it be stopped from creating a public nuisance to the abutting taxpayers.

As of the last town meeting it had neither been corrected nor had I been contacted by the selectmen. At this time I indicated to the selectmen that I was happy I had neither "Held my breath or notified the abutters that the town intended to correct this problem," as I was promised would be the case.

I was again promised a letter both from the selectmen and the town manager indicating progress and a possible solution. I am happy that again I refused to fall into the same entrapment that I had previously avoided. It would have ended as fatal to me as the first. If such had been the case, I feel they sure would have appreciated it.

WHY?

—was a catch basin allowed to be installed in such a manner in the first place?
—has the condition been allowed to continue?

—has the Fire Dept. been used to rectify this condition at the taxpayers expense?
—hasn't East St. been repaired as approved 2 years ago at the annual town meeting?

Come come laddies & lassies, we taxpayers in the "North End" or "No man's Land" would like some answers or are we "A World of Lost Souls?" A public answer would be appreciated.

Town watch... Board shuns junket

Congressmen might take a cue from the Winchester School Committee when it comes to fiscal responsibility and plain old common sense: Chairman Richard Pharo, speaking for the committee in reply to an invitation from the National School Board to attend their annual convention in San Francisco, said, with emphasis, "We've never gone to this thing, we're not sending anyone this year, and we probably never will." Apparently some towns feel obliged to send the whole board off to the convention for a free vacation.

The Monday night meeting of the Board of Selectmen barely was able to get off the ground. Selectmen William Chapman and John Sullivan were away, as well as Town Manager Thomas J. Groux and Town Counsel Douglas Randall.

A quorum of three is necessary, so business could be transacted, but several items on the docket were deferred until all members could be present.

In Groux's absence, Town Engineer John H. Ciarcia sat in as acting town manager.

In one case the number of selectmen present was significant. When Theodore Anastos brought his cause for a Greek restaurant in the center of town before the board, Chairman Larry Smith suggested deferring the vote for a license until the full board could be present. Smith said, "You know, Mr. Anastos, that three affirmative votes are needed to grant your license. Every one of us here tonight would need to vote in favor of the license. I think you would feel better if the vote was postponed until next week."

Anastos accepted that suggestion gracefully, as he has all other suggestions made by the selectmen.

It was with a great deal of amusement that we noticed a town sander stuck in a large snow bank which the highway department created during the last snow storm. The sander spent several minutes with wheels spinning, engine racing, and undulating movements back and forth, back and forth, doing what so many of us have been doing these past couple of weeks.

We received a release from the Middlesex County Commissioners this week in which a proposal by Michael E. McLaughlin would bring about "major reform in the operation of Middlesex County." That's what the release said.

McLaughlin would do away with $500,000 from the county budget, funds used in the past to hire lawyers to defend indigent defendants—($15 per hour in court, $10 out of court).

He said the quality of service by the lawyers is not uniform, and "it suggests a system of patronage which tarnishes both the image of government and the legal profession. In addition," the release goes on, "the present system sometimes defends people who claim to be indigent and are in reality not indigent."

McLaughlin plans to hire 12 lawyers, one for each district court in the county and an additional attorney to administer and supervise the activities of the dozen others. He would pay each $12,000 and their super-vising attorney $16,000 a year.

It sounds like a good idea, but one we heard a while back seemed like a better one: abolish county government entirely and let its functions revert to the state. There is a considerable amount of redundancy of activity with both. Savings alone to the taxpayers would be welcome.

Kids in the kitchen

By Elizabeth
Star Correspondent

The appetizing odor in the halls of my daughter's nursery school was tantalizing but hard to identify.

"We made granola today," commented Mrs. Jean Potter, who views children as natural cooks.

The enthusiasm of the three and four-year olds at Arlington Heights nursery school was hard to contain as they described what they had accomplished.

Mrs. Potter is director of the well-established school located in the Arlington Heights Methodist Church. It draws children from both communities of Arlington and Winchester.

On a recent cold winter day I paid a visit to her home at 82 Bartlett ave. in Arlington. I found her in the kitchen of her spacious Victorian home mixing up a batch of homemade pretzels with the help of her 11-year-old daughter Margaret.

Mrs. Potter's husband, the Rev. Ralph B. Potter, teaches in the Harvard Divinity School and frequently brings home guests. His wife thinks nothing of planning dinner for 14 after working all day.

Since I was rarely allowed into my childhood kitchen, I was impressed by how my four-year-old entered into the activities in the kitchen. I borrowed a few recipes from Mrs. Potter's cookbook for children.

Santa also presented my pre-schooler with a child's cookbook and to my surprise I have a full-fledged pint-sized kitchen helper who is eager to mix, stir, sort, toss and roll out all kinds of foods.

The following two recipes are nursery school standbys for several schools.

Make-Your-Own Granola

- 1 box oatmeal (about one pound)
- 1 jar wheat germ (12 ounces)
- 1 small package coconut (3 ounces)
- 2 handfuls sesame seeds
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- Sunflower seeds
- 1 jar honey (12 ounces)
- 1-3 cup salad oil
- 1 tablespoon vanilla

Blend dry ingredients. Add wet ingredients. Mix everything well. Divide mixture in half and place in two cookie sheets. Pat it into corners so that it fills the whole pan. Place in a 275-degree oven and bake for about 40 minutes or longer, until the granola is golden brown.

Let granola cool on cookie sheets for 5 to 10 minutes until it is still warm but not hot to the touch. Then stir it. If you let it cool too long without stirring, it will get hard and solid—somewhat like a giant cookie. Then it will be harder to crumble. Store in container with tight cover so that it stays crisp.

Peanut Butter Playdough

- 1 large jar peanut butter
- Honey
- powdered milk

Add a few spoonfuls honey to peanut butter in a large bowl. Add powdered milk (either instant or non-instant). Mix with your hands while adding enough powdered milk to make a good dough. Mold into any shape or roll it out and cut out shapes with cookie cutters. Use raisins for decorations.

May seek increase in number of school committee members

The Community School Association met on January 8, and discussions were held on several important items of business.

There will be monthly articles in the Winchester Star, by the education committee, with possible subjects being the school attitudinal survey, a progress report by the report card study group, the upcoming school budget, and finally a year-end report on the activities of the Community School Association.

Suggestions have been made to the possibility of increasing the size of the school committee from five persons to seven, due to the ever increasing work load and tremendous responsibilities of this group. This would involve amending the charter and ultimately having a townwide vote through the election process.

It has been decided the Community School Association, in conjunction with the Winchester Historical Society, will sponsor a Bicentennial essay contest for Winchester students. This will be a voluntary project and those who wish may participate.

There will also be a competition for students, to decorate store windows in the downtown business area with a Bicentennial theme. These projects will be co-ordinated by the enrichment chairman and other interested persons of the various schools.

There will be a special presentation by Jack Fallon and Bill MacDonald, concerning the school budget on January 27. This meeting is for members of the Community School Association, and the school principals. An opportunity for questions will be provided during the meeting.

New local body

New growth policy committee candidates sought by board

On December 22 Governor Michael Dukakis signed legislation providing for "local growth policy committees" in all cities and towns of the Commonwealth. Winchester's Board of Selectmen is looking for citizens interested in serving on such a committee if one is indeed to be formed in this town.

Participation is voluntary by the towns and cities.

The Office of State Planning is preparing a questionnaire to be answered by the committees of those towns and cities which choose to participate. The areas of concern will include housing planning, use of open spaces and agricultural land, waterways, etc.

The local committees must be formed by January 22 and, in addition, must hold two public hearings, the first by March 22 and the second by May 22, to allow citizens to react to the findings of the committee.

Professor Larry Susskind of M.I.T. is planning a seminar at M.I.T. on January 19 to help explain the bill to committee chairmen. It is hoped that response to the questionnaire will enable the state develop a comprehensive state-wide growth and land use planning bill in 1977.

In addition to at least five townspeople, the local committee would be made up of the chairmen of the following bodies: selectmen, planning board, conservation commission, housing authority, and department of public health.

President of the League of Women Voters, Diane Simpson, spoke in favor of activating such a committee in Winchester and hoped it would represent diverse opinions so that problems of the town would be fully explored. Miss Connie Williams, a resident particular interested in housing affairs, spoke in favor of the committee and offered her name for consideration as a member.

Selectwoman Barbara S. Hankins said she thought the idea of a local committee was a good one and said, "For once we are being asked ahead of time what we want instead of being told."

Selectman Arthur Dunbar expressed concern that the town would be penalized, financially or otherwise, if it did not join other towns in forming local growth policy committees.

The act, known as the Wetmore-McKinnon Act, provides for a questionnaire to include questions and requests for proposed policies relating to the following: a. local growth management problems of the highest priority; b. criteria for the identification of developments of regional impact and areas of critical planning concern in or near the responding municipality; c. ways in which the activities of state agencies involved in the allocation of state and federal funds for economic development, capital improvements, open space preservation, and other activities related to land use can be coordinated to prevent waste and inefficiency; d. community goals for growth and conservation and the adequacy of existing laws for achieving those goals; e. the type and costs of public improvements — sewers, water lines, trash disposal facilities, roadways, etc. — needed to accommodate the existing population and likely to be needed if the population continues to increase and if economic growth is to be made possible; f. the impact of property tax policy on development and the significance of prospective property tax revenues in the local and regional decision making processes.

restaurant on that corner. He had been concerned about a possible traffic problem developing in what he called "an already congested and dangerous area." He said that he was now inclined to support an undertaking which would revitalize the center and provide the town with a restaurant suitable for businessmen and families. Anastos responded that he intended to comply with all regulations from all departments concerned. He reiterated his intention of opening a high class restaurant where a businessman could entertain a client and where families could go in the early evening. His wife said that any additional expenditures to comply with regulations would not in any way effect the quality or appearance of the Mediterranean-decor facility.

Selectmen, in the absence of two members of the board, deferred any further discussion pending a more detailed description of the restaurant. Anastos said he would have the additional information to the selectmen by mid-week. The item will be on next week's docket.

Irked resident complains to board

John Walsh, 21 Baldwin st., spoke before the Board of Selectmen Monday night for the second time in two weeks about the refueling of trucks at 39 Holton st.

Accompanied by four neighbors, Walsh said he found the noise and smell from A & P and Cloverleaf trucks refueling in the neighborhood to be obnoxious and unacceptable.

Chairman Larry Smith replied that he had spoken with Town Counsel Douglas Randall who reviewed the license issued to Mystic Builder Supply, the owner of the property at 39 Holton. A license was issued in 1959 which did not inhibit the owner from leasing the property. Contrary to current issuances, the 1959 license did not have restrictions providing for renewal.

George Whitten, current lessee of the property, has been notified of the complaint against him.

Walsh brought photographs he had taken showing trucks refueling in what he called illegal activity. He said that trucks were left running all afternoon Sunday until about 8:30.

Chairman Smith agreed that there is a definite problem, but that the difficulty is in trying to find ways of legally forcing Whitten to refrain from this activity. Town Counsel Randall will look into ways of solving the problem. Smith assured Walsh and his neighbors that the board has not abandoned the question.

In other complaints, Walsh stated again his disappointment in the town's snow removal activities in his neighborhood. He also requested once again that selectmen see what can be done about installing a flashing orange light on Cross st. at the intersection of Baldwin and Holton st. He gave selectmen a formal letter to pass on to the safety officer.

Seconds are critical when fire strikes your home

Smoke creeping under a door... a reflected orange glow in the night. Your home is burning!

A terrifying picture, but it can happen to you. If it does, the lives of your family depend on getting out fast. Every second can make the difference between escape and tragedy.

That's why your family deserves the Honeywell Fire and Smoke Detector. It detects fire in its earliest stages and sounds a piercing 85-decibel alarm horn. So you, Mom and the kids have more time to get out.

The Honeywell Fire and Smoke Detector gives you peace of mind — the peace of mind that comes with knowing your family has the protection they deserve.

Call us today about the Honeywell Fire and Smoke Detector. Because seconds are critical when fire strikes your home.

Miss Evans is the granddaughter of Mr. J. William Plunkett and the grandniece of Mr. Gerald J. Keevey, both of Bacon st.

Library films

January 18 & 20

Family of N'Gumba—Our hero in this film is N'Gumba, a six-year old African boy. His adventures include the arrival of his new baby brother and joining the village men in tracking down a panther.

Ghosts and Ghouls—This film is the story of a group of British children who investigate a haunted house. Their adventures, although spooky, are also humorous as the new recruit to their gang finds out.

The Stonecutter—A Japanese legend provides the background for this colorful film.

On Sunday afternoon the family program is held in the Story Hour Room of the Junior Library and will begin at 2. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children. There will be a Tuesday afternoon program for school age children. It will begin at 2.

Library offers museum tickets

Starting the first of the year, the Winchester Public Library is offering a new service. The library has acquired two memberships to the Fine Arts Museum of Boston. A ticket of admission will be available to registered borrowers who are residents of Winchester.

This pass may be checked out at the Reference Desk for a 48 hour period and will admit the holder to the museum any time it is open. It is also good for certain discounts at the gift shop.

The Fine Arts Museum is renowned for its Egyptology Section throughout the United States. Other important collections are Chinese, Japanese, Greek, Roman, European, and American arts, including sculpture, painting, prints, and textiles. It also houses a priceless collection of early musical instruments. Many special exhibits are planned during the year.

Mrs. Leila-Jane Roberts, Director of the Winchester Library believes that there will be an enthusiastic response to this latest service.

Garden Club meets Jan. 21

The Winchester Home and Garden Club will meet on Wednesday, January 21, at Gifford Hall, in the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church at 1 p.m. Refreshments will be served prior to the program scheduled at 1:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Jeanne Ambuter, of Jamaica Plain, and her daughter, Robin Longstreet, entertaining "Heritage Cooking with Bicentennial Foods."

Mrs. J. Robinson Fogg, director of East Middlesex

Daniel Eugene Carey
Gene and Susan (McDonald) Carey announce the birth of Daniel Eugene on January 7 at Winchester Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Carey live at 9 Temple st., Arlington. Daniel is their first child.

Coleman E. Foley

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Foley, 41 Prescott st., Reading, announce the birth of Coleman Edward January 3 at Winchester Hospital. He is their second child and first son. Mrs. Foley's maiden name is Catherine Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman G. Foley of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Kelly of Reading are the grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Borchelt

Politano-Borchelt wed

St. Eulalia's Church was the setting for the recent marriage of Rosemary A. Politano and Donald J. Borchelt. Rev. Michael Dolan performed the nuptial mass for which the bride and groom selected the liturgy.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Politano of 11 Summer st. The groom is the son of Mrs. Walter Borchelt of Cincinnati and the late Mr. Walter Borchelt.

Escorted to the altar by both her father and mother, the bride wore a white satrapeau gown featuring a pin tuck yoke accented with beaded Alencon lace appliques and a ruffled high neckline. The gown had full bishop sleeves with Belgium lace cuffs and a Belgium lace ruffle hemline extending around a full cathedral train. The bride's headpiece consisted of lace edged illusion veiling caught to a lace trimmed Camelot crown. She carried a cascade of Stephanotis, white roses, ivy, and baby's breath.

Mrs. Frank L. Politano of Nutley, N.J. was matron of honor. She wore a royal blue halter-type knit gown with matching jacket and carried a cascade of crysanthemums, daisies, and baby's breath.

Best man for his brother was Mr. Richard Borchelt of Cincinnati. Ushers were Mr. Frank Politano of Nutley, N.J., brother of the bride, and Mr. Brian O'Neill of Chestnut Hill.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Politano chose a lace trimmed, A-line shrimp color chiffon gown with matching cape. Mrs. Borchelt wore an empire gown of pale blue chiffon with lace bodice.

An evening reception was held at Caruso's Diplomat in Saugus.

The bride holds a bachelor's degree from Boston College and a master's degree in library science from Simmons College. She is currently employed as a librarian in the Wilmington Public Schools.

The bridegroom also holds a bachelor's degree from Boston College and is enrolled in a master's program in urban planning at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design.

After a honeymoon in Williamsburg, Virginia, the couple is residing in Medford.

Osgood-Hoerner

Rebecca Ann Osgood

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Osgood of Winchester and Rockport announce the engagement of their daughter, Rebecca Ann, to Thomas Hoerner. Mr. Hoerner is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Earl F. Hoerner of Livingston, N.J.

A summer wedding is planned. Miss Osgood graduated from Smith College with the class of 1975, Magna Cum Laude, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. She is currently attending Cornell University Medical College in New York City and studying for an M.D. degree.

Her father is vice president of GTE Sylvania, Inc. and a retired colonel in the U.S. Air Force.

Mr. Hoerner graduated from Bowdoin College in 1974, Summa Cum Laude. He is also at the Cornell University Medical College and is president of his class there.

Miss Haggerty to wed

Catherine A. Haggerty

Local man makes weekly donations

Jim Lawton, a student at Wentworth Institute and a resident at 105 Pond st., is among a team of volunteers who weekly donate blood platelets to the Jimmy Fund.

The platelets are essential to cancer treatment because when injected into the system, they adhere to the walls of the blood vessels, preventing the inner bleeding caused by leukemia.

Unfortunately, platelets can not be frozen and have a shelf life of 48 hours, and they are in constant demand for patient treatment.

The process of donating blood platelets requires two hours of the volunteer's time. After the platelets are taken, the red blood cells are returned to the donor.

Wentworth has been assisting the Jimmy Fund for five years, having a group on call for emergencies. Jim Lawton is one of a Wentworth team of faculty and students who donate on a weekly basis.

Miss Murphy plans September wedding

Mr. & Mrs. Edward J. Murphy Jr., 24 Avalon rd., Stoneham, are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Debra Ann, to Stephen F. Pickul Jr., of Ipswich.

Debra is a graduate of Winchester High School and attended Mass. Bay Community College. Stephen is a graduate of Ipswich High School and Boston College School of Business.

Both are employed by the Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America.

A September wedding is planned.

Walter E. Kloss, senior chaplain at the New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham, receives a symbolic revised standard version copy of the Bible from Carl S. Stricklin, executive director of the Massachusetts Bible Society. The Society has provided r.s.v. copies of the Scriptures to the hospital. The 167-year-old society distributes over 400,000 copies of Bibles and Scriptures in 50 different languages each year.

Hood officer set to retire

W.O. "Bob" Whiting, a Winchester resident and executive vice president and chief operating officer of H.P.
Hood, Inc., has announced his retirement after a career which spans 45 years. He will continue as a director of the company.

W. O. Whiting

Whiting started with Hood as a plant worker in St. Albans, Vermont, and advanced through numerous positions until he was named vice president for country operations in 1961. Shortly thereafter he assumed additional duties as head of Hood's citrus operations in Florida.

In 1966 he became executive vice president responsible for the day-to-day operation of the company which last year reported sales in excess of $400,000,000.

Whiting is widely known in agribusiness circles as an astute businessman and public speaker who combines the best qualities of a Vermont native and a successful business executive.

A graduate of the Advanced Management Program of the Harvard Business School, to which he returns frequently as a lecturer, he is a former director of the C.H. Hood Foundation, the Vermont
Dairy association, and the J.O.
Whitten Company of Winchester, Mass., and is currently an associate member of the Florida Citrus Exchange.

He and Mrs. Whiting, who was also born in Johnson, Vt., divide their time between homes in Winchester and Florida, and a summer cottage at Lake Carmi, Vermont.

Sachem sextet gets 2-2 tie in last seconds with Burlington

By John F. Parrell

The Winchester hockey team rebounded from its debacle against Stoneham and showed almost unbelievable improvement in the one week of practice as they deadlocked the strong Burlington Red Devils 2-2.

It was a complete reversal of form and found the local players scrapping hard and presenting an airtight defense as the fast-skating visitors were thwarted in many scoring attempts by the defensive corps and Cliff Falla in the Sachem nets.

It was evident from the early minutes of action that Winchester was ready and eager to play hockey. They covered their assignments carefully, skated well and showed no signs of being overawed by the experienced Red Devil ice men. They also threatened to score several times themselves and finally did break the scoring ice as when Bill Paglia drove home a shot with assists from Jay Frongillo and Duck Allard at the 10:33 mark of the opening period.

The Red Devils struck back early in the second session when the elusive and tricky Castroberti banged in a slap shot after passes by Murphy and Woodward after only 57 seconds of play in the second period. Play continued at a fast clip with neither side being able to finish off a scoring due to close covering by the opposition.

However, one slip by the Sachems gave Burlington a second goal at 10:57 when a clearing pass out went directly onto the stick of Cowles who golfed in a blistering shot that Cliff Falla never had a chance to stop. With this lead the Burlington crew felt more secure, but they kept on driving for a safer margin. Winchester was not doing too much on the attack and as the third period was closing it looked like a good effort but no points for the home team.

But at the 13:37 point there came an unexpected break when Burlington was called for having seven men on the ice. Winchester pressed the attack and Mark Cullen zipped a pass to Co-captain Gerry Kivney who golfed a shot 30 feet into the air. It seemed headed for the glass on the dasher but the Red Devil net minder McSweeney reached up to grab it. The puck bounced off his hand and his back into the cage as the Sachem supporters went wild. All last minute efforts by both teams failed and Winchester had shaken the Middlesex League by deadlocking the second place Burlington sextet and it was all the more sensational since the tying goal came with only 22 seconds left to play.

The summary:

Monday evening the Sachems played the game scheduled for Saturday with the high flying and undefeated Melrose team. The first period ended at a one all tie, but the Red Raiders kept increasing the pressure as the time went by. They tallied a pair in the second period and added three more in the final session.

They kept Cliff Falla very busy in the Sachem goal and he came up with several sensational saves. But the talented Raiders showed why they have now eight in a row with smooth passing, fast skating and airtight defense. Co-captain Gerry Kivney was Winchester's scorer.

WINCHESTER 1 0 0 1

The third game of the week found the Sachems playing the Wakefield sextet at Stoneham. It would be nice to report that they continued their success but it was not to be. The Warriors won rather easily 5-1 as the Sachems suffered a letdown in their play and several penalties added to their woes. George Surabian netted the Sachem goal.

The second half of the schedule begins next Saturday when Watertown comes here for a four o'clock game. Belmont will also be seen at the U.S.A. rink on Wednesday afternoon with a 3:45 p.m. faceoff.

Pee Wee's defeat Arlington, Waltham; take Xmas tourney

The underdog Pee Wee A's hockey team surprised a strong Arlington team, defeating them 3-2, and then swept past Waltham 4-1 to capture the Christmas Tourney title. The games were held at the Arlington rink.

Paul White (2) and Jay Berrardi (1) scored early as Winchester played aggressively and carried the play to the favored Arlington team. Brian Donnellan, Jerry Kimball, Jim Surette and John Huebel played exceptionally well in this semi-final game.

The afternoon final saw Michael Surabian, Brian Donnellan, Eric Johnson, and Larry Maiba all scoring for Winchester. Joe Donlon, Kirk Lawson, Alan McCarthy, and Eric Donakey provided numerous exciting moments as Winchester continually attacked the Waltham goal. Exceptional goal tending was provided by Bobby Giarrizzo and Steve Noble.

Pee Wee Lions get win and tie

The St. Eulalia Pee Wee Lions defeated the Burlington team from the Middlesex League by a score of 4-2 at Belmont Hill on Dec. 28 in a well-played hockey game.

The Lions were led by the forward line of Chris Parker, Tim Keaveney, and Jim D'Antuono, together with the fine defensive work of Paul White and Brad Johnson.

The Lions struck early with a goal by Parker, and then made it 2-0 on a score by D'Antuono before Burlington found the mark in the second period. Billy Ferry then scored an unassisted goal on an end-to-end rush to raise the score to 3-1, and D'Antuono finished the scoring for St. E's with his second goal.

For most of the third period, the Lions Gerry Kivney (16) of the Sachems, just missed a goal on Wakefield net in third period action Saturday. (Photo by Don Young) played a defensive game, surrendering a second goal, but never losing control as they coasted to their fifth victory of the season.

In a pair of closely contested games with the strong Billerica Hughes team of the Wilmington Youth Hockey League, the Lions managed a 3-2 victory at Billerica on Dec. 26, after dropping a tough 4-2 decision at Belmont Hill on Dec. 14.

In the first game, the Lions more than held their own against their hard-skating opponents, but fell behind 2-0 before Billy Ferry scored with an assist from Brud Houlihan. Chris Parker scored an unassisted goal in the third period to even the count at 2-2, but Billerica scored on a power play and then weathered heavy pressure from St. E's for the remainder of the game. The final Billerica goal was scored into an empty net to end the game at 4-2.

At Billerica, the Lions widely outplayed their opponents in a fast-moving game that featured superlative goal tending at both ends of the rink. Jackie Davies was outstanding in the St. Eulalia goal throughout the game, while Joey Sciacca was a going concern up front.

The Lions jumped off to an early 2-0 lead on a goal by Sciacca from John Huebel and Brad Johnson, followed shortly after by a goal from Billy Ferry, with an assist from Sciacca. Billerica scored in the second period, but St. E's made it 3-1 on a goal by Steve Tucci off Steve Dionne's pass from behind the net.

The game tightened up in the third period when Billerica scored a second goal. However, the rally fell short and the game ended with a 3-2 score, as the Lions missed some good chances at any empty Billerica net.

A 24-hour dog leash law is now in effect in Winchester.

Tight race in hoop league

By JOHN F. PARRELL

When action started last week in the Middlesex Basketball League, Coach "Doc" Wheeler's Sachems showed in front with a perfect record. However, the Winchester forces suffered a letdown against Belmont as they lost in overtime 62-61. They had a hectic, come-from-behind win against Wakefield on Friday to post a 51-46 decision.

The standings: Monday:

Winchester	4-0
Burlington	3-1
Wakefield	3-1

Wednesday:

Winchester	4-1
Burlington	4-1
Lexington	4-1
Wakefield	4-1

Saturday:

Winchester	5-1
Burlington	5-1
Lexington	5-1
Wakefield	4-2

This set up a direct confrontation with the Lexington Minutemen on Tuesday of this week and the result was: Lexington 73, Winchester 63. Winchester played without Tri-captain Wayne Mills and his brother Glenn who were both bedded down with the flu.

The Sachme team did not play its best basketball in either of last week's games and an ice-cold first period and early foul trouble prevented them from playing their regular style of game. Collins of Belmont had 22 points and a healthy number of rebounds to put Winchester's quintet at a disadvantage.

However, they snapped back from their early scoring deficit and from half time to the final whistle it was nip and tuck all the way. The Sachems had their chances and a missed shot here and there could have iced the verdict for them. However, it was not to be and when the regulation time ran out the Belmont team posted nine overtime points to one less for the Red and Black and the four way deadlock for first place was forged. Kirk Swanson with 21 points led the Sachem scorers.

Friday night's game with the Wakefield Warriors was interesting, but far below the standard of play that the Sachems have shown in several of their earlier games. A couple of court-length passes to rangy Tom Russo pushed the Warriors into an early lead and a solid defense by the visitors kept Winchester away from good shooting range.

Then they started to accumulate foul troubles and before long Tri-captain Stoeckle was forced out of action. The frustrated Winchester team managed to score only one first period basket and they were down by 11-5 when the quarter ended. They rallied during the second quarter and the Warriors slipped back a bit. However, four consecutive foul shots by Bill Cole were converted and it was Wakefield by 21-19 at the half.

Shooting a little better and playing sounder defense the Sachems moved ahead in the third quarter as they netted 13 points while holding Wakefield to only seven. However, the early stages of the fourth quarter found the Warriors moving even and eventually showing in front.

This was due in no small measure to more foul trouble for Winchester and the calling of a technical foul for players protesting the calls of the officials. This was a surprising development because they had beaten Burlington a few games back when the Red Devil players tried to play the game and officiate at the same time.

With about four minutes to go Winchester caught the Warriors. A strong defense and some poor shots by the visitors resulted in only one hoop for Wakefield and nine consecutive points for the Sachems from the free throw line spelled victory for Winchester. Tri-captain Dan Heffernan tallied 15 points for Winchester while Tom Russo netted 18 for the Warriors.

The foul trouble caused the Sachem mentor to use several of the reserved and they should to good advantage in the floor play. Jim Burns and Don Allard looked good. The former played hard aggressive defensive and rebounding basketball, while Don helped the play making with some smooth ball handling. This may help in future games because there is no need of losing players or games on technical fouls as the season advances.

Clean air makes for clean lungs.

Wakefield's fifth and final goal is about to get past Winchester goalie Cliff Falla in final period of game won 5-1 by Wakefield Saturday night.

Town Youth Hockey

Goalies are often unjustly faulted when a great many goals are scored in a game. The Winchester Youth Hockey League is a fun league where boys are encouraged to play while they learn. For many, it's their first opportunity to play on an organized team and a rewarding experience. In many instances the accent is on offense and the defense suffers. The goalies are to be congratulated for hanging in there during the bombardment of shots and already there has been a marked improvement in the agility of Jerry Kenney and Frank Vozzella who played both games last Sunday.

The boys of Winchester are most fortunate to have a fine gentleman like former Bruin Eddie Sandford on the ice to point out their mistakes as they happen and to instruct them on the spot.

Red Wings, coached by Bob Simpson, topped Tony Guarente's Capitals in a spirited contest 6-4, with Hugo LaFauci, Tom Brown and Mike Jackson all netting two goals. These boys also proved to be playmakers as well by getting all the assists, Hugo (4), Mike (3), Tom (1).

Capitals lamplighters were Scott Kajander with an unassisted goal, Bob Torriere, Rich Pantaleo and Mark Cassino had one each. Bob and Rich along with Phil Monson each had an assist.

The second game was a hard-fought win for the Bruins over the Black Hawks 5-3. Scott Manley's experience helped him get the hat trick with single goals by Rich Kimball and Rick Burke. Plugging Jim Connelly came through with two assists for Dick Burke's Bruins.

The dynamic duo of Sean Mandeville and Tom Masiello had the Bruins down early with two pretty goals by Sean set up by Tom's fancy stickhandling and passes. Brian Sullivan and Steve Barrett each popped one in. Steve's coming on a strong rink-length effort. As soon as coaches Mike O'Leary and Kevin O'Neil can convince the Black Hawks that teamwork wins games, this will be a formidable team.

Hockey allstars to play on TV tonight

Tonight the Middlesex Pee Wee Allstar team, the Boston Jr. Braves will meet the G.B.I. Allstars at Boston Garden between the first and second period of the Bruins-Los Angeles game. T.V. 38 will carry the game.

Two Winchester boys will be there, playing for the Braves. Steven Sughrue, 24 Canterbury rd., will be wearing no. 30 and playing goal; John Boyle, 28 Garfield ave., will be wearing no. 5 and playing right wing.

Both boys play for the Winchester Youth Hockey Blackhawks and were selected to play on the 1976 Jr. Braves after tryouts were held by the Middlesex League.

The coaches for the Braves are John Falla

Mauger breaks record twice

Coach Tom Kline's track forces divided their last two meets, beating Stoneham 51-35 and losing to Lexington 59-27. The scores would have been almost identical but for the disqualification of the Sachem relay team in the Lexington meet.

Rick Mauger, who earlier this season set a new Winchester 300-yard dash mark of 33.8 seconds lowered it to 33.5 seconds against Stoneham and only three days later cut it to 33.3 seconds in the meet with the Minutemen. At the rate he is going it would appear that he may shatter the mystic 33 second mark barring bad luck or injury.

The victory over Stoneham came on good balance as Winchester had the edge in all events except the dash, high jump and relay. A complete sweep in the shot put, a one-two performance in the 1000-yard run and the relay disqualification gave Lexington 21 points to provide the winning margin.

The Wakefield Warriors will provide the opposition next Saturday morning at Lexington starting at 8:45 A.M.

SPIRITS OF '76

by DAN BUSA

A hot drink, wrote the Roman

Petronius, "is as good as an overcoat."

We couldn't agree more with the sentiment, especially when the drink is laced with wine or whiskey, rum or brandy, plied with spices, and mellowed with butter or honey. When the winds of winter begin to bluster, nothing is more cheerful and warming than a hot, spirited cup of "Whiskey Toddy." For each drink combine 3 oz. whiskey in a mug or goblet with 2 tbs. sugar syrup, 2 or 3 whole cloves, piece of cinnamon stick, and a thin slice of lemon or lime. Fill the mug to the top with boiling water, add dash of nutmeg...

Mmmmmmm!

For the largest selection of brand name liquors of all types, imported wines from all over the world and "Spirit of '76" vodka, whiskey, cordials, wines, gin and champagne visit our locations. "Keep Up Your Spirits With Spirit of '76 Products," handled exclusively by BUSA LIQUORS locations in Burlington and Lexington. Stores open Mon thru Sat. 9 am-10pm. Telephone: 861-1776.

Bicycle safety Committee to promote town-wide cycling

The Winchester Bicycle Study Committee is working towards certain goals and objectives to make bicycle use an attractive, efficient and safe means of transportation throughout the town.

Committee members in a meeting last week, expressed concern about all conditions affecting bicyclists, whether it be frozen snow shoveled into the street, or broken bottles puncturing tires.

To ultimately improve these conditions the bike committee plans to administer random surveys to the town's youth and adult population.

Once residents' needs are determined the committee in turn will study bicycle traffic flow and safety.

Data obtained from the door to door sampling and the survey administered at the high school hopefully will pinpoint problem areas where improvement can be made.

The two surveys will also determine what percentage of the sample view cycling to be a viable means of transportation. The questions will be designed so that results may be computerized.

Chairman David W. Drummond says his committee intends to talk with the town's "movers and shapers" regarding their concerns. They plan to work closely with the highway department and will soon meet with Safety Officer McKinley to discuss his general bike safety program.

Looking toward spring and the dedication of the Aberjona Bike Pathway, the committee hopes to coordinate activities with other town groups, such as the Jaycees.

This two and half mile route along the Aberjona, serving three of the four Winchester railroad stations, was built from a 1974 town meeting appropriation of $6,000 matched by another $6,000 from the Bicentennial Commission.

Chairman Drummond says that if use of the Aberjona Bike Path indicates town interest in bicycling, then the committee may suggest other bike routes throughout Winchester.

Senate Bill 1077

It's possible that if Senate bill 1077 passes, funds for proposed bike paths could come from Massachusetts Fuel Excise Tax. The Bicycle study committee plans to send a letter to the Senate in support of this endeavor, with certain qualifications.

This bike path bill, which is currently held up in the Senate Ways and Means Committee, would take one per cent of the fuel tax and put it toward expansion of bikeways throughout the state.

But the Winchester committee objects to the percentage allocation. "I would prefer a set amount to do the job, rather than a percentage which could yield either excessive or insufficient funds," says Marjorie H. Moore, secretary of the bike study committee.

She further added that of the 7 1/2 cents motor fuel tax assessed on each gasoline gallon, four and a half cents goes toward highway maintenance.

to dull one's skepticism, and awareness. Many of the reasons kids drink are the same that apply for adults as well. Kids drink to assimilate, to be mature and to prove that they are adults—often times without even realizing it.

So what are we to do about it? We all must make the conscious effort not to turn our backs on the problem and pretend that it will go away but, rather to talk about it and admit that it does exist. Not until we do this can we begin to help each other because it affects us all.

Joe Bellino named coach

Joe Bellino, former Winchester High gridiron star, who also played for the Naval Academy, has been named football coach at Saint Columbkille's High School in Brighton. The Heisman Trophy winner later played professional football with the Boston Patriots, and has his own catering and food service business in Wilmington.

He stated in an interview that he now has time to return to the gridiron wars and is delighted with the opportunity to be back in action.

Accidentally Overheard
by JIM CONNELLY
Are you one of those lucky few, the people who can afford to buy on impulse and to splurge on luxury items without a second thought? Experts say that if so, you are a real asset to our consumer geared economy. We all enjoy an occasional mad buy, however, some of which may not be so good for our personal economy. If you need to save money, budgeting is important, but so is careful shopping. Be wise to advertising in all its forms. It can inform or entertain, but you are the one to make the final decision. Ask yourself: is this purchase necessary? Durable? Effective? Is this the best price?

You'll find the best prices on film, cameras, projectors, photo accessories, etc., at WINCHESTER CAMERA SHOP, 36 Waterfield St., (near PO) 729-3636. We also offer rentals on our equipment. Bring your problem cameras to us for expert repairs and advice. We're open from 9 'til 5:30 Mon. thru Sat. — closed all day Wed., Thurs. open 'til 6:30.
SAVINGS TIP: Curb impulse buying by cultivating the habit of comparison shopping and reading up on value tests.

Travel Along with Mavis McGrath

The Spaniards came to the Caribbean for gold. They came buckled in armor, steel blades. Once arrived, they struggled through swamps and jungles and climbed mountains in search of that precious commodity. Now, the Spanish empire stands in ruins, but what remains! In town and country houses and in churches, the skill and sensibility of Spanish artisans still shine. Cathedrals are characteristically Spanish, with towers at each corner. Rich decoration is to be found everywhere.

This is a vacationer's delight. Reserve early. Come to MCGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE, 14 Eaton Avenue, Woburn. The Caribbean is a fantasy land that really exists. Let their magnetism draw you to these magic shores. Flights are arranged for comfort, convenience, speed and pleasure by us, who make it all so easy. You'll never regret it. Call 935-0600. Open daily 9-5 Saturdays and evenings by appointment.

TRAVEL TIP: A spool of white and a spool of black thread with one needle is the best travelling sewing kit to be had.

St. Mary's Sodality hears sister talk on religious education

The featured speaker at the monthly meeting of St. Mary's Sodality was Sister Mary Christopher, R.S.M., religious education coordinator (high school and adult) of St. Mary's Parish. She addressed herself to the question of "Religious Education—Program or Process?"

In addition to her many years in the field of social service, Sr. Christopher's background includes the presidency of Salve Regina College in Newport, R.I.; the inauguration of the Head Start program in Rhode Island; and service as first president of the executive board, Poverty Program, Newport County, R.I.

Sr. Mary Christopher was professor at the Boston University Graduate School of Education prior to coming to Winchester.

Her degrees include a doctorate in sociology from Notre Dame and an honorary degree in the humanities from Salve Regina College.

Lesley alumni sponsor show

On Saturday, January 24, the Lesley College Alumni Association will present the sixth annual breakfast and fashion show, the proceeds of which will become part of the college's alumni scholarship fund.

For a donation of $4, each participant will enjoy a continental breakfast at Boston's Lord & Taylor's Bird Cage restaurant, followed by a fashion show. For further information, contact Jane Robertson Ryer, Central st., the alumni regional representative for Winchester, or call the alumni office at Lesley college.

Mystic School students raise funds in sale

Before the Christmas recess, the Mystic School fifth and sixth grades sold Christmas decorations and gifts which they had made to other Mystic School students. It was a complete sellout. The money raised will help to pay for the outdoor education fund.

On January 21 Mystic School will have its annual open house from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Parents are invited to their children's classrooms to view their work. The two grades will have a bake sale during open house. This too will raise money for their outdoor education fund. During open house refreshments will also be served in the auditorium.

Unitarians to hear of energy tests

The Adult Program Committee of the Winchester Unitarian Church will make available the computerized results of the Energy I.Q. questionnaire distributed last Sunday. More than 70 persons participated in the discussion and the "energy awareness" program.

Individuals were requested to fill out an "energy I.Q. survey card. Mr. Edward Barker, lecturer at Wentworth Institute has computerized the results of this survey and will make the information available this Sunday.

The Worship service begins at 10:30. Reverend Jack Zoerheide preaching on the subject "A Theology of Earth. Who Needs It?" The adult program and discussion begins at 11:30. Public invited.

TV course to aid 766

The Catholic University of America is offering a T.V. course: "Helping Children With Special Needs." The course is designed for the classroom teacher, but would be of interest to anyone who works with children or who is involved with Chapter 766. Particular emphasis is placed on strategies for handling children of different abilities, learning styles, interests and needs in a regular classroom. Practical rather than theoretical aspects of individualized instruction are stressed.

The course was developed in cooperation with the Lexington Teacher Training Project to assist the working teacher or student-teacher in conforming to the demands of Chapter 766.

The course will be shown on Channel 7, WNAC-TV from January 12-24 from 5:50-6:50 and on January 25, 6-7 a.m. On Channel 27, WSMW-TV the course begins January 17 and will be shown Saturday and Sunday mornings from 7:00-8:00 a.m. with no telecasts Feb. 14, 15, 21, and 22.

The Pupil Services office of the Winchester School Department has enrollment applications for anyone wishing to take the course for credit. Non-credit participation is also welcome and those wishing the set of ten study guides should contact NRTV, 88 Tremont st., Boston, Ma. 02108.

VFW Auxiliary

The Aberjona Ladjes Auxiliary 3719, Veterans Foreign Wars, will hold its monthly social at the Post Quarters on River st., Monday, Jan. 26 at 8 p.m.

Chairmen Kay O'Brien and Mae Lombardi invites the public. Refreshments will be served.

Drama workshops for youth to begin

Boys and girls from ages 8 to 15 may register now at the recreation department for a new tuition-free series of ten creative drama sessions led by Paulett Taggart. She will be assisted by teachers from Theater Workshop Boston where she trained in improvisation and by students from Tufts University where she taught "Learning through improvisation" in the Experimental College.

As the registrations come in, groups will be arranged according to age to meet once a week beginning on Tuesday, February 24 from 1:00 to 2:30 at the Wyman School and Wednesday, February 25 and Thursday, February 26 from 3:00 to 4:30 at the Lincoln School. They will be limited to 15 participants.

As a non-competitive physical activity not requiring athletic ability the Drama Workshop adds a nice balance to the town's active sports programs. At the same time it supplements the cognitive learning of the school classroom. Even the finest intellect is part of a being who has also five major senses and imagination and the eventual use of that intellect may well depend in human terms on a healthy imagination and an acute sensitivity.

Sessions begin with physical warm-up exercises and Hatha Yoga for toning up and relaxing muscles and organs. Sensory awareness exercises stimulate the imagination through one or more of the five senses. Creative movement focuses on fundamentals which help to free the actor to experiment with his or her relationship to the surrounding space, while classic mime unveils humans interacting with physical phenomena.

Theater games provide framework to support the player as he discovers new paths of communication needed to solve a given problem. From the structure of the game the group moves on to open-ended improvisation, which begins with spontaneous scenes. These can eventually develop into an audience performance such as "Sun-Where", a theater piece on energy composed by the Winchester Drama Workshop.

Registration is open to all, regardless of experience. Newcomers will find creative drama an ideal introduction to theater art, veterans of children's theater will enjoy concentrating on acting skills without the demands and limitations of a script; and those with no stage ambitions will enjoy the opportunity to explore and develop individual creativity.

Further information may be obtained from Paulett Taggart, 17 Ridgefield rd., or from Mary Klug, assistant to Donald L. Spinney, director of the recreation dept.

Portraits subject of demonstration at the library

The Winchester Art Association invites its members and the public to attend a portrait demonstration by Vincent J. Tringale on Thursday evening, January 22 at 7:45 at the Public Library.

The artist is professor of art and chairperson, Department of Fine Arts and Education at Boston State College.

Professor Tringale paints all motifs but his forte is portraiture. His portraits are in collections at Boston State College, Newman Preparatory School, Boston, Harvard Club, Boston, many business establishments and private collections. The professor is the founder of Chelsea Fine Art Courses - 1950, and in 1965 established the Tringale Studio of Art at 47 Independence dr. in Woburn.

Professor Tringale exhibits at the Copley Society of Boston, Woburn Artist's Guild and at the Falmouth Guild of Artists, Cape Cod. He lectures on art and history of art as well as demonstrating portrait painting.

Members please note: regular meetings changed from Tuesday evening to Thursday evening.

DAR committee to meet January 19

The next meeting of the Committee of Safety DAR will be held on Jan. 19 at the home of Mrs. E. Carl Hoglund, 26 Willowdale rd. Dessert and coffee will be served at 1:30 p.m.

The afternoon program will be about conservation. Mrs. Howard Frazier of Winchester will speak about the Winchester Environmental Protection Agency. Her talk will also include the subjects of recycling and the educational program in the schools on endangered wildlife.

Silent auction to open SPCA program

A Silent Auction will be the 1976 opening activity of the Winchester S.P.C.A. on Monday, January 19, 1:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Winthrop Knox, One Westgate st.

Members may bring guests that afternoon. Many choice items will be found for bidding that day, including new boutique and antique treasures. Afternoon tea will be served.

Oriental dance classes offered

Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney announced that the Winchester Recreation Department will conduct Oriental dance and posture classes under the direction of well known dance instructor Brenda Gardner.

Spinney said classes will be open to all Winchester residents wishing to learn the ancient but exciting form of dance which is rapidly becoming the biggest fad in the nation.

Classes will begin on Wednesday, February 4, with a class offered at 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the Lynch Junior High School. Spinney also reminds the residents that this form of exercise can be enjoyed by all age groups.

Registration can be made by calling Miss Dillon at the Recreation office.

LWV set to hold land use meeting

The first general meeting of the Winchester League of Women Voters to be held this year will take place in the Meeting Room of the Winchester Public Library at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, January 21. The "Save the Park Committee" will discuss the Wadleigh School Site (corner of Mt. Vernon and Washington streets) at the meeting which is open to the public.

The Committee wishes to present its views and provide information to the League and interested townspeople, with the hope of gaining support and having an exchange of ideas. To stimulate discussion, members of the Planning Board will also be present.

All members of the League are urged to attend as well as any town citizen who would be interested.

George C. Austin

George C. Austin, 64, of 32 Highland ave., died January 4 at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital following a long illness.

A funeral mass was said by Father Francis O'Hare at the Church of St. Ann in Somerville January 6. Burial was at Mt. Pleasant cemetery in Arlington.

A former resident of Somerville and a graduate of Somerville High School, Mr. Austin was food manager at the Deli Coop in Boston. Illness forced him to retire several years ago.

Mr. Austin's parents were the late George R. and Elizabeth H. (Boudreau) Austin.

Surviving him are his wife, Alice B. (Jewer) Austin, and six children: George C. Jr., of Natick; C. Paul of Winchester; Lynda Lee Shurick, of Natick; and Melanie Scanlon, Gail Leone, and Cheryl Tomasetti, all of New Jersey. He also leaves nine grandchildren.

Donations may be made in his memory to the Leukemia Fund of America, 739 Boylston st., Boston.

Arrangements were by G.F. McKenna & Son Funeral Home in Somerville.

Michael DeLuca

A funeral mass was said for Michael DeLuca January 14 at St. Eulalia's Church. Mr. DeLuca, a Winchester resident for 25 years, died January 11 at Winchester Hospital following a brief illness. Burial was at Mt. Auburn cemetery in Cambridge.

Mr. DeLuca was born in Boston to the late Vincent and Assunta DeLuca. He lived in Cambridge before moving to Winchester.

He worked as a realtor here and was president of Hub Concessionaires, Inc. of Stoneham. He was also active in state politics for many years.

Surviving him are his wife, Doris H. (Clayton), sisters Dr. Marie, Gilda, and Clothilde, all of Cambridge, and a brother, Anthony, of Nashua, N.H.

Blanche (King) Hill

Services for Blanche (King) Hill were held January 10 at the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Hill, widow of the late Donald R. Hill, died at Winchester Hospital January 6. She was 83.

Mrs. Hill was a resident at 47 Pond st. Born in Arlington, she had lived in Winchester since 1929 and was active in First Baptist Church affairs.

Howard A. Krueger, pastor, officiated at the funeral services. Following cremation, burial was at Mt. Pleasant cemetery in Arlington.

Mrs. King leaves two children: Martha H. McClellan, 47 Pond st.; and Barbara H. Bond, Saco, Me.; and two sisters: Sarah K. Heckman, Annandale, N.J.; and Leila K. Bunton of Arlington. She is also survived by seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Louise F. Lepore

Louise (Fabrizio) Lepore, 63 Wedgemere ave., died January 3 at Lawrence Memorial Hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Lepore, 95, was the widow of the late Michael Lepore and mother of the late Carmen C.A. Vaccaro of Winchester. Born in Italy, she was formerly a resident of Somerville.

She is survived by a daughter, Lydia D. Simone of Winchester, and by four sisters: Josephine Pollina, Wellesley; Nancy Jodice, Arlington; Laura Ciavardone, Somerville; and Anna Recupero, also of Arlington. Also surviving her are two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A funeral mass was said January 7 at St. Mary's Church, followed by burial at Holy Cross cemetery in Malden.

Arrangements were by D.W. Grannan & Son Funeral Home, Arlington.

Rev. J. L. Quinn

Rev. Joseph L. Quinn, C.S.P., died at the age of 59 while visiting his two sisters, Miss Helen P. Quinn and Miss Margaret M. Quinn of Winchester.

The Church of Saint Paul's father died of sudden heart attack in Winchester Hospital January 12.

Son of Joseph L. and Ellen P. (Healy) Quinn, he was born in Woburn, April 10, 1916. He was ordained priest January 6, 1943. Prior to his death Father Quinn was pastor of Old St. Mary's Church in San Francisco.

Besides his two sisters living on Wellington rd., Rev. Quinn is also survived by a brother, Dr. Edmund P. Quinn of North Andover; a sister, Dorothy Quinn of Boston; William P. Quinn of Wellesley and Rev. Robert F. Quinn, C.S.P., of Boston.

A wake was held yesterday and funeral services are today at St. Ann's Church in Boston at 11 a.m. Burial is at St. Joseph's Cemetery in West Roxbury. Arrangements have been made by Gaffey Funeral Service, Medford.

Mrs. E. M. Lucia

Services were held for Eleanor M. (White) Lucia, 53 at St. Charles Church in Woburn January 14. A resident of Winchester, she lived at 5 Cleveland rd. with her husband Albert C. Lucia.

She died in Winchester

Hospital January 12 of a short illness.

Eleanor White was born in Woburn and attended Woburn schools.

A resident of Winchester for 20 years, she is survived by her husband, Albert C. Lucia, who is part owner of Lucia's Market in Woburn.

Mrs. White also leaves her daughter, Diane M. Savino of Nahant; a brother, Frank H. White of Derry, N.H.; two grandchildren; and an aunt, Emma Quigley also of Winchester.

Following the funeral mass at St. Charles Church, burial was at Calvary Cemetery, Woburn. Donations in her memory may be given to the Heart Fund, 112 Cypress st., Brookline. McLaughlin Funeral Home made the arrangements.

Dorothy Young

Mrs. Dorothy Potter Young, formerly of Winchester, died suddenly January 5 at her home at 1523 6th ave.,

Bradenton, Fla. She was 79. Private services were held in Florida.

Born in Haverhill, Mrs. Young was a registered nurse at the Winchester Hospital for 22 years. She moved to Florida in 1964.

Surviving her are her husband Wallace, who is at the Bay Pines Veterans' Hospital in St. Petersburg, Fla.; her son Richard, of Winchester; and her sister, Mrs. Raymond MacAusland of Lowell. She also leaves two grandchildren.

Hospital seeks 30 volunteers

The New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn recently launched a campaign for some 30 new volunteers.

The 200-bed facility, now in its sixth year, is the first accredited in Massachusetts by the Commission of Accreditation of Rehabilitation Centers. The hospital provides highly specialized rehabilitation care for victims of strokes, spinal cord injuries, amputees, neurological disorders, and others critically injured or handicapped.

Volunteers are currently needed to help take telephone messages, for clerical and receptionist duties, transporting patients to therapy rooms and dining area, passing out water and snacks, a caring for plants and many other duties.

Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Ogden, the director of adult volunteer services.

Ms. Cincotta named

Ruth Cincotta, 9 Trinity rd., is one of 30 Plymouth State College students who have been named to the 1976 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

To be eligible for the national scholastic honor, a student must be strong academically, an active member of the college community, and be nominated by a panel of students, faculty, and administrators at his or her college.

Ms. Cincotta, a senior majoring in physical education, has been active in the athletic field and in a wide range of other college activities.

At Wellesley

Ms. Janet Chelman of Winchester has been accepted as a transfer student in the class of 1978 at Wellesley College, a 1900-student women's liberal arts college in Wellesley.

High winds last week blew the top half of this elm tree down onto the driveway at 24 Lebanon st. There was no apparent damage, but no one's going anywhere in the car in the background for a while. The mass of limbs spread from the outer edge of the driveway across to the front porch and doorway at No. 24. (Staff photo by D. Funkhouser)

Important goal

Committee pushes town for long-range spending plans

The Capital Improvements Planning Committee hopes to persuade the town that planning for future capital expenditures is an important goal of great value to Winchester.

At their recent meeting they discussed methods of convincing citizens and town departments to better anticipate Winchester's needs. They feel this would make their job more than an academic exercise.

Under the new charter the capital improvements committee is responsible for annual revisions of the proposed budget, listing all future capital improvements to be undertaken within the next five years, cost estimates, methods of financing and recommended time schedules, and operation costs. This information goes to the town manager.

But the committee feels it is useless for them to talk about scheduling only to have their plans "blown out of the water" at town meeting by an unexpected emotional appeal.

"They're ignoring us not so much as a matter of policy, but I think rather as a matter of ignorance. Much of the town is oblivious to the capital planning process," according to CIP member Otto Schaefer.

He blames not only citizen interest groups but also town departments, who in the past received forms to indicate future projections. "Invariably," Schaefer said, "we receive no response."

Chairman James Lane said, "There needs to be an educational process along these lines."

So CIP hopes to educate the public that raw, untested projects should not first appear at town meeting. The committee feels all projects should be exposed to the planning process. Even if vetoed by the committee, it would have a second chance convincing town meeting.

The committee mentioned that the Council on Aging push for a senior citizens' center exemplified a group of citizens' pet project in which those concerned take a somewhat insular view of the town's needs.

Members say the town has a long history of similar examples.

Chairman Lane doubts that a by-law could be passed forcing all projects through CIP but hopes to obtain the backing of Town Manager Thomas Groux.

Robert Beattie questioned whether or not the committee's responsibility was directly in line with the chain of command or rather a purely staff function of the town manager.

The committee voiced their concern about Winchester's debt per capita as it affects the town's triple-A rating. Beattie feels that paying off the town's past debts should be a top priority.

In discussions of Town Manager Groux's new budget system CIP says it is built from an administrative point of view, making it the finance committee's responsibility to interpret the message for town meeting. Beattie commented that there will be the problem of historical comparison of past budgets.

They predict a three-year lag before the budget really begins functioning.

In the CIP's update of fiscal projections and annual expenditures they plan to emphasize the justification of capital projects. Priorities will be reviewed according to today's circumstances. And they hope to get the town's support in this endeavor.

Star advertisement wins prize from N.E. Press Association

In an awards presentation at the Sheraton-Boston last Friday The Star received the second place certificate for the best color advertisement.

The ceremony took place following a banquet at the annual New England Press Association convention. The ad was designed by assistant publisher Richard M. Meehan for Leifer Brothers Lincoln-Mercury dealership in Arlington. It ran in November 1974.

Though the advertisement was printed using three colors (red, yellow, and black), a careful blending of tones produced a four-color effect. The color mechanicals were done by Patty Duke of the Star production department.

The full page ad displays a selection of 1975 Lincoln-Mercury automobiles, introduced by the line, "Fit for a King!" and embellished with a jewel-encrusted crown and scepter in the lower right-hand corner.

Last year Mr. Meehan won first place in the New England color advertisement competition. The New England Press Association chooses winners in both weekly and daily newspaper categories.

Town retains attorney for court fight

Richard W. Renehan of the law firm of Hill & Barlow has been retained by the Permanent Building Committee to represent the town in what may be a costly and lengthy court fight to have construction problems at the high school corrected.

Because the Town of Winchester has withheld payment of nearly $100,000 to the White Construction Co., pending repairs of existing leaks, the White Construction Co. has sued the town. Winchester, in turn, has brought a countersuit.

Town Counsel Douglas Randall has municipal obligations to fulfill. A court case such as the one which appears to be forming would be of such length and magnitude that he would not be able to carry through with his other duties.

Town meeting members will be asked in February to appropriate funds to hire a construction lawyer. Right now, the finance committee has transferred $2500 to the permanent building committee to use for hiring an expert in construction litigation. An attorney was needed immediately because litigation is already under way.

Police awards banquet set tomorrow night

The Winchester Police Department's Meritorious Service award will be made tomorrow night at the First Inaugural Ball of the Winchester Police Relief Association. The ball, featuring a banquet and dancing, will be held at Montvale Plaza, Stoneham, starting at 6:30 p.m.

A highlight of the event will be the presentation of the award for meritorious service by a member of the department in 1975.

Rotation set up for lieutenants in chief's job

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux has set up a schedule of rotation for the four police lieutenants who will be acting as police chief in Winchester until an appointment can be made.

The date of the Civil Service examination for police chief has not yet been set. Until then the schedule of rotation is as follows: January 18-February 28 Lt. Crawford; February 29-April 10 Lt. Cogan; April 11-May 22 Lt. McHugh; May 23-July 3 Lt. Haggerty. The schedule may be altered depending on the Civil Service examination schedule.

At the end of each lieutenant's session as acting chief, he will prepare a paper to be submitted to the town manager. The paper will evaluate the operations of the police department and will identify weaknesses in organization and operation. It will also point out strengths and good procedures which should not be changed by a new chief without careful thought. Groux said in a memo to the lieutenants, "It is my intention to keep these four papers confidential until a new chief is named, at which point I will release all four studies to all four lieutenants."

In addition, Groux will meet each Wednesday afternoon at police headquarters with all the lieutenants to discuss problems as they arise. The lieutenants are also to be included in budget talks with Groux.

School enrollment report is issued

The Winchester School Department last week issued the results of an enrollment study which deals with declining school population and is a rationale for engaging the public in a dialogue to cut costs. This is the first of two parts. The conclusion will appear in next week's Star.

Last fall a proposal was made to close Noonan and Wyman Schools and to consolidate the two junior high schools at McCall and Lincoln, freeing up the present Lynch Junior High School for an elementary school. That proposal was not intended to be a plan ready for immediate implementation, but rather was designed to initiate public thought and discussion on the ways in which we could respond to the clear Town Meeting mandate to reduce school costs.

In response to this proposal, numerous questions, comments and suggestions for alternate cost savings were received from school parents' groups as a whole and many from individual citizens. While the School Department was in the process of drafting detailed answers to the questions, the School Committee directed the school administration to undertake further study and draft alternate proposals to deal with the decline in school enrollments.

Although the following material represents only a portion of the total response, all the written input has been reviewed and an overview in the form of the Summary was printed in the Star at the time of redirection by the School Committee. The following questions and informal answers relating to the original proposal are still relevant since this proposal has not necessarily been eliminated from consideration. Also, the opinions and information which has come from the public input to the administration will be very valuable as we move on to further study and consider various alternatives to cut school costs.

A working group, including citizen representatives and school principals, has now been formed to work on alternatives and must report back to the School Committee by February 9, 1976. At that time we contemplate that the best alternatives will have been carefully scrutinized and will be presented to the School Committee and the public.

School board ok's budget; increases total $382,784

The school committee approved a public school budget totaling $8,950,657 for fiscal 1977, which represents an increase of $382,784 over the current year's budget. The proposed budget was presented to the committee by Assistant Superintendent for Administration Jack Fallon at a special budget meeting Monday night.

The bulk of the increases shown are in personal services and general school expenses, with Chapter 766 programs accounting for $862,081, which is $187,739 more than was slated for the program for fiscal 1976.

The athletic budget was the only major category to show a decrease in funds requested, dropping by $3706. The other major declines, listed under school personal services, reflect a tightening of custodial services and the transfer of $20,603 in pupil services department costs to Chapter 766 expenditures.

The special education program figures reflect the fact that the implementation of Chapter 766 programs is still in its early, accelerating stages. All of the money earmarked for Chapter 766 programs, including the costs of both personal services and the necessary materials, are reimbursable by the state.

Other major increases include $31,046 for principals to cover sabbatical requests (which will come up for approval in April) as required in their contracts;

$65,851 more for instruction. Most of this figure amounts to normal step increases in teacher salaries; by cutting the total number of teachers for next year, the school department actually lowered this figure from around $101,000;

The $50,900 rise in utility costs reflects rate increases for light, heat, power, and phone services.

$32,394 more in transportation costs are a result of new contracts signed for the forthcoming year.

Much of the personal services budget is tentative, since contract negotiations are still going on. The only group which has settled so far are the school lunch program personnel, who are on a several-year contract. The cost increase there amounts to just over $7000.

A better than 100 percent rise in the total cost of office equipment covers replacing stolen typewriters and adding machines as well as worn out equipment.

The budget presented is a general summary; complete copies are available at the office of the superintendent of schools between 8:30-4:30 Monday through Friday.

As required by the town charter, the school committee will hold a full public hearing on the budget on Thursday, January 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the Wyman School.

Budget hearing

In accordance with the provisions of the Town of Winchester Charter, a public hearing will be held to discuss the school budget. This hearing will take place at the Wyman School at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, January 29.

Selectmen bid adieu to Chief Bowler

After 37 years of service in the Police Department, Chief Edward F. Bowler was invited "to receive some good-bye kisses" from the Board of Selectmen on the occasion of his retirement, which became effective at midnight Saturday.

Selectmen were lavish in their praise of a man who, according to Chairman Larry Smith, "served with control and discretion" in what were difficult years of law enforcement.

Selectman William Chapman pointed out the "magnitude of social change which has occurred in any town around. You have been able," he said, "to control attitudes and demeanors in turbulent times and you have kept Winchester a good environment in which to live. From patrolman to chief you have formulated policies, but no one has sensed the adjustments."

Selectman John Sullivan noted that

Woman is sought by local police

The woman who administered first aid to a young girl injured in a car accident on January 5 at Wildwood and Fletcher streets is being sought by police.

The Winchester Police Department appealed to The Star for help in finding her for information she may have. The police number is 729-1212.

To force the issue

Sullivan would push help for seniors at town meeting

Selectmen should go to the town meeting floor and fight for everything they can get for the proposed new senior citizens' center. Board members were urged to "force the issue" by Selectman John Sullivan, as they adopted a statement of support at their regular meeting Monday night.

The statement of support from the board is to be included in a brochure being prepared by the Winchester Council on Aging and the Senior Citizens Association.

The seniors will distribute the brochure in their efforts to raise funds for construction of their center.

The statement of support reads, "The board of selectmen of Winchester supports the efforts of the Senior Association and Council on Aging to raise funds from the private sector to erect a senior center."

Selectman Sullivan added that to his mind signing a statement of support also includes support in donating the land needed, helping with the costs of construction of the facility, helping with the costs of operating the center.

Sullivan further stated, "I think we should force the issue onto the floor of town meeting. Town meeting should appoint a committee to work with the seniors so that they don't end up spending a lot of money for something that might not be the best facility they could have."

Here's looking at you, Dave Suvak of Cross street seems to be saying as he enjoys the coasting around his home area. Snow does have some benefits for some, especially the little folks.

Improvisation workshops added to recreation department list

Last week's full description in The Star opened registration for this new improvisation workshop drama program with the Recreation Office located in the Town Hall.

Names are taken by Mary Klug, assistant to Director Donald L. Spinney, whose extensive experience in theater enables her to answer a variety of questions. Each age group will be limited to 15 participants and additional names will go on the waiting list. Further information may be obtained also from Paulett Taggart of Ridgfield road who will lead the workshops.

Boys and girls from ages 8 to 15 will meet once a week for ten weeks beginning on Tuesday, February 24 from 1 to 2:30 at the Wyman School and Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 25 and 26, from 3 to 4:30 at the Lincoln School.

Sensory Awareness exercises such as the one pictured above stimulate the imagination. Yoga stretches and relaxes muscles and organs. Mime and movement communicate through body language; theater games provoke spontaneity; and finally characters and scenes emerge through improvisation.

Both newcomers and experienced performers learn to work from within themselves toward outer communication with others and adjustment to their surroundings. Although free from the limitations of a given script and the pressures of a public audience, while the actors are training for scene improvisation they are preparing for formal theater as well, as daily life responses are enriched, restructured and integrated for use in the art form.

Community Affairs Department to discuss traffic problems

The state Department of Community Affairs is meeting with Winchester and Woburn officials to discuss the traffic problem in the Holton st. area.

The Town of Winchester called for the meeting after numerous complaints of traffic congestion and heavy trucking were received by neighbors.

The City of Woburn has been asked to attend the meeting because of the proximity of the Holton st. area to that city.

The meeting will be held January 28 at 9:30 a.m. in the town manager's office. The Department of Community Affairs would like to follow the indicated format: 1. meet for a briefing on background data; 2. tour the area in question and receive appropriate explanations from local officials; 3. return to town hall for further discussion.

Show biz to use offices in Town Hall

The Winton Club will be able to use town offices for dressing rooms the nights of their performance and will have use of the auditorium for the cast party following the Saturday night show.

Selectmen have asked that town employees, whose offices will be temporary dressing rooms, submit a report to them evaluating the effect of such use on the functioning of the town departments.

At Selectman William Chapman's suggestion, the board agreed that Town Hall employees should be encouraged to question the use of their offices for other business.

The East room in particular is vulnerable because some open file cabinets in the room might present a problem.

With mission accomplished, Winchester's Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr. and Representative Louis R. Nickinello, House chairman of Transportation Committee, watch Governor Michael Dukakis sign the Commonwealth's massive Comprehensive Transportation Bill. The two legislators served on the Joint House-Senate Conference Committee that hammered out the compromise bill which won approval of the General Court before the First Session met its deadline.

High school update

By Karyl Scott

This week being the last occasion on which I may express my views as student columnist on the Star, I would just like to relay some of my overall reactions to my writing experience to you.

It would be a falsehood to say that I have gained great insight into the workings of Winchester High School or that I have largely altered my views toward the academic community. I have not made any mammoth revelations about life.

The things I have learned from my experience writing for a small weekly newspaper are much more subtle but just as substantial in my learning and growing process.

First there is the obvious: learning what goes into producing a weekly newspaper and the psychology of selling a paper, i.e. giving readers what they can get nowhere else. Out of sheer practice one learns what becomes an interesting subject and how this is achieved.

I learned how to grab the attention of the readers and get them involved in what is happening on the printed page. It is important to stir reaction, be it positive or negative, for just a little bit of feedback. A small amount of emotion is better than nothing at all.

More important than any of these things though is the interaction with people. Only when you stop looking at the world from behind a window do you learn. You experience things first hand and in doing so you come one step closer to understanding yourself and learning about the other guy as well.

There is always that little voice in the back of my head that says I could have done more — a lot more. The point is that I didn't. Growth is not an overnight process, and each small advance seems so minuscule, but looking back I can see that this is the only way change comes.

Thank you — for your time, your interest, and most of all for that little bit of your mind that has grown along with me.

★ Enrollment

GENERAL QUESTIONS

A. PHILOSOPHY
If the basis for this plan is primarily monetary, why has it not been completely documented?

Yes, the basis of the plan is primarily monetary. It was not our intent, nor was it necessary, to present a completely documented, "sewed-up" plan ready for implementation since we realized that any plan would be challenged one way or another. What was significantly more important was to put a good plan before the public with the least practicable delay as a result of the Town Meeting's desire for economy. Our research conclusively shows that enrollments are continuing to decrease and that schools can be closed and/or consolidated should this be the town's wish. The plan, too, has started the necessary dialogue and specific documentation will continue to be forthcoming which may alter, modify or change the proposed plan. It will be important in the weeks ahead to determine whether the town truly desires to close and/or consolidate schools or whether it wishes to effect economies in other ways.

B. SPACE REQUIREMENTS

What is the educational capacity of each physical plant used for elementary education? That is, what is the usable square footage per school for various educational activities, what are the present utilization rates of this usable space, and what is the maximum capacity per class per elementary school?

From an educational standpoint, I have been concerned myself with the quality of facilities serving all areas of the town. I am of the opinion that contemporary educational needs indicate a requirement of approximately forty-five square feet per student that is devoted to instruction, both directly and indirectly. Each student is served in the classroom and in libraries and by counselors, specialists, etc. Although the distribution of space may vary somewhat from school to school, the basic need for the functional area exists. Whether it be split thirty-five square feet for classroom and ten square feet for supporting areas or something similar, the general need exists for this type of space allotment. Within our own staff we have had widely diverging opinions, but through a thorough exchange of ideas and data we have concluded that our determination is sound. We have used tests, both real and projected, and to this end would point out that close examination of the Vinson Owen School indicates a density of exactly forty-five square feet per student, and although the school is lacking in terms of an art room, music room, and some specialist areas, there is the ability to rearrange certain amounts of classroom space to provide these facilities and increase the classroom density in other parts of the school and maintain what we believe is an acceptable ratio. Our judgment is that Vinson Owen probably manifests a reasonable student to square foot ratio and is therefore a useful model. In light of this, all buildings have been rated on the basis of forty-five square feet per student.

Canal association plans winter walk

The Middlesex Canal Association is planning a winter canal walk and ski tour (depending on the weather) for Sunday, February 1. The tour will follow a four-mile route in two segments along the northern remnants of the Middlesex Canal.

For information and status reports call Nolan T. Jones in Winchester.

The current issue of Towpath Topics, the association's publication, includes two Winchester residents in its list of officers. Nolan Jones, 22 Squire rd., is treasurer for the organization, and Frances VerPlanck, 37 Calumet rd., is the recording secretary.

C. FUTURE ENROLLMENTS

It is extremely difficult, particularly in light of declining birthrates of the past few years, to predict with any great degree of accuracy the future enrollments. During the course of our deliberations we have examined a number of reports and trends as they relate to future population. Because of the uncertainty of such trends and because of the experience factor which has been changing in the last few years, I am attaching the October 1, 1976 projections which have been recently prepared. Beyond this we have worked with a number of different sets of guides which involve straight line projections.

Approximately $245,297 in savings. I cannot respond to that portion of the question related to maintaining present school structures for other town purposes. The only possible answer at this time is to look at the operational costs as related to maintenance and repairs, fuel, light, etc., and these figures for Noonan and Wyman are approximately $35,346.

C. If Wyman and Noonan are closed as schools and taken over by the town, would you not simply be shifting costs or maintenance, etc., from one town budget to another?

The savings identified previously are indeed related only to the educational budget. Should the town utilize any of the buildings recommended for closing, there would be monies budgeted under another town budget category. The operational and maintenance costs would continue; however, it might be less costly to the town to utilize and renovate an existing building than to construct a new one.

D. Is the money saved worth uprooting all of the Lincoln School children? Is this sound educationally or financially?

In the final analysis the real savings must be equated against the uprooting or restricting of children. The success of the plan or its failure will be decided by the community's response to the question on whether the identified savings justify the inconvenience that results from the closing of schools. The closing of Lincoln and the busing of children to Lynch would serve no major purpose educationally. The simple movement of Lincoln students to Lynch by itself creates no financial savings but must be considered in light of the entire plan. This movement is but part of the plan which will allow the savings referred to elsewhere.

E. If you are considering the possibility of a four year high school, will you need all of the junior high space proposed in another four or five years?

This is an excellent point. When and if a four year high school becomes a reality, we probably will require less junior high space.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

That elusive something

Wanted: The Spirit of Winchester.

If you find it, we will try to identify it and catalogue it, then dispense it to the community at large, or hold it until specific needs arise on given occasions.

We'll do that if, indeed, we are able to identify it.

We have been looking for it for a long time; not only the spirit of Winchester, but the spirit of everything that contains such essences as "spirit."

The Star was challenged recently to find that spirit and get it out to the town for everyone's benefit.

A lady who chose to remain anonymous, called and wanted to know why we hadn't imbued the community "with that good old Winchester spirit."

We wondered precisely what she meant by that and she replied that since we were not a resident of Winchester, we couldn't be expected to know. Hence, our appeal here to the community at large to help us find that "good old Winchester spirit." The lady who adamantly refused to identify herself, write a letter, or otherwise communicate in any way other than by the secrecy provided by telephone, couldn't tell us.

Instead, she moved from that subject to another: Why did we have to report the alcoholism among students at Winchester High School. And why didn't our high school correspondent touch on areas other than those on which she had dared tread: i.e., personal opinion comments (which she is licensed to do) on activities of certain groups at the high school. "Why didn't she do something in a more positive way?" our caller wanted to know. She also felt our correspondent had no right to inject her own beliefs in her writing, but we hastened to explain that she was a student in the learning process and that The Star had agreed to cooperate with the high school in providing the wherewithal for the young lady's training in journalism—or at least a basic introduction to her subject. She has completed that phase of her internship, successfully, we think, and will concentrate on her studies at school to make room for another intern.

But, not satisfied with that explanation—which we thought would have required no explanation—our lady caller moved into other areas too far afield and relatively unimportant to mention.

She would not rise to the challenge to prove her sincerity by identifying herself, particularly when we returned to the subject of "that good old Winchester spirit."

That good old Winchester spirit is as elusive as the words to describe it.

Was it evident when the town voted against allowing black kids from Roxbury to come to Winchester and share in the educational facilities of this town, become a part of it at least for part of nearly every day and benefit from its atmosphere and attitude—its spirit? There was a chance for Winchester to give something of itself, of its spirit, to others, to kids in need.

Or was the spirit of Winchester more in evidence when certain members of the school committee and a minority of voters put their "spirit" on the line and voted in favor of allowing Metco to come to town.

Or was the spirit of Winchester demonstrated by those citizens who brought court action (and lost) to recall the members of the school committee who had voted in favor of Metco, even though they knew the town had already expressed a "sense-of-the-town" against it?

Did our unnamed caller think the spirit of Winchester was the kind that could be summoned up as it sometimes is by cheerleaders at school athletic contests? Is that the kind of spirit it is? Of course not!

Or is it that elusive, enigmatic something that really can't be labeled.

The spirit of Winchester, we think, is within its inhabitants. It is something innate, deep within every man, woman and child, mostly dormant.

That spirit of Winchester is not something we can hand out like an umbrella in a storm.

You have it. It may be hiding under some guise like man's humanity to his fellow man. We can remind you of it, yes, and we can inform you of the facts of everyday occurrences in your community. But imbue you with "that good old spirit of Winchester?" No. We can't. You have to do that for yourself.

Perhaps if our mysterious lady caller had identified herself, which probably would have taken courage because she was "afraid to", she would have vanquished her fears over the loss and the way to get back the spirit of Winchester. Perhaps the answer was within herself all the time—and still is—and she doesn't know it. Maybe it's that way with all of us.

The spirit of Winchester? The spirit of man! We all have it: The basic, seldom-recognized, deeply-rooted goodness of man.

We may be wrong. So if you think we are, will you kindly let us know. If you find that "good old spirit of Winchester" please tell us and we will tell the town what it is and how to find and use it.

But maybe they already know that. —J.R.S.

OPTIONAL FORM NO. 10
JULY 1973 EDITION
GSA FPMR (41 CFR) 101-11.6
UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

Memorandum

TO : All Registrars
Massachusetts Selective Service System

DATE: January 14, 1976

FROM : John M. Neal
DSD/O

SUBJECT: Registration

On August 1, 1975 this Headquarters wrote to you advising there would be a one day registration early in 1976, primarily for young men born in 1957.

With this objective in mind some top level discussions began the planning necessary to accomplish annual registration, including a back-up plan to assist the Registrars in any community of the state where it would be necessary. This planning was discontinued by direction from Washington and the annual registration idea has been postponed indefinitely.

The State Director will attend a conference later in January and when he returns there will perhaps be more definitive information regarding registration. As things develop we will attempt to keep you informed.

Thank you for your support in the past and our best wishes for this new year.

You've wondered what's happened to the Selective Service Department of the United States Government, right? The above may help explain the lack of communication. This memo was received by the town's registrars this week. Try to figure it out. You're on your own.

Letters from readers

Medicaid cuts hurt

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Do any of our well-paid politicians know the answers to these questions.

Why does our government keep its very poor worrying all the time. Our President keeps changing and vetoing all the time, until our poor and elderly don't know which way is up, and some get so depressed they could care less if they went under.

Its great for morale. Other countries have pension plans and care for their disabled properly. Now, recently our government said they would take 30 per cent of Medicaid away from our doctors. How can they do this, when they already pay less for an office call. They have taken away eye tests, etc. from Medicaid. Does anyone know the answers. Any time they want a raise they, the politicians give themselves one and go to church every Sunday and care less for our poor.

What about National Insurance. No one mentions it anymore and we sorely need it for our poor and elderly instead of changing all the time. Do something practical like a guaranteed pension for our very poor. Our fellows who are running for office should try to live like our folks on unemployment are doing. You sure would change your minds if you had to live on practically nothing and pay rent, gas, light, and heat in these times.

Sincere thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I wish to thank all my friends and neighbors for their kindness to me during my bereavement.

I wish also to thank the Winchester Highway Department for the excellent work they did in clearing the snow away from my home, making parking available for relatives and friends.

Recycle for WW III

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The car radio has introduced me to a new song which could be adapted to recycling. You supply the tune:

Take it out the back, Jack
Put it on the sled, Fred,
Drive it in the car, Mar;
Take it from the bag, Mag;
Put it in the bin, Min;
Never waste the can, Dan;
Bottles help a lot, Dot;
Your old papers sell, Nell....

Recycling continues at the incinerator area. Revenue to this town this past year from recycling, $2,000 (Two Thousand).

One reason to recycle: stop waste of resources we've inherited in this great land, through no doing of our own.

Or, look at it this way—we may need our resources for World War III.

Stop being lazy. Stop waste. Start Recycling.

Town watch...

A reluctant absentee

By The Observer

The highway department is doing its bit to save the town some money: they have a new system for clearing and sanding the sidewalks which not only saves money on labor costs, but gets the job done much quicker.

Two sidewalk plows, called "bom-bardiers," one truck, and four men plow the walks and spread sand from boxes hooked on behind the plows. Under the old system of using two trucks and six men shoveling sand, the department could only cover about one-third as much ground in the same amount of time.

So even if there's snow on Saturday night, you can still be get to the church on time.

The Star was going to run this story this week. However, after reading, re-reading, and reading it again, we found it as confusing as the original letter. See pictorial editorial. Here's the story that didn't make it:

Selective Service registration has been postponed until the State Director of the Selective Service System returns from a conference late in January. Plans have been curtailed pending discussion of planning for annual registration.

For further information, contact the town registrars, Marie I. Campbell, Virginia A. Skerry, and Anne H. McGuire.

The editor received a call from an anxious reader Tuesday about the publication of names of absentees from town meeting sessions.

She was very much concerned about it, and said her decision to be a candidate for town meeting member depended upon whether we intend to continue the practice. She hopes The Star will not publish the names of absentees in the future.

The woman, who identified herself after some hesitation, promised to write a letter to the editor on the subject and her feelings about it.

She thinks some very highly qualified persons are being scared away from running for TMM for that reason: They sometimes cannot attend meetings because of business or other commitments but do not want it to appear in print.

Obviously we disagree. When a person is absent from a town meeting session, his reason, be it illness or anything else, is given. If it is valid, he has nothing to fear. However, if it is not a good and sufficient reason, and if any potential candidate anticipates missing some sessions because, as the lady told us, "they go on and on forever..." Well, in such cases, citizens who are not willing to give fully of themselves (that is, their time and attention) to the business for which they take an oath to be faithful, well, they simply should not run.

After all, people who vote in good faith for candidates who solicit their votes based on their ability to serve intelligently and well and in the best interests of the electorate, deserve the best possible representation, and that means 100 percent attendance at town meeting sessions, no matter how boring they may become.

The lady had other fears, including one that she simply didn't want people to know if she was ill for that happened to be the case. However, we told her, and we repeat, she shouldn't be a candidate. She is already anticipating being absent. Some candidates on the contrary, are eagerly awaiting the action to begin so they can get both feet in and really get involved.

We had a visit from a candidate for President of the United States of America last Friday afternoon. He is a write-in aspirant.

It will probably come as good news to all taxpayers that he intends to "due (sic) away with ALL unneeded TAXES." The caps and spelling are his.

Among other things, he intends (if elected) to close "The Gateways" to America to all but visitors. What does it say about... "give me your poor and your hungry..." on the Statue of Liberty?

Furthermore, if anyone is planning to commit a crime they should first turn themselves over to the nearest police station for food, clothing and housing, education, and even a job. Bless 'im.

In the mood...

Free to be

By KAREN WHITTLESEY-FIRST

In these days of chairpersonships, fire fighters, letter carriers, and law enforcement officials, it is sometimes awkward and tongue-tripping to find non-sexist labels for categories of workers and professions.

Until we became used to hearing them, they sound stilted and embarrassing, although the idea of erasing sexual stereotypes is a good one and a necessary one. It is only by their constant and consistent use that titles and phrases denoting no sex will become accepted.

For the next generation of adults, it is the parents (of both sexes) and other family members who will instill feelings of respect and love for all people no matter what their sex in the children. Johnny has to cry when it hurts and Mary has to help with the roofing.

Older members of the community, to whom "chairperson" may be nonsensical gibberish, should be willing to tolerate and encourage a way of life more enlightened, perhaps, than that of their childhood.

It was, then, with a smile of pleasure and even victory, that I read the salutation on a letter to the board of selectmen (we'll have to work on changing that one).

"Dear Gentlepeople..."

"Dear Gentlepeople" it began the letter.

"Dear Gentlepeople." Can you say it without feeling gentle? The word gentle is derived from the Latin gens, which means family or race. Gentilis means belonging to the same family.

And isn't that what it's all about?

The university professor of economics who found a new career in the opera is an example to us all, especially to those who may think mandatory retirement is a good idea.

There is wealth and beauty that can come only with the experience of living a full life of many, many years. The senior citizens (and I wish there were a better term) of Winchester are going to try to raise funds for a center they very much need.

There is no cut-off point for life's interests and activities. As long as we maintain a respect and love for ourselves we can do whatever we want, within the physical limitations given us.

The new senior center must be a success. There are too many older people who need a place to be themselves...to involve themselves with life's interests...to share their knowledge with others.

Our grandparents may no longer live with us, indeed they may be hundreds of miles away, but other grandparents can teach us and entertain in the way the extended families of some years ago did. Now we need vicarious grandparents.

We need our older citizens. Don't forget them when they need us... please.

Speaking of needing...

There is a neglected group in town which needs help desperately. There is plenty for the young school child and the pre-schooler to do. There are activities for the older residents. But what, for crying out loud, do the kids, the 14- to 18-year-olds have in this town?

Coming home late Saturday night and finding a dozen or so teenagers hanging out on the bridge drinking beer is not my idea of what Winchester should be offering its young people.

Vandalism, drinking, drugs, petty crime are rampant in this town, as in others, because nobody listens to the kids. Nobody has been able to make a teen center work. Why?

Couldn't there be a forum for the exchange of ideas between parents and teenagers? Perhaps in this column or through the letters to the editor.

Let's talk about things like college. Is it necessary? For whom? Why? Should parents know where their kids are? What about premarital sex? Should couples live together before marriage? Why? Why not? How late is late enough to be out Saturday night? Does it matter? What's a reasonable allowance and what should it cover?

What's really important to you? Where are we going? If adults won't listen to these young men and women, and definitely vice versa, I'm afraid where we're going isn't pleasant.

The Star would welcome letters and comments. Let's hear from you — 1970's youth and vintage 1950 or older.

The television program "Captain Kangaroo" is geared toward the pre-schooler, but the Captain's message at the end of every program is something for all parents to think about and remember. He says, "The most important thing you can do today is to spend some time alone with your young person." Yep.

New seniors facility gets name 'Murphy'

Winchester Housing Authority (WHA) members recently surprised Chairman Mary E. Murphy, by disclosing that the proposed handicapped and senior citizens housing facility at old Lincoln School site would be named after her.

Hearing the news Chairman Murphy, who has directed the authority since its institution, exclaimed, "Oh, I'm just flabbergasted, I'm overwhelmed! I just don't know what to say. I consider this truly an honor."

WHA recently notified their architect to have a plaque made which reads, "Mary E. Murphy Apartments" - the chosen name for the new facility scheduled for construction this spring.

Classes Creative stitchery clinics - for six Thursdays, beginning January 29, 1-2:30 p.m. at the Council on Aging office.

Swimming and water exercise classes will be held at the Woburn YMCA every Tuesday from 11-12 noon. It is an excellent form of exercise for everyone, and saunas are available afterwards. The Patriot Series

A limited edition series of newly sculpted works by Messers Vincent Ricci of Brookline, and Michael Stelzer of New York City.

Prior to a nationwide introduction, classic Editions is offering area residents the opportunity to acquire one reproduction or to reserve a complete set of the expected 10 figures of this series.

George Washington is the first, Benjamin Franklin will issue in February, with Thomas Jefferson, Abigail and John Adams and others to be issued approximately monthly thereafter.

The Artists have carefully researched the period to achieve their image of the man. They inspect, sign and number each piece. The edition is limited to 1000 of each figure, then molds will be destroyed.
Price is $250* including wood base and shipping.
Mass. residents add 5% sales tax.

Rainha-Whitney wed

Judith R. Whitney

Judith Ann Rainha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel J. Rainha, 534 Washington st., was married December 27 to Robert E. Whitney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Whitney of Fanwood, N.J., formerly of Winchester.

Father Bernard Hoy officiated at the afternoon mass held at St. Mary's Church. A reception followed at Montvale Plaza, Stoneham.

The bride's sister Jean Rainha was the maid of honor, while Joseph Whitney, brother of the groom was the best man.

Bridesmaids included Jean and Mary Whitney, sisters of the groom, and Sandra James, Anthony and Michael Gilberti, cousins of the bride, and Thomas James were ushers. The bride is a 1975 graduate of Boston College and is a special needs teacher for the Wakefield school system. The groom is a 1974 graduate of Stonehill College and is now an accountant for Combined Insurance Company of America. The couple plan to live in Winchester.

Bloodmobile to visit Jan. 28

A Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Winchester on Wednesday, January 28. The bloodmobile will be set up in the Red Cross Chapter House at 39 Church st., next to the Winchester Trust Company. There will be three beds in service.

Donors will be received from 2 p.m. through 6:45 p.m. Persons between 17-65 may give blood. Parental consent is needed for 17-year-olds and consent forms may be obtained at the Red Cross Chapter House.

Blood donors should eat a regular well-balanced meal within four hours prior to donation. Do not attempt to donate on an empty stomach. Avoid fatty foods such as butter, cream, ice cream or eggs. Both men and women must weigh at least 110 pounds.

Appointments must be made in advance through the Red Cross office, 729-2300.

Longview Club to meet in Wakefield

The Longview Club of Wheelock College will gather January 28 at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Carl Vik, 17 Butler ave., Wakefield.

Wine and cheese will be served and Miss Lois Mirsky, director of alumnae affairs at Wheelock, will speak. Newcomers north of Boston are most welcome.

Historical Society to hear Butts

On January 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the Public Library, the Winchester Historical Society will present Mrs. Charles Butts of Lexington, a noted lecturer, who will speak about John Hancock.

Hancock inherited the mercantile business from his uncle and guardian, Thomas Hancock. Counting houses such as his were the paces in the economic structure of the American Revolution and the economy of the colonies.

All are invited; coffee will be served.

Local resident gets Texas post

Geotechnical Engineers Inc. of Winchester announces that N. Lee Worth has joined the firm and will manage its Houston office.

Prior to joining GEI, Worth was chief of the Geotechnical Division of Stone & Webster Engineering Corp. of Boston and had previously been on the staff of the U.S. Corps of Engineers, Coyne & Bellier of Paris, Kaiser Engineers, International Engineering Corp. of San Francisco, and Creole Petroleum Corp. of Venezuela.

As manager of GEI's Houston office, he will be directing a major diversification of GEI's activities into the oil industry.

Worth, his wife and three children are currently residents of Winchester and will move to Houston in February.

Mr. Doughty is a graduate of Winchester High School and is presently employed at Plywood Ranch in Medford.

A spring wedding is planned.

Boudreau baby

Pauline (Puma) and Allan W. Boudreau announce the birth of Monique Catherine, their third child and second daughter. Monique was born January 9 at Winchester Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Boudreau live at 12 Summer st.

The child's grandparents include the late Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Puma of Winchester. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Boudreau, 41 Alfred st., Medford are the paternal grandparents.

Mrs. Dominick Gigliotti, 12 Cedar st., is Monique's great-grandmother.

Red Cross offers first aid course

A Red Cross Standard First Aid and Personal Safety course will be offered by the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross at the Chapter House, 39 Church st., beginning Tuesday, February 3.

The course will continue each Tuesday and Thursday evenings 7-9:30 p.m. for three weeks. Mr. Hubert M. LeFever will conduct the course. No fee is required.

Anyone interested in registering can call American Red Cross. Registration will be limited.

Legislative day set for women

Mrs. E. Raymond Simpson, president of Winchester LWV, and Mrs. David Turnquist, chairman of the Winchester Legislation Committee of the League, will be attending "Legislation Day" which will launch the 1976 legislative session of the Mass. LWV. The meeting will be held on Thursday, January 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Paulist Center, 5 Park st., Boston.

Guest speakers will be John R. Buckley, secretary of administration and finance, and James A. Kelly, Jr., chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

There will also be a discussion of League priorities in the bills to be submitted in 1976.

All interested members are invited to make arrangements with Mrs. Turnquist, 15 Stone rd. or Mrs. Simpson, 10 Lawson rd.

Miss Della Svetura to wed Mr. Guarino

Diane Della Svetura

Mr. and Mrs. John Della Svetura, 20 Allen rd., announce the engagement of their daughter Diane M. to Aldo Guarino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alessio Guarino of Orient Heights. A fall wedding is planned.

Ms. Della Svetura is a 1972 graduate of Winchester High School and is currently a senior at Northeastern University, majoring in secondary education of languages.

Mr. Guarino has attended schools in Italy and Australia.

Miss Fiore engaged

Janet Fiore

Mr. & Mrs. Ralph Fiore of Winchester announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Richard J. Gearin, son of Mr. Joseph Gearin of Billerica, and Mrs. Dorothy Goffredo, also of Billerica.

Miss Fiore is a 1969 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1971 graduate of Mass. Bay Community College. She is currently employed as a secretary by Emidio DiLoreto, Attorney-at-Law, in Winchester.

Mr. Gearin is a 1966 graduate of Billerica High School and is employed by the Town of Billerica as an administrative assistant to the executive secretary.

SPIRITS OF '76

by DAN BUSA

Vintage notes and charts have definite limitations. They are useful as long as it is realized that they can be no more than rules of thumb. The best way for the wine lover to guarantee the quality of the wine he buys is to know not only the vineyards and vintages but also the reputation of the grower, shipper, or importer. Presumably these persons know how good the wine is in the bottle as they have watched it and tasted it periodically since its pressing. If their reputations are good, it is in their interest to try to keep them so by presenting the best bottle they can.

Dinner or cocktail party, large or small guest list. Your beverage needs can be handled in Burlington and Lexington. "Keep Up Your Spirits with Spirit of '76 Products", handled exclusively by BUSA LIQUORS. Open Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 10 p.m. Telephone 861-1776.

Alan MacDonald, Dominic Shea, and William Chase talk about their experiences as Peter Pans through the years.

Winchester's Peter Pan gets ready for flying here again

The Winchester Community Theatre, Inc., Children's Theatre celebrates its 20th anniversary with its third rendition of J.M. Barrie's, "Peter Pan."

The three "Peters" recently got together to talk about their experiences and to be photographed to publicize the upcoming show.

Alan MacDonald, "Peter Pan" in the 1956 show is now regional director of governmental relations for Gulf Oil and was an assistant attorney general under Robert Quinn from 1969-1975. He is married with one child and lives in Winchester.

William Chase, "Peter Pan" of 1962 is a teacher of general science at McCall Jr. High. He is married and lives in Somerville.

Dominic Shea, "Peter Pan", 1976, is a sixth grader at the Washington School and is 11 years old. Dom is interested in hockey, playing drums, scouting of course, theatre.

Alan MacDonald had this to say about his experiences with children's theatre: "It was my first experience learning to be comfortable before a large group of people and it was one of my first experiences working with a large group of people towards a common goal. This has helped me very much."

The children of the cast along with painting posters and scenery are also selling tickets from now until curtain time. Tickets are also available at the door of McCall on the days of the performances.

If you believe in fairies, see "Peter Pan" on Friday, Feb. 6 at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday, Feb. 7 at 2 p.m. at McCall Jr. High Auditorium.

Foreign language career week set

The Foreign Language Department of Winchester High School is planning a career week for February 2-6.

During the week representatives of various professions for which knowledge of a foreign language is necessary or at least useful will speak to the language classes.

A schedule will be posted, and students who are free are welcome to attend any of the discussions, most of which will be held in rooms C208 and C209.

Parents are also welcome. More details will appear in the Star next week.

Interested residents may contact Miss Barbara Holden, coordinator of foreign languages.

Historical Society to visit Old Sturbridge Village Feb. 8

Members and friends of the Winchester Historical Society will visit Old Sturbridge Village on Sunday, February 8, in the society's continuing series of field trips to places of historical and antiquarian interest. The field trip will be led by society member Allen Hill, an architect and preservationist.

Mr. Hill has arranged for the visit to include a brief special presentation by a member of the Old Sturbridge Village staff on the museum and its collections, to be followed by visits to some areas which are normally "off limits" to the public.

This field trip, like all Winchester

Historical Society activities, is open both to society members and the general public. Because of the logistics, advance registration is requested. Interested persons may contact Marcia (Mrs. Theodore) Wood (384 Main st.) to reserve places. She or Allen Hill (25 Englewood rd.) would be glad to answer any questions about this or any future Winchester Historical Society field trips.

Winter is a marvelous time to see Old Sturbridge Village. The pace is slower than in summer, and the cheerful fires in the exhibit buildings add a dimension not found at any other time of year.

Classroom tours set for parents

The Parent-Faculty Association of Winchester High School is sponsoring "classroom-in-action" tours during the first week of February. The tours have been scheduled for February 2, 4, and 5, with Friday, Feb. 6 being set aside for a "snow day." These tours are for parents of all students in the Winchester School System or any interested citizen.

The tours begin at 8 a.m. in the high school auditorium with an opportunity to visit each of the 12 departments and to observe the classrooms in action during a regular school day.

Lunch and a coffee break will be scheduled during the tour.

Letters have been sent to parents giving detailed information on the tours. Others may make a reservation through Mrs. Alison Taber, tour coordinator.

Art Association

The Winchester Art Association will hold its final picture lending party of the current season at the Boodakian Rug Gallery, 1026 Main st. Pictures currently on loan should be returned there on Saturday, January 24, between 10-11 a.m.

The 1976-77 series of parties commences in May. Current members may renew their membership at the party on January 25. After March 1 any tickets not sold to present members, or those on the waiting list, will be offered to the general public.

For anyone not wanting to borrow a painting, but wishing to support the organization, it is possible to be a patron. Persons desiring additional information concerning the picture lending program are advised to contact Mrs. Nancy Maxwell.

Police blotter

January 14: At 1:50 p.m. a police cruiser was involved in an accident with a motorist who went through a red light at the intersection of Swanton and Washington streets. There was damage to the left front end of the cruiser.

At 10:25 p.m. a car parked in the upper lot at the Winchester Country Club was found to have its left front and rear tires slashed.

January 17: The service station attendant at the Old Colony station on Main street was assaulted by an irate motorist who said the attendant did not act promptly enough to request for gas. There were no personal injuries.

There was a breaking and entering at 75 Church street. Appliances were taken from the residence.

There was a breaking and entering at 12 Wendell street.

A car stolen on January 15 from Wakefield was found parked on Loring avenue.

A breaking and entering was reported at 6 Wendell st. Telephone lines had been severed and a large quantity of items stolen. A vehicle was reported. The operator was charged with driving under the influence. There were no personal injuries.

There was a breaking and entering at 140 Cambridge st. through the kitchen door. A television set and some jewelry were taken.

Doughnuts: Why the holes?

By ELIZABETH
Star Correspondent

Doughnuts are more than a pleasant food; they are a national institution and a state of mind. The prevalence of the popular chains of doughnut shops is an indication of the Americans fondness for the deepfried pastry with a hole in it.

Doughnuts can be made at home with simple equipment, an important consideration in early days when oven cooking was not easy. Doughnuts, whatever their origin are a genuine product of pioneer cooking.

And it was in New England that the first true "dough nuts" were made. They were raised with yeast and were a little larger than walnuts.

Popular New England lore attributes the creation of the hole to a Maine sea captain, Hanson Gregory. When he was a boy he complained to his mother that the fried cakes were never cooked in the middle. To solve the problem, he poked holes in them before they were cooked.

Winchester cooking enthusiast Mrs. Marie Henry, 3 Church st., whose collection of family favorites has been published, has researched doughnut lore.

She says that, in England, they were known as doughy cakes and were brought to this country by Dutch and English settlers. French call them beignets and Spanish call them calas.

In her travels she discovered the French Market doughnuts or beignets of the French Quarter in New Orleans and developed this recipe. She also contributed a recipe for old fashioned doughnuts.

French Market Doughnuts
1 cup boiling water 1 package dry yeast

1-2 cup sugar
1-4 cup corn oil
1 teaspoon salt

1-2 cup warm water
2 eggs beaten
5-1 cups flour
1 cup cream or evaporated milk

Pour boiling water over sugar, oil and salt in a large bowl. Add milk and cool to warm. Dissolve yeast in the warm water; add it with the eggs to the first mixture. Stir in three cups of the flour and beat hard with a wooden spoon. Add enough of the remaining flour to make a very soft dough mixing it thoroughly. Do not knead. Place in buttered bowl turning it to grease the other side. Cover with waxed paper and a towel. Refrigerate it for about four hours.

In a deep fryer, heat oil to 360 degrees, having oil to a depth of about three inches. Roll out dough to 1-4 inch thickness and cut into 1-2 inch squares. Drop in the hot fat about four at a time and fry until golden on both sides. Remove from oil with slotted spoon and drain on paper towels. These beignets are traditionally sprinkled with powdered sugar and eaten hot.

Old Time Doughnuts

1 cup sugar 1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon butter 1 teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs 1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt 3 cups flour
2 teaspoons cream of tartar

Rub butter into sugar with fingertips. Add eggs, one at a time beating well after each addition. Mix soda with milk. Sift dry ingredients, and add them to egg mixture alternately with milk. Mix well. Dough should be soft, but firm enough to roll out. More flour may be needed. Roll to 1-4 inch thickness. Fry in deep fat heated to 380 degrees until brown on both sides. Drain on paper towels.

GMARC meeting set for tonight

The Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Citizens will hold their monthly membership meeting on Thursday, January 22, at 8 p.m. at the Memorial School Cafeteria, Winn street, Burlington.

Guest Speakers will be Ms. Catherine Winterson, Woburn ride-a-bike coordinator and Mr. Ken Allen, consultant from the Peabody School System.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting. The January fund-raiser will be held January 31 at the Four Hands of Friendship Activity Center, 827 Main st., Woburn, across the street from the entrance to Zayres. C.M.A.R.C. will hold an auction from 7:10 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Mauger does it again; now he has set the big 600 mark

By JOHN F. PARRELL

Captain Rick Mauger who has broken a Winchester school record in five of the six meets to date, turned his attention to the 600 this week and moved the record from 1:18.4 to 1:17.9 against Lexington and lopped off more than another second against Wakefield for a 1:16.2 clocking. This goes with his best 300 showing 33.3 seconds for the shorter event.

Wakefield and Winchester finished in a 43-all deadlock marking the first time in many years that the Sachems have been able to compete on even terms. They lost their other meet with Belmont 52-34 but it was a close meet up until the final events.

They will meet Melrose on Saturday morning and Watertown on Tuesday evening with both scheduled for the Lexington facility.

Winchester yields top of the league to Lexington's team

By JOHN F. PARRELL

The final games of the first half of the Middlesex League race were played Tuesday evening and entering this week the Middlesex League race shows:

Lexington	7	1
Winchester	6	2
Burlington	6	2
Wakefield	6	2

At this point there were ten games left to be played by each team so it still is anybody's race.

Winchester's Sachems had a hard week last week as they faced the Minutemen in the struggle for first with Tri-captain Wayne Mills and his brother Glenn out of action with the flu bug. Lexington was also missing Dave Spillane one of its key players due to an injury.

The Summary:

LEXINGTON:
Morrison	6	8 20
McLeod	6	4 16
Dawson	4	1 9
Nesline	2	0 4
Cadario	7	3 17
Gruber	2	0 4

TOTALS	23	17 63

The home team jumped into an early lead and built up a huge margin of 18-5 after only five minutes of play in the first period. They later stretched this to 21-5 before the Sachems began to creep back into contention but it was Lexington 27, Winchester 12 when the buzzer sounded to end the period. The Minutemen had done some superior shooting and the Sachem defense missed the Mills boys.

Winchester continued to move closer early in the second quarter and reached a point where the count was 32-31 in favor of Lexington. But the home forces picked up six more to two for the Sachems to make the half time score 39-33 for the Minutemen.

Coach Wheeler's boys tied the count at 39 all to start the second half and a moment later Jim Burns converted a three point play to make it 43-42 in favor of Lexington. But a minute later Lexington poured in ten straight points for a lead of 55-45 at the end of three periods.

The fourth period was even with each team netting 18 points. But the entire action was dominated by Willie Morrison who ran the home team's offense like a professional. He was coolness personified as he passed, set up plays and kept the offense operating smoothly. Then every so often he would wish through a basket just to keep his shooting eye sharp. He was enough to frustrate the Sachem efforts almost single handed and at the end it was Lexington in first place by a 73-63 margin.

Tri-captain Andy Stoeckle and Dan Heffernan played hard for Winchester and Kirk Swanson and Todd Cronan worked hard for the Sachem cause. Jim Burns, Don Allard, Bob McCabe, Fred Jones, Tim Powers and Bob McCabe did their best to fill the shoes of the missing starters but they lacked the experience to cope with a player of the caliber of Morrison. Winchester never quit, but Lexington deserved to be the winner.

The Watertown game found both Mills brothers seeing some action but they were still feeling the effects of the flu bout. However, Kevin Buckley one of the Raiders top operatives was limited in action due to torn shoulder muscles. He is normally a good rebounder and scorer and would probably have provided enough in both departments to swing the close game to Watertown.

Tri-captain Andy Stoeckle played his best game of the season both on offense and defense. He threw in 19 points and on defense he had ten blocked shots and many key rebounds. The team in general did not play up to its ability but Stoeckle's play took up the slack.

The Sachems opened up an early 12-6 lead and continued to pour the ball through the hoop for a 22-9 lead at the end of the first quarter. But Watertown gradually closed the gap until the Winchester lead dropped to only five points by the middle of the second session.

Most of the home team's surge must be credited to Phil Greenough who tossed in several long bombs. But the Sachems rallied and led by 33-24 at the half.

Both teams had picked up several fouls but the situation was far more grim for the Raiders who had four players with three fouls apiece. But an early foul by Stoeckle cut down his effectiveness on defense and Watertown closed the gap to 37-36. Once again the Sachems rallied and they held a comfortable 51-40 edge with eight minutes left on the clock.

But another foul sent Stoeckle out and Swanson also picked up his fourth miscue, so Winchester had to do the best it could with them out of action. However, both came back and finished the game without getting their fifth and eliminating foul.

However, Watertown was really working on its scoring and eventually evened the score. Then they pulled ahead 64-61 and it looked like another setback for Winchester's quintet. However, Todd Cronan stole the ball and passed to Tri-captain Dan Heffernan who scored and was fouled. He also made the free throw for a 64 all tie. Kirk Swanson then tossed in a set shot from the corner for a 66-64 lead.

Both teams battled hard over the final seconds and the score held to the end as Winchester made its league record 6-2.

Sachems tie Woburn 3-3 in a hard-fought first half finale

Winchester's Rich Coakley takes over puck as teammate and Woburn skater mix it up with high sticks at game last Wednesday. (Photo by Don Young)

By John F. Parrell

The Winchester hockey team of Coach Dave Berman ended the first half of the season by deadlocking the Woburn Tanners 3-3 in a game played at the Woburn rink. The Sachems appeared to be well on their way to their first victory as the final minute rolled around on the clock. However, it was not to be as Steve Benullo poked the rubber past Mike O'Leary with only 22 seconds left to play.

It was a fast, rugged game throughout with Winchester playing at its best. Penalties were plentiful on both sides and with 15 called it is surprising that the score was not larger. Woburn enjoyed a better than two to one edge in shots on net but O'Leary was at his best and allowed only three to get by him out of 50 which were shot at him.

The Tanners had three power play opportunities in the first period but were unable to profit by them. Winchester had few shots at Paul White in the Tanner goal, but Bill McLean converted assists by Co-Captain Gerry Kivney and Mark Cullen for the only first period goal which came after 12:54 of action.

Steve Benullo evened the score after 3:56 of the second period on a deflection of a power play shot by Mark Andrews. Both teams battled hard but there was no further scoring until late in the third period. Bill McLean picked up his second goal at the seven minute mark to give Winchester a 2-1 lead.

Andy Santo brought the Tanners even again after 10:36 after taking a pass from McGuerty. But even though there were less than four minutes left action continued at a fast clip. Jay Frongillo gave the Sachems what looked like a safe lead after 14:04 as he scored with Duck Allard being credited with the assist.

However, Woburn pulled its goalie and went to work with a vengeance. Coach Ed McGolgan's strategy was rewarded as Benullo came through with a goal after a wild scramble in front of the Winchester net with Griffin and Doucet being given assists. He banded Doucet's rebound by O'Leary for the 3-3 tie as the clock showed 14:38. Both teams fought hard for another score, but none came, so the final score was Winchester 3, Woburn 3.

The summary: Winchester 3, Woburn 3.

Town Youth Hockey

Hot play warms cold USA arena

Last Sunday morning was a cold one, but it didn't take Winchester boys long to warm things up at the U.S.A. Rink with their aggressive play. As a result the spectators were rewarded with two very interesting games, each ending as 5-5 ties. It's true that playing a tie game is like kissing your sister, but no team deserved to lose last Sunday.

In the first game the Black Hawks kept their cool and with good teamwork caught up to the hot, undefeated Red Wings. Tony Vita banged in (2) Peter Antonuccio played his usual strong game and scored (1) along with John Skinner and Chad Doe. Bob Andrews, Mike Schromm and John Skinner each had an assist. John played well both ways.

For the Red Wings, Hugo LaFauci made several strong rushes netting the hat trick (3) Mark Simpson made an alert steal of an errant pass and scored unassisted. Mike Jackson added one more to his collection. Five of the Wings helped out with assists, Paul Ruta (2), Mark Simpson, Tom Brown, Mike Jackson and Jack Noble with (1) each. Bob Lynch, with his constant hustle has shown great improvement and helps make this team a strong one.

In the second game the Bruins started strongly and had the Capitals down 5-2. Coach Tony Guarente urged his players to play solid team hockey and as a result they passed well and a good team effort helped them tie and almost win. Bob Torriere hit the strings for (2) with Scott Kajander, Mark Cassino and Mark Pasillo each scoring (1). Mark Pasillo's was a strong unassisted effort.

Phil Monson, Bob Torriere, Mark Pasillo, Rich Pantaleo and Dave Vozzella all chipped in with assists. Rich Pantaleo, Bob Amadeo and Jonathon Joslin worked hard to check the big guns on the Bruins. Every week little Rich Pantaleo is conspicuous for his 110 percent hustle and aggressiveness.

The Bruins' Scott Manley doesn't have the word pass in his vocabulary but he sure knows where the goal is as he potted (4) Sunday. (1) unassisted. Tom Shirley was the classy playmaker on the other (3) and would have scored himself except for some outstanding goalending. Rick Kimball scored the other goal on a neat pass from Paul Fay. A word of praise for the goalies, who made some fantastic saves against this year's crop of formidable gunners.

The season's schedule is as follows: December 28, Feb. 8, Mar. 21

Girl gymnasts beat Stoneham

The girls gymnastic team coached by Pam Canney bested Stoneham 71.753.8 in their opening meet of the season. It was a solid team effort with good balance in the scoring.

Jennifer Edwards and Captain Andrea DeSanctis were high scorers in the floor exercise event. Jennifer was rated 8.5 and Andrea 8.0. The top performances in vaulting were by Jennifer Edwards (7.3) and Kim Shawcross (7.0).

The balance beam also found Jennifer as high scorer with a 6.0 and she also topped all performers in the uneven parallel bars, with for Ithaca team

Joe Campo, a senior from Winchester, is a member of the 1975-76 Ithaca College varsity hockey team. The Bombers are currently 3-3, including the championship of the Brockport Tournament. Victories have been won over R.I.T., Plattsburgh, and the University of Buffalo.

Ithaca has displayed an explosive offense this season, scoring 31 goals through the first six games. The Bombers will play the first of their 12 remaining games on January 20, hosting Oswego State.

Joe is playing right wing for the Bombers. A physical education major at Ithaca, Joe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Campo of 34 Myrtle terr.

St. Eualia squirts split two games

The St. Eualia Squirt Lions split a pair of games with rivals Reading and Lexington in recent action.

In downing Reading 5-2, the Lions registered a solid offensive and defensive show in a game that was closer than the final score would indicate.

The Lions took a 2-0 lead into the second period after two unassisted goals by Mike Griffin and Tom Bryant. However, after Reading tied the score at two, the Lions roared back with three goals to seal the victory.

Continued hard work was turned in by Mike Griffin and Steve Brogdon, each tallying important third period goals. Paul Tucci's good rush and goal at the buzzer capped off the Lions' scoring. Defensively, Eaton and Gulesarian were sharp with their aggressive hard checking while Tucci was effective in setting up his teammates with good passes. Ricky Parker was a stand-out with his back checking and solid play. David Boyle turned in his usual consistent game registering flashy glove and skate saves once again.

Against the Lexington AA Squirts, the Lions were defeated by a 3-1 score.

In a game that was well played from start to finish, the Lions all put forth a strong effort. Although the Lions' passing and shooting was sharp, they came up against a hot Lexington goalie who made many excellent saves to hold the Lions in check. Bobby Engel scored the sole Lion goal following a good pass in front by Mike Griffin after a hard shot from the point by Eaton. Steve Masiello played a strong game with his good rushes and alert play.

Good efforts were turned by the Lions' defensive corps of Gulesarian, Eaton, O'Connor and Conti as well as by many of the forwards including Mike Shaw, Tom Bryant and Mike Hubel.

The Lions record now stands at 10-1-1.

Kadesch winner of tennis competition

Phil Kadesch of 15 Mayflower road, has acquired another tennis championship. He was the singles winner at the Maple Sugar Open tennis championships completed last weekend at the Twin Oaks Tennis Club, Burlington, Vt.

He prevailed over Greg Kirsch, Auburn-dale, in the final match, 6-2, 6-4, after defeating Robin Fleming, Cambridge, in the semi-finals, 6-4, 7-5.

Kadesch, former No. 1 player at the University of Wisconsin, is now a teaching professional at the Village Green Racquet and Swim Club in Danvers. He is ranked No. 14 among New England men players.

Some well-known citizens in Winton Club's Cabaret

One of the historic scenes in Act I of "Play It Again, Uncle Sam" is the 1976 rendition of the Minutemen on the Green. Winton Club's Cabaret Militia is made up of well-known citizens of Winchester. Among the group are selectmen and other government officials, lawyers, school principals, businessmen, doctors, dentists and pharmacists. The audience will be sure to recognize some among these gentlemen protecting the citizens' rights of Winchester.

Interest in Winton Club's 55th Annual Cabaret is running high, and already the Friday and Saturday night performances are sold out except for balcony seats. Tickets are still available for all other shows.

The Friday night Cabaret has the advantage of an extra hour of dancing to Alan Smith's orchestra at the end of the evening. Early curtain time for the Wednesday and Thursday shows allows for complete enjoyment of the Cabaret, and for dancing between the acts without making it a late night during the work week.

Tickets for senior citizens are at half price on Wednesday night, January 28, and this year Winton Club is featuring a special Hospital Night for Winchester Hospital employees, also on Wednesday night. Tickets will be on sale at the Winchester Hospital for employees on Friday, January 23.

This year cheese and crackers as well as the usual mixers and soft drinks will be offered at the refreshment booth. Door prizes are drawn every night at intermission with special prizes for the children on Tuesday night.

"Play It Again, Uncle Sam" runs from Jan. 27 through Jan. 31.

Manager Groux names new Veterans Services chief

Howard E. Chase, Jr., 160 Forest st., has been appointed by Town Manager Thomas J. Groux to be the Veterans Services Director. Chase was chosen from a list of 12 applicants interviewed by Groux.

Chase is a life-long resident of Winchester and attended public schools here. He has taken courses at Northeastern University and Boston University. He served in the Army from 1940-1945, seeing action in the south Pacific.

Chase is a member of the VFW, the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Friends of the Winchester Hospital, and has been a town meeting member.

Chase is currently employed by the Division of Employment Security in Woburn as a senior interviewer. Before working there he had been employed by J. H. Winn for 20 years.

Chase's duties as director will be to assist veterans in obtaining benefits for themselves and their families, to oversee the town's workmen's compensation program, and to oversee the police and fire departments' indemnification.

The appointment of Chase comes after a lengthy time in which the position had been filled on an interim basis by John O'Hern after the death of the previous director. It carries a salary range of $10,405 to $13,798.

Library films

January 25 & 27

The Fun Factory - Excerpts from Mack Sennett's hilarious comedies are shown in this film. Those featured are such famous people as Charlie Chaplin, Ben Turpin and the Keystone Kops. It is a fast movie, a half-hour of slapstick comedy.

Norman the Doorman - Norman a mouse, is the faithful doorman for the art treasures stored in the museum's basement. He is an amateur sculptor and enters the museum's contest with rewarding results.

On Sunday afternoon the family program is held in the Story Hour Room of the Junior Library and will begin at 2. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children. There will be a Tuesday afternoon program for school age children. It will begin at 2.

which would indicate we should postpone a vote."

Had the board voted negatively to the granting of the license, six months would have to elapse before the petition could be brought before the selectmen again. A vote of three ayes is needed to grant a common victualler's license.

In the matter of esthetics, Selectmen Chapman and Hankins said their votes would be based entirely on the validity of the petition and not on the esthetics of one person. The other members concurred. Chapman said, "It is not within the scope of this board's view to consider esthetics. It's only the reasonableness of the petition which should concern us. We must not let control become so strict that citizens are reluctant to bring petitions before the board. Undue constraints should not be imposed."

Anastos responded that he would like anyone with a complaint to speak out in public, and to demonstrate any infringements on any legal aspect of the petition. Smith felt that these were not public matters and asked Anastos to meet with him during the week. He commended Anastos on the patience he has shown in this matter and said again that the petition was worthy of deliberation.

The petition of Peter Anastos and Theodore Kopanos will come before the selectmen next Monday night.

Board puts off petition for license again

Selectmen postponed for another week a vote on whether to issue a common victualler's license to Peter Anastos and Theodore Kopanos, who have come before the board for several weeks in their bid to open a restaurant in Winchester center.

Chairman Larry Smith emphasized that the vote was deferred due to the failure of the board to request a vote. Selectmen did not request a vote Monday night because some of the members had received telephone communications making certain allegations against the petitioners. Until those allegations could be validated and discussed, all members felt no vote should be taken on the issuance of a license to the petitioners.

Selectman John Sullivan, noting the impatience of Anastos to get on with a vote (Anastos is paying rent on a daily basis for the site in a building at the corner of Main and Mt. Vernon sts.), provided a brief history of the stand the board has taken on the granting of common victualler's licenses.

He said, "Right or wrong this board has denied licenses (for restaurants) for years. We always hope that what we do is in the best interests of Winchester and we are not about ready to make a mistake. We have an obligation to make sure that what we do is correct. There have been allegations against you and against the town of Winchester. We want to make sure that you and the public know that we are not making a political decision regarding this restaurant. The door here is always open to anyone who has complaints."

Smith reiterated his desire to make it clear that there is no concrete evidence of anything against the character of the petitioner. He said, "That this board continues to consider this application indicates that Winchester has a need for this kind of establishment... but there have been unverified communications

Save the Park Committee explains aims to town boards

In an effort to spread their message that the old Wadleigh School site should be left open and unstructured, Save the Parks has made presentations to several Winchester committees. Monday night they visited Finance Committee.

Their reasons for wanting to save the three quarters of an acre of land are three-fold. 1) The decline of open space available to the public throughout Winchester. 2) The housing nearby is dense eight houses per acre. 3) The land is located at the confluence of the town's major arteries, thus providing heavy vehicular traffic to the area.

That the visual impact of some of Winchester's finest structures would be blocked is an esoteric reason for leaving the plot of land alone.

Finance Committee asked whether or not the group had considered any other options than turning the site into parkland.

Spokesman for Save the Parks, Calvin T. Cramer emphatically replied that he sees no other way to vouchsafe the property.

The land has a long history of children's use. In 1850 Winchester built four schools. At this time Gifford School was built at the site of Washington and Mt. Vernon streets.

Then in 1900 Wadleigh School replaced Gifford. It stood until 1962. And since that time, Save the Park Committee says, there has been a gradual disappearance of open space. They'd like to buck that trend.

Bowler is the last chief to be appointed by the Board of Selectmen. From now on the town manager will make the appointments. Sullivan served on the board the year it appointed Bowler. He recalled, "I remember very well when we appointed you, Chief Bowler. We had been having some lengthy hearings regarding some traffic violations and I suggested that the radar car be set up on Grove street. It was only a week after you became chief. The next morning, the very next morning, I was caught by the radar trap at 6:45."

Sullivan also commended the chief on his advances in training of police specialists, his success with collective bargaining procedures, his improvements in radio communication and fingerprinting. He commended Chief Bowler for "a job well done" and expressed hope that the chief "would not become a stranger to us."

Selectman Arthur Dunbar said that Bowler was particularly well trained in his capacity as chief and he cited the leadership shown by Bowler's chairmanship of the Northeastern Massachusetts Law Enforcement Council (1973-74) and his attendance at the FBI Academy in Washington. Dunbar said, "The entire Middlesex area has benefited by your time as Chief. You have shown leadership both in town and out of town. You have built a good department. However, Chief, if we're going to pay your retirement, we're going to get more out of you. Your effectiveness as Chief does not stop now."

Selectwoman Barbara Hankins noted she had the distinction of being the only member of the board to have judged a bake contest with the chief. She commended the professional manner in which Bowler has run the department. "Under your leadership," she said, "we see one of the major reasons Winchester has not had the problems other towns have had." She also praised the Chief for the prestige he has brought to the Winchester Police Department and the high level of professionalism within the department.

Chief Bowler responded that he has always had the complete support and cooperation of the Board of Selectmen. He hastily said goodbye and ended 37 years of service to his town's police department.

Mini-College

Every Wednesday after school at 2:30 p.m. in the Cafeteria of the High School, the Guidance Office will be conducting a Mini-College Program to which all high school students and their parents are invited.

On Wednesday, January 28, the following institutions will be represented:

Barbizon School of Modeling & Fashion Design, Muskingum College, (Ohio), and a U.S. Air Force recruiter.

Issues, answers — WHSR-FM

WHSR-FM will present next Thursday, January 22, at 5 p.m. Issues and Answers. The show will feature Mrs. Catherine Fallon of the Winchester School Committee and Peter Haley, news editor of the Red and Black. Jacqueline Lowe, an announcer at WHSR-FM, will be moderator for the program.

The following issues will be discussed:

A. Fiscal autonomy, and is it being used effectively?

B. Why is there an imbalance between money spent on academic extra curricular activities and money spent on athletic extra curricular activities?

C. Does the school committee have an effective means of communication with teachers and students at Winchester High School?

Cong. Macdonald reflects; primary challenge ahead

Congressman Torbert H. Macdonald, faced with a challenge in the Democratic primary this year, reviewed some of his efforts in the first session of the 94th Congress at a press luncheon last Thursday. Congressman Macdonald also commented on the upcoming primary and election.

As a member of the House Commerce Committee, Macdonald explained that he had decided to concentrate his efforts on the field of communications rather than energy problems. "The energy issue is a can of worms," he said, "but it is also a question of problems that one way or another will eventually be solved."

Referring to the problems of passing certain types of legislation, Macdonald commented, "One of the problems is we've had seven years of a Republican President with a Democratic Congress, and that tends to be a difficult thing to cope with."

"We'd be better off if the President would pick a course, follow it, let it operate, and see how it works, rather than switching from one policy to another all the time," said the congressman of the President's economic policy.

On the subject of New York's fiscal crisis, he expressed surprise at the "parochialism" of representatives in dealing with the issue. "If and when New York falls, it's going to fall right on Boston—and that's almost literally true," he said.

When asked about the challenge from former

Massachusetts Secretary of Elder Affairs Jack Leff for his Seventh Congressional District, Macdonald said that it will not be the first time he has faced opposition in the primary. He added that he knew little about Leff: "I've never met him, I've never seen him. I know such a person exists, but if he's around, I don't know where he is."

"I have no special favorite," Macdonald said of the 1976 Presidential race. "I haven't come out in support of anyone in particular, because I don't feel it really means that much."

Summing up the Congressional mood, Macdonald quipped, "We could use some more humor down there—I mean conscious humor."

He said that the rumors about his poor health, which have been around since he underwent surgery in 1972, are unfounded and that, "I feel as good as I ever did."

Peter Knight of Winchester was at the luncheon Thursday. He is an administrative aide in Macdonald's Washington office.

Malden man to oppose Macdonald for Congress

Jack Leff, former Massachusetts Secretary of Elder Affairs and the first cabinet-level state executive on aging in the nation, today declared his intention to become a candidate for Congress in the Democratic Primary in the Massachusetts Seventh Congressional District.

In announcing his candidacy, Leff stated, "Our polling efforts as well as our personal conversations with voters from the 15 cities and towns comprising the Seventh District has confirmed our feeling that the voters of this District—like a great many other Americans—are disillusioned with our political system and with the ability of our elected officials to solve the problems besetting this nation."

"I am convinced that this attitude stems from the fact that while our politicians talk a great deal about the problems—unemployment, taxes, crime—in the streets—few are seen as actively seeking solutions."

During my tenure in state government, we were able to bring people together, to discuss the problems confronting us, and to develop innovative and effective solutions. We were able to match our public rhetoric with a positive public policy for the people of this state.

"In the nine months remaining before the September primary, I intend to create a forum for discussion of the issues of concern to the voters of the Seventh District, to talk with the voters, to listen to their views, and to work with them to find solutions to the problems before us."

"I intend to offer myself as a viable alternative to the present Congressman. I am convinced that the voters of the Seventh District will recognize the need for a creative, energetic and dedicated Congressman, willing to devote full time, both in the District and in Washington, to meeting the needs of his constituents."

A Malden resident, Jack Leff is president of the consulting firm, Jack Leff Associates, Inc. A nationally-known expert in the field of aging, Leff has, since his departure from state government, served as a consultant to numerous universities and state agencies including most recently, Syracuse University, Governor's Office, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and the National Council on Aging, based in Washington, D.C. Leff is originator and former host of The First Generation, a radio series aired daily on WEEI.

Ann Blackham to run for GOP state office

Ann Blackham has announced her candidacy for Republican State Committee woman for the newly-designated 4th Middlesex Senatorial District.

The Pre-Presidential Primary election which will occur on March 2 will elect committee men and women to four year positions in each political party. The 4th Middlesex District encompasses all of Winchester, Woburn, Arlington, Ward 6 in Medford and Precincts 1,2,3 and 5 in Lexington.

Ann Blackham was the Republican candidate for State Senate for the 6th Middlesex District in 1968 and as a campaign manager in the Brad Morse, Volpe, Richardson and Sargent campaigns. She believes strongly in the two-party system of government and wants to see and build a greater participation and voice in party affairs for the average voter and volunteer worker.

Mrs. Blackham is president of Ann Blackham and Company, Realtors, of Winchester. She received her AB from Ohio Dominican College (formerly College of St. Mary of the Springs) and her MA from Ohio State University.

She is currently a vice and continues indefinitely on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 at Church of All Nations, 333 Tremont St., Boston.

The play has been well received by the Boston critics and Pat Mitchell of Channel 4, WBZ urged people to go see this zany comedy in premier performance.

The play is a collaborative effort of Arnie Riesenman and Jon Lipsky both of whom started their writing careers in journalism and are now writing for the theatre.

Norman Goodman serves as a board member of Playwrights' Platform, a theatrical cooperative dedicated to new playwrights and their work. Scripts from area playwrights are always welcome; for more information call Playwrights' Platform or address the group at 333 Tremont St., Boston.

Swim Club in mixed doubles

The Winchester Swim Club recently held a mixed-up doubles evening at the Winchester Indoor Tennis Center. Winners of the competition were Richard Ockerbloom and Marlene Rothmann. First runners up were Michelle Ferrara and Brooke Green. Three hours of Voss system play were followed by a buffet.

Plans are now underway for the annual Spring mixed-up doubles evening which will be held on March 20 at the Winchester Indoor Tennis Center from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

Interested Swim Club Members should contact Jack Mulvaney, 10 Madison Ave. West, for reservations before March 1. This event is always a sellout, so first come first served will rule.

White House job applications are being accepted

Applications are now being accepted for the 1976 White House Summer Intern Program. The program is designed to give qualified young people an opportunity to work in the Executive Branch of the Federal Government.

Between 25 and 35 students are placed in the White House staff office, offices of the vice president, the Domestic Council and the Council on International Economic Policy.

Competition is very keen—last year 33 students were selected from among 1200 applicants.

The following requirements and policies apply to the program:

Age: 18-25 (At least one year of college must be completed by June of 1976).

Length of program: Tuesday, June 1 - Friday, September 3, 1976.

Application material: Complete resume, latest school transcript, original standard form 171 and cover letter explaining why the applicant is interested in becoming a White House intern. No personal interviews will be conducted.

Approximate salary: $150 per week for undergraduates; $165 a week for graduate students.

All applications and inquiries should be sent to: Miss Pamela Powell, Director for Youth Affairs, The White House, Washington, D.C. 20500.

Public radio to air issues on call-in show

To help "air the issues," the National Public Radio with the cooperation of several other organizations, including the League of Women Voters, will broadcast a series of call-in programs with the candidates for the Presidential nominations of the Republican and Democratic parties.

This series, "Candidates on the Line," with an early focus on the "issues not images" of the '76 election, is an opportunity for voters to question candidates directly on the issues.

Using an innovative approach for call-in programs, National Public Radio will devote the first portion of the program to several members of the sponsoring organizations, who will be given extra time to follow up on the candidates' replies to their questions; to flag non-responses; to question the ramifications of the response or raise related questions. This should help keep to the issues.

This series is being broadcast on Tuesdays and Thursdays on WBUR FM 90.9 and WGBH FM 89.7 through March 5. For exact time, please consult the newspapers.

Following is the schedule: Tuesdays: Feb. 10 - Shapp; Feb. 17 - Bentsen; Thursdays: Jan. 15 - Udall; Jan. 22 - Carter; Feb. 5 - Sanford; Feb. 19 - Bayl.

The schedule for President Ford, Governors Wallace and Reagan, and Senator Jackson is to be announced.

Miss MacMillan capped at LMH

Miss Ann M. MacMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. MacMillan, 10 Farrow St. who is a freshman nursing student of the Class of 1978 at the Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford School of Nursing, received her first white nurse's cap at the Blue and White Exercises, the traditional candlelighting ceremonies, held recently at the Little Theatre in Medford High School.

This ceremony, known as "capping", indicates that members of the class have successfully completed the first half of their freshman year.

Miss MacMillan is a 1975 graduate of Winchester High School.

'Deplorable' conditions at town yard, repairs given top CIC priority

From an era where the leisure class spent spare moments on horseback, this town stable has since been transformed to Winchester's Town Yard. (Star photo by Christy Cressey)

Highway Department mechanic Bobby Scholl, who was born and raised in Winchester, would have an easier job if the Town Yard had a pit to work in with hydraulic lifts. (Staff photo by Christy Cressey)

Horn's street sign shop. Assistant Superintendent of Highways Edward J. Murphy says storing the equipment outdoors hastens their deterioration and development of rust, ultimately shortening the equipment's lifespan. Beattie also observed that one beam and one column are badly corroded by salt and should be replaced soon. 90 percent of them though, are in good shape. He suggests taking out the existing floor, pouring in new forms and covering them with fresh cement and asphalt. The Town Yard which years ago replaced the Town Stables, retains the architecture from that era. Unfortunately, some of the working conditions there are also somewhat antiquated. The garage has no drainage. This means during a rain or snow storm the men must work in water. While there are 3½ bays to work on highway equipment, none of the bays are equipped with hydraulic lifts, so the men perform their work under the vehicles from the cold damp floor. The workers' lounge, adjacent to the restroom, is equally unappealing. The room, lined with chairs salvaged from the Town Incinerator, only provides a place for them to escape the cold. Although Town Meeting has historically rejected the creation of a public works department, under Town Manager Groux, one will soon be underway. There is some talk of making the Town Yard location at Linden and Palmer streets the central headquarters for this new department and other administrative offices currently at Town Hall.

But attention to the actual physical structure of the Town Yard is the Capital Improvement Committee's and the Highway Department's current concern. In their opinion — the sooner the better. An appeal for funding these repairs is expected at the Town Meeting in March.

Capital Improvement Committee (CIC) members at a meeting recently reported conditions at Winchester's Town Yard are so deplorable that repairs there have become a top priority item on the CIC's list of suggested expenditures.

But Town Manager Thomas Groux, according to committee members, has no plans to make any major alterations until he hires a director of public works.

CIC member Robert Beattie, who has inspected the conditions at Town Yard feels that the longer the damage goes unattended, the more extensive will be future repairs.

About two months ago a large, six-foot diameter hole appeared through the truck garage ramp, which leads to the second floor. The hole in the concrete floor developed from salt corrosion of trucks entering and leaving the garage. it was reported.

Not only is the corroded second floor a safety hazard to men working below, but its disuse means expensive highway equipment is stored outdoors, the committee was told.

Highway department trucks formerly were kept there when not in use, but now all that remains on the second floor is Jake

Church Women's annual meeting Feb. 2

Mrs. E. Leonard Woods, President, has announced that Church Women United of Winchester will hold their annual meeting February 2, at Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church at 12:30.

Winchester women are invited to attend and may make reservations through Church representatives.

Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church and Second Congregational Church women will host the luncheon following the business meeting. Mrs. David Dettinger and Mrs. Robert Watson will co-chair the luncheon.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Thomas H. Wright of Melrose, Mass. who will speak on "The history of Church Women United and its breadth of organization, nationally and internationally."

Mrs. Wright is well known in the Winchester area and installed the original unit of Church Women United officers in this town. She serves on the Board of Episcopal Church Women in the Diocese of Massachusetts and is past State President of Church Women United in Massachusetts.

Shovel it!

The Winchester Fire Department asks residents to shovel the snow away from fire hydrants in front of their homes. In the event of a fire, much precious time would be saved if the hydrants have been shoveled out.

On dean's list

Miss Debra-Anne Sullivan daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sullivan of 49 Salisbury St. has been named to the Deans list at Boston College for the fall semester. Debra is a freshman studying a strong liberal arts program with special interests in international relations. She is a 1975 graduate of Winchester High School and a member of the National Honor Society.

Sodality holds silent auction

The Immaculate Conception Ladies Sodality will sponsor a Silent Auction January 26, following the 7:30 p.m. Sodality Mass, at the School Hall, Sheridan circle.
Donations of clean, usable articles would be greatly appreciated. Any donations may be brought to the home of Chairlady Mrs. Gertrude McCarron, 35 White St., or phone for pick-ups.
Refreshments will be served during the auction.

Youth to hear Dr. Donald McLean

On Sunday evening, January 25, at 6 p.m. at Crawford Methodist Church, Donald E. McLean will talk informally with ninth through twelfth graders on the subject of alcohol and teen-agers. The discussion will take place in Gifford Hall, the Dix St. entrance, and will run until 7:30 p.m.
Dr. McLean is a popular figure with the youth in Winchester, is a practicing pediatrician, has been directly involved with CONCERN, a project aimed at education and treatment of drug and alcohol related problems, has written books that have been used nationally, and is a great supporter of youth. The physician's respect and concern for young people has kept him involved way past the "line of duty."
The invitation to speak was extended to Dr. McLean by the Senior High Fellowship which meets at the Methodist Church each Sunday evening.
During the fall the young people were involved in study sessions which were conducted by Dr. Grace Ruth Hatch concerning moral awareness and levels of moral development. The discussions grew out of an interest of the Youth Group to find out more about relating to others in a mature and responsible fashion.
One meeting in particular was devoted to the discussion of alcohol consumption at the high school level, and was led by Mike Goodman, co-worker in the recent survey conducted at the high school.
All area youth are invited to attend the talk led by Dr. McLean, who stresses his wish to talk with the youth, not at them.

Seminarian to lead discussion

The Worship Committee of the Unitarian Church will present a creative worship on the theme of the Adult Program series, "Values for a Small Planet."
Participants include: Charles Morgan, Peggy Sudbury, Maggie Russell, Larry Stoddard, Nora Hopkins, Arthur Hopkins, Steve Davies, Marie Zoerheide, Faith Waltman, Karen Detore, David Russell, Constance Morrill, Ganson Taggart, Fran Verplanck, Ed Barker, Dr. Larry Forrester, Marge Dickson, now attending school at the Keeler Air Force Base, planning this special liturgical service includes: Robert MacDougall, Dianne MacDougall, Paulett Taggart, Nancy Cunningham and Rev. Jack D. Zoerheide.

Rick Ryscavage, Jesuit seminarian from the staff of the Paulist Center in Boston, will be speaker and discussion leader during the Adult Program at 11:30 this Sunday, January 25 at the Winchester Unitarian Church.
Mr. Ryscavage recently returned from a year in India under the auspices of the Gandhi Peace Foundation. He has also completed a year of studies at the Central American Institute under the direction of food scientists, like George Borgstrom.
In addition to his special experience with studies of the world food crisis, Mr. Ryscavage will complete seminary studies at the Weston School of Theology in preparation for ordination this spring.

Mrs. Dottie Steinhelfer (right) representing the Gideon's International, gives a Bible to Karen Olsen, a nurse in the Intensive Care Unit at the New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham. 336 Nurses' Testaments were given out by the Gideons to nurses at NEMH. If Price and Location Are Your Prime Concerns

Consider Our $37,000 Townhouse in Winchester

When it comes to purchasing a home, most people put price and location first. That's why we think that our 2-BR townhouses (priced from $37,000 to $41,000) are the best condominium buys in the state. The train station is a short walk (travel time to Boston 12 mins.), the supermarket is around the corner, and 15 tennis courts are up the street. Full basements, free parking, plus excellent financing terms. The condominiums are located on the shore of Wedge Pond where you can swim, boat and watch the ducks and geese that stop here on their migratory routes.
Model: at 60N Lake Street, a quarter mile from the center of Winchester. For information call 729-3389

Tracking the trains

Winchester's control tower is a far cry from one at airport

Train 3308, engine 3644 from Wilmington leaves Winchester Station on June 19, 1953.

By Karen Whittlesey-First

The 4:53 has just arrived at Winchester Station from Boston. Peter Martin has followed its path into town for the past six or seven minutes since it left the West Medford area.

"We're like the air control tower people at Logan," Martin says. "It's up to us to make sure the right train comes through at the right time and goes the right direction."

Unlike the control tower at Logan, however, the Winchester signal tower is more or less hidden away behind the parking lot for the offices and businesses on Church st.

It's 4:53 and Martin has pulled the proper knobs and made the proper signal changes so that this train can continue north to Woburn.

There are altogether 40 trains going through Winchester toward Boston and 40 passing the other way, some to Woburn, others to Lowell. Almost all the trains are Buddliners, streamlined and pretty fast. Right now the trains run about 40 miles per hour, but they have a potential of about 70 m.p.h.

"They're working on the beds so the trains can go faster," Martin says. He doesn't know how long it will be.

Three of the trains passing through town are freight trains on their way to Boston or toward Portland or Concord, New Hampshire.

According to Frank Boyson, a signal towerman with 36 years experience, there's as much freight going through as there used to be. "People forget," he says, "that a steam locomotive was only capable of carrying a certain number of those box cars. With the diesel engines, though, we can keep adding engines and pull more cars on fewer trains. So it may seem that there's less freight going through, but I think there's about the same."

The signal tower now in use is the same one that was there when the steam locomotives used to be the dream of the young men in Winchester. Before the tracks were elevated in 1954, kids in town used to run down to the center to watch the great iron horse.

"This signal tower was built in 1928," Stanley Coates says. He was working the tower before the tracks were elevated. There's a certain gleam in his eye and a smile of nostalgia for what was. "There was a real station then with a waiting room and a ticket counter. You know, before they raised the tracks we were on the same level as the platform. After they filled in the land they had to take a little slice of the roof off so the passing trains wouldn't hit it."

The job of the signal tower workers is to change the signals on the tracks so that each train engineer knows that the tracks ahead are clear. If there is a problem, like debris on the track or a train "wrong ironing," coming down the wrong track, the signalman can change the lights to red and halt the passage of the train. In front of him is a long board with red lights which light when a train has reached a particular station.

The Winchester tower has jurisdiction over trains between West Medford and Wilmington Junction. It covers now what four signal towers covered years ago. The next signal station north is Lowell. Going toward Boston there are several. The number of signal towers needed is determined by the amount of rail traffic in the area.

Winchester Center looked open and clear before the train tracks were elevated. This picture was taken in 1954.

The signalmen must be in the tower not only to change signals and switches for trains going through, but also in case the train engineer needs to reach him.

If there is a problem on a train, the engineer stops the train and gets off. He picks up one of the telephones along the route and is in direct touch with the signal tower. Buddliners do not, except for a few, have telephones on board. Someday all of them will have direct communication with the signal tower but for now only the freight trains and a few passenger trains have the telephones.

The signalman's telephone is older than the tower. The date stamped on the side reads "January 26, 1915." The signalman pulls it from its stand and pushes his foot down on a pedal to eliminate the reverberations from the echo when he speaks.

He does have other telephones, as well, but the old one works well to put him in touch with the train engineers. He uses the other ones to reach the Boston and Maine office or to call police.

"Mostly we get calls from the engineers about vandalism," Frank Boyson says. "That's our biggest problem. You wouldn't believe what some of the kids do. The kids don't have anything else to do, but they don't realize how dangerous some of their pranks are."

The signalmen don't get many calls for emergency aid, although Stanley Coates remembers about ten years ago when a train hit a man on the tracks and he went flying past the windows of the signal tower. Sometimes there are calls for an engineer to receive medical aid when the train arrives at a station.

Generally, however, the routine goes on day after day, night after night. It's to keep things running smoothly and to be ready for an emergency that the signalmen must stay alert, watching the red lights on their board.

It's 5:20. Another train has arrived from Boston.

From the files of the Archival Center:

... Upon completion of the Boston & Lowell Railroad, the portion of South Woburn (now Winchester), then designated as the "Woburn Gates," naturally attracted attention as central to a territory, embraced within the radius of a mile from the Gates, which contained the elements of a new town, composed the south part of Woburn and the northern part of Medford. The first depot or station of the railway was opposite the building next north of Lyceum Hall, and it remained at this point, with changes merely of the buildings for the purpose, till 1872.

The depot at the Centre or at the Gates, as then designated, was at first a small shop, in which Mr. John Robinson made shoes. The first regular station-master was John Donahoe, the second, Capt. Nathan Jaquith, who kept the position for many years. Capt.

Jaquith was a vigorous man of his age, and walked from Winchester to Lowell after he was ninety years old. He was succeeded by Col. Samuel B. White, who once owned and occupied the Black Horse Tavern.

Those Gates made a strong impression upon the mind of one of the boys who remembers well those days. They were ponderous ones; and we boys would gather together and watch for the nose of the iron horse as it appeared from under the Mystic Station Bridge on the south, or from the other bridge then standing at about the same distance on the north. This was a signal for a scramble of the youngsters, who would rush to swing the Gates open, hold them till the train passed, and then with a shout close them again. In our estimation, this was a very important as well as exciting occasion. It was long before the novelty of the train in motion wore off. The trains were few and far between, the engines small, and the cars built much like the old-fashioned stage coaches, with doors opening at the side for entrance or exit; the engineer not protected as now by a cab, and the conductor and brakemen occupying the seats upon the top of the car, unprotected from the weather. The proceedings on arriving at the station were as follows: the conductor and brakeman would jointly apply the brakes which was done by pressing their feet upon the lever which came up through the foot-board where they sat; and when the train stopped, the conductor came down from his perch, went to the car which was to receive the passenger, opened it and guarded it till the fare was paid, which at that time was fifty cents from the Gates to Boston.

Virginia Moore

Funeral services were held for Virginia T. (McPartland) Moore of Langley, Washington December 27. Mrs. Moore, a resident of Winchester until her marriage in 1959, died December 23 after following a long illness. She was 52.

She was the daughter of the late Theresa (Carey) and Hugh McPartland. After graduating from Winchester High School in 1941, she went on to receive a B.A. in foreign languages from Radcliffe College in 1945.

Mrs. Moore is survived by her husband Thomas L. Moore, her two sons Thomas L. Jr., 14, and Mark, 11, and a daughter Anne, 9.

Marie M. Garballey

Marie B. (Murray) Garballey, 60, died at Winchester Hospital January 14 after a brief illness. She was the wife of the late James J. Garballey.

Mrs. Garballey was born in Ireland on January 30, 1915, and she spent most of her life in the United States. She is a former resident of Arlington and was residing in Winchester at the time of her death.

She was the mother of Mrs. Ann F. O'Connor of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Margaret M., James J., and John R., all of Winchester; and Mrs. Maureen G. Auterio of Acton.

She is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Anne Corbet of Brighton; and by three brothers, James Murray, also of Brighton; Michael Murray of Allston; and Edward Murray, of Galway, Ireland. She leaves five grandchildren.

Mass was said for Mrs. Garballey at St. Agnes Church in Arlington on January 17, and burial followed at Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Leonard V. Griffiths

Leonard Victor Griffiths, 16 Park rd., died of heart failure January 18 at Winchester Hospital. He was 78.

A native of Methuen, Mr. Griffiths was born to Alfred L. and Kate Jackson Griffiths, both natives of England. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War I on the vessel U.S.S. Kearsarge.

Mr. Griffiths was a printer for Boston newspapers and belonged to the Mount Olivet Lodge of Masons. He was a member of the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church.

Surviving him are his wife Louise A., of Winchester, two daughters, Marjorie E. Haley, Atlanta, Ga.; Nancy A. Wilde, Winchester; and two sons, Robert E., Coral Gables, Fla.; and Leonard V. Jr., Greensburg, Ky. He also leaves 18 grandchildren.

Rev. Leon Hatch officiated at services January 20 at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Burial followed in Methuen.

Gifts in his memory may be donated to the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church Memorial Fund. Arrangements were by the Norris Funeral Home.

John W. Baker

John William Baker, 89, died quietly December 19, in his home in Providence.

A partner in the law firm of Henshaw, Lindemuth and Baker, as well as later with Hinckley, Allen, Tillinghast and Wheeler, he retired in 1950 and devoted his time to writing the Annotated Legal Torts for the State of Rhode Island, published by the R.I. Bar Association in the 50's.

Born in Selma, Ala., Dec. 12, 1886, Mr. Baker was educated in the Mobile Military School in Mobile, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1908 and Harvard Law School in 1914. An Army captain in World War I, he also later was a member in the Sons of the American Revolution.

A deacon of the First Unitarian Church, he had been working up to the time of his death on a treatise marshalling arguments to support his convictions; of an all-loving God, and human immortality. His wife was the former Ruth Taft Somes.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Paul H. Hemmerich, of 23 Bellevue ave., and Mrs. William W. Treat of Stratham, N.H., and five grandchildren.

Music Club has third meeting

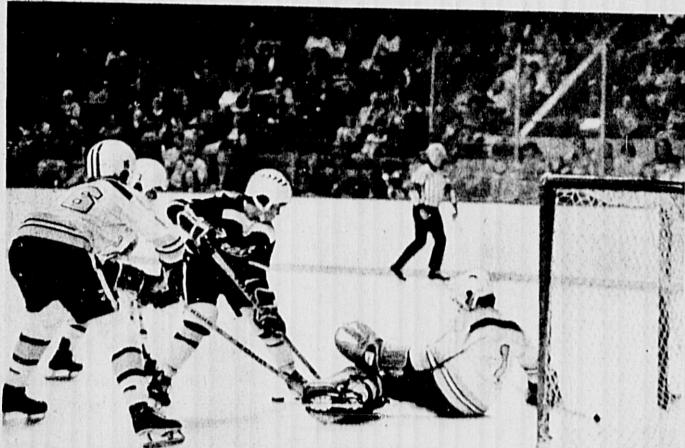

The third meeting of the Winchester Music Club was held on Sunday evening, January 18 at the home of Mrs. Roberta Levinson. Mrs. Judi McDermott was program planner, and Brian Levinson served as master-of-ceremonies.

Sarah Downs, pianist, played Novelette and A Brisk Game, both by Kabelevsky; Melissa Kerman, pianist, played Album for the Young No. 8 by Tchaikovsky.

Suzanne Farman, violinist, played the First Movement of the Concerto in D Major by Mozart, accompanied by pianist, Mrs. Helen Black. Other pianists included: Lindy Craig, Sonata in F by Beethoven; Julia Gittleman, Autumn Sketch by William Gillock; Edna Accardo, Jig by Corelli; Jessica Fixler, Mazurka in A Minor by Chopin.

"Eventually Midnight," an original piece by Mark Jacobs, a music teacher at the Lynch Jr. High School, was played by Brian Levinson, saxophonist, and piano accompanist, Derek Penn.

Students of the following teachers performed: Susan Cowan, Mark Jacobs, Kitty Laber, Alice Wilkinson, John Willis and Max Winder.

Prof. Mahoney to head Heart Fund regional campaign

Thomas H.D. Mahoney, Ph.D., has been appointed the North Suburban regional chairman for the 1976 Greater Boston Heart Fund Campaign, according to an announcement made by General Chairman Harold Russell. Russell said that Mahoney will oversee the activities of the Heart Fund volunteers in three districts of the Greater Boston area, including Winchester.

An active Heart volunteer himself, Dr. Mahoney is professor of history and chairman of the History Section at M.I.T. In addition, he is a state representative for the second Middlesex District in Cambridge.

In accepting the appointment, Dr. Mahoney noted that February is Heart Month when money is raised to help support the year-round programs of research, education and community service.

"Heart and blood vessel diseases are the number one killers in Massachusetts and the nation," Dr. Mahoney said, "and February, Heart Fund Month, is the time when each one of us can help in the fight. I urge all residents of my district to give generously."

Dr. Mahoney resides with his family in Cambridge.

Two students apply skills in "interim"

Susan M. Hooker, 26 Allen rd., and Cynthia Lee White, 10 Bigelow ave., both spent a one-month "interim" away from Colby Sawyer College in New London, N.H. Ms. Hooker was with the John Hancock Insurance Co. of Boston, and Ms. White spent her month with Salon, Silva, McCabe & Sidel of Boston.

The purpose of the special course, entitled "Living and Working in the City," was to give the young women (and 40 other students at Colby-Sawyer) a chance to apply classroom skills and knowledge in a real office situation. Each student participated in supervised office work, including typing, dictation, transcription, filing, etc. Performance was judged on English skills, quality and quantity of work, personal appearance, interest, punctuality, cooperation, tact, responsibility, initiative, attention to detail and ability to follow instructions.

Ms. White is majoring in the legal secretarial program; Ms. Hooker is in the executive executive secretary program.

Unitarian Players cast spring play

The Winchester Unitarian Players are casting their spring play, "Invitation to a March" for production March 26, 27, and April 2, 3.

Tryouts are at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, February 1 and Tuesday, February 3 in Metcalf Hall at the Unitarian Church, 478 Main st. The director is Connie Morrill of 1 Birch lane.

Arthur Laurents' provocative comedy is delightfully out of the ordinary. There are eight meaty roles for both men and women in their forties and in their twenties and a boy around ten or twelve. The ages of some characters may be cast up or down a little depending on the ensemble. The characters are:

Camilla, warm free-wheeling but sensible; Aaron, her son, healthy, cocky, outgoing (some dancing); Tucker, attractive, successful business man; Deedee, his wife, chic, strong, witty, a little bitter; Schuyler, her son, self-assured Ivy League; Lily, ultra-feminine Southern social climber; Norma, Her daughter, lovable romantic, dazzling smile (a long part, some dancing); Cary, Norman's appealing, bratty little brother who plays a drum.

Toastmistress Club holds speech contest

The 28th Annual Speech Contest of Winchester Toastmistress Club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Tyner of West Medford, is being planned for Monday, Jan. 26, at 8 p.m. in the Suter Room of Epiphany Church, 70 Church st.

There are four contestants to be introduced by the toastmistress, Mrs. Dorothy Tucker of Medford: Miss Lois T. Hamilton of Malden; Mrs. Preston S. Johnson of Melrose; Mrs. Daniel A. Murray of Somerville, and Mrs. John L. Pappalardo of Medford.

Two members of the Cedar Acres (Reading) Toastmistress Club will be timers, Hampshire County (Winchester, N.H.) and Tebbelles (Boston) Club will provide two of the judges and the Shawheen Valley Regional Technical High School of Billerica will provide two.

BICENTENNIAL DISPATCH

During the autumn of 1775, Colonial troops were massed outside British-held Boston. The Colonials were strong enough in numbers but not in armaments to take the city from the British.

It was then that Henry Knox proposed his plan to the Colonial troop's commander, George Washington. Ethan Allen and his men had captured 60 tons of artillery when they had taken Fort Ticonderoga. Knox and his brother were to go to New York, acquire the approximately 50 cannon and bring them back to Boston.

Leading a group of stalwart patriots, Knox, using oxen and horses to drag the cannon, was back within the Massachusetts border by January, 1776. These cannon and their ammunition gave the Colonials their advantage. The British evacuated Boston on March 17, 1776.

The Knox Trail Historical Society and the Massachusetts Bicentennial Commission have been sponsoring, since Nov. 1975, a reenactment of this monumental feat.

Listed below is the schedule of events to take place along with dates that the band of marchers will be passing through the various remaining towns:

Jan. 22, Northborough to Marlborough; Jan. 23, Marlborough to Southborough; Jan. 24, Southborough to Framingham, festivities will follow in Framingham Center; Jan. 25, Framingham to Sudbury, Wayland and Weston; Jan. 26, Weston to Waltham and Watertown; Jan. 27, Watertown and arrive in Cambridge by 1 p.m. Ceremonies and celebrations on the Cambridge Common; Early March, Ceremonies commemorating the fortification of Roxbury Fort; Mar. 17, Ceremony in Dorchester Heights, at 10 a.m. commemorating the 200th anniversary of the Evacuation of Boston by the British.

Action group forms to combat vandalism here

An action committee to combat vandalism in the community and in the schools has been formed at the joint call of Winchester School Committee members Catherine Fallon and Mary Pronski.

Other representatives on the committee include administrators Walter Gleason, Vincent Larocco, Tom Budrewicz and Evander French; Safety Officer McKinley, Students Robert Sutherland and Ellen McCarthy and citizens Phyllis Williams and Dorothea Twomey.

Members from the high school teaching staff will be represented at future meetings of the group.

The initial meeting tried to identify the parameters of the problem. Although the initial action thrust of the committee is to deal with the vandalism at the senior high school, it was acknowledged that the problem exists throughout the town and in all schools. Only with town-wide interest and cooperation and a long-range educational effort at the elementary grades can the problems be corrected, committee members noted.

Vandalism is taking a heavy toll in Winchester.

Two win police prizes for meritorious service

Two Winchester police officers won the Winchester Police Department Meritorious Service Award for 1975.

The prize went to Detective-Lieutenant William T. Haggerty and Patrolman William H. O'Neil for their work in breaking open an important case that had broad implications, resulted in house breaks and narcotics and other crimes.

The awards were presented at the Inaugural Ball of the Winchester Police Relief Association, at a dinner-dance at Montvale Plaza in Stoneham, Friday night. Some 350 persons were in attendance.

The awards, plaques and framed certificates, were presented to the officers by Mrs. Barbara Hankins of the Board of Selectmen, who read a speech in behalf of the Meritorious Service Award Committee of which she was a member. The other members were Charles Riley of the Woburn Times and J. Robert Sherman, executive editor of The Star.

Master of ceremonies at the affair was Lieutenant James J. Cogan, president of the association, who also introduced recently retired Chief Edward F. Bowler. Mrs. Hankins was introduced by Lieutenant John P. McHugh, treasurer of the association and coordinator of the award committee.

Other officers of the association called upon to take bows include Joseph N. Perritano, vice president; Secretary Donald E. Pigott, Thomas C. Parson and Thomas Faulkner, trustees.

Also members of the ball committee including most of the above and Inspector William E. Nash.

The program book for the affair was dedicated to Chief Bowler. Among those in attendance were many town officials including Town Manager Thomas L. Groux, and Selectman Arthur Dunbar.

Following is the text of the Meritorious Service Award Committee's citation:

Election countdown

All town meeting seats are vacant: Nominations a must

As of late Tuesday afternoon, nomination papers for town meeting member had been taken out from the Town Clerk's office by 90 townspeople. The following is a listing of the number of potential candidates from each precinct: precinct 1: 15; precinct 2: 7; precinct 3: 15; precinct 4: 12; precinct 5: 11; precinct 6: 7; precinct 7: 15; precinct 8: 8.

In addition to all town meeting seats, there are vacancies on the following town boards: Town moderator, 1 year; Selectmen, 2 vacancies for 3 years; Assessors, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Board of Health, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Planning Board, 1 vacancy, 5 years; School Committee, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Library Trustees, 1 vacancy, 3 years; Housing Authority 1 vacancy, 5 years; 1 vacancy, 2 years.

There are many vacancies for elected town officials and town meeting members. There are very few townspeople who have taken out nomination papers for these openings.

According to the Winchester Home Rule Charter, ALL town meeting member seats are vacant this year. Anyone wishing to run, whether a current town meeting member or not, must have nomination papers signed by ten voters of the precincts in which the candidate seeks election.

Each of the eight precincts is to elect 24 town meeting members. For this initial year of the charter only, the candidates receiving the highest one-third of the votes will serve a

Five per cent mandated

School board faces high costs; budget cut looms

A status report on Chapter 766 programs, high school English requirements, vandalism, and the town meeting mandate for a five per cent budget cut were among several policy and budget issues under discussion at the school committee's regular meeting Monday night.

Bill Dissinger, coordinator of special education, presented a budget report on certain Chapter 766 increases, most notably a request for $45,000 in additional funds for the tuition account.

The committee also discussed the English requirement in light of the new general student program and met with Frances Russell, the new director of the English program at the high school.

Committeewomen Cathy Fallon and Mary Pronski presented a progress report on a newly formed vandalism committee. The group includes students, parents, administrators, security personnel, and the two board members.

In other action, the school board accepted a memo from Superintendent William MacDonald dealing with procedures for implementing new sophomore study hall policy; a request for space was withdrawn by the Mystic Valley Clinic Observation Nursery School; Director of adult education Jim Perry informed the committee that the tuition for the upcoming session had been raised from $10 to $15; and the school board voted to renew funding for the ABC program.

Bill Dissinger reported that the tuition account which pays for students tutored out for special education programs under Chapter 766, had run up an overdraft of close to $45,000. A request for the extra funds has been sent to the finance committee.

According to Dissinger, tuition costs for individual students run from $900 to $15,000. The latter figure, he explained, involved one student who had to be placed in a 24-hour therapeutic setting. "The $15,000 is certainly the exception rather than the rule," he added. He also said that the schools involved "have been approved by the state, and the rates are set by the state."

The school department has looked into state requirements with regard to high school credits in order to determine if the general student program will conflict with any of the statutes. High School Principal Vin Larocco reported to the committee that the state requires only that the school offer English courses; none are required.

"The state doesn't even require that a

Concerned about increases

FinCom scrutinizes budget, to quiz committee

The previous three Finance Committee meetings have been primarily devoted to careful perusal of the proposed school budget. They will query the school committee on certain items at to-night's public hearing.

FinCom members wonder why all budgets in Winchester invariably exceed the prior year's level. Despite a decrease in enrollment the budget this year continues to yield to increases.

One committee member says the entire school system is built around the philosophy that this is a wealthy town and if you want something, there's no need to do without.

Taking into consideration both inflation and decreased enrollment, FinCom says, schools must consider cutbacks. FinCom member Sally Kincaid predicts that the elementary schools someday soon will have to adjust to one principal for two schools.

Personal services is one area where the committee finds a large overhead. FinCom says many administrative personnel are well paid, and questions the need for so many.

Energy conservation

Both the amount of oil and the price per barrel have been challenged by FinCom. They see no evidence of a conservation program to reduce consumption.

FinCom member Alice Mirak says the thermostats should be turned down. "Not only is it a federal regulation but kids function better at 68 degrees. She says she has seen windows in the schools open, and has noticed her children coming home tired from overheating."

Justification for increased oil usage to the level of two years ago, FinCom member Richard Sayre joked, is that there are 200 less warm bodies in the schools.

Finance Committee hopes the newly staffed Winchester Energy Committee will establish constructive guidelines for the schools to adopt.

Theft and Vandalism

FinCom wants to know what procedures have evolved to counteract increased theft and vandalism. To decrease a $4,000 replacement of stolen goods expenditure next year, they suggest the schools consider an effective burglar detection system.

One member, half joking about the replacement cost of IBM typewriters said, "They're so expensive, can't we buy them back hot?"

Stiff penalties should be given to vandals caught destroying school property, says the FinCom, as amounts of time and money are spent toward Monday morning maintenance, which mostly entails replacement of broken glass.

With the uncertainty of certain grade schools remaining open, FinCom challenges upgrading of items in the maintenance and repairs budget.

Other expenses

FinCom member Sally Kincaid questioned school needs for more audio visual equipment when they haven't even completed an inventory. There is a substantial 15 percent increase over last year's A.V. expenditures. FinCom also wants to know if automobile costs are being monitored.

These questioners of cost wonder if enough students are using the Wang computer to make it worthwhile. It's run on a volunteer basis, yet the high school wants to spend $1200 to replace it for a bigger and better one.

FinCom member Alice Mirak questioned usefulness of Science Kits. She said in one of her children's science classes, all the fruit flies in the kits were dead on arrival. These kits, she claims, are too expensive to be used at the teacher's discretion.

Members are also wary of the reimbursement ratio for 766 programs. They expect the town will have to assume more of these expenses than anticipated.

New member John Looney

The committee accepted John Looney of 19 Perkins rd. as a new member replacing Richard Richmond, former chairman.

Oil spill slips into the Aberjona and the Mill Pond

An oil spill originating in Stoneham and of unknown quantity is slipping down the Aberjona river into the mill pond.

According to the state's water pollution board, the oil started coming down the river three or four days ago. The Atlantic Gelatin Company notified the board Monday and engineers looked into the tunnel under route 93. Apparently boards and debris across the underground water passage helped to keep the amount of oil passing through to a low level.

A boom was installed to further reduce the flow downstream and an additional three booms are being put in place further down the river.

The Coastal Services Company, which is taking care of the problem, declined to say just how much oil has been spilled or the source of the spill, if known. The river flows underground for much of its way from Stoneham and determination of the original spill site may be difficult.

The water pollution board does not know at this time if there is danger to the ducks, geese, and swans on the mill pond. They hope that within a few days the problem will have been cleared up. Meanwhile, someone will be out to check the oil every day.

Public asked to help in murder probe

Winchester's acting Police Chief Andrew Crawford and Inspector Roland J. Roy attended a briefing in Cambridge Monday with police from around the county and District Attorney John J. Droney in an effort to intensify on a wide scale the investigation into the New Year's Eve triple murder in Tewksbury.

Acting Chief Crawford said one purpose of the meeting was to open the avenues of communication from the public through local police departments in the hope that some information will be forthcoming to help solve the murder in which Dr. Hugh Mahoney, his wife, Ruth, and their 14-year old son, John, were shot to death.

Anyone having any information should call the acting chief, Inspector Roy, or the police station. The telephone number is 729-1212.

case of law enforcement in action.

What they did is a classic example of "The Finest" in reference to good police departments everywhere.

Before we tell you who they are, we shall first briefly tell you of what they did to win the unanimous vote of the Meritorious Service Award Committee, whose members studied countless police reports detailing law enforcement activity in Winchester during the year from November 1 of 1974 to November 1 of 1975, before arriving at their decision.

We hasten to note that while the award goes to two men, others were involved from beginning to end. Their roles were important and they are to be commended for their work in helping to bring a difficult, complicated case to a desirable conclusion — arrests and convictions.

This case began in Winchester, and because of the initial work done here, ranged far and wide throughout the Greater Boston area and into another state. Its important implications became more evident as the investigative process uncovered more and more information involving a network of burglaries, drugs and the manufacture of narcotics, and other crimes.

It began with a call to a neighborhood in which a man had smashed a window and gained entrance to a house. One of tonight's recipients received that call.

Soon after he arrived at that dwelling, he was confronted with the need to make an instantaneous decision without regard to his own life and safety. He chased the interloper who was believed by him to be armed. The officer fired the usual warning shot and shouted to the fleeing man as he scaled a backyard fence to halt. He was joined by two brother officers, one of whom also fired a warning shot.

Tonight's recipient took careful aim at the suspect's leg, fired his service revolver and brought the man down. Even so, the man made his way over a nearby fence, but another officer was awaiting his arrival. The man managed to dive into some hedges, but his wound would permit him no less than surrender.

The following day, tonight's recipient had been assigned to guard his prisoner in the hospital. It was learned by him that others were involved and the information was passed along to the appropriate echelon.

From this point on, tonight's second winner sharing in the prize with the first officer, developed other aspects in a relentless investigation of the highest degree of proficiency that "broke" the case wide open, resulting in arrests, solution of crimes in several communities, the breakup of a gang involved in burglaries, narcotics and other crimes.

Winchester's award-winning officers learned that their suspect had given a false name, that he was an escapee from the House of Correction. Their continuing probe allowed police in other communities to solve outstanding burglary cases and resulted in the recovery of a considerable amount of stolen property.

They also solved a series of breaks in Winchester homes, and recovered a large amount of stolen goods. During the performance of their official duties, they spent many off-duty hours in pursuit of new information that continued to develop their case.

For their devotion, dedication and integrity, for outstanding service to their profession and their town over and above the ordinary call of duty, the Meritorious Service Award is given with great pleasure and pride by the Meritorious Service Award Committee to — student pass the course," added Superintendent MacDonald, "but we (meaning the town), fortunately, do." Larocco responded to Mary Pronski's concern over slackening standards by saying that it is not the intent of the administration to water down the program.

Frances Russell, who took over direction of the English department December 1, explained that she was working to make writing part of the focus of every course at the high school.

Presenting the committee with a report describing upcoming English programs, she described a new writing laboratory course for the tenth grade. The course would be taught by a team of four teachers, with 108 students in each class. The course will attempt to provide students with individual attention in specific areas of need.

In reaction to proposed staffing cuts to implement the five per cent budget cut, Miss Russell said, "I strongly feel we'd be short-changing the students by playing the numbers game (i.e. altering the teacher-pupil ratio) with English."

Representing the ABC program, Bonnie Holmes told the school committee that the program had donated about $500 in Afro-American and Hispanic studies material to the high school library. The material, which is on order, was given to the high school as a measure of good faith from the program for continued town support.

The committee voted to refund the ABC program for another year. Mary Pronski was the lone dissenter, suggesting that the students and the program be responsible for one year's tuition at least. According to Ms. Holmes, a drop in donations and increased costs would make it impossible to continue the program with the added burden of tuition costs.

School enrollment report: Part two

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I. GENERAL QUESTIONS

A. PHILOSOPHY

If the basis for this plan is primarily monetary, why has it not been completely documented?

Yes, the basis of the plan is primarily monetary. It was not our intent, nor was it necessary, to present a completely documented, "sewed-up" plan ready for implementation since we realized that any plan would be challenged one way or another. What was significantly more important was to put a good plan before the public with the least practicable delay as a result of the Town Meeting's desire for economy. Our research conclusively shows that enrollments are continuing to decrease and that schools can be closed and/or consolidated should this be the Town's wish. The plan, too, has started the necessary dialogue and specific documentation will continue to be forthcoming which may alter, modify or change the proposed plan. It will be important in the weeks ahead to determine whether the Town truly desires to close and/or consolidate schools or whether it wishes to effect economies in other ways.

B. SPACE REQUIREMENTS

What is the educational capacity of each physical plant used for elementary education? That is, what is the usable square footage per school for various educational activities, what are the present utilization rates of this usable space, and what is the maximum capacity per call per elementary school? From an educational standpoint, I have concerned myself with the equality of facilities serving all areas of the town. I am of the opinion that contemporary educational needs indicate a requirement of approximately forty-five square feet per student that is devoted to instruction, both directly and indirectly. Each student is served in the classroom and in libraries and by counselors, specialists, etc. Although the distribution of space may vary somewhat from school to school, the basic need for the functional area exists. Whether it be split thirty-five square feet for classroom and ten square feet for supporting areas or something similar, the general need exists for this type of space allotment. Within our own staff we have had widely diverging opinions, but through a thorough exchange of ideas and data we have concluded that our determination is sound. We have used tests, both real and projected, and to this end would point out that close examination of the Vinson-Owen School indicates a density of exactly forty-five square feet per student, and although the school is lacking in terms of an art room, music room, and some specialist areas, there is the ability to rearrange certain amounts of classroom space to provide these facilities and increase the classroom density in other parts of the school and maintain what we believe is an acceptable ratio. Our judgement is that Vinson-Owen probably manifests a reasonable student to square foot ratio and is therefore a useful model. In light of this, all buildings have been rated on the basis of forty-five square feet per student.

Exhibit B Attached. (Capacity Analysis — Enrollment Study)

C. FUTURE ENROLLMENTS

It is extremely difficult, particularly in light of declining birthrates of the past few years, to predict with any great degree of accuracy the future enrollments. During the course of our deliberations we have examined a number of reports and trends as they relate to future population. Because of the uncertainty of such trends and because of the experience factor which has been changing in the last few years, I am attaching the October 1, 1976 projections which have been recently prepared. Beyond this we have worked with a number of different sets of figures which involve straight line projections.

spending, reassured the school board that the town mandate for a five per cent budget cut was not inflexible.

Ericson said that the intent of the mandate was to see where, if absolutely necessary, any cuts could be made.

He added that the appropriation of funds was up to the town meeting, which ultimately will have the option of implementing all, part, or none of the proposed cuts recommended by the various town committees.

In discussing the vandalism group's first meeting, Mary Pronski commended the student members for their enthusiasm. Cathy Fallon reiterated that much of the problem has to do with lack of awareness on the part of parents.

School Committee Chairman Richard Pharo related a case in which the parents of a child denied the youth's participation in destructive acts, even though the student had been caught red-handed.

Total Cost	$36,000

Crossing Guards

Whenever safety factors are identified we attempt to provide crossing guards. While I cannot guarantee a zero increase, I have no reason to anticipate additional guards as a result of this plan.

Disposal of Buildings

It is impossible to identify the costs until decision are made regarding future use. In terms of the School Department budget, I see no significant costs. Removal of furniture and equipment would be accomplished by our personnel.

Summary of Costs

Nonrecurring	$281,775
Recurring (Transportation)	36,000
Total	$317,775

B. People seem willing to pay high taxes for good schools. Is this a wise compromise? If people are willing to pay high taxes for good schools and if they prefer to maintain the present facilities in spite of the savings to be realized, then it is not a wise compromise. Unfortunately there is not 100 percent agreement among townspeople regarding the willingness to pay high taxes.

C. If the schools which you propose closing are used for other town purposes, are you not simply shifting costs from one town budget category to another? The projected cost savings are based purely upon the School Department budget. Certainly the costs of operation and any necessary renovation for excess buildings would appear in some other town budget category if the buildings continued in service for some other town use. Until that decision is made, I cannot give any specific cost other than to identify that the operational costs for buildings in question is currently between $16,000 and $18,000 annually.

D. If you go to a junior high school complex and a large elementary school at Lynch, what is your rationale for saying this will save money?

The single junior high complex is the key to providing good elementary space which will result in annual savings in terms of personnel and recognizes the fact that our present enrollment at Lynch is rapidly becoming too small to provide flexibility and meaningful programs in an economical fashion.

IV. ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

A. Why not close just one school so as not to upset too many people, and thereby retain the neighborhood concept?

We understand that it may have been less upsetting to many people if we had recommended the closing of only one school, but this was not the thrust of our recommendation. The enrollment data clearly showed that two elementary schools may well be closed without sacrificing the quality of Winchester's educational program and without overtaxing the capacities of the remaining schools. Therefore the proposed plan was recommended to the School Committee. It was also decided that the plan would be less disruptive to the entire school system than to close only one school, then another the next year, and after that the consolidation.

B. Is it wise to close the Lincoln School, potentially one of the largest elementary schools, in light of the possibility that enrollment might increase?

Our projected elementary enrollments show such a steady decline that it is certain we can stop using Lincoln as an elementary school without straining overall capacities. Lincoln School has a current enrollment of 324 and the projection for 1976-77 is 302, with a continued drop which may result in less than 200 students in the school year 1979-80.

C. Will the Mystic School mobile classrooms be eliminated? Yes.

V. NEIGHBORHOOD SCHOOL CONCEPT

Will you not destroy the feeling of comfort and safety enjoyed by children in this town so far by eliminating at least two neighborhood schools?

The neighborhood concept is one which I strongly support. However, one must realize that this concept is primarily one of distance and/or density which, of course, is relative dependent upon one's point of view. In a community of six to seven square miles with nine elementary schools, we certainly subscribe to the neighborhood concept. However, we could also enjoy the benefits of this concept with six or seven schools. Changing elementary district lines does not destroy the neighborhood concept — it simply alters the size and complexion. Currently we have a neighborhood school of over 400 students and we do have other physical plants that can house 400 or more students without destroying this concept. Consolidating schools does not necessarily turn the result into a regional school. Elementary schools fewer than ten teachers and 250 students may well be too small and those over 500 to 550 students may well be too large. They certainly approach the regional aspects in less dense Winchester. When either of these parameters is reached, it becomes necessary to evaluate the costs and make decisions on the proper course of action. We are now at this stage and, of course, this is the approach we are currently following.

VI. REDISTRICTING

A. How will the elementary school districts be drawn?

If the plan were to be implemented in its entirety, I would expect the following:

What happens in many families is that a lot of money gets spent for recreation and clothing, while family members still complain that new furniture is needed, or another car is necessary. What to do? Hold a family conference, in order to establish what is essential, and what is luxury. If plans for large purchases are ahead, the family may have to agree to a new ceiling on recreation expenses, or on the money spent for clothing or entertaining. Then you can establish a new budget figure in these categories, and step up savings to meet outright or installment buying.

Acting chief...

Policies to remain constant for police force: Crawford

Lt. Andrew Crawford

According to Lt. Andrew Crawford, the policies of the Winchester Police Department will remain unchanged during his tenure as acting chief.

Lt. Crawford is the first of four lieutenants who will each serve a six-week period as acting chief since the retirement last Saturday of Chief Edward F. Bowler. The date for the Civil Service examination for chief has not yet been set. After it is, the four department lieutenants, Crawford, Cogan, Haggerty, and McHugh, will take it. Town Manager Thomas J. Groux will appoint one of the men to be the new chief. Until that time, the four will serve rotating periods.

Lt. Crawford, who lives at 28 Water st., served as executive officer for the last five years under Chief Bowler, and before that with Chief Derro. In this capacity he was responsible for running the day force and giving assignments. The chief is the administrative head and the executive officer is the working head of the department.

In February 1975, while working as executive officer with the chief, Lt. Crawford helped write a policy bulletin for the department which spelled out procedure in high speed chases. This document was sent by the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association to every police department in the state and was used by several of them in establishing their policies regarding high speed chases.

Lt. Crawford points out that department policy had been made known and distributed to the force several months before the matter came before the public following deaths and accidents resulting from high speed police chases.

Training bulletins in other matters are published monthly by the department. Lt. Crawford expects these bulletins to continue.

Lt. Crawford joined the Winchester Police Department as a special officer in 1949 and he became a permanent officer on May 11, 1952.

Each of the four lieutenants of the Winchester Police Department will take over the reins of the department for six week tours of duty as acting chiefs. The Star will publish a feature about each to acquaint townspeople anew with the top echelons of the department.

Restaurant petitioner gets license; also fire in house

Only a couple of hours after Peter Anastos received the good news of the selectmen's unanimous approval for a downtown restaurant, he got some bad news: His house was filled with smoke and fire.

After four appearances before the board, Anastos was finally granted a common victualler's license, contingent on his fulfilling the requirements of the various town boards, the board of health, the building department, and others.

One of the delays in granting his license was communication to some of the board members by telephone making certain allegations against the petitioner.

The board felt an obligation to investigate these allegations before granting the license.

The cause of the smoky fire at 6 Plato ter. is not known at this time, although fire and police officials are investigating it. Most of the unofficially estimated $30,000 damage was caused by smoke and water. The house was vacant at the time the fire was called in at 11:20 Monday night.

Ten respond to call for growth plan committee

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux has the names of ten citizens who would like to be considered for the Local Growth Plan committee. These ten, and all other citizens interested in working to determine the local needs of Winchester are invited to meet with the town manager and the board of selectmen at 7 Monday night.

There will be discussion on the needs of the town, and the direction citizens would like to see it go, for inclusion in a response to a state questionnaire being sent to all towns and cities responding to the invitation to take part in local planning.

Town Manager Groux is busy working on the numerous town budgets to meet a March 1 deadline.

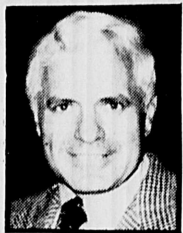

He is holding discussions with all town departments to try to work out appropriate budgets.

He hopes that by the end of February everything will be in place and ready for compilation.

The zoning questions

Selectmen remove articles on incinerator from warrant

The board of selectmen re-opened the warrant for special town meeting Monday night to remove two articles dealing with the rezoning of the land at the municipal incinerator.

The town meeting will be faced, not with the question of rezoning to allow construction of a rubbish transfer station 20 feet from the lot line, but only with the bid offers for designing and constructing a transfer station 40 feet from the lot line.

As it now stands, the site for construction is zoned conservancy, with a lot line restriction of 40 feet. If the zone were changed to light industrial, construction of the station could be allowed 20 feet from the lot line.

Because of confusion at some level, plans were developed for construction 20 feet from the lot line in a conservancy zone.

To meet the EPA schedule for building the rubbish transfer station, town meeting must vote this February whether to allow the waste disposal committee to go ahead with bids for construction on a 40 foot restriction.

Two articles which asked town meeting to consider the rezoning have been dropped from the warrant.

The Town of Winchester will put out to bid for employees' group health insurance and at the same time seek bids for long term non-job related disability insurance.

The Board of Selectmen accepted suggestions made by Town Manager Thomas J. Groux concerning insurance coverage for town employees. The current Blue Cross policy expires June 30, after an extension of seven months was granted to bring insurance coverage in line with the fiscal year.

The town is seeking better coverage at lower premiums than is now offered by Blue Cross.

Following Groux's suggestion, selectmen also agreed to inquire of the carrier of the insurance plan whether or not town employees could purchase additional life insurance at their own cost beyond the $2000 basic policy. Groux, who worked with Selectwoman Barbara Hanks on this matter, also inquired into expanding the basic life insurance policy to $5000, which could probably be done with slight increase in premium payments.

Selectmen decided against inquiring into dental coverage and the Harvard Plan.

Election day fears

Getting back to where we were last week, to the Spirit of Winchester. . . Of very deep concern to some town officials this week is the coming election.

The "campaign" leading up to it has a bad case of the blahs. No one seems to be interested in it. At least, that impression is reflected in the lack of candidates for the various offices to be filled in the Annual Town Election Tuesday, March 30.

We have published and republished several times the Town Election Calendar 1976. It all bears repeating and can be found elsewhere in today's Star.

You can also find a story that brings up to date the official happenings on the election front and the names of persons who have thus far taken out nomination papers.

Of paramount importance is this information:

Present town meeting members must file nomination papers if they desire to be a town meeting member candidate under the new charter.

While we are at it, and getting back to the Spirit of Winchester, (that elusive something), after we get people interested in being candidates so that they can have a voice in their own destiny, we have a suggestion also for those who do not, for one reason or another, choose to run:

One way Winchester citizens can invoke their spirit is by going to the polls in large numbers on election day. Yesterday on the radio we heard a commentator mention that in Alameda County, California, there's a push underway to get people to achieve high voting percentages as their Bicentennial contribution for 1976. That is truly in the spirit of America. Can it not also be in the spirit of Winchester?

Perhaps we should adopt a slogan for this Bicentennial year: "The Spirit of Winchester seventy-six: Vote 100 percent."

That sounds like a mighty ambitious goal, but it's within the realm of the possible. One hundred percent? Why not, in that good old Winchester spirit?

The police awards

The members of the Winchester Police Relief Association and their friends broke bread together last Friday evening and honored two of their brother officers who won the 1975 Meritorious Service Award.

Congratulations are in order to the recipients and to the police themselves for reactivating a longstanding tradition, their annual ball.

Winners of the outstanding service award are Lieutenant William T. Haggerty and Patrolman William H. O'Neill, whose exploits are detailed in a story in today's Star. They were well chosen. What they did, according to the award citation read by Selectman Barbara Hankins of the Meritorious Service Committee, "might well be described as a textbook case of law enforcement in action...a classic example of 'The Finest' in reference to good police departments everywhere." We concur.

Members of the award committee, including Mrs. Hankins, Charles Riley of the Woburn Times and Star Executive Editor J. Robert Sherman, agreed that their task was a difficult one, for the scores of reports of police activity during the year from November of 1974 to November of 1975 documented outstanding work by Winchester officers. They received agreement from their coordinator, Lieutenant John P. McHugh, through many meetings at police headquarters before they reached a consensus.

While we are at it, congratulations and bon voyage are in order for another outstanding member of the police force:

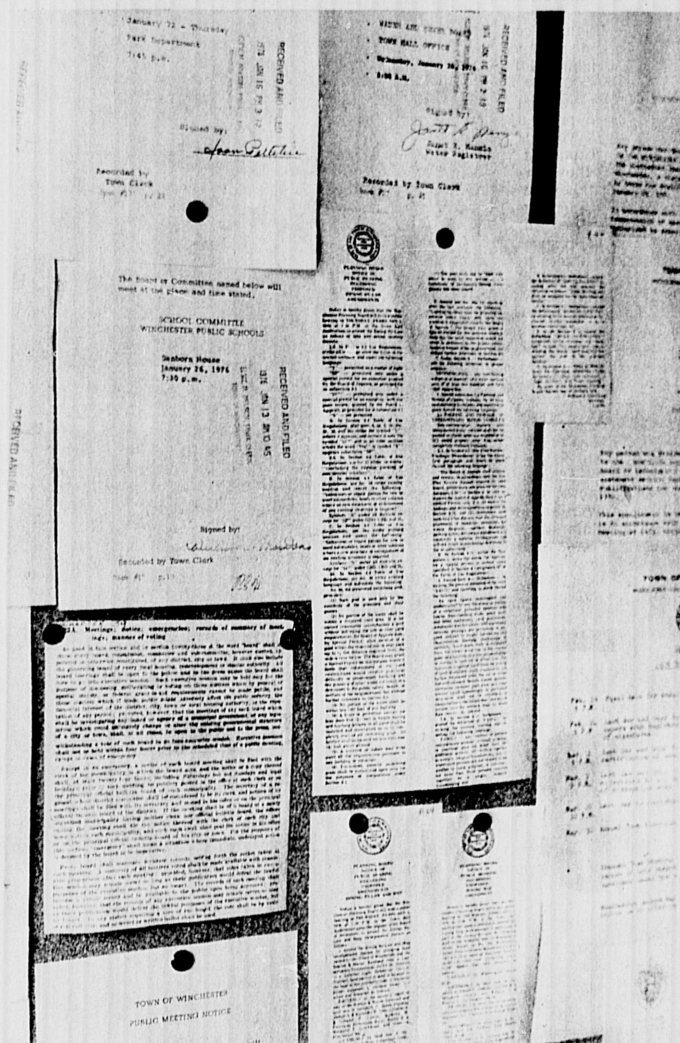

Chief Edward F. Bowler, who held the reins of the Winchester Department from January of 1970 to January 17 of this year, had a long and distinguished career in law enforcement, not only on the local, but the state and national levels as well.

From his first appointment in 1938 to the end, Chief Bowler filled every position in the department.

According to the program book for the inaugural ball, which was dedicated to him, Chief Bowler "introduced innovative crime fighting programs, principally a federally-funded burglary-breaking and entering project which has achieved national recognition."

Chief Bowler's list of accomplishments is a long one. He will be sorely missed. —J.R.S.

Pictorial editorial. . .

This is the town's official bulletin board inside the entrance to Town Hall. Busy, isn't it? It might be a good idea to remove some of the notices that are no longer pertinent. In some cases, some notices cancel out others.

Letters from readers

TM attendance

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This past week I called you regarding your policy of publishing attendance sheets of town meeting members, and you asked me to put it in writing.

Long before I decided to run for town meeting, I questioned this policy, and heard many other residents do the same. I have lived in Winchester for 25 years, and have watched the gradual deterioration of our town meeting from a very efficient body of the most dedicated residents in town, handling the town affairs with the expertise they possessed.

When the absentee records were published after each meeting, I noticed many of these members drop out, as they had other business, professional and community commitments which made 100 percent attendance impossible, and they felt in good conscience they should not attend disinterested.

The meetings have become longer, more unwieldy and less efficient as people who have no other interests or commitments, so they can always be present, have taken over. The special meetings are unpredictable as to timing—one summer on zoning they were endless—and I wonder how people who had selected their vacation time weeks before managed to be there.

It is not necessarily a sign of disinterest or laziness when one misses a meeting, but often a necessity which cannot be predicted. I had a sudden hospitalization twice in two years, but I preferred to keep the facts to myself. I feel it is an invasion of privacy to have every member explain every necessary absence. The paper would be full of them.

Surely there must be some other means to determine whether town meeting members are absent because of disinterest or necessity, which can be done in a more discreet manner at the end of the session. It has had the effect of making many people hypocrites, as they sign in to be marked present and leave an hour or so later. I am sure Miss Elsie Nelson can attest to this, or Mr. Kinney can, when he cannot obtain a quorum later on.

Other towns have so much shorter and fewer sessions, I hope we can learn from them, and attract our most capable citizens with their breadth of vision, to give of their abilities to Winchester.

That is why I hope you will re-examine your policy of printing absences every week. Very truly yours

Winchester's 'Combat Zone'?

By The Observer

There's a letter to the editor in the Star today concerning a subject we touched upon last week — a lady's concern about printing the attendance records at town meeting sessions.

She makes some interesting observations and some remarks that make a reexamination of our policy in that regard a valid question of responsibility worthy of another look.

We promise to give it a long, hard probe, being fully aware that what may have been appropriate for yesterday's newspaper is not necessarily so today. We are ever-eager and alert that we must remain in touch with our times, which is of paramount importance for any responsible newspaper.

You are invited to comment in our letters column.

The other night "talkmaster" Avi Nelson was discussing the so-called combat zone in Boston with some interested people in his WHDH studio. Some were distressed, some interested in promoting it, one was a strip joint operator, etc.

One of the callers to the program was a Winchester resident who was not identified. When asked by Nelson if Winchester has a combat zone, the caller replied, "Yes. Here we call it 'apartments'." What did he mean by that?

We were wondering about the silencing of the fire horn for signaling fires and checked with the department. The fire horn, it seems, is blown only for the two daily tests and for two-alarm or working fires. On orders from Chief McElhinney, the horn is silent at other times.

Seems some neighbors were complaining. One complainant was a dentist with an office nearby the station and another was a 75-year-old woman recovering from a heart attack. Arlington has also cut its use of the fire horn.

The fire horn calling box numbers was a small part of Americana in Winchester. The days of calling the volunteers by signal blasting throughout town may be over. Perhaps the disturbance was sufficient reason to call a halt to the fire horn blasts. Perhaps.

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux received a letter last week from a citizen praising the highway workers. It seems that icy conditions on Pilgrim Drive forced a car to land on the man's front lawn. He informed Mr. O'Brien, superintendent of the highway department, and the trucks came out quickly and salted the road.

Mr. O'Brien and his department have been in for some criticism lately regarding the snow and ice removal procedures in town. It was good to know one citizen at least was happy.

A dog fell through the ice on the mill pond the other day and that got us thinking about ice safety for children and adults. We realize that no town department can put itself on the line by declaring a particular area safe or unsafe for ice skating, but isn't there a way that ice depth can be measured and made known to parents? It would be easier then for parents to determine whether or not to let their children skate. What is a safe depth for skating?

The Save the Park proponents once again presented their slide show and spoke about their desire to keep the former Wadleigh school site as park land. This time their eloquent presentation was made to the board of selectmen.

The board received their facts and maps with praise and encouragement.

Selectman William Chapman approved the idea of turning the site over to the park department to maintain as park land. If the land is given by the selectmen to the state, it is possible for it to be ultimately used for building or other purposes. It is very difficult for land once given to the park department to be used for anything else.

Chapman, speaking to this point, said, "The state is getting into our business a little damn too much. As long as I have the power to do so, I will vote to give this land to be kept as park land. No building will be erected on it as long as I have anything to say about it."

Selectwoman Barbara Hankins concurred and reminded those present that as of July 1, the board of selectmen takes on the responsibilities of the park commissioners under the charter.

Selectman John Sullivan agreed the presentation by the Save the Park proponents convinced him of the need to keep the site as open, unstructured space. By giving it to the park department, he said, "We may not be locking it up with a silver key, but we'll have it pretty well locked up."

Selectman Arthur Dunbar praised the committee for their presentation. He suggested that anyone considering running for election (or perhaps re-election) to the board would do well to hire the people who did the presentation to help them win the selectman seat.

An article before the February special town meeting will deal with the question of what to do with the Wadleigh site, located at the intersection of Mt. Vernon and Myrtle streets. The committee to present their talk and slide show to the town at that time. They have already met with enthusiastic response from the League of Women Voters, the finance committee, and other town boards.

Harrison Chadwick also went before the selectmen Monday night to give them an update on the status of the town by-laws revision study committee and to ask them to include their article as the first order of business when the special town meeting meets in February.

The selectmen agreed to put the article first.

There will be a briefing session for town meeting members to learn about the by-law revisions they will be asked to vote on. The meeting will be held on February 18.

The revisions in booklet form are being printed and divided into chapter — 12 in all — to help make discussion at the town meeting as swift and business-like as possible.

In the mood. . .

Of books and fires

By Karen Whittlesey-First

During the bitter, bitter days and nights of winter — did they always seem so cold? — it does the soul good to find a fireplace lit, a glass of burgundy or port filled to just the right point, a bowl of walnuts, and a deliciously juicy gothic novel or the complete Sherlock Holmes stories waiting to be savored anew.

Spinning tires and coughing snow blowers aside, winter is a quiet time. Like skaters mirrored in Winter Pond, ideas and thoughts scurry across our minds and disappear, perhaps to reappear in the spring in different dress, perhaps not to visit again until next winter.

The Eskimo languages have more than two dozen words for snow.

Town trucks get stuck in snow banks, too. Why do sanders and snow plows start at 5 in the morning?

Do neighborhood kids make a few dollars shoveling any more? More important, what do they do with their few dollars? Or is it several dollars?

Those daffodils we forced a few weeks ago show signs of trumpeting.

Speaking of trumpeting, Boston has some fine musical offerings in the winter.

Utility bills are an abomination. After the October-November electric bill came in, we vowed to cut down on unnecessary electricity. The December-January bill was higher. You explain it.

Television is also disgusting. Channel 2 is the saving grace. The Eugene O'Neill was depressing and superb. Channels 4, 5, and 7, to say nothing of the UHF channels, should be abolished for the pap they dish up. There are exceptions, of course, like the Franklin Delano Roosevelt piece, but what is going into the minds of our children?

But let us put aside these thoughts and return to the Adventures. Mr. Holmes, you're a gem.

Guest column

A frontal attack...

By CATHERINE FALLON
(Vice-Chairman, Winchester School Committee)

Just as every morning the sun rises on our fair town, so every day an act of vandalism is committed in our schools. Like the weather, everyone discusses vandalism but nobody does anything about it. Yet the problem is increasing rapidly, to the point where we are spending nearly $1,000 a week to repair damage done by vandals.

We're not talking about graffiti or initials in desks. Windows and doors are being broken, thermostats destroyed, books and audio-visual equipment are stolen, gate chains and locks are broken, fire extinguishers disappear, exit signs are ripped off, plumbing fixtures destroyed, clocks, telephones and intercom speakers are stolen, railings are ripped from walls, ceiling grillwork is pulled down, automatic door closers and panic-safety hardware are destroyed.

These deliberate acts of vandalism continue to increase in severity every day. The monetary waste is bad enough, but the senseless destruction of property is a token of an eroding system of values.

Why is this happening? As we look at ourselves in the mirror, the picture is not a pretty one. Parents fail to support disciplinary measures taken by school authorities, rendering them ineffective. Some students and their parents challenge the authority of school and police officials to discipline the offenders. A spider web of technicalities in the judicial system further hampers efforts to control the problem. The offenders snicker at the warnings dispensed by school authorities and try to retaliate against those who inform on them. They look with disdain upon expulsion or suspension from school and they continue to destroy school property at a near epidemic rate.

The situation is beyond the scope of control by school authorities alone; it must be handled at a townwide level. In 1974-75, vandalism cost the town about $30,000. This academic year it is escalating at a runaway rate of $50,000.

An action committee has been formed to combat the problem and stamp out the epidemic. Its short term focus will be on the high school, the site of the worst vandalism in town. The root causes, however, must be confronted townwide with a long-term educational effort. The vandalism committee is composed of high school administrators, teachers, police, citizens and school committee members.

One of the major points brought out at the first meeting of this group, held January 16, is that many people and many organizations in town are unaware of the problem. Yet the problem is there for all to see. It's painfully evident from a single inspection of our thirteen-million-dollar high school.

But acknowledging and proving the existence of the problem is easy; reversing the trend is something else. Much of the problem lies in the value system and the attitude of the students toward each other, toward their parents and toward the school. The problem has many similarities to the drug problem of only a few years ago. When that problem was brought to light, a tremendous effort and the formation of a town-wide organization called CONCERN reduced the deadly curiosity students had about drugs. Hopefully we can now do the same thing to change students' attitudes about how they treat each other, their teachers and public property in general.

The vandalism committee recommends that discussions of the vandalism problem take place at every level — the family, the neighborhood, the school, the town. Does your family tolerate the breaking of windows, the smashing of light fixtures and other acts of vandalism in the home? Of course not. But it's happening all the time at the schools in your town. And we think it must be stopped.

Many students at the high school have had enough. Some are demanding reforms and enforcement of rules in articles in the Red and Black, the high school paper. Others have undergone training in order to conduct alcohol rap sessions with underclassmen. Still others are volunteering their efforts to serve as monitors in the cafeteria. These students deserve commendation for their involvement and courage. They deserve the backing of the adult community. We would be remiss not to provide the guidance, leadership and backing they seek.

The time is right to conduct a frontal attack on vandalism and the associated problems of drinking, littering and lack of respect for others. Won't you support the efforts of the vandalism committee by discussing these problems with your own family and with your neighbors? Work to change the attitude of your school age children so that they have the same pride in their schools that they have in their family.

Watch for announcements of future meetings on the subject. Meantime, suggestions and responses are welcomed either through Letters to the Editor of The Star, or c/o The Vandalism Committee, Sanborn House, 15 High St., Winchester.

Taxi licenses are issued by board

Hearing

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

We would like to take this opportunity to alert the residents in the Washington street area to a public hearing which will be held next Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Town Hall Auditorium.

The subject for discussion is a petition to rezone the lot at 270 Washington st. from a General Residence District to a General Business District. This lot is in the immediate vicinity of the intersection of Swanton street, Washington street, and Park Avenue and will unquestionably have direct impact on the traffic volume in the area between the Town Hall and Forest street.

We will oppose the action of the proponent at the public hearing because we feel that the severe congestion in the area is already a major problem. This problem will soon be magnified by the construction of the Housing for the Elderly on the old Lincoln School site, the proposed Nursing Home on Swanton street, and the implementation of the transfer station at the town dump.

Consequently, we feel that further expansion of the business zone on Washington street is unadvisable and undesirable and will affect not only the Washington street residents but residents located on connecting streets. We invite you to attend the public hearing on Thursday, February 5, so that you may question the proponent, voice your opinion, satisfy your conscience, and make a judgment.

Cab fares

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing this small piece with the idea some folks will agree our taxi men need a 25 cent increase in fares.

Why, any thinking person knows how much gas is and oil and wear and tear is just out of sight, and then there are those folks who hold these taxi men up, while they shop at stores or post office, and who also only use a taxi when they can't drive on account of our tough winters.

They surely need an increase. Everything else has gone up but wages. Why not cabs.

Saltmarsh praised

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Congratulations to Representative Whip Saltmarsh for an attendance record of over 95 per cent on this year's roll calls in the House. This kind of attendance record was particularly noteworthy and important this year. 1975's 12 month marathon session produced one crisis after another.

You are fortunate to have this kind of representation in the legislature.

Grateful

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I wish to thank the Winchester Police Department and Winchester Highway Department for their courtesy and consideration in the recent death of my husband. The highway department cleared the high mounds of snow in front of the house so parking was possible.

My sincere thanks to my neighbors and friends for their many kindnesses.

Peter Pan takes to the stage at McCall Feb. 6, 7

Working hard for the Children's Theatre are, top: William Chase, Kelley Shea, Chris Alexander; bottom: Dominic Shea, Cathy Alexander, Carlene Samoiloff, Jennifer Potter, Alan McDonald.

The Winchester Community Theatre, Children's Theatre will be presenting "Peter Pan" on February 6 and 7 at McCall Jr. High Auditorium.

The children are busily learning lines, rehearsing songs under the able direction of Mrs. Carol Davidson and getting costumes ready. Mrs. Bea Gonnella is taking them through their dances that she has choreographed. Posters are painted and in windows all over town.

Thanks to Agnes Sarmanian, the little children are kept busy and amused while the older ones are on stage.

All the hundreds of details that go into a children's production are all fitting in place and it promises to be a terrific show.

The Children's Theatre production of "Peter Pan" is being presented in cooperation with the Recreation Dept. This is the first time that the Recreation Dept. has co-sponsored a Children's Theatre show. It was felt by the Recreation Committee that something should be offered to children who are theatrically inclined. Children's Theatre is grateful to Donald Spinney and the recreation department for their financial support. Children's Theatre is now available to the children tuition-free.

Mrs. Carlene Samoiloff has stepped aside as director for this show in order to devote more of her time to her family and to writing. She also wanted "to get some young blood" into Children's Theatre. She has, however, remained as artistic advisor. Mrs. Samoiloff founded Children's Theatre 20 years ago and has delighted hundreds of children with her wonderful imagination and "magical" qualities. She has taken a tip from "Peter Pan" and decided never to grow old.

Mrs. Cathy Alexander makes her debut as a director for Children's Theatre with "Peter Pan." When Mrs. Nancy Warnock resigned as director due to her father's illness, Cathy offered to step in and direct the show. Although she finds it exhausting, exhilarating, demanding, and rewarding, she has not regretted her decision.

For one hour children can cast aside their worries and cares and enter the world of Never-Never Land where pirates and fairies abound and one never has to grow up. All it takes is a ticket to "Peter Pan", Friday, Feb. 6 at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday, Feb. 7, at 2 p.m.

Resident sparks children's theater

The following is a profile submitted by "E.H.F." in the bulletin of the Winchester Council on Aging and Seniors Association.

If one were asked to name one person who has been most valuable to the development of children's theater in Winchester, the choice would be a natural: Carlene Samoiloff.

Well-known to Winchester theater lovers, Carlene was born here in 1900. When she was three, the family moved to the present Highland Avenue house and studio built by her father and mother, H. Dudley Murphy and Caroline Bowles-Murphy, both artists. Carlene attended the Winchester schools, and at the end of her freshman year, went to California, where she was graduated from Pasadena High School. While there, she danced in the company of Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn in Los Angeles, and in the Berkeley Greek Theatre.

Returning East, Carlene attended the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York until her father, hoping to divert her talents toward

N.H. girl to marry local boy

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ellis Gray of Kearsarge, N.H. are happy to announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Alice to Ernest Andrew Phillips III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Andrew Phillips Jr. of Yale street.

Miss Gray recently attended the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and is a graduate of Kennett High School, Conway, N.H. She is presently a ski instructor at the Hannes Schneider Ski School at Mt. Cranmore in North Conway, N.H.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of Tilton School, Tilton, N.H. He graduated from Nichols College in Dudley with a B.S. in marketing. He is a professional photographer and is presently affiliated with Mt. Cranmore.

painting, sent her, accompanied by her mother, to study in Florence, Italy.

But her interest in the theater was deep-seated, and after a sojourn in Tunis, Africa (where she was the first woman to ride the famous Arabian dancing horses), she went to Berlin for the opening of the Russian Moscow Art Theater. Stanislavsky, the director, accepted her as a student. Following a European tour with the company, she sailed with them to New York.

When the Moscow Art Theater came to Boston in 1923, Carlene Murphy met Alexander Samoiloff, a Russian engineering student at Harvard, while both were playing in the crowd scenes in "Zar Feodor." They were married in 1928.

Carlene Samoiloff's interest in the theater has never flagged. Among the many groups benefiting from her teaching have been the Cambridge School in Weston, the Cambridge Center for Adult Education, and Tufts and Harvard-Radcliffe universities.

Winchester probably knows Mrs. Samoiloff best for her efforts on behalf of the children's theater, organized at her instigation in 1956 as a branch of the Winchester Community Theater.

At seventy-five, she is still as active and enthusiastic as ever. She believes that working with children is vital, for children are indeed the hope of the future. They may never become actors or actresses, she explains, but the training they receive in dance, painting, music and acting under her visionary guidance, stimulates their imagination, enables them to communicate ideas and feelings, and instills self-discipline.

The theater, too, offers adults an opportunity to participate in this youthful activity, if merely as spectators. By so doing, they not only encourage the children, but the children in turn help to keep them young and to renew in them the joy of living.

Tourtellot-Mulcare in candlelight service

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Mulcare

Jane Elizabeth Tourtellot and James Sheridan Mulcare were united in marriage at a candlelight service in Ripley Chapel, First Congregational Church on December 20. Rev. George W. Easton and Rev. Bernard M. Hoy performed the 7 o'clock ceremony.

A reception followed at the Meadowbrook Golf Club in Reading.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Tourtellot of 27 Elmwood ave., was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ivory satin gown, trimmed with seed pearls and carried white roses with babies' breath.

Joan Tourtellot was maid of honor for her sister, wearing a red velvet Empire gown trimmed with Irish lace. The bridesmaids included Suzanne Tourtellot, sister of the bride, Maura Mulcare, sister of the groom, Elyse Wilson, of Winchester and Patricia Baker of Manchester. They wore identically styled dresses in emerald green velvet.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mulcare of 4 Rangeley Ridge, had Frank Stillman as his best man. The ushers included Bruce Tourtellot, brother of the bride, Thomas Mulcare, John Mulcare and Brian Mulcare, brothers of the groom. Miss Laura Tourtellot, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Grandparents of the couple are Mrs. Eleanor O'Brien of Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Hanson of Concord.

Mrs. Mulcare, a graduate of Winchester High School is completing her nursing studies at Youville Hospital School of Practical Nursing. Mr. Mulcare attended Winchester High School and Huntington Academy. He is stationed at Camp Pendleton, California where they will make their home.

Guests were present from New Hampshire, Rhode Island, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Miss Riley to wed Mr. VerPlanck in June

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newell Riley of 1001 Mount Hope st., North Attleboro, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rebecca to Mr. Edward Everett VerPlanck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warburton King VerPlanck of Winchester.

Miss Riley is a graduate of North Attleboro High School. She attended the University of Saltzburg in Austria and will graduate from the University of New Hampshire in the spring. Mr. VerPlanck is a graduate of Winchester High School and the University of New Hampshire. The wedding will take place in June.

Pass the envelope

Early in January the March of Dimes started something that has in some areas replaced the time honored custom of Mothers Marching. It is the Pass the Envelope method of house-to-house collection.

This method is one sure way of affording everyone a chance to contribute and at the same time no one person has to bear the responsibility of doing a complete marching assignment. The Pass the Envelope kit is passed from neighbor to neighbor until it reaches the last person on the street, who then returns it to the March of Dimes.

The campaign director for the 1976 March of Dimes drive, Dr. Arthur W. Tortt, asks persons who have a Pass the Envelope kit in their possession to please pass it along quickly so that the funds collected will be credited to this year's campaign.

"In order to defeat this tragic crippler of the young, that strikes one out of every ten children born, we will need everyone's help," said Dr. Tortt.

Still places open for trip to Sturbridge

There is still space available of the Winchester Historical Society's February 8 field trip to Old Sturbridge Village, according to trip leader Allen Hill.

"This will be a very special event," said Mr. Hill. "Not only is winter a very special time to visit this recreated nineteenth-century village, we are also fortunate in having been able to arrange a special presentation by one of the Old Sturbridge Village staff on the Village and its collections, following which we may be able to see some 'behind the scenes' areas not usually open to the public."

Like all Winchester Historical Society activities, this trip is open to the public. Advance registration is requested, and interested persons can contact Marcia (Mrs. Theodore) Wood, trip registrar, 384 Main st., to reserve space. Mrs. Wood and Allen Hill (25 Englewood rd.) can also supply information and further details on this and future Winchester Historical Society field trips.

Attorney Murray again named to head Heart Fund

Attorney Lawrence M. Murray has been named community chairman for the 1976 Heart Fund Campaign in Winchester, according to an announcement by North Suburban Regional Chairman Thomas H. D. Mahoney.

As community chairman, Murray will oversee the efforts of Winchester volunteers during February, designated as American Heart Month. At that time men and women will be calling on their friends and neighbors, distributing heart-saving information and collecting funds to support research, education and community service programs sponsored by the American Heart Association, Greater Boston Massachusetts Chapter.

Murray is a partner in the law firm of Murray and Quill and an assistant professor at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy. In accepting his appointment as community chairman for a third year, Murray pointed out that heart and blood vessel diseases are still the number one killers, including an estimated 30,100 in Massachusetts alone.

"February, Heart Fund Month, is the time when each one of us can help in the fight," he said. "I urge all residents of Winchester to give generously."

Miss Schaeffer engaged to Mr. Leland

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Schaeffer of Pittsford, N.Y., announce the engagement of their daughter Karen Ann to David Leland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Leland, 17 Indian Hill rd.

The bride-to-be is a senior at Bates College, majoring in economics. Mr. Leland graduated from Winchester High School in 1972. He is a senior at Bates also. He has a double major in economics and psychology.

The couple plan a fall wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Boudreau with Monique

First Baby prizes go to Boudreau family

Monique Catherine Boudreau, the "winning entry" in this year's "First Baby Contest," entered onto the scene January 9, 9:45 p.m., at Winchester Hospital. Her parents are Pauline (Puma) and Allan W. Boudreau, 12 Summer st.

The contest is sponsored by a group of local merchants, each of whom donated a gift to the family. Participating merchants were: Forester's Daisy Shop, Winchester Trust, Continental Cow, McCormacks Apothecary, Winchester Co-op Bank, Frame Haven, Winchester Savings Bank, and Fitzgerald Fuel. The gifts included a case of formula, gift certificates for new bank accounts, cheese, flowers, and an engraved picture frame.

Monique Catherine is the Boudreau's third child and second daughter. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Boudreau, 41 Alfred st., Medford. Mrs. Dominick Gigliotti, 12 Cedar st., is the child's great-grandmother.

The gifts were presented to the Boudreau's by the advertising staff of The Star.

Jaycee-ettes hear conservation talk

The Jaycee-ettes heard a talk on conservation of natural gas at a meeting Wednesday. Mrs. Colleen Love of the Boston Gas Consumer Information Division was the guest speaker.

The lecture, entitled "Conservation — the Name of the Game," dealt with ways of cutting back fuel consumption by following simple procedures inside the average house.

Chairlady of the event was Mrs. Sophia Bowers of Winchester.

Correction

Last week The Star reported that "Mary E. Murphy Apartments" would be the name for proposed housing at the old Lincoln School site. This was incorrect. "Mary E. Murphy Apartments" is the name given public housing on Palmer street, which began operation in March of 1974.

The name was chosen from several choices submitted by the Palmer Street Tenants Association.

Library to show Nutcracker ballet

Sunday and Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock the Winchester Public Library will show a film of the New York City Ballet performing "The Nutcracker."

At least one adult is requested to accompany each group of children viewing the film in the story hour room of the Junior Library.

Chorale seeks new members

The senior citizens chorale, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Witham, has been singing every Thursday morning, 10-12, at the Unitarian Church. The group sings folk songs, Broadway shows, and other popular music.

They have given several performances both in Winchester and in other communities, including a concert for the Melrose senior citizens. The group welcomes new members. If you are interested in joining, please call Sara Dillon.

McLean bags hat trick

Skaters go down hard, 7-3

Billy McLean, a brief light (three red ones) in a dark season, scored a hat trick against Lexington Saturday night, but the Minutemen overpowered the Sachems in a penalty-ridden game, 7-3.

McLean's hard skating prompted Coach Dave Berman to say, "He was flying out there. I thought he played his best game of the season."

Winchester's first goal came on a power play seconds after Lexington defenseman Peter Dolan took the first of several trips to the penalty box, this time for tripping. Rich Coakley and Don Allard assisted on the play.

At 7:26 Billy McLean left the ice on an elbowing penalty, and the Minutemen capitalized on the power play with center Dave Hinkle backhanding a rebounded shot from captain Jim McMorro for Lexington's first goal.

The pressure was on the Sachems for the rest of the period as Lexington added another point at 9:22 when Matt Powers backhanded the puck past goalie Mike O'Leary. Joe Butler had the assist.

After several minutes of scoreless play in the second period, Lexington broke the game open with their third tally at 6:48. Minutemen Brian Boudreau got the puck in front via Jim Bouras and John Leach and scored through a screen.

Just nine seconds later McLean's second goal put Winchester back in the game to make it 3-2. Peter Haley assisted.

But within a minute Lexington made it tit-for-tat as Hinkle scored again with an assist from Dan Spencer.

Even with a man short Lexington continued to dominate the play. Dolan left the ice for seven and a half minutes for a misconduct penalty, but Powers followed up with his second score for the night at 7:15, stretching the Lexington lead to 5-2.

At 9:54 John Leach flipped one by O'Leary to make it 6-2. Still another Lexington goal came less than a minute later.

Winchester went two men down when Santo got called for elbowing and McLean served a slashing penalty for goalie Mike O'Leary. Assisted by Ed Collazzo, Joe Butler put in the final Minuteman tally. McLean completed his hat trick at 12:01 virtually single-handed, skating down the left side, maneuvering around a defenseman, and lifting a backhand into the upper corner for Winchester's third and last score. Mark Cullen was credited with an assist.

To make up for a lack of scoring in the rest of the game, the teams racked up an impressive list of penalties. The Sachems landed two and Lexington one in the remaining minutes of the second period.

Peter Dolan led the Minutemen with three penalties in the third period, one each for interference, cross-checking, and again for tripping. The rest of the team managed three other penalties; Winchester skaters were hit with just two.

Hoopsters roll over Spartans, outgun smaller Tanner team

The Sachem basketball team rolled through the weekend with two resounding wins. On Friday they trounced the Stoneham Spartans 84-70, and on Sunday they laid low the Woburn Tanners 57-39.

Kirk Swanson led the team Friday with 29 points in a game dominated by the Sachems, despite surging scoring attacks from Stoneham.

Spartan stars Migliorini and Kwiatkowski racked up 54 points, but Winchester's defense held the rest of the team to a mere 16 points.

The Sachems have picked up where they left off before their loss to Lexington. With sharp playing by Andy Stoeckle, Kirk Swanson, Wayne Mills, and with Dan Heffernan holding Kwiatkowski under tight reins, the Sachems led the Spartans by 14 points at the end of the first period.

Andy Stoeckle ran into foul trouble with five minutes left to the half; he went to the bench with his third foul. But Winchester was already up 30-15, and Fred Jones came on strong off the bench.

Wayne Mills took a Don Allard pass to put the Sachems ahead by 23, the biggest lead of the game. Stoneham came back to cut the lead to 43-28 before the end of the half.

At the start of the second half, Winchester seemed to be slipping. Stoeckle returned to the bench on a questionable fourth foul, and Spartan Kwiatkowski began doing his stuff. Stoneham cut the lead to 49-46 at one point, but Todd Cronan and Fred Jones hustled around the Spartan press, bringing the score to 62-52 at the close of the third period.

Stoneham battled back again to within two points, but in one three minute period the Sachems picked up twelve straight points, and turned the game around for the last time.

Sunday night the Sachems led all the way against a hustling Woburn team. The Tanner captain Tom Miller was out with a sprained ankle, and Woburn barely held on as the taller Winchester team leapt as far as 19 as points into the lead.

Despite ending the first period with a 17-8 lead, the Sachems, led by Kirk Swanson with 20 points and Andy Stoeckle and Dan Heffernan, each with 11 points, kept up the pressure throughout.

At the start of the third period, the Tanners began to hit. Eric Krause, Mike Doherty, and Gregg Rice all scored to cut the Winchester lead to 32-24.

But the Sachems, limiting Woburn to one shot per play, surged back to a comfortable lead and finished up the game with all substitutes on the court. By that time, Woburn was giving its bench some experience as well.

Sachems win one for Berman

by John F. Parrell

Coach Dave Berman of the Winchester hockey team left a sick bed to be on hand for the game with Belmont last Wednesday. His players responded by giving him his first victory of the season.

Neither side played great hockey but the Sachems got an early lead as the Belmont net minder lost track of the puck in his pads and it rolled in for the only goal needed for the victory. Co-captain Gerry Kivney was credited with it. He added an insurance goal in the second period to ice the verdict. Belmont threatened a few times but Winchester's defensive corps held them off.

Montreal family curling winner

The Winchester Country Club's 19th Annual Mixed Bonspiel started on Thursday, January 8. Twenty four rinks from Canada and the United States convened under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Govdy of Lantern Lane.

After three days of competition, the final matches were played on Sunday afternoon. The winners of the first event, the Farnsworth trophy donated by Mrs. Harold V. Farnsworth of Winchester, were a family rink from the Royal Montreal club of Montreal, Canada. Gordon and Norma Symonda, their son Alan, and his wife, Adeline. They have been faithful attendants of this competition for many years.

The second event, the Neiley trophy donated by Mrs. George Neiley of Lewis road, was won by a Nashua rink-Fred and Ginnie Manbeck and Chet and Mary Lopez.

The Barton trophy for the third event was won by Brae Burn No. 2-Bill Cousins, Helen Oleson, Allan Hatfield and Martha Speers of Winchester, substituting for Betsy Hatfield.

Handmade cars race at Pinewood Derby

The January meeting of Cub Scout Pack 524 featured the annual Pinewood Derby race at Parkhurst School. Each boy made and decorated a wooden racing car, and the evening was devoted to racing competition within the dens and within the entire pack.

Doug Pressman was the overall pack winner. Andrew Lawrence came in second. Following were the individual den winners: Chris Law, Den 1; Matthew Kennedy, Den 2; Doug Pressman, Den 3; Andrew Lawrence, Den 4; William Rogers, Den 5; Tom Lee, Webelos Blue; and Kevin Sarney, Webelos Gold.

There were also prizes for artistic racers. Sal Giacalone won the award for the best all-around design. William Porter, Randy Carswell, and Kevin Oliveri made the most creative racers. Ed Porter managed the event for the pack.

Hawks 'bugged' but pull through 7 to 2

The fascinating thing about sports is that you can't figure it. Sunday's first game at the U.S.A. Rink between the Capitols and Black Hawks was a close one for two periods and it looked like the Caps would wear the Hawks down with an assist from the flu bug as only seven Hawks made the scene.

Good disciplined hockey in the third period broke the game wide open with the Black Hawks taking it 7-2.

All of the Mighty Seven figured in the scoring with Peter Antonuccio scoring 2 and assisting on 2, Steve Barrett, a goal and two assists, Tony Vita a goal and an assist, Dave O'Neil an unassisted goal, Fred Skinner and Mark Fazio, each scored once, and John Skinner had 2 assists. Coaches Mike O'Leary and Kevin O'Neil said this group worked very well together and their fine teamwork paid off.

The mighty shot of the Capitols' Mark Pasillo netted two goals with assists from Scott Kajander and Mark Cassino, but the tight Hawk defense neutralized many fine rushes. Steve Ciccio was outstanding on defense for the Caps each time he was on the ice.

The second game was a cliff-hanger from start to finish and could have gone either way. Both teams played good, hard hockey, but it's a well-known fact, there's never been a goal scored from the penalty box and two of the Bruins' best players must enjoy the view from there for they had six penalties between them and the Bruins lost to the cooler Red Wings 4-3. Hugo LaFauci scored unassisted and had two assists. Mark Simpson and Paul Ruta each had a goal while Mike Jackson scored and had an assist.

For the Bruins Tom Shirley was the workhorse who made a fancy rink-length rush, shifting and faking the defense and finally beating the goalie scoring unassisted. He also assisted on a goal and when he wasn't going forward was rushing back to help the defense. Rick Kimball and Scott Manley scored the other two goals. Hard working John McGrath and Dave Cataldo each helped with assists. John Haggerty, Rich Burke and Mark Vernaglia were very strong on defense. Goalties Frank Vozzella, Jerry Kenney and Bill Munson played both games and made some real flashy saves.

St. Eulalia Squirts win two, lose one

The St. Eulalia Squirt Lions continue to round into mid-season form, posting two wins against one loss in recent action.

Against a well-balanced Wellesley Squirt-AA team, the Lions played a strong game before surrendering 3-2, as Wellesley scored with but 15 seconds remaining. Ricky Parker scored the first Lion Goal from a jam in front with assists going to Steve Masiello and Steve Brogdon. After Wellesley tied the game 1-1, Mike Griffin found the upper corner after a good pass from Tom Bryant, who played his best game of the year. All of the Lion defensemen played well as did goalie David Boyle whose improvement becomes more noticeable with each game.

Against Lowell, the Lions regained their winning ways skating to an impressive 10-1 victory. Paced by Mike Griffin's hat trick and Steve Masiello's two-goal contribution, the Lions turned in their best offensive performance of the year. Also joining the scoring parade were Ian MacDonald, Ricky Parker, Bob Engel, Mike Hubel and Mike Dellasalla. Defensively, the Lions were strong holding Lowell to few shots on net. Goaltender Greg Fiore played brilliantly in his first game, looking poised and polished as he handled his chances well.

Against Somerville, the Lions posted a 6-3 victory. In his finest game to date, Steve Masiello scored two goals to lead the Lions to their thirteenth win.

Mike Griffin, Mike McCarthy and Tom Bryant chipped in with single goals as did Ricky Parker who also cleverly set up the Lions third goal with his pass from behind the net. Mike Shaw, Sean O'Connor, Billy Eaton and Andy Guleserian were standouts defensively for the Lions with their aggressive play. Shaw and O'Connor were effective around the net and Eaton and Guleserian were constant threats with their hard shots from the point.

Greg Fiore and David Boyle shared the duties in goal, both turning in solid performances. Also skating well were Paul Sugrue, Steve Moros and Mike Dellasalla who formed a strong Lion Line.

St. Eulalia's bantam team wins and ties

MCC registration set for spring

Registration is now being held at Middlesex Community College and its instruction centers in Acton, Arlington, Dracut, Westford, Wilmington, Hanscom Field and Woburn. For the Fall '75 semester, Middlesex enrolled more students than any other community college statewide with 4,500 persons registered. Early registration figures indicate an even larger enrollment for spring '76. There are more than 350 courses from which to choose. Courses are offered in English, business, Spanish, math, sociology, psychology, science, as well as graduate level courses in education, degree programs in liberal arts, secretarial studies, allied health, business, law enforcement and fire science. MCC is approved for veteran's benefits. For a catalogue or additional information, call Middlesex Community College.

McCall team in 2-1-2 record in five games

In its last five outings, McCall has compiled a 2-1-2 record.

McCall tied the Belmont freshmen team 2-2 in a game which saw Belmont score in the last minute to gain the tie. Bubba Sanford and Ricky Blanch scored McCall's goals with assists to Hugo LaFauci and Jim Willing.

Melrose's powerful freshmen team beat McCall 5-1 with McCall's only tally by Hugo LaFauci.

LaFauci then added three more goals in McCall's 5-3 win over Lexington's freshmen. Mike Hill and Kevin Conley added the other two goals. Willy Struzzolo, Scott Manley and John Skinner along with Hill picked up assists.

Traveling to Andover, McCall beat Phillips-Andover's freshmen by a 5-0 score. Hugo LaFauci scored his team's first four goals. Jim Willing scored the other as McCall put forth its best effort of the year.

In its last game McCall came from a two-goal deficit to salvage a 2-2 tie versus Watertown East. LaFauci scored two more goals in this game.

Spring soccer registration set for youth

On Friday, February 6, at 7:50 p.m. there will be registration at the Lincoln School Auditorium for all boys and girls interested in trying out for the Winchester soccer teams. These teams will be entered in the Boston Area Youth Soccer League.

Winchester will field both boys and girls teams in the following age groups:

AA—not reached 19th birthday by June 30th
A—not reached 17th birthday by June 30th
B—not reached 15th birthday by June 30th
C—not reached 13th birthday by June 30th
D—not reached 11th birthday by June 30th
The AA and A teams will play on Sundays, the B, C and D teams will play on Saturdays.

now 5-2-3 with Chris Zappala and Bob Surabian doing excellent work in the nets.

All-Stars lose to top Melrose team

Last Saturday the Winchester All Stars played the Melrose Bantam AA team at Hockey Town in Saugus. The Melrose Bantam AA team just came back from Montreal, where they won the Invitational Bantam Tournament.

Melrose by far is the best Bantam AA team in the state. The Winchester All Star Hockey Team is an intramural team while the Melrose team is a well established traveling team. The score of the game was 5-0 Melrose but the game was much closer than the score indicates.

Winchester had its chances but the Melrose goalie came up with great saves stopping two breakaways and kicking out 22 shots. Excellent play for Winchester by Tony Vita, David Vozella, and Hugo LaFauci.

A rematch with Melrose will be in the near future. A large crowd of Winchester fans were at the game and all received free programs. Next game for the All Stars is Saturday, Jan. 31 against Woburn at 9:20 at Burlington Ice Palace.

The league schedule will consist of ten games, five at home and five away.

Please note that teams are selected on a competitive basis and not all of those who sign up may be selected for a team, although in some age groups there will be more than one team fielded.

Tryouts will be held after the Winter School vacation and will be announced in the Winchester Star at a later date.

Soccer films will be shown in Lincoln School Auditorium at the time of registration. The program will run from 7 p.m. to approximately 9 p.m.

The girls who still have BAYS uniforms from last spring are requested to bring them to Lincoln School for collection.

Sachem swimmers sunk by Belmont after third win

The Swimming Sachems, under direction of coach Vin Palumbo, swam to their third victory of the season January 6 by swamping a young Newton So. High team, 94-62. Then on January 8 the Sachems traveled to Belmont High, where a strong Belmont squad became the first team to hand the Sachems a defeat in the past two years. The score: 93-79.

But this is not a final. Coach Palumbo is protesting the use of inadequate equipment, that could have had an effect on the results of three events, which in turn would have an effect on the outcome of the meet.

In the meet against Newton So., Winchester jumped out in front, where they stayed throughout the entire meet. The 200-yd. medley relay team of David Blasi, Jay Estabrook, Seth Goodman, and Bob Blasi took a first with a time of 2:05.6. Taking a second with the time of 2:08.6 was the team of Tom Zappala, Dick Gardner, Tony Pollino, and tri-captain Jeff Estabrook.

The 200-yd. Freestyle event saw Rich

Swim team's rivals dunked

On Thursday, Jan. 15, the Sachem swimmers traveled to Watertown for their meet with the new entry to the Western Conference of the G.B.H.S. Swimming League. The meet was held at the new Boys Club pool.

Winchester opened the meet with a win in the 200-yd medley relay with the team of Tom Zappala (back), Dick Gardner (breast), Jeff Estabrook (butter) and Kevin Goslin (b free), winning Time 2:12.4.

Jay Estabrook and Dick Gardner placed second and third in the 200-yd free with times of 2:43.6 and 2:49.3 respectively.

Seth Goodman placed second in the 200-yd individual medley with a time of 2:44.4.

Bob Blasi took a first in the 50-yd free with a time of 27.6 while teammate Kevin Goslin placed third with a time of 30.3.

This same duo placed first and second in the diving event, Bob Blasi scoring 91.50 points and Kevin Goslin scoring 65.50 points.

Jeff Estabrook and Seth Goodman took another one-two in the 100-yd. fly with times of 1:24.7 and 1:48.8 respectively.

Tony Pollino took a first in the 100-yd free with a time of 1:02.6 and Jay Estabrook placed third with a time of 1:09.5.

In back-to-back races, Tony Pollino took a first in the 500-yd free with a time of 6:39.9 and David Blasi placed third with a time of 6:58.6.

In the 100-yd. backstroke Tom Zappala placed second with a time of 1:28.1, while teammate Dick Gardner placed first in the 100-yd. breaststroke with a time of 1:17.8.

The final event of the meet, the 400-yd. freestyle relay, was won by the Sachems - team of Rich Palumbo, David Blasi, John Henriques and Tony Pollino with a time of 4:37.0. The second relay team of Seth Goodman, Jeff Estabrook, Bob Blasi and Danny Holmes placed third with a time of 4:46.8. Final score, Winchester 51 Watertown 29.

On Saturday, January 17 the Sachems hosted Malden at the Northeast Regional Pool.

The 200-yd. medley relay team of David

Blasi (back), Jay Estabrook (breast), Tony Pollino (fly) and Jeff Estabrook (free) took a first with a time of 1:56.0, and the second relay team of Tom Zappala (back), Dick Gardner (breast), Seth Goodman (fly), and Bob Blasi (free), placed fourth with a time of 2:11.0.

Rich Palumbo took a first and Kevin Goslin a fourth in the 200-yd. free with times of 2:04.0 and 2:49.6 respectively.

The 200-yd individual medley saw David Blasi placing second and Seth Goodman placing third with times of 2:41.9 and 2:49.2.

The 50-yd. free saw the Sachems capturing a one-two with Tri-Capt. Danny Holmes and John Henriques going head to head with times of 24.0 and 24.2 respectively.

Tony Pollino displayed his expertise in the diving exhibition taking a first with 151.50 points and Bob Blasi showing steady improvement placed fourth with a total of 108.30 points.

The 100-yd. fly saw Tony Pollino taking another first with a time of 1:02.4, and Jeff Estabrook taking a third with a time of 1:15.2.

Bob Blasi took a second in the 100-yd. free with a time of 1:04.9 while Andy Lang placed fourth.

Seth Goodman and Kevin Goslin placed third and fourth in the 500 yd. free with times of 7:15.0 and 8:21.0.

David Blasi in his best effort of the young season took a first with a time of 1:08.5 and Tom Zappala placed fourth, in the 100-yd. backstroke.

Jay Estabrook pulled in his best time of the season in the 100 yard breaststroke, taking a first with a time of 1:08.4 and Dick Gardner took a second with a time of 1:17.1.

Winchester took a second and third in the 400-yd. freestyle relay with the team of Rich Palumbo, Jeff Estabrook, Kevin Goslin and Tom Zappala pulling in a time of 4:16.8 and the team of Danny Holmes, John Henriques, Jay Estabrook, and Dick Gardner posting a time of 4:33.0.

Palumbo taking a first with a time of 2:05.1. Kevin Goslin placed fourth in this event.

Seth Goodman won the 200-yd. individual medley with a 2:47.7, while teammate Tom Zappala, a senior, took a third place.

Winchester swept the 50-yd. Freestyle with Jeff Estabrook taking a first, Bob Blasi taking second, and Jay Estabrook finishing third.

Competing in the diving event for the first time, Bob Blasi showed good form, as he took second with a total of 86.95 points. Newton So.'s diver took a first with a total of 110.65 points.

The Sachem swimmers again showed their strength as Tony Pollino and tri-captain Dan Holmes combined for a first and second in the 100-yd. butterfly.

Seth Goodman took a first in the 100-yd. freestyle with a winning time of 1:06.2, while sophomore Kevin Goslin placed fourth in the event.

In the long and tiring 500 yd. freestyle, Tom Zappala placed third. Swimming unofficially were tri-captain John Henriques and sophomore Rich Palumbo.

The 100-yd. backstroke was won by David Blasi with a time of 1:10.3. Tony Pollino and Dan Holmes swam the event unofficially.

Again Winchester swimmers swept another event. This time it was the 100-yd. breaststroke. Jay Estabrook, Jeff Estabrook, and Dick Gardner took the top three places respectively. Jay won the event with his personal best time of 1:08.9.

The final event of the day, the 400-yd. freestyle relay, was won by the Winchester team of David Blasi, Rich Palumbo, Dan Holmes and John Henriques.

The final score: Winchester 94, Newton So. 62.

On January 8, the Sachems traveled to Belmont, to face a tough Belmont team. If Winchester came away with this victory, their chances of winning the Middlesex League championship were very good. But even though the Sachems won 8 out of the 11 events they were still on the short end of a 93-79 score.

The first event, the 200-yd. medley relay, saw the Sachems take a first and fourth. The team of David Blasi, Jay Estabrook, Tony Pollino, and Jeff Estabrook took first with a time of 1:54.1, while Tom Zappala, Dick Gardner, Seth Goodman, and Bob Blasi placed fourth.

The 200-yd. Freestyle proved to be one of the closest events of the day. At the finish, Sachem's swimmer, Rich Palumbo was touched out of first place by a come from behind performance by the Belmont swimmer. The first place time was a 2:00.8. Richard's time was a 2:00.9. Kevin Goslin placed fifth in the event with a time of 3:01.9.

Tri-captain Dan Holmes sprinted to a first place in the 50-yd. freestyle. Bob Blasi edged out Belmont's swimmer for fourth place with a time of 26.2. Jay Estabrook placed sixth.

Bob Blasi, who had previously dove in his diving ability. His final point total was 110.85, 34 points better than his first performance.

Kevin Goslin, who had no diving experience, picked up fifth place. Bob placed fourth.

Tony Pollino and David Blasi picked up a first and fifth in the 100 yd. butterfly. Tony's winning time was a 1:01.6.

Dan Holmes and Rich Palumbo placed first and second in the 100-yd. freestyle, while in the 500 yd. freestyle John Henriques picked up another first. All this time, Belmont kept their lead by scoring seconds and thirds.

Tony Pollino and David Blasi took a second and third in the 100 yd. backstroke. Jay Estabrook placed first in the 100 yd. breaststroke with a time of 1:09.2 while his brother Jeff took a third.

The 400 yd. freestyle relay team of Rich Palumbo, John Henriques, Jeff Estabrook, and Dan Holmes won the final event, but it was too late. Belmont had beaten Winchester. Final score: Winchester 79, Belmont 93.

Local girls compete in gymnastics meet

Kitty Smith, a 16-year-old resident, took first honors in the senior division at the state qualification meets of the United States Gymnastics Federation, Intermediate Class, in Fitchburg.

Winning first place qualifies Kitty to enter the state championship meet in March. She is a member of the Montvale School of Gymnastics' competitive team.

Another Winchester girl, Jennifer Edwards, placed second in the senior division and just missed qualifying for the state championship meet by .05 of a point. Also a member of the Montvale team, Jennifer will have another chance to qualify later in the season.

The meet, held the weekend of January 10, was hosted by the Wallace Gymnastic Center in Fitchburg.

St. Eulalia Pee Wees win twice

In two games played recently at Belmont Hill, the St. Eulalia Pee Wee Lions defeated Reading 7-3, and North Reading 6-0. Both opponents were traveling teams that play in the Wilmington Youth Hockey League.

On Jan. 4, the Lions were led by Joey

Sciaccia and Billy Ferry in their conquest of Reading.

Ferry opened the scoring with a rink-length rush after taking a clearing pass from goalie Jackie Davies. Sciaccia then followed with a conversion of a Ferry pass to open up an early 2-0 lead. In the second period, Tim Keaveney flipped in a rebound off Chris Parker's shot, but Reading scored soon after to make it a 3-1 game.

Late in the period, Steve Tucci outfoiled the Reading defense and scored, but Reading promptly responded with their second goal to make the score 4-2 at the end of the second period.

The third period saw the Lions break the game open, as Ferry and Sciaccia each scored their second goals and Jim D'Antonio added one more to end the St. Eulalia scoring.

On Jan. 11, the Lions displayed some fine teamwork, as Steve Tucci and Steve Dionne combined on four goals in the 6-0 victory over North Reading.

Billy Ferry opened the scoring with a backhand shot off a centering pass from Steve LaMarche and Tucci followed with his first of three goals on a similar play with Dionne. Paul White and Dionne set up Tucci for another St. E goal in front of the North Reading net, establishing a 3-0 lead at the end of the first period.

Dionne scored the fourth Lion goal after taking a nifty pass from Tucci and Tim Keaveney found the mark with an assist from

Close matches by wrestlers

Coach Ted Benton's wrestling team has only three letter winners back from last year's team and has vacancies in some divisions so that they are forced to forfeit these classes to any team that has wrestlers ready to perform.

Co-captains are John Calarese and Fran Smedley and the other veteran is John MacIsaac. The co-captains were both silver medal winners in the 1975 sectional tourney. Coach Benton is hoping that several more boys will do well in the sectional matches to make it possible for the team to take part in the State tournament in March.

John Calarese who won the Doc Hides trophy in football has a three year record of 29-5-0. He pinned his opponent in the Lexington meet in seven seconds. Co-captain Smedley also took his man by a fall and promises to be a state meet contender.

The team was edged by Stoneham 35-34 and also dropped a one pointer to Lexington 31-30. In both meets they had to forfeit the 112 and 119 pound classes which cost them an even dozen points in each meet.

Jim D'Antonio, as the second period ended with St. Eulalia holding a 5-0 edge.

In the third period, the Lions exercised defensive strategy, but Tucci completed his hat trick after Dionne's perfect lead pass sent him in alone on the North Reading goaltender.

McCall team has good showing in a strong league

Playing against three of the most powerful freshman teams in the Middlesex League, Coach Jim Macconchie's McCall sextet made a good showing.

They defeated the Lexington team by 5-3, deadlocked with Belmont at each team scored two goals and dropped a 5-1 game to the undefeated Melrose team.

Hugo La Fauci tallied three times and Mike Hill and Kevin Conley each drove home a goal. Assists went to Willy Strazzullo, Scott Manley, John Skinner and Hill.

Bubba Sandford and Ricky Blanch netted the puck against Belmont and the assists went to Jim Willing and La Fauci. Belmont evened the score in the last minute of play.

La Fauci scored the lone goal against the highly organized and fast skating Melrose sextet which would be capable of beating the varsity team of many schools.

Both Chris Zappala and Bobby Surabian performed well in the nets for McCall.

Couples' bowling

On the ninth evening of bowling, it was Stan Hart's night to bowl. Stan not only bowled high game for the men with a 180, but he had a high series of 506. Louise Hart had the high game for the women bowling a 151 game.

On the Saturday before last, 13 participated in the tenth evening of bowling. Joan

in new term

Sunday morning church school classes at the Winchester Unitarian Church

begin a new term, with such intriguing titles as "The

Haunting House", "Why Do

Bad Things Happen?"

The "Haunting House" is a continuation of a primary age program with new teachers

Mr. and Mrs. Don Brown and Mrs. David Hueter. Continuing on the team for this open classroom project are Kathy

Wheeler and Laura Parkhurst.

"Why Do Bad Things Happen?"

is a new curriculum unit being introduced by Judy

Myers. The course deals with answers to the title question given by many religious traditions from many different peoples around the world.

A special course for ninth graders is being taught on Sunday evenings by Larry

Stoddard. This age group is dealing with controversial psychological methods and philosophies as they apply to education and schools.

Fifth and Sixth graders will begin "The Church Across the Street" a study of how their friends and neighbors worship, taught by Richard Osgood.

Seventh graders, with the guidance of Richard Sorenson will consider the questions and conflicts involved in "Freedom and Responsibility" while the eight grade continues its study

School enrollment report: Part two

Noonan: All Noonan children currently attending Noonan School would be assigned to Lynch.

Wyman: Approximately 155 Wyman children would be assigned to Ambrose. The rest of the Wyman population would go to Lynch.

Lincoln: Approximately 60 children would go to Muraco. The balance of the Lincoln population would go to Lynch.

B. Would parents have the choice of sending their child to a structured or open classroom school?

The answer here would depend upon whether the School Committee supports or negates the open enrollment concept. More specifically, if the question really means will Lynch be an open area school or structured, I would respond by saying that we currently do not plan to remove any walls or partitions. The community to be served by this school along with the principal and staff will ultimately determine the degree of structure.

C. Will provisions be made to bus children to a new school, and on what basis? Provision will be made to bus children to new schools based upon the present system which provides transportation to those elementary children living more than one mile from the school. Any change to a 1½ mile requirement is not part of this plan but is something the School Committee could consider at any time.

D. Will redistricting enable us to keep our neighborhood schools? Will children go to the school nearest them? Would closing schools other than those proposed achieve this goal?

Yes, children should be able to go to the nearest school and if open enrollment were voted by the School Committee, this would be a top priority. Occasionally conditions change by virtue of enrollment "drop and bulges" which would place a child in a school not necessarily the closest to his home. I would hope to avoid this. There is always the possibility of accomplishing a similar result by considering other schools for closing. Alternate plans may yet be developed for consideration.

E. In terms of redistricting, what busing and school crossing guard expenses would be incurred?

Approximately $40,000 to $45,000 additional busing costs would be incurred if the proposed redistricting plan is accepted. There would be no additional cost for crossing guards.

F. What would be the costs of making necessary and long deferred repairs at Noonan and Wyman which Dr. Pharo acknowledged have not been made for several years in the expectation that these schools would be closed?

In order to bring Noonan to a current state of repair, it would be necessary to replace the badly deteriorated doublehung windows at a cost of approximately $35,000. It would also be necessary to renovate four lavatories at a total cost of $25,000, and general interior and exterior painting in the order of $12,000 would be required. These are the significant items and the most serious that have been postponed at Noonan in past years. Wyman also requires renovation of lavatories at a total cost of approximately $30,000, a new public address system at $4,000, and carpeting and classroom renovations of approximately $23,000. Please bear in mind that there has been only a one year postponement in this program as opposed to any other school and particularly as compared to a school such as Mystic, which is of the same vintage. The schedule set up to bring the Mystic School to a reasonable state of repair is approximately five years. Therefore, it seems reasonable to apply this same divisor to both Noonan and Wyman in order to calculate a reasonable annual cost.

VII. TRANSPORTATION

A. After hearing at a public meeting that students stand on the bus, how do you expect elementary school parents to have confidence that the bus trip would be safe and comfortable? Much administrative time will have to be spent on bus problems.

Transportation is always costly and sometimes contributes to problems which take time from administration. Safety factors do receive our consideration and transportation routes are established which conform to state and local laws.

B. Is it your plan to have all elementary aged children bused together? Would it be possible to have K-4 children on one bus and 5th and 6th graders on another?

As a parent I can appreciate the concerns of this question. However, we try to provide the safest transportation possible while being cognizant of the economy. Our present practice of busing does have all elementary age children on the same bus, and I doubt that this would change.

C. What is the cost of bus monitors?

We have never had bus monitors and I doubt that we would have them next year. I would estimate that the cost of a bus monitor would be $14.00 per day for four hours' work.

D. Has a study made to determine how many children will need to be bused to each school for a 1 and 1½ mile busing limit?

Yes, the number to be bused if we adhere to a 1 mile factor would be approximately: Muraco 6, Vinson 47, Washington 18, Ambrose 8, Parkhurst 71, Lynch 238.

A 1½ mile factor would virtually eliminate elementary busing.

VIII. PERSONNEL

A. How long will it take the facility of the new elementary school to bring together three different schools' policies?

Hopefully, professional staff members would rapidly adjust to the new school administration. I would think all elementary policies are very similar. Certainly, as in any change, there is a period of adjustment to new facilities and administration, but it should be far from overwhelming.

B. What will be the immediate effect on the school or schools to which Noonan pupils are reassigned and the projected effects over a five-year period in terms of:

1. Class size, K-6?

A 25:1 ratio will be maintained unless policy or negotiation changes are made, which I doubt.

2. Teacher-pupil ratios? Approximately 25:1

3. Educational provisions for special needs children under Chapter 766? Same as now except changes in location of classes currently housed in buildings to be closed.

C. It has been pointed out at public meetings that an assistant principal will probably be required in the proposed new elementary school and at the junior high complex. Is funding available?

Funding, in all likelihood, would not be available and very frankly I would not recommend additional administrative help.

D. How many of the principals in the schools to be closed are on tenure? Are you going to create more Assistant Superintendents?

All except one of the principals in the schools involved are on tenure. I would assume that the principals not selected for the existing buildings under the new plan would be offered teaching positions at a teaching salary. I assure you we will not create additional assistant superintendents.

E. Has there been a careful review of the administrative staff in terms of job functions and potential savings by reduction of administrative personnel? A reorganizational study has been voted by the School Committee and will address this problem. In 1964 an organizational study was completed and its recommendations are currently reflected in administrative staffing. During the coming year we will review and analyze job functions and potential savings as related to all administrative positions.

F. If Lynch becomes an elementary school, taking into consideration the large sized classrooms, what would be the pupil-teacher ratio? The same ratio (25:1) will be maintained for all elementary schools.

G. On what basis would the new principal of Lynch elementary be appointed? All nine elementary principals will be evaluated on criteria which will be developed by me and submitted to the principals and School Committee. Based upon the criteria, all principals will be evaluated and judgements and recommendations made in terms of the seven who best meet the criteria. Individual assignments would then be voted.

H. If this plan is implemented, is seniority the criterion for dismissal of staff? In all likelihood seniority will be a consideration. To the degree that I personally have any control in this decision, I would state that in my opinion it should not be the only overriding consideration.

I. If more than one tenured principal is involved in the various school reassignments and a tenured principal is not appointed to the new Lynch elementary school, how will that principal be reassigned — another assistant superintendent? These details, and they are important ones, have not been finalized. As stated in another section of this report, there will be no additional assistant superintendents.

J. How many assistants will be needed in the larger schools — Lynch elementary and the junior high school complex?

Present recommendations call for one principal and two assistants for the junior high complex. No assistant is recommended for the large elementary school.

IX. ALTERNATE CONSIDERATIONS

A. Why not save the town money by selling Sanborn House, the Carriage House, plus the land in front and move the offices to a school?

In the last twenty-five years the offices of the School Department have been moved more times than one would realize. The purchase of Marycliff Academy estate provided a much needed permanent home to centralize the upper administrative offices. Consideration has already been given to the sale of the property in front, bordering Cambridge Street. As for the entire site, it could be liquidated if this be the wishes of the town. However, it may well have to be broken up and sold on a piecemeal basis.

B. Why was Ambrose automatically exempt from consideration for closing, and why not move the school offices to Lynch or one of the buildings to be closed?

Ambrose was not automatically exempted from consideration. It is a newer, recently renovated building which was purchased by the town at substantial cost and not completely redone in order to save funds. A pertinent question in this regard becomes the reaction of the town if this site is excessed. The building is one of our newer plants. It is in sound physical shape, with excellent classroom and ancillary spaces. Obviously if the bottom floor is refurbished, we would have a buffer against enrollment increases on the West Side Hill. The School Department offices were once housed at Lynch Junior High School on the bottom floor and certainly could be moved there or elsewhere.

C. May we have more details on the rejection of the Washington-Parkhurst plan?

It has been asked why the first plan was initially recommended in the Interim Report and then later rejected. Very frankly, as I have stated elsewhere, the actual costs for routine operation and maintenance of buildings of similar size at the elementary level is fairly the same and the differences are not great enough to say that one school is more expensive than another in terms of day-to-day operating expenses.

Basically, Wyman and Parkhurst were eliminated from consideration due to a number of factors. A factor which influenced us was the pupil-teacher ratio at the various schools in our system. We tried to incorporate in our thinking the elimination of a building where the pupil-teacher ratio and the overall capacity were sn all. This we felt would allow economic operation of buildings. Secondly, there was consideration given to the geographical location of the buildings and to the potential use of the buildings in a nonrelated school activity.

D. In order to keep the Noonan neighborhood concept and still implement a part of the proposed plan, would you consider making Lynch K-9?

This is certainly a possibility that deserves future consideration. Furthermore, I would value the reaction of the Noonan parents to such a plan. I would point out that a very workable structure many years ago was the eight year elementary and four year high school. However, I question the advisability of singling out one segment of our population (Noonan) and putting those students into a school where the age difference would range from 5 to 15. It is a possibility but would need much research and examination.

E. Is it not time to consider teaching or shared principals?

I hope to include in a future report to the School Committee a plan that will address this situation.

F. Can the rejected plans along with the reasons for their rejection be published or made available at the library?

Yes. Basically the Interim Report initially recommended the closing of the Parkhurst and Washington Schools. Primarily for reasons of economy (little savings) and location of the buildings, these plans were rejected.

G. In an effort to save money, why not sell Sanborn House and the land in front for expensive house lots and move the offices to a school building?

This is certainly a possibility and has been addressed elsewhere. We could consider selling all or part of the property. We will research the possible savings versus the costs of such a plan.

X. ENROLLMENT STATISTICS

A. Does the plan allow for the possibility of increased elementary enrollment in the future? What if St. Mary's School closed?

Yes, there is room to allow for a change in the trend, and there would be ways of providing space. This, of course, assumes no magic and dramatic increase. I have talked with the principal of St. Mary's School and she indicates a long term commitment for continuation of this school. I do not foresee its closing, but feel that even if it were to close, we would be able to accommodate the St. Mary's population.

B. What study has there been of population trends within the town?

March of Dimes National Poster Child, six-year-old Tammy Patterson watches intensely as Governor Michael Dukakis signs a proclamation declaring January as March of Dimes month in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Tammy who comes from Mt. Pleasant, Tennessee was born with multiple birth defects. She is representing the 250,000 children born each year with crippling birth defects.

The Preliminary Report on Enrollment Projections in the Interim Report was based upon:

1. Interview with Norton Demsey and analysis of his current enrollment projections.
2. Study of the report of the Planning Board dated January, 1972, Residential Growth Study and preceding reports by the Planning Board and the School Department, the results of which are incorporated in the 1972 report.
3. Interview with Mr. Murphy of Bowman Real Estate.
4. Discussion with Otto Schaeffer of the Planning Board.
5. Discussion with William Budd of the Elementary School Subcommittee of the Permanent Building Committee.
6. Study of various reports from Lexington, Newton, Wellesley and Plainview-Old Bethpage, New York.
7. Figures from Mr. Ciarcia, Town Engineer, and the Town Clerk's office.

XI. MISCELLANEOUS

A. Town Meeting's message was a money message, but not at the children's expense. They were talking cuts in administrative personnel — Assistant Superintendents, sharing principals, added stipends for curriculum council members plus the cost of substitutes, salaries given for time not spent teaching — released days, refusal of teachers to perform duties not in their contract, etc. Will you address this, please?

We will review alternatives regarding central office personnel and principals. Many of the other suggestions will have to be resolved at the negotiating table.

B. If you want to save money, why not reevaluate tenured teachers and administrators and see if they are still worth their salaries?

There is currently a Management Study Report addressing this problem; however, it has not been finalized to the degree that I can predict its ultimate impact on teachers' or administrators' salaries-costs.

C. There is a concern that this is the beginning of a master plan to phase out small elementary schools for a more regional type school system.

I can appreciate the concern. Basically, our plan is to find ways of reducing costs. This plan may not be the best one. Perhaps through continued efforts we can find the best route to take. However, with enrollments declining since 1972 from 5565 to 5169 in 1975, responsible management and public alike must face the issue and the reality of our present enrollments. Some master plan must be found to economize and react to dwindling numbers.

Statehouse roll call

The House
Throughout the last session there were several important instances where anywhere from a handful to more than 50 Representatives switched their votes on the same issue. Whether it was because of a change of heart or leadership or arm-twisting, the outcome of much legislation was changed.

Gay Rights: First passed 126-96, then defeated 113-102. Measure would have prohibited an employer from dismissing, refusing to hire or refusing to promote a homosexual. A ye a vote was for homosexuals' rights.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted Y, Y.

Numbers Game: First passed 142-77, then defeated 123-95, measure to give cities and towns revenues from the new numbers game instead of revenue going to the state's general fund. A ye a vote was for community funding.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted Y, Y.

Legislative Budget: First passed 117-105, then defeated 117-108, a proposed amendment which would have slashed the legislative printing and paper budget by some $100,000. A ye a vote was for the cut.
Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, Y.

Car Theft: First passed 176-48, then defeated 116-107 a strict version of a bill which requires mandatory jail sentences or youth service facility confinement for convictions of car stealing. A ye a vote was for confinement.
Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, N.

Savings Banks: First defeated 114-107, then passed 122-102, a bill allowing savings banks to cross county lines. A ye a vote is for the bill.
Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Cooperative Banks: First defeated 118-106 then passed a bill allowing cooperative banks to cross county lines. A ye a vote is for the bill.
Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Credit Unions: First defeated 117-107, then passed 118-107 a bill allowing credit unions to cross county lines. A ye a vote is for the bill.
Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Trust Companies: First defeated 121-101, then passed 113-106 a bill allowing trust companies to cross county lines. A ye a vote is for the bill.
Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Tax Package: First defeated 120-110, then passed 115-110 a tax package designed to raise $302 million in fiscal 1976. Major provisions included a hike from 3 to 5 percent in sales tax and elimination of the under $1 meals tax. A ye a vote is for the package.
Rep. Saltmarsh, N, N.

Lucy Benson Staff: First passed 143-81 then defeated 118-101 a motion to cut the office budget of former Human Services Director Lucy Benson. A ye a vote is for the cut.
Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, Y, Y.

Regional Primary: First passed 134-87 then passed by a slimmer 116-107 legislation creating a New England Regional Primary and pushing Massachusetts' primary back to March 2. A ye a vote is for the bill.
Rep. Saltmarsh, N, N.

Liquor Taxes: First voted 120-103, then by 132-81 in favor of overriding the Governor's veto of a bill which would have granted the liquor industry an additional 10 days to pay alcoholic beverage taxes to the state. A ye a vote is for overriding the veto.
Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, Y.

Graduated Income Tax
The House passed 192-38 and the Senate passed 36-3 a constitutional amendment allowing a graduated income tax. The amendment must be approved by the voters this fall and again in 1978.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted no.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

ERA
The House passed 185-45 and the Senate passed 29-10 a proposed constitutional amendment guaranteeing equal legal rights regardless of sex, race, color, creed, or national origin. The amendment must be approved by the voters this fall.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.
Sen. Bullock voted no.

Busing
The House passed 155-61 and the Senate passed 20-12 the proposed anti-busing constitutional amendment which prohibits public school assignment on the basis of race, color, national origin, or creed. The amendment will be on the ballot in November.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Abortion
The House passed 163-45 and the Senate passed 20-9 a resolution urging Congress to amend the Bill of Rights by establishing the rights of the unborn.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Public broadcast funding bill approved by House

The House recently agreed, by a wide margin, to the Conference Report to provide long-range funding for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Congressman Torbert H. Macdonald, chairman of the Subcommittee on Communications, and the author of the bill, termed the passage of the conference report a "major step forward in quality programming to public broadcasting."

The Macdonald bill contains a five year authorization for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting beginning in 1976 with $88 million and increasing to $160 million by 1980.

"The essential feature of this bill is that the authorization is not a flat out grant, every

Budget And New Taxes

The House first defeated 120-110 and later approved 115-110 a $3 billion budget and $364 million tax package which passed the Senate 23-17.

The new taxes included a 7.5 percent surtax on the five percent income tax, a rise in the sales tax from three to five percent, elimination of the meals tax exemption for meals under $1, elimination of the income tax exemption for self-employed pension plans, a ten percent surtax on business, a hike in the corporate income tax from 8.5 percent to 9.5 percent, a rise from nine to ten percent on unearned income, and a $1 hike in auto registration fees.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted no on both roll calls.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Auto Insurance Package

The House passed 147-65 and the Senate approved by voice vote an auto insurance bill providing for a standard $200 deductible on collision and comprehensive coverage and a $100 deductible for drivers willing to pay higher premiums.

The bill also sets up a new merit rating system, cancels a requested $185 million rate increase, and allows insurance companies to offer competing rates.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.

Property Assessment

The House passed 124-103 and the Senate passed 23-10 a bill to get around 100 percent valuation and allows assessors to choose three methods (sales, income capitalization, or replacement cost minus depreciation) to determine full and fair cash value of residential and commercial property.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted no.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Transportation and Park Plaza

The House passed 168-60 and the Senate passed 20-3 a $385 million transportation bond issue including $7.5 million for Park Plaza construction.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Presidential Primary

The House passed 116-107 and the Senate passed 18-16 a bill moving the state's presidential primary up to March 2. The bill also takes the names of delegates off the ballot and gives the presidential candidates veto power over their delegations.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted no.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Bond Issue & Tax Increase

The House passed 121-113 and the Senate passed 21-16 a $450 million bond issue and $110 million tax increase. The tax increase included a five cent hike in the cigarette tax, a one cent hike in the gas tax, a three percent hike in the meals tax, and a 20 percent surcharge on the liquor tax.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted no.
Sen. Bullock paired yes.

Welfare Cuts

The House passed 200-31 and the Senate passed 31-4 a bill cutting 18,200 employable persons off general relief.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

No-Fault Divorce

The House passed 171-52 and the Senate passed by voice vote a bill making "irretrievable breakdown" of a marriage grounds for divorce.
Rep. Saltmarsh yes.

Independent Adoptions

The House passed 165-57 and the Senate passed 26-7 a bill outlawing independent adoptions and giving control to 38 licensed adoption agencies.
Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.
Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Brooke seeks tax credit for people who insulate

At the beginning of this session of the 94th Congress, I urged the Congress to draft an effective and equitable energy conservation policy which would strike a balance between our desperate need to conserve energy and our equally desperate need to find new sources of energy.

I have written several bills to promote conservation. They include legislation to reform all utility rate structures, to require tough penalties on our gas guzzling automobiles, to increase the federal tax on gasoline, and to establish energy conservation standards for new construction of commercial and residential buildings. But these by no means form a complete energy conservation package. We need many more initiatives in many areas and they should be pursued with equal vigor. One particularly good initiative would be the adoption of short-term tax incentives designed to encourage all Americans to conserve. Therefore, I recently introduced the Home Heating Systems Improvement

Amendment. I believe this bill is an important part of a national energy conservation program, for it provides us the opportunity to save a substantial part of the 139 million barrels of oil which is wasted through inadequate home insulation or inefficient heating components.

A large part of the problem is that consumers are not aware of possible fuel savings from adequate home insulation and storm windows and the use of efficient heating components. I do not think the American people realize that, of 48 million single family dwellings in this country, only 13 million are adequately insulated or are in warm climates where insulation and other energy-saving improvements do not pay. Five million homes are occupied by poor people who will be eligible for direct winterization assistance, which I am trying to get passed as part of the assistance available through the Community Services Administration.

Of the remaining 35 million buildings, 17 million need ceiling insulation, which could be installed for about $200. Ten million need storm doors and windows which might cost around $100. Between one and two million need their heating systems upgraded by adding modern, efficient parts for between 100 and 500 dollars.

One effective way to encourage homeowners is through a temporary program of tax credits for such energy-saving expenditures. And this would be an appropriate use of our tax system, as few national goals are so important as a reduced reliance on oil imports.

The House of Representatives wisely passed a tax credit for home insulation as part of the Energy Conservation and Conversion Act of 1975, which it sent to the Senate last summer. In July, I testified before the Senate Finance Committee on provisions of this Act, as well as on energy conserving measures of my own which I hoped would be included.

Unfortunately, the Senate

Committee has taken no action on this vital matter. And winter is upon us and poorly insulated and inefficiently heated houses are billowing forth wasted heat into the cold December air. Believing that the Senate should act now, I took the bill that passed the House and introduced it for prompt consideration with only minor amendments.

My legislation would allow homeowners, including owners of cooperative apartments, to take a tax credit of up to 30 percent of all insulation and heating system retrofit expenditures up to $500. This program would last three years so as to give taxpayers time to plan for their home improvements while still encouraging prompt action to conserve our precious fuels.

This program is not the answer to all our residential energy conservation problems. Clearly we need home improvement loans, consumer education, and tough construction standards for energy conservation. Moreover, for low income citizens, we need direct winterization assistance. But this is a step in the right direction. For this tax credit is an important and long overdue incentive to cut our residential fuel consumption.

Unitarian players seek cast for Feb. tryouts

Not everyone can take a cruise to get away from Winchester in winter. Some will wait patiently for the opening of the baseball season. Some will sharpen up their card tricks at the bridge table. Some will pretend they like to be cold skiing and skating. But some will have fun turning a bare stage into two beach cottages in the dunes. They will make friends. They will be creative and constructive during the long winter.

Connie Blanchard of 50 Lorena rd., president of the Unitarian Players, offers a cure for winter in Winchester. The Players are looking for people to help with the production of "Invitation to a March" by Arthur Laurents. "Our cruise is spelled crews," she said. "Backstage crews, that is." Mrs. Blanchard said, "We're looking forward to a good turnout on February 1 and 3 when we have trouts for the cast, and we would like to have crew members sign up with us then, too. Join us in Metcalf Hall at the Unitarian Church at 7:30 p.m. either night, or call me at home."

Winton Club cabaret stage and scenery crew busily at work. Facing are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelley. Back to camera is Merton Ober. Mr. Kelley heads the stage crew and Mrs. Kelley presides over the scenery.

'Play it'...

Curtain call for all in Winton Club's Cabaret

"Play it Again, Uncle Sam," the 1976 Winton Club Cabaret is now running at the Winchester Town Hall, and is paying to sell-out crowds.

Tuesday night is always fun for the cast as it is easy opening to a crowd of enthusiastic children. Special Hospital Night was Wednesday, and half price tickets were available for this performance to senior citizens.

For the past 55 years Winton Club has put on a Cabaret. Each year it is through the generosity of so many people in Winchester and in 11 surrounding communities, who donate time and talent, that make the show a success. A great vote of thanks is due to the large cast who have been rehearsing all of January, under the direction of Gary Randolph from the Jerome Cargill Producing Co. of New York. Mrs. Thomas G. Craig, talent chairman, has done a beautiful job of coordinating the large group.

The program, edited by Mrs. Laurence Lougee and Mrs. Jerome Flanagan, has advertisers from Winchester and the New England area, and is on sale at each performance.

Many door prizes are presented to Winton Club each year through the generosity of local merchants. Donors this year to Mrs. J. P. Burger, the chairman, include the Winchester Sport Shop, Winchester T.V. and Music, Ralph R. Macaulay, Winchester Station, The Star Stationery, Arlene's Fashions, Europa Coiffures, Ann Mullens Ms. Apparel, Light 'n Leisure, the Wool Shop of Concord, Andrew's Jewelers, the Burlington Mall, Atlas Liquor Corp., Wal-Deo Graphic Prints, London Harness Co., DeSzenza Jewelers, Mill Brook Antiques and Koko Boodakian & Sons.

Behind the scenes there are many people who give their time each year. Mr. Frank B. Kelley and Mr. Theodore von Rosenvinge and their back stage crew are professionals, making the stage work seem easy. The scenery committee under the direction of Mrs. Frank B. Kelley do an impressive job. The Old Boston background, taken from an old wood cut, is of exceptional beauty. Properties, under the chairmanship of Mrs. George Pacetti, has involved finding such things as muskets for the Militia, candelabra, rum bottles and other surprises.

Also behind the scenes, but the show couldn't go on without them, are the cooperative town fathers and the Town Hall employees who continue through the work week in spite of all the activity in the auditorium. Frank Murocco, Bill Haggerty and John Carr are of particular help in making the wheels run smoothly.

During the January rehearsals, Mrs. John Hosmer has had a supply of refreshments available to the active cast, the Winton Club ladies who were working on costumes under the direction of Mrs. Edward L. Pepper and Mrs. Richard W. Swanson, the Ticket Sales Committee headed by Mrs. David E. Holt and Mrs. Marshall Elzinga's decoration group.

The Town Hall auditorium has been transformed into a Cabaret under the able supervision of Mrs. Richard Dexter. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ruggles have a well stocked refreshment stand for all the performances including a new innovation of packages of crackers and cheese from The Continental Cow. Flowers, sold by high school daughters of Winton Club members, are available cabaret nights and have been organized by Mrs. Stephen Parkhurst.

Wine, donated by Pastene & Co., Inc. and C. Pappas & Co., Inc., is being awarded each cabaret night through the efforts of Mrs. Karl Sorger.

To enhance the good looks of the cast of "Play it Again, Uncle Sam," Mrs. Edward W. Higgins and Mrs. Richard P. Santos supervise the application of make-up. The lighting for the cabaret is being done by the Adams Lighting Company.

Winton Club's drill, cast completely from their own members and "mothered" by Mrs. William R. Kimball, are a highlight in the show as are the Tamborine ladies, also all Winton Club members, Mrs. Robert Laber

25 guests for dinner

Entertaining 25 for dinner doesn't faze Ann McGovern, the busy chairman of the Winton Club cabaret show which concludes its five performances in the Town Hall Saturday.

She applies her organizational abilities with equal ease to planning menus and overseeing details of a theatre production which has been a year in the planning. Like many, she plans to invite friends to dinner before the show.

Social gatherings before the annual Winton Club benefit review are a long-standing tradition in Winchester. Whether formal dinner, casual buffet, or coffee and dessert, the events bring together a convivial group before proceeding to the Town Hall.

This year's show, "Play It Again, Uncle Sam," is the 55th review in the club's 65 years of existence, noted Mrs. McGovern. The event is the Club's major fund-raiser to help meet a $20,000 commitment to supply patient linen to Winchester Hospital and the Continuing Care Unit.

In the past Mrs. McGovern has both planned and prepared an entire meal and asked friends to bring favorite side dishes and has been the dedicated rehearsal pianist for the drill.

The familiar Uncle Sam posters seen around town and the logo Uncle Sam hats sported on many cars were designed by Mrs. Richard Bannister. Publicity for "Play It Again, Uncle Sam" has been coordinated by Mrs. Regis Pelloux and Mrs. Warren J. Taylor.

The handsome, helpful gentlemen who usher show week are all husbands of Winton Club Members. The head ushers include Paul Gleason, Laurence Lougee, Dr. Warren J. Taylor, Lane McGovern and Dr. Robert G. Millican.

All committees contribute to the great success of the show and are responsible to the Cabaret chairman, Mrs. Lane McGovern. Mrs. McGovern's general committee have met for the past year, contributing ideas for the Cabaret, talent recruiting, baby sitting, during rehearsals, prompting at each show and planning a cast party. This committee includes Mrs. Edward White, Mrs. Edward Parkhurst, Mrs. Courtney Crandall, Mrs. John Sutherland and Mrs. Richard Bannister.

Sound for "Play it Again, Uncle Sam" is being done by Cyrus L. Jacobs, and the music for the show and for dancing is provided by Alan Smith and his orchestra.

Cold, blustery January has been a warm, cheery, month for the several hundred people contributing to "Play it Again, Uncle Sam." For those of you who have seen or will see the Cabaret, this may be self-evident.

appetizers. Make-ahead main courses such as stroganoff, chicken divan, seafood casseroles and baked ham are her preferences.

She noted that the 9:30 p.m. curtain time on Friday and 9 p.m. on Saturday allows a little extra time for dinners, but many entertain before the more informal Wednesday and Thursday night performances also.

Carolyn Cummings thought she would have a few friends over before going down to see her husband Robert perform in the show in a striking appearance as Uncle Sam. The number of guests has grown to more than two dozen, but she isn't worried. Make-ahead dishes, contributed appetizers, and favorite desserts including pecan pie and fresh fruit compote will appear on her buffet table.

Dessert and coffee is a popular and less taxing way of bringing a group together. One past year, Catherine Fallon and husband Bill invited a group including neighbors, old friends, new friends and out-of-towners to get acquainted and see the show, many for the first time. She served her favorite most elegant desserts including strawberry torte and chocolate silk pie.

My hostess is having beef stroganoff and told me to bring a nice dessert. I have been anxious to try Jane Dowding's elegant chocolate angel strata pie and Myra Fournier's plum compote.

Chocolate Angel Strata Pie
2 eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, divided
1/2 cup sugar, divided
1/2 cup water
1 pkg. semi-sweet chocolate chips (6 oz.)
1 cup whipping cream
1 9-inch baked pie shell.

Beat egg whites, vinegar, salt and half the cinnamon until soft mounds form. Add 1/2 cup of the sugar gradually. Beat until meringue has stiff glossy peaks.

Spread meringue on bottom and sides of pie shell. Bake at 325 degrees for 18 minutes until lightly browned. Cool.

Prepare chocolate whipped cream filling: melt chocolate chips. Add slightly beaten egg yolks and water to the mixture. Spread three tablespoons over the cooled meringue and chill remainder.

Combine remaining sugar and cinnamon with cream and beat until thick. Spread 1/2 of the whipped cream over chocolate in pie shell. Combine remaining whipped cream with chilled chocolate mixture. Spread over whipped cream in pie shell. Chill at least four hours.

Myra's Plum Compote
1 can (16 oz.) apricot halves

Masonic Official Arthur Savel presents a 50-Year Veteran's Medal to Carl Morse of 48 Franklin rd. as his son-in-law Robert Manning, and the master of William Parkman Lodge A. F. & A. M., Paul Gleason of Wedgemere avenue, look on.

1 can (16 oz.) purple plums
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
Fresh whole lemon
Sour cream

Use about 1/4 of lemon and thinly slice. Reserve remainder for other uses. Combine fruit, sugar, nutmeg. Mix lightly and heat. Remove lemon slices before serving warm with sour cream garnish. About six servings. (Recipes from the Winchester Estates Garden Club Cookbook.)

IRS films available

"Hey, We're in Business," a new Internal Revenue Service film highlighting tax law rights and responsibilities for owners of small businesses, is now available.

The film covers such areas as the necessity for proper record keeping, types of free taxpayer assistance available from IRS offices, what to do should a business not be able to meet a tax deadline, and the tax responsibilities relating to employees.

The 27 1/2 minute 16mm color production traces the fortunes of a young couple who open a new restaurant in an established block of stores, and features a number of well-known television and theater personalities.

Another film designed for individual taxpayers is also available. "Why me, Tom Krolik?" covers the rights and responsibilities of taxpayers, especially as they relate to the audit of a tax return.

Copies of either film can be obtained from Edward V. Callanan, Public Affairs Officer, John F. Kennedy Post Office Box 9112, Boston, 02203.

Statehouse roll call

The House
Throughout the last session there were several important instances where anywhere from a handful to more than 50 Representatives switched their votes on the same issue. Whether it was because of a change of heart or leadership or arm-twisting, the outcome of much legislation was changed.

Gay Rights: First passed 126-96, then defeated 113-102. Measure would have prohibited an employer from dismissing, refusing to hire or refusing to promote a homosexual. A yeavote was for homosexuals' rights.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted Y, Y.

Numbers Game: First passed 142-77, then defeated 123-95, measure to give cities and towns revenues from the new numbers game instead of revenue going to the state's general fund. A yeavote was for community funding.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted Y, Y.

Legislative Budget: First passed 117-105, then defeated 117-108, a proposed amendment which would have slashed the legislative printing and paper budget by some $100,000. A yeavote was for the cut.

Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, Y.

Car Theft: First passed 176-48, then defeated 116-107 a strict version of a bill which requires mandatory jail sentences or youth service facility confinement for convictions of car stealing. A yeavote was for confinement.

Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, N.

Savings Banks: First defeated 114-107, then passed 122-102, a bill allowing savings banks to cross county lines. A yeavote is for the bill.

Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Cooperative Banks: First defeated 118-106 then passed a bill allowing cooperative banks to cross county lines. A yeavote is for the bill.

Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Credit Unions: First defeated 117-107, then passed 118-107 a bill allowing credit unions to cross county lines. A yeavote is for the bill.

Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Trust Companies: First defeated 121-101, then passed 113-106 a bill allowing trust companies to cross county lines. A yeavote is for the bill.

Rep. Saltmarsh, N, Y.

Tax Package: First defeated 120-110, then passed 115-110 a tax package designed to raise $302 million in fiscal 1976. Major provisions included a hike from 3 to 5 percent in sales tax and elimination of the under $1 meals tax. A yeavote is for the package.

Rep. Saltmarsh, N, N.

Lucy Benson Staff: First passed 143-81 then defeated 118-101 a motion to cut the office budget of former Human Services Director Lucy Benson. A yeavote is for the cut.

Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, Y, Y.

Regional Primary: First passed 134-87 then passed by a slimmer 116-107 legislation creating a New England Regional Primary and pushing Massachusetts' primary back to March 2. A yeavote is for the bill.

Rep. Saltmarsh, N, N.

Liquor Taxes: First voted 120-103, then by 132-81 in favor of overriding the Governor's veto of a bill which would have granted the liquor industry an additional 10 days to pay alcoholic beverage taxes to the state. A yeavote is for overriding the veto.

Rep. Saltmarsh, Y, Y.

Graduated Income Tax
The House passed 192-38 and the Senate passed 36-3 a constitutional amendment allowing a graduated income tax. The amendment must be approved by the voters this fall and again in 1978.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted no.

Sen. Bullock voted yes.

ERA
The House passed 185-45 and the Senate passed 29-10 a proposed constitutional amendment guaranteeing equal legal rights regardless of sex, race, color, creed, or national origin. The amendment must be approved by the voters this fall.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.

Sen. Bullock voted no.

Busing
The House passed 155-61 and the Senate passed 20-12 the proposed anti-busing constitutional amendment which prohibits public school assignment on the basis of race, color, national origin, or creed. The amendment will be on the ballot in November.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.

Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Abortion
The House passed 163-45 and the Senate passed 20-9 a resolution urging Congress to amend the Bill of Rights by establishing the rights of the unborn.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted yes.

Sen. Bullock voted yes.

Public broadcast funding bill approved by House

The House recently agreed, by a wide margin, to the Conference Report to provide long-range funding for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Congressman Torbert H. Macdonald, chairman of the Subcommittee on Communications, and author of the bill, termed the passage of the conference report a "major step forward in quality programming to public broadcasting."

The Macdonald bill contains a five year authorization for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting beginning in 1976 with $88 million and increasing to $160 million by 1980.

"The essential feature of this bill is that the authorization is not a flat out grant, every dollar of Federal funds must be matched by $2.50 from non-federal sources. Thus, there is a clear incentive for public broadcasting groups to raise as much money as possible on their own. This insures fiscal responsibility on the part of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and eliminates any thought of excessive federal spending," Macdonald said.

Congressman Macdonald was the author of the original Public Broadcasting Act in 1967 and is often cited as the father of public broadcasting. The Conference Report on Public Broadcasting passed the House by a vote of 313-72 and must now be adopted by the Senate before going to the President for his signature. "The passage of this bill provides public radio and television stations such as WGBH in Boston with challenge to meet in the years ahead," Macdonald said.

"They must continue to develop quality broadcasting which is both responsible and responsive to the public. I am hopeful that the funds provided in my bill will allow these stations to expand their programs and facilities to reach as many people as possible. I will continue to monitor their success in my Subcommittee and I feel sure that Public Broadcasting will maintain its commitment to quality and growth."

Brooke seeks tax credit for people who insulate

At the beginning of this session of the 94th Congress, I urged the Congress to draft an effective and equitable energy conservation policy which would strike a balance between our desperate need to conserve energy and our equally desperate need to find new sources of energy.

I have written several bills to promote conservation. They include legislation to reform all utility rate structures, to require tough penalties on our gas guzzling automobiles, to increase the federal tax on gasoline, and to establish energy conservation standards for new construction of commercial and residential buildings. But these by no means form a complete energy conservation package. We need many more initiatives in many areas and they should be pursued with equal vigor. One particularly good initiative would be the adoption of short-term tax incentives designed to encourage all Americans to conserve. Therefore, I recently introduced the Home Heating Systems Improvement

Amendment. I believe this bill is an important part of a national energy conservation program, for it provides us the opportunity to save a substantial part of the 139 million barrels of oil which is wasted through inadequate home insulation or inefficient heating components.

A large part of the problem is that consumers are not aware of possible fuel savings from adequate home insulation and storm windows and the use of efficient heating components. I do not think the American people realize that, of 48 million single family dwellings in this country, only 13 million are adequately insulated or are in warm climates where insulation and other energy-saving improvements do not pay. Five million homes are occupied by poor people who will be eligible for direct winterization assistance, which I am trying to get passed as part of the assistance available through the Community Services Administration.

Of the remaining 35 million buildings, 17 million need ceiling insulation, which could be installed for about $200. Ten million need storm doors and windows which might cost around $100. Between one and two million need their heating systems upgraded by adding modern, efficient parts for between 100 and 500 dollars.

One effective way to encourage homeowners is through a temporary program of tax credits for such energy-saving expenditures. And this would be an appropriate use of our tax system, as few national goals are so important as a reduced reliance on oil imports.

The House of Representatives wisely passed a tax credit for home insulation as part of the Energy Conservation and Conversion Act of 1975, which it sent to the Senate last summer. In July I testified before the Senate Finance Committee on provisions of this Act, as well as on energy conserving measures of my own which I hoped would be included. Unfortunately, the Senate Committee has taken no action on this vital matter. And winter is upon us and poorly insulated and inefficiently heated houses are billowing forth wasted heat into the cold December air. Believing that the Senate should act now, I took the bill that passed the House and introduced it for prompt consideration with only minor amendments.

My legislation would allow homeowners, including owners of cooperative apartments, to take a tax credit of up to 30 percent of all insulation and heating system retrofit expenditures up to $500. This program would last three years so as to give taxpayers time to plan for their home improvements while still encouraging prompt action to conserve our precious fuels. This program is not the answer to all our residential energy conservation problems. Clearly we need home improvement loans, consumer education, and tough construction standards for energy conservation. Moreover, for low income citizens, we need direct winterization assistance. But this is a step in the right direction. For this tax credit is an important and long overdue incentive to cut our residential fuel consumption.

Unitarian players seek cast for Feb. tryouts

Not everyone can take a cruise to get away from Winchester in winter. Some will wait patiently for the opening of the baseball season. Some will sharpen up their card tricks at the bridge table. Some will pretend they like to be cold skiing and skating. But some will have fun turning a bare stage into two beach cottages in the dunes. They will make friends. They will be creative and constructive during the long winter.

Connie Blanchard of 50 Lorena rd., president of the Unitarian Players, offers a cure for winter in Winchester.

The Players are looking for people to help with the production of "Invitation to a March" by Arthur Laurents. "Our cruise is spelled crews," she said. "Backstage crews, that is." Mrs. Blanchard said, "We're looking forward to a good turnout on February 1 and 3 when we have tryouts for the cast, and we would like to have crew members sign up with us then, too. Join us in Metcalf Hall at the Unitarian Church at 7:30 p.m. either night, or call me at the home."

Many new courses offered at YWCA

From tots to teens to adults, new courses at the Central Middlesex YWCA are designed for every age level and a variety of interests, and many classes start the week of January 26. The YWCA located off Lexington street in Burlington, Mail and Burlington Center.

Mom and Tot Gym provides an opportunity for children two and three years old and their mothers to have physical fun together. If there's a baby in the family, he or she can nap or play in the Y nursery while the older child and mother share this special activity Monday from 2 to 3 p.m.

Other classes for young children are preschool ballet, tap dancing and physical fitness and tumbling.

Imaginative children in grades one to six will enjoy the Tuesday Adventures in Theater class, which involves theater games, costumes, make-up and production of a play for parents and friends.

Others can express their creativity making banners and puppets, poster painting and doing off-loom weaving in arts and crafts classes Thursday afternoons or Saturday mornings.

Highland dance, Scottish country dance, beginning and intermediate ballet, exercise and tumbling and tap dancing are also available for this age group.

Teenagers, who often feel hassled by parents, teachers and others, will find problem solving for teens offers practical help. Teens, however, are not alone in feeling the stresses of our rapidly changing society.

Marital enrichment and the family in challenge provide adults with insights and alternatives which can strengthen family relationships.

Creative writing develops skills in self-expression and teaches participants to the story of the leaders of the American pentecostal movement.

Donald Holley, "Uncle Sam's Farmers": Assessment of an attempt by Roosevelt's New Deal to resettle poverty stricken rural families.

Harford Montgomery Hyde, "Oscar Wilde, A Biography" incorporates new information knowledge of machine sewing brought to light in recent years including full details of Wilde's made covers.

Ballroom dancing, belly dancing, crocheting, doll making, flower arranging, folk guitar, jazz dance, knitting, macrame and stained glass are among the Y's current offerings. For information on these and other classes, please call the YWCA.

Winchester
Hospital's Financial Picture
(as of September 30, 1975)

"Hospital costs continue to rise in spite of our cost-control efforts. Government regulations themselves add as much or more to our costs than what they could reasonably expect in savings.
We continue to be reimbursed at rates that do not reflect our total costs, thus further adding to the financial crisis that is facing not only this Hospital but all hospitals across the State."
